OFF DAY FOR THE GOLFERS

Quiet Day Followed the Activity of Memorial Day at the Local Golf Clubs.

WEEKLY COMPETITIONS.

Honors at Hillside Went to H. F. Baker and Arthur Peterson—Hillside's Team Defeated by Englewood—C. B. Morse Low Man at Park Club—Scores.

After all the activity which marked Memorial Day at the local golf clubs, Saturday was a comparatively quiet day on both the courses. There were the usual competitions which are played every week and a fair field of starters in each. The courses still remained in the best of condition and the weather was more conducive to good play than the day before. At the Hillside Club the honors went to Arthur Peterson and H. F. Baker, while Charles B. Morse finished first at the Park Golf Club.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

With an interclub tennis match at the Park Club and an eventful time the day before, there was not the usual attendance at the Park Golf Club Saturday. Out of sixteen who registered in the usual weekly handicap for the President's cup, Charles B. Morse finished low man with Allan B. Laing second and J. C. Barcalow, of Somerville, third. As a result of the day's play, Morse now leads for the trophy. Laing and Barcalow are both newcomers in the contest this season.

The course was in splendid condition and there was little wind to bother. The usual social features at the clubhouse marked the afternoon. At the tea table, Mrs. Augustus Van-Deventer presided.

The scores, better than 100, were:

	G	H	N
Charles B. Morse	109	23	86
Allan B. Laing	109	20	89
J. C. Barcalow	102	12	90

HILLSIDE CLUB.

Following the many events on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course on Decoration Day, there was a slight falling off in the attendance on the course on Saturday, when the weekly competitions for the Boys' and Golf Committee cups were the only attractions on the links.

In the morning there were a goodly number of entries for the Boys' cup. Arthur Peterson, one of the rising young players, won the event. Second and third honors were won by Gordon W. Abbott and Wickham Corwin. This makes Abbott tie with Kerro Knox and N. P. Rogers, Jr., for first place with a total of five points, while Corwin comes next with a total of four points.

The scores for the Boys' cup are as follows:

Arthur Peterson, 102, 29—73; Gordon W. Abbott, 98, 18—80; Wickham Corwin, 104, 22—82; A. L. Wills, 115, 30—85; Kerro Knox, 97, 11—86, W. T. Glenney, 115, 19—96; James Scott, 114, 18—96; Howard Lapsley, 114, 16—96; J. C. Martin, 143, 36—107; Harold Brown, 130, 16—114.

The standing for the cup at present is as follows:

	Points.
Kerro Knox	5
N. P. Rogers, Jr	5
Gordon Abbott	5

WILL CONSIDER THE CALL

CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH TO ACT AT A MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Rev. Dr. Richards Read the Letter From Dr. VanDyke at Morning Service Yesterday.

There was a meeting of the Session of the Crescent Avenue church yesterday morning prior to the regular church service, when matters pertaining to the recent call extended to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards to the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, was considered.

At the church service, which followed, Rev. Dr. Richards announced that regular mid-week prayer-meeting of the church for Wednesday evening would not be held, but instead there would be a meeting of the members and officers of the church. He then explained this announcement by reading a letter signed by Rev. Dr. Henry VanDyke.

In this letter Dr. VanDyke made an earnst plea to the members of the Crescent Avenue church asking them to allow Dr. Richards to sever his relationship as pastor to accept the new pastorate. He spoke of the larger field for work, with increased opportunities and of the incalculable amount of good that would come to both pastor and people should Dr. Richards accept. The letter was an exceptionally strong one and deeply impressed all who heard it. The purpose of the meeting Wednesday evening is to consider this matter.

ANOTHER FIRE APPARATUS

A COMBINATION CHEMICAL ENGINE AND HOSE CARRIAGE.

Planned to Place it at the West End House—Will Utilize the Old Alert Wagon.

Within a very short time, probably the next two months, the old Alert hose wagon, now doing service at the West End house No. 3, will be replaced by a modern combination chemical engine and hose truck. It is intended to make it one of the most efficacious pieces of apparatus in the local department and will be up-to-date in every particular.

Chief Doane and Robert Lee, chairman of the councilmanic fire committee, have been receiving estimates for its construction and Wednesday they inspected a number of sample vehicles at the headquarters of a Newark concern. A number of them were built in accordance with their ideas and it is possible an agreement can be reached with the firm whereby it will receive the contract for Plainfield's machine. The wisdom of placing a fire house in the extreme West End has long been realized by the City Fathers, but the company has been greatly hampered by a lack of sufficient apparatus. The house's equipment at present consists of the hose truck and an emergency hook and ladder truck which does not answer first alarms. Where small fires are encountered the West End men use hand extinguishers, but they can cope with a medium hard fire only by laying hose before the rest of the department arrives. This makes a possibility of heavy loss by water which could be abrogated by a chemical stream and this is why the new machine is to be purchased. It will place the West Enders on a footing with any house in the city or borough. Similar machines are now in use at New Brunswick, Somerville and other places in the near vicinity and they have given the best of satisfaction.

The Alert hose wagon now in service has proved to be one of the best vehicles ever in the department equipment. It was originally purchased by private funds and was afterward turned over to the city by the Alert Company with the approach of the paid department. It is still in good condition and will be kept at headquarters for emergency usage, as at present an accident to any of the hose wagons means doubling up with its subsequent inconveniences.

Preached on Profanity.

Profanity, not wholly as the term is generally interpreted, but in other ways which God's name can be taken in vain formed the theme of Rev. John McMurray's sermon at the Monroe Avenue church last evening. It was a continuation of his series on the Ten Commandments.

PARK'S PLAYERS WON AT INTER-CLUB TENNIS

Defeated Teams From Cedar Brook Tennis Club in a Very Closely Contested Contest.

ON PARK CLUB COURTS.

VISITING CLUB WAS VERY HOSPITABLY ENTERTAINED BY PARK CLUB.

Parks Won Two Out of the Three Matches at Doubles and Three Out of Five Matches at Singles—Playing Was Very Close.

Victory went to the Park Club in the first of its inter-club tennis contests with the Cedar Brook Tennis Club, held on the courts of the Park Club, Saturday afternoon. While the victory was fairly earned, it was only won after the closest kind of a contest. The Parks won two out of three matches at doubles and three out of five matches at singles.

Two weeks ago the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was entertained by the Park Club but the visiting club was unable to bring any regular teams and so the afternoon was devoted to informal play. Saturday's contest with the Cedar Brook Club was the first of a series of inter-club meetings which promise to make tennis one of the most enjoyable features of the local summer season. In addition to the matches, there were social attractions. The visiting club and its friends were most hospitably treated and given a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon.

Owing to the injury and unavoidable absence of several of its players, the Cedar Brook Club was only able to send three teams. Two matches were very closely contested and required the third set to decide them. They were both won by the Park Club teams. The other match was won by the Cedar Brook couple in two straight sets. The scores were Charles Dupee and Clifford M. McGee, Park, defeated Lindsey Best and Dr. W. Kempton Browning, Cedar Brook, 9-7, 6-8, 6-1; Wallace Guilford and J. I. Taylor, Park, defeated J. Hervey Doane and Harold C. Nomer, Cedar Brook, 6-0, 3-6, 9-7; Fred M. Letson and Charles H. Hall, Cedar Brook, defeated Samuel Townsend and Dr. H. K. Carroll, Park, 7-5, 6-0.

Five matches at singles were arranged but, in only two cases was there time to finish and the matches were decided on the results of the first set. Here, too, some remarkably close playing was seen and deuce sets were the order of the day. The Parks won three of the five matches, the scores being as follows: Charles Dupee, Park, defeated Dr. W. K. Browning, Cedar Brook, 6-2, 6-1; J. I. Taylor, Park, defeated Charles H. Hall, Cedar Brook, 6-3, 5-6, 6-4; Wallace Guilford, Park, defeated Harold Nomer, Cedar Brook, 6-2, 6-1; Fred M. Letson, Cedar Brook, defeated Samuel Townsend, Park, 12-10; Lindsey Best, Cedar Broook, defeated Wallace Guilford, 8-6, the second set was 3-0 in Mr. Guilford's favor when play was stopped on account of the late hour.

Tea was served in the pagoda and there the large throng from the club and its guests assembled to watch the play. Others gathered on the lawn beside the courts. Mrs. Samuel Townsend, chairman of the tea committee, and her assistant, Mrs. Wallace Guilford, received the guests. They were assisted by Mrs. George P. Dupee. The young women who served were Miss Bessie Valiant, Miss Isabel Milne, Miss Mabel VanDeventer, and Miss Alice Barlow.

After it was all over, the members of both clubs expressed themselves as highly pleased over the very agreeable meeting of the two clubs and an invitation was promptly extended by the Cedar Brook Club for a return visit which will probably be made in the course of a few weeks.

Children's Day Exercises.

Yesterday was children's day at the Sunday-school of the East Third Street chapel. There were recitations by Miss Sarah Harper, Carl Ulmer, Beulah VanWinkle, Willie Harper, Geo. Walsh, Lizzie Frank; choruses were sung by the primary and intremediate departments, scripture was read by Percy Cannon, and a short address delivered by Rev. J. A. Cubberley.

Funeral of James McGinley.

Funeral sevrices were held in St. Mary's church this morning, over the remains of James McGinley. A solemn requiem high mass was said by Rev. Father Egan. Following the service interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

MISS MILLER WEDDED TO REV. H. K. WRIGHT

Ceremony Took Place at the Home of Isaac L. Miller, the Bride's Uncle, Saturday.

WAS A QUIET MARRIAGE.

REV. DR. RICHARDS OFFICIATED, ASSISTED BY REV. A. V. V. RAYMOND.

Pretty Wedded Attended Only by Immediate Relatives and Friends—Attendants of the Bride and Groom—They Go to China.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Miller on Watchung avenue was the scene of a charming wedding, Saturday afternoon, when their niece, Miss Mary How Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. DeWitt Miller, of La-Grande avenue, was married to Rev. Harrison King Wright, of Pulaski, N. Y. Those present were all family connections with the exception of a few intimate friends of the bride.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union Theological Seminary, officiated at the ceremony. Dr. Raymond is a personal friend of the bride and groom and he came to Plainfield especially to assist in the marriage.

The ceremony was performed in the library, where decorations of green and white made the room very attractive. The decorations consisted of ferns and white flowers. A marriage bell, also of green and white, was suspended in one corner of the room and beneath this the bridal party stood. In the dining room the table was garnished with pink roses.

While the Mendelssohn wedding march was being played by Miss Nancy VanDeventer, of Netherwood, the bridal party appeared. The members descended the front stairs and passed through the hallway and parlor into the library. Preceding was the maid-of-honor, Miss Anne Kip Miller, a sister of the bride and the bridemaids, Miss Miriam Wright, sister of the groom of Pulaski, N. Y., and Miss Bessie Brower, of Plainfield. They were gowned in all white and carried bouquets of daisies.

The bride then followed, accompanied by her father, who gave her away in marriage. She was gowned in crepe de chine, trimmed with old point lace which was worn by her mother when she was married. She also wore a veil of tulle fastened with pearl pins and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. The groom and his best man, Frederick T. Pearsons, of New York, met the officiating clergymen and other members of the party in the library as they entered the room.

After the ceremony, which was performed with a ring and according to the Episcopal church, the bride and groom faced about and received a shower of congratulations. This being concluded a wedding dinner was served. Early in the evening the happy couple left Plainfield to enjoy a honeymoon.

The groom was ordained Thursday evening at the Crescent Avenue church for service in the mission field. He and his bride will probably sail in August for China, where he is to engage in his work in the province of Shanghai. They were generously and very happily remembered with gifts both useful and pretty.

Those who served as ushers at the wedding were Wirt Lancaster, of New York, and Joseph Wright, a brother of the groom, of Pulaski, N. Y.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MOSHER.

Services Were Held From the House of William R. Mosher Yesterday.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. J. E. Mosher were held yesterday afternoon from the residence of her son, William R. Mosher, of New street. Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis conducted the services.

There was a beautiful display of floral tributes. During the service favorite selections were sung by Mr. and Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Elmer E. Runyon and Mrs. Wm. C. Hubbard. The interment took place in the Seventh-Day Baptist cemetery. The pall-bearers were Henry Mosher and Edward Mosher, of New York; J. M. Hawkins, Arthur Mosher, and William B. Mosher, of this city, and Edward Mosher, of Alfred, N. Y.

FAREWELL WORDS TO GRACE CHURCH PARISH

Rev. E. M. Rodman Officiated as Rector for the Last Time Yesterday.

HIS CLOSING REMARKS.

HIS FINAL WORDS WERE DELIVERED AT YESTERDAY MORNING'S SERVICE.

Few Remained in Congregation Who Were There When He Began His Duties Three Decades Ago—How the Parish Has Grown.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman preached his last sermon as rector of Grace Episcopal church yesterday morning. A large congregation was present to hear the final words of advice from the lips of the pastor who has ministered to their spiritual welfare for the past thirty-two years.

There were few in that congregation who were communicants in Grace church when Rev. Mr. Rodman was elected to the charge more than a generation since. Many were there upon whom he had poured the sanctifying waters of baptism, many whom he had prepared for the sacrament of confirmation, several whom he had joined together in the bonds of matrimony, and none to whom he has not been a guide, an instructor, a consoler, and a living example of the way and the life.

Rev. Mr. Rodman's sermon did not partake throughout of the nature of a farewell. He chose for his text, Acts ix. 6, "Arise and go into the city and it shall be told to you what thou must do." His theme was the conversion of St. Paul.

It was a powerful and eloquent effort, suggested by the life of the Apostle—a sermon that will long be remembered, closing with a strong exhortation to the parishioners to emulate the life of Him who carried the gospel to the gentiles. These were his concluding words:

"And so I close with this earnest appeal, this last appeal as your rector, my ministry of well-nigh thirty-two years. The resignation of my rectorship of this parish has been presented to the vestry and by them accepted, to take effect on the second day of June, 1902. The vestry thereupon elected me rector emeritus for the rest of my life, and provided me with a very generous annuity for the maintenance of myself and family.

"As you may easily understand, my thoughts have been much occupied with a review of these past thirty years and more since 1870. I have been recalling those whom I have baptized, presented for confirmation, admitted to the Holy Communion, married and buried.

"Of those who were here when I came to begin my work, a few, very few remain until this day. I have counted fourteen families who where connected with the parish thirty years ago and are with us, though in ten of the fourteen the circle has been broken once and again and loved ones taken to the rest that remaineth. Of members of the vestry but one is here and able to recall the memories of those days. Another has been for some time warden of All Soul's church in the city of New York. There has been most abundant cause for thankfulness on my part during all these years for the constant proofs of your kind consideratio and attention showed in many ways to my wants.

To the parochial societies who have been my fellow workers I return sincere thanks. I do not know what I could have done without their assistance. Those who know little or nothing of the work that is continually going on in a parish like this can form no idea of the extent of it. The members of the Altar Guild, of the vestment committee, of the Parish Guild, of the Acorn Society, of the Rectory Society, know better how much time and thought is required to keep the wheels all moving and in good order. Instead of the unreasonable criticism which is often made of their work by those who have not lifted a finger to help—thoughtless criticism, I hope—they should receive more frequent thanks from all the congregation who profit by these labors.

"In closing this record of my rectorship I desire to thank them, one and all, for what they have done. And now at the end of this term of service I was glad to be able to report, as I did last Sunday, the good condition of the parish in all branches of this work. It is my prayer that the same

TENNIS AT HILLSIDE CLUB

KENNETH BULKLEY WON FINALS FOR THE DECORATION DAY CUP.

Play for the Mellick Cup, Women's Championship, Was Also Started Saturday.

In the semi-final play at tennis for the Decoration Day cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts Saturday, T. M. Day, Jr. defeated G. H. Taylor, 6-0, 7-5.

In the final play, which followed between Mr. Day, the runner up, and Kenneth Bulkley, who defeated F. W. Goddard in the semi-final play, Buckley won. The score was 6-3, 7-5, 6-4. In addition to holding the cup he also won a tennis racquet, while as a second prize Mr. Day won a pewter cup.

The first round at tennis for the Mellick cup, for women's championship, was played on the Hillside courts Saturday morning. There were six entries.

In the first round Miss Helen Martin defeated Miss Efna Strong, 6-4, 6-1; Miss Sarah Schuyler defeated Miss Florence Huntington, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Mary Whiton and Miss Margaret Goddard drew the bys.

In the semi-finals Miss Schuyler defeated Miss Goddard, 6-1, 6-0, and in the competition between Miss Martin and Miss Whiton the score was 6-4, 0-6. This match will probably be played off today and the winner will then meet Miss Schuyler in the final round.

WILL CLOTHE THE INDIANS

ENTIRE GOVERNMENT CONTRACT WAS AWARDED TO WALLACE M. BROWN.

He is the Treasurer of the Schepflin Clothing Manufacturing Company, Which Will Fill the Contract.

It was announced Saturday afternoon by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in New York that the contract for supplying clothing to the Indian wards of the Government had been awarded in its entirity to Wallace M. Brown, of this city. It has been customary in past years to divide the contract but this year it is given in a lump.

Mr. Brown is the treasurer of the Schepflin Clothing Manufacturing Company, of this city, and it is the latter concern that will fill the contract. According to the terms of the contract, the clothing must be ready for shipment in ninety days. That will mean that the Schepflin Company will work to its fullest capacity. The factory on the fourth floor of the Schepflin building, West Front street, will enlarge its force to the limit of the place, ninety men, while the third floor will be utilized as a stock room.

The contract will include, in round numbers, 16,000 coats, 30,000 trousers, 7,000 knee pants, 13,000 vests. All the suits will be made of oxford material with fancy Indian lining. There will be 5,000 miles of thread used. The contract amounts to nearly $70,000.

PLANS MILK TRUST.

Dealer Applied to Board of Health for Permission to Establish a Milk Depot.

There was a special meeting of the Board of Health Saturday afternoon when it was decided to suggest to the Common Council an extension of sewers in the west end of the city. Another matter considered was that in reference to the recent small-pox epidemic.

A man of the name of Briggs, of Newark, appeared before the board and sought information regarding the establishment of a milk depot in this city. He represents the American Milk & Cream Company and he proposes to establish a central depot and have farmers supply him with milk and cream which he will deliver.

STATE CONVENTION.

Christian Endeavorers of New Jersey to Gather at Bridgeton, July 16.

The annual convention of the State Christian Endeavor Union will be held at Bridgeton, July 16. A feature of the convention will be the establishment of a home at Tumbling Dam Park, two miles from Bridgeton, where practical demonstrations of fresh air work will be given. Fresh air work will be the chief topic of discussion and the constitution and by-laws are to be revised to permit the State Union to actively take up the work.

Special trains will be run by the Central as far as Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania will run trains direct from Jersey City, stopping at all points.

MISHAPS ON THE DIAMOND

On Account of Misunderstanding Only One League Team Played on Saturday.

BOROUGH'S HIGH WON.

Hopes and the St. Marys Both Had Games Arranged With Garwood—Garwood Cut the Gordian Knot by Not Appearing—Y. M. C. A. Was Defeated—Plains Won.

SATURDAY'S SCORES.

Hope Y.M.A., 27; Cuban Giants, 13.
Westfield, 14; Y. M. C. A., 2.
N. P. H. S., 20; P. H. H. S., 6.
Scotch Plains, 20; Dunellen, 7.

Saturday was a day of mishaps in the local baseball world. But one of the League teams played in the city, owing to a misunderstanding, and this was the only game of the afternoon. A large crowd of rooters saw the Hopes defeat the Cuban Giants in a hastily arranged contest, by a score of 27 to 13. Both Hopes and St. Mary's expected to play Garwood A. C., but the latter club stayed away. The St. Mary's rested as did the Safe Works who cancelled their game with Clinton Avenue.

Out of the city the local Y. M. C. A. was completely buried by the Westfield semi-professionals by a score of 14 to 2. Dunellen went down before Scotch Plains to the tune of 20 to 7. The North Plainfield High School won its second game this season from the Port Rinhmond, S. I. High School by a score of 20 to 6.

GARWOOD DIDN'T COME.

Through some incomprehensible action on the part of the Garwood A. C. management, local lovers of the National game were practically deprived of witnessing their favorite sport, Saturday afternoon. Just what the Garwood's manager could have been thinking of when he arranged a game with both the St. Mary and Hope teams in the same place on the same day, no one has been able to ascertain. The team avoided unpleasant questioning by staying away altogether. Managers Monahan and Cose have written the Garwood club for an explanation and both have also agreed to leave the team severely alone in arranging future schedules.

Large crowds gathered on both the St. Mary and Hope fields in anticipation of a game, while the managers hustled around for an opposing nine. One was suggested between these two League teams by dividing the men but several of St. Mary players objected and the plan fell through. The Cuban Giants visited Evona early in the afternoon, expecting to play the Clinton Avenues but were disappointed. They were wending their way homeward when Manager Simmonds heard the Hopes wanted a game and struck for their field. As the crowd was on hand a contest was arranged and the rooters were given a chance to do some shouting. It proved to be a passable game but the colored men were strictly not in it with the League team. They were defeated by a score of 27 to 13.

For the most part Captain Martin made a practice game out of it, more for the purpose of trying his new pitcher, Rawley. The latter made a good showing, striking out ten of the Cuban Giants, who are acknowledged good hitters. He possesses a swift ball with several good curves, but at Captain Martin's request he pitched fairly easy and the colored men secured a fair number of hits. Rawley also did very good at the bat, as did Munro, the third base importation from the Plainfield High School team, who played his first game with the Hopes.

Y. M. C. A. WAS EASY.

In a poor exhibition of bad ball playing, Saturday afternoon, Y. M. C. A. went down before the Westfield nine on the latter's grounds. The early stages of the game presaged a close exciting contest. At the end of the third inning the score stood 1 to 1, but in the first half of the fourth, Y. M. C. A. went up in the air and Westfield piled up runs hand over fist. The same thing happened in the fifth and sixth. [illegible] pitched the first four innings

LEHIGH'S TERMINAL.

Activity on Improvements in Jersey City.—To Have Independent Ferry to New York.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, June 2.—The renewal of activity along the line of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company's proposed improvements in Jersey City leads to gossip concerning the coming developments at the Lehigh Valley's Jersey City terminus.

A large force of men is at work on the long trestle which the Lehigh Valley is building through southern Jersey City, and which is eventually to be used for passenger traffic. The trestle is about two miles long, and the greater part of the structure is built upon meadow lands. In some instances this kind of ground has not afforded entire satisfaction for trestle foundations, and to guard against any section settling the banking up process was resorted to.

It is believed that it is the intention of the company to establish its eastern passenger terminus at Black Tom, which appears to be especially well adapted for the purpose. From that point by ferry to New York would only be a few minutes. At present all Lehigh passenger trains are switched from the main line at Waverly to the Pennsylvania Railroad, and are run over that system to its Jersey City terminal.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The North Plainfield annexationists have challenged the anti-annexationists to a joint public debate of the issues between them. The "antis" have not yet accepted the challenge, but it is expected that they will do so. If the parties can get together and talk matters over, all the better. Thus far two public meetings have been held, the first by the "antis" and the second by those favoring consolidation and annexation. The latter meeting was, it was claimed, somewhat larger than the former, but just how a vote would turn out is a matter of considerable uncertainty. If the people can forget their personal grievances and their political antipathies and get together and talk the whole matter over, the issues will soon be settled, and settled right.—Elizabeth Journal.

THEATRICAL.

Many will remember the glowing tribute paid to the Keith management during the hottest months of last year, by the eminent New York critic, Allan Dale, who stated within the columns of his paper that "Keith's Theatre is cooler than a roof-garden." His assertion only voiced the opinion of all the Keith clientele, and the remarkable prosperity and gigantic business enjoyed every summer by America's "Napoleon of Vaudeville," are the surest proofs of his just care of his patrons and their confidence in his providing the greatest show amidst the the coolest and most comfortable surroundings. "The Home of Vaudeville" has promised to again sustain its proud reputation of being the coolest theatre in the country. Keith's will, as usual, remain open all summer and their original apparatus for cooling the atmosphere, will again make it the favored spot for all who enjoy the acme of vaudeville perfection, being fanned by breezes as refreshing as ever received at the sea shore.

LITERARY.

The first authorized statement that John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City and of the Christian Catholic church in Zion, has ever given out to the general public is a distinguishing feature of Leslie's Monthly for June. This authoritative account of one who is certainly a remarkable man, at the head of a remarkable movement, gives those facts which are needed for a calm judgment of his career, and supplies data which has until now been withheld from the public. The man-killing horses of the western country, and the sports of the students in the studios of Paris, are the subjects of two elaborately illustrated articles written and drawn by men who know, and giving vivid accounts of two very active, though very different, kinds of life. A delightfully amusing story of children, a rattling, snappy newspaper story, and a very human love story, make up part of the fiction of the number, which is rounded out by many lighter sketches and verses.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Railroaders Stand Ready to Support Striking Miners.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 2.—A joint meeting of the Brotherhoods of Railway Engineers, Firemen, Trainmen, Switchmen, Conductors and Telegraphers employed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey was held at Ashley last evening. About 800 men were present. President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, District President Fahy and Charles S. Wilson, vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen delivered addresses. Mr. Mitchell outlined the strike situation in the anthracite region in detail and told of the prospects of the miners winning the strike. He said a victory for the miners would be a victory for all organized labor. In his opinion the miners were going to win.

Grand Master Wilson in his talk said if Mr. Mitchell demanded the co-operation of the railroad brotherhood men he could get it without a dissenting voice. The present strike did not concern the miners only, but all union labor.

A resolution was adopted pledging the co-operation of all railroaders if such a move was necessary in order for the miners to win their strike.

Firemen and Engineers Quit.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., June 2.—Three-fourths of the firemen, hoisting engineers and pump runners comprising the day forces employed at the fifteen collieries of the several mining corporations in the Mahanoy valley quit work last evening in response to the call of the miners' organization for an eight hour day. The night forces deserted their positions at 7 o'clock this morning. Representatives of the coal companies say they are amply prepared to cope with the strike situation and that they have enough nonunion men to fill the strikers' places.

FRENCHMEN DEPART.

Friendly Farewells at Dinner on Board the Gaulois.

BOSTON, June 2.—The sentiments of gratitude and affection which grew in the hearts of the members of the mission delegated by President Loubet of France to come to America to attend the unveiling at Washington of the statue of the Count de Rochambeau found final expression yesterday afternoon on the battleship Gaulois, which conveyed to this country the members of the Rochambeau mission and which late in the afternoon left Boston to return to the fatherland of the delegates of the French republic.

This expression was had at a dinner served on the battleship attended by the special representatives of President Roosevelt, representatives of the state of Massachusetts and the city of Boston, the members of the French embassy at Washington and the members of the Rochambeau mission.

When the Gaulois steamed out of the harbor, accompanied by the battleship Kearsarge and the cruiser Olympia, she fired the national salute of twenty-one guns, which was returned by the Olympia. Then, at Boston light, where the escorting squadron took leave of the French man-of-war the same cruiser fired a salute of seventeen guns in honor of General Brugere and then a salute of fifteen guns in honor of Vice Admiral Fournier.

The condition of Major Berthelot, the aid-de-camp to General Brugere, who had his leg fractured at the Charleston navy yard Saturday, was much improved. He returned to France on the Gaulois.

Syracuse Garment Workers' Strike.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 2.—The strike of garment workers of this city commenced here yesterday, when none of the Hebrew shops, of which there are some fifteen, was opened. This morning every shop in the city was closed, and no work whatever is being done, and nearly 2,000 employees are idle. There is no indication of violence unless the manufacturers attempt to ship garments to New York or St. Louis to be made. Committees of the strikers have been appointed to prevent this. The strikers demand a nine hour day at the same pay as has been given for ten hours, which the manufacturers say would have been granted had the application been made two months ago, before prices had been made to the trade on goods ordered.

Army Greatly Reduced.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—By the president's order a sweeping reduction in the strength of the army has been made, the withdrawal from Cuba and the improved conditions in the Philippines making it possible to dispense with 10,000 enlisted men at an annual saving of $10,000,000 for pay, clothing, food, transportation and minor expenses. The order fixes the maximum strength of the army at 66,497, replacing the limit of 77,287 fixed by President McKinley in May of last year under the elastic provisions of the army reorganization law of Feb. 2, 1901.

FATAL SEASIDE FIRE

Three Lives Lost, Ten Hotels Burned at Rockaway.

LOSS OF $120,000 IS ESTIMATED.

Greater Loss of Life Prevented by Force of Extra Policemen, Who Roused Sleeping Inmates of Burning Buildings.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Max Kasten, thirty-two years old, and Mrs. Lydia McKrow, the same age, lost their lives in a fire early yesterday which swept away many buildings at Rockaway Beach. Thomas S. McKrow and his five-year-old son Frank, Martin Hanson, twenty-eight, and Morris Hanson, seventy-one, were injured and taken to a hospital in Long Island City. Several hours later the McKrow boy died and the father was reported to be dying.

The fire started in the frame dwelling occupied by the Kastens. In a short time it spread to an unoccupied brick building and then in succession leveled the following structures: The Colonnade hotel, the Casino, Walter's hotel, Burns' hotel, the Annex hotel, the Mousette hotel, Kasten's hotel, Peterson's hotel, Sagamore hotel and the Seaside avenue museum.

Other structures damaged were Harry Genette's store, Herr Bros.' store, the Morrison stables and Brennan's hotel.

The buildings for the most part were of the usual frame type such as are seen at seaside resorts, and the loss is estimated at about $120,000.

That the death list and the list of the injured were not many times greater was that Memorial day, Saturday and Sunday coming together made it necessary to assign fifty bicycle policemen to extra duty. These men were all asleep in the station, two blocks from the fire, when the alarm was turned in. When the alarm sounded, the sergeant turned out all the men he had in the house. The policemen leaped on their wheels and were soon at the fire. They went through the hotels, bursting in doors and dragging the suddenly awakened inmates out without waiting for them to dress.

The fire appears to have started in the kitchen of Kasten's hotel, probably from the explosion of a gasoline stove or from a pot of candy boiling over. The fire leaves but little of the seaside portion of Rockaway Beach.

Will Appeal to Eckels.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Success having attended the efforts of Franklin Mac Veagh, president of the National Civic federation, in his intercession with the Union Traction company on behalf of the street car employees, the differences of the striking stockyard teamsters are to be taken up in the same fashion. At a meeting of the Federation of Labor it was decided that an appeal should be made to James H. Eckels, president of the Commercial National bank, to take up the teamsters' cause with the packers. Mr. Eckels is a member of the industrial committee of the National Civic federation.

The Kansas Floods.

WICHITA, Kan., June 2.—The high water has reached here and the river has been rising continuously for hours. The water already completely fills the river at this point. Rain is threatened, and if it shall be heavy it will overflow the Little Arkansas river, break the banks and run over the packing house district. The railroads and street railway companies have anchored their bridges. There are fourteen bridges across the river in the city, and if one of them shall go it will be disastrous to the others. The rainfall here for the month of May was 10½ inches, a record unprecedented for May.

A Suicide Clubman.

CHICAGO, June 2.—A letter found in the possession of L. Wachman, a traveling salesman who committed suicide in a North Clark street saloon, leads to the belief that he was a member of a New York suicide club. From passages in the letter it is thought that another member of the club committed suicide last week in New York city. Wachman fell dead while being served with a glass of beer. Physicians who examined the body declared it was a case of poisoning. A bottle of poison bearing the name of a drug store in a small town in California was found in Wachman's pocket.

A Chime to McKinley's Memory.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 2.—A chime of ten bells was dedicated to the memory of William McKinley in this city last night. They are placed in the spire of the largest church in the city, St. Paul's Methodist. They were dedicated with impressive services after a sacred concert from the bells. McKinley's favorite hymns, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were played during the evening.

Noted Hotel Man Dead.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—A. G. Corre, aged sixty-one years, president and principal owner of the Grand hotel and the Gibson House in this city, is dead after an illness of three months. He had been in the hotel business here more than forty-one years as proprietor of the old Spencer House and the Broadway hotel in former years and accumulated a large fortune.

Drowned on Honeymoon Trip.

MORRISBURG, Ont., June 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grosse of New York were drowned here through the upsetting of their boat. Mrs. Grosse was a daughter of George Harrette of this town and was nineteen years of age. The couple were spending their honeymoon here, having been married but a few days.

PEACE TERMS SIGNED

Kitchener Sends Welcome News From South Africa.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION IN LONDON.

Sunday Evening Calm Broken by Singing, Shouting and Horn Blowing—Church Bells Rung and Prayers Offered.

LONDON, June 2.—Peace has been declared after nearly two years and eight months of a war which tried the British empire to its uttermost and which wiped out the Boers from the list of nations. The war has come to an end with Lord Kitchener's announcement from Pretoria that he, Lord Milner and the Boer delegates had signed "terms of surrender."

The following message from King Edward to his people has been issued:

"The king has received the welcome news of the cessation of hostilities in South Africa with infinite satisfaction, and his majesty trusts that peace may speedily be followed by the restoration of prosperity in his new dominions and that the feelings necessarily engendered by war will give place to earnest co-operation on the part of his majesty's South African subjects in promoting the welfare of their common country."

How greatly King Edward's insistence that peace in South Africa be secured prior to his coronation influenced the present agreement will probably never be known until the private memoirs of the present regime are given to the public.

The news of peace in South Africa that Lord Kitchener was not expected in London during the day. Soon after the receipt of the dispatch, however, the news spread to the clubs and hotels and was received with much enthusiasm. The church bells were rung to acclaim the good news. A crowd gathered at the mansion house, and the lord mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, announced from a balcony that terms of surrender had been signed in South Africa.

Lord Kitchener's definite announcement of peace was received at the war office at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was communicated to King Edward and all the members of the cabinet before it was given out to the public. Last night the Sunday evening calm of the London streets was broken by enthusiastic singing, shouting and horn blowing.

The hotels, the clubs, the public houses and the streets were not the only places where the people were actively demonstrating their joy. The peace news was announced in the churches, and by some congregations it was received with applause. In all the churches of London prayers of thanksgiving were offered and special hymns were sung.

Rejoicing at Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The officials of the British embassy here share the jubilant feeling existing in London over the termination of the war in South Africa. They view with much satisfaction the close of the long struggle. Official notice of the signing of the terms of the surrender came to Mr. Raikes, British charge d'affaires here, in a cablegram from the foreign office. It was very brief and was in accord with the statements contained in the press dispatches. It probably will be communicated formally to the United States government today. The impression prevails in official circles that the terms of surrender noted by the British in their negotiations with the Boers have been very liberal in character, perhaps from the double desire to bring the war to a close and to have this happy event formally proclaimed before the coronation of King Edward.

Bells Rung In Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 2.—The peace news from South Africa was greeted here by demonstrations of joy. The bell in the city hall was run for ten minutes. The mayor has arranged for a grand demonstration to celebrate the ending of the war. Flags will be hoisted on public and private buildings, a royal salute will be fired at noon, and the school children were given a half holiday. Tonight there will be a display of fireworks and a military parade.

Good News For Bondholders.

PRETORIA, June 2.—A proclamation just issued in connection with the signing of the peace terms declares that, notwithstanding the proclamations of Mr. Kruger that interest on the bonds of the Transvaal republic would be suspended so long as the war lasted, such interest began to accrue June 1. June 26 and June 27, the days of King Edward's coronation, have been proclaimed public holidays here.

Sherman Will Case Decided.

MANSFIELD, O., June 2.—Judge Dirlam has decided in the common pleas court that the legacies to Mrs. John Sherman in the senator's will shall revert to the general estate, to be divided among the six residuary legatees—Mrs. James I. McCallum, an adopted daughter, and five of Senator Sherman's nephews. Mrs. Sherman died before the senator and after the will was made.

American Polo Team Won.

LONDON, June 2.—The result of the first championship match for the international polo trophy, which was won by the Americans at Hurlingham under the leadership of Foxhall Keene, was a complete surprise to all the experts, being all the more welcome to the huge gathering of Americans who went to see their countrymen play, but who, it must be confessed, had faint hopes of seeing them victorious.

NEW BOXER OUTBREAK.

The Leaders Killed Wives, Families, Priests and Taxgatherers at Outset.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 2.—Advices were received by the steamer Glavering that the different missions at Peking have been informed that at southwest Chili a new Boxer insurrection has broken out, led by Go Chi Hing, who killed his wife and family, and others emulated the example before the campaign commenced. The Boxers first murdered a French missionary and later killed a Belgian priest, and fifty Chinese officials engaged in collecting taxes were killed. A church was destroyed at Weihien, where a native missionary was killed and a large number of converts slaughtered. Troops were sent against the Boxers, who defeated them. The rebels are credited with a programme of overrunning Honan and Shangtung and then making for Peking. They are well armed.

The Japan Mail says: "As might have been anticipated, the recrudescence of Boxer disturbances at Kuhuhhien, in Chili, has an effect on the discussions for the restoration of civil government of Tientsin. Even those who previously advocated the policy of immediate restoration are now said to be reticent. It is not the Tientsin question alone that will be injuriously influenced by these things. Other and far more important events also depend on China's ability to preserve order with wholly inefficient machinery under circumstances that would probably overtax the competence of any power."

The French consul at Tientsin is said to have proceeded to Chinting for the purpose of investigating the circumstances of the death of a French missionary at the hands of the Boxer insurgents.

NEW FRENCH CHAMBER.

A Radical President Chosen at the Opening Meeting.

PARIS, June 2.—The new French chamber of deputies met yesterday afternoon for the first time. The house and the galleries were crowded. M. Rauline, Rightist, the oldest member of the chamber of deputies, presided at yesterday's meeting and delivered the inauguration speech, in which he appealed for parliamentary peace. Concluding his allusions to the Martinique disaster, M. Rauline said, "In behalf of the chamber of deputies I address the homage of our grief and sympathy to the terribly afflicted population of Martinique."

After the inauguration speech the important business of electing the provisional president of the chamber, whose election, however, is invariably ratified, was taken up. Although the president of the chamber is supposed to stand above parties, yesterday's election to fill this post was purely a political one. M. Deschanel, the president of the former chamber, was the presidential candidate yesterday of the Moderate Republicans. He was opposed by M. Leon Bourgeois, who represented the radical groups. M. Deschanel was defeated by a vote of 303 to 267, and his four years' tenure of the presidential year ended.

The Blast Furnace Strike.

PITTSBURG, June 2.—The blast furnace operators of the Shenango and Mahoning valleys feel confident that the strike of furnace workers inaugurated yesterday morning is practically defeated. The operators say ten of the thirty furnaces are working and claim to have new men ready to take the places of all strikers. No effort was made to extend the strike to the Pittsburg district. Reports to the furnace owners say four furnaces of the National Steel company at Youngstown and three at New Castle of the same company are operating; also one of the Sharon Steel company at Sharon and two of the W. P. Snyder company at Sharpsville. Twenty of the other furnaces in the valleys are banked. The strike leaders claim that most of the valley furnaces are closed down.

Through Niagara Falls Tunnel.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 2.—The inspection of the mammoth tunnel of the Niagara Falls Power company has been successfully accomplished, and the tunnel was found to be in perfect condition. That it was so is a very definite triumph for the American contractor, the American engineer and American capital. The tunnel is 21 feet high and 18 feet 10 inches wide, and it carries off 4,600 cubic feet of water every second, and when the new wheel pit is running it will carry off 90,000 cubic feet per second. The trip through the tunnel, a mile and a third under the heart of the city and 200 feet below the surface, was made by a party of officials of the power company and Clemens Herschet, the hydraulic engineer.

Three Hundred Drowned.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 2.—News has been received from Hokkaido of the drowning of 300 Japanese fishermen in terrible gales in the beginning of May off the coast of Japan. Off the islands of Teuri and Yokishiri there were 122 boats engaged in fishing for herring when the storm began. No less than seventy boats were cast away, and out of a total of 1,355 men 220 were drowned. From other fishing districts wrecks were reported, and the loss of life is great.

Not the Humbert Wanted.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A passenger named Charles J. A. Humbert, who arrived on board the steamer L'Aquitaine from Havre, has been greatly annoyed in being mistaken for the Parisian swindler of that name. Mr. Humbert is a confectioner and a citizen of the United States. Before the steamer sailed from Havre a large number of police officials inspected the passengers, looking for the Humberts. They gave this passenger of the same name a careful examination.

AMERICAN GOODS ABROAD.

Unprecedented Demand in Germany For All Our Products.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The ancient palace of Charlemagne in Germany is being renovated with Georgia pine, California plums and pears are preferred in the empire to formerly famous fruits from nearby Italy, Servia and Bosnia, and American machinery is being used to improve the waterworks of Aix-la-Chapelle. These are some of the facts made public in an interesting extract from "Commercial Relations For 1901" now made public by Mr. Frederic Emory, chief of the bureau of foreign commerce.

In spite of the trade depression prevailing in Germany the imports of American goods are advancing, according to the reports of the consular officers in that country, especially in certain lines. Our furniture is popular, particularly that meant for office use. Our chairs and desks, says Consul E. A. Man of Breslau, are kept in stock by the dealers in that city. Other officers mention the same articles. The report further says:

"Consul Harris, at Mannheim, says the ability of American shoe manufacturers to place their wares in the continental markets is past the experimental stage and that nearly every European capital and many of the smaller cities now have one or more shoe stores stocked with a large percentage of United States goods.

"Most varieties of American canned fruits, says Consul J. White of Hanover, are preferred to the native products. According to Consul M. J. Baehr, at Magdeburg, California plums last year supplanted the Bosnian and Servian products, which formerly had held the market. The California plum was of better quality and cheaper.

"'It is astonishing,' exclaims Consul G. E. Baldwin of Nuremberg, 'how many American goods of every description are to be found now in German cities.'"

A VOTE TOMORROW.

Senate's Long Discussion of Philippine Bill Nearly Ended.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Under the terms of the unanimous agreement reached last Wednesday the senate will vote at 4 o'clock tomorrow on the bill providing a form of civil government for the Philippine Islands, and the entire intervening time of the senate's sessions will be devoted to fifteen minute speeches on the bill. The senate met at 11 o'clock today for the purpose of giving additional time for the discussion. A large number of short speeches will be made, but no order for their delivery has been agreed on.

The general understanding now is that on Wednesday after the disposal of the Philippine bill the Nicaragua canal bill will be called up and made the regular order of business. There will be an effort made to substitute for the Nicaragua bill the bill introduced by Senator Spooner leaving to the discretion of the president the selection of a route.

During the coming week the house probably will act on three important bills which the rules committee decided some time ago to bring before that body at the earliest opportunity. These are the antianarchy bill, the Pacific cable bill and the senate irrigation bill.

Insurgent Ships Captured and Sunk.

PANAMA, Colombia, June 2.—The government gunboats which left here recently to capture certain insurgent vessels which were supposed to be removing produce from the Chiriqui district have returned here. Referring to the expedition of the Colombian gunboats, General Salazar said they had captured about twenty sailing vessels and had sunk thirty more at Pijvay, a small port between Las Palmas and Remedios. The insurgent garrison at Pijvay resisted the advance of the gunboats, but the landing was made easy by shells from the gunboat Boyaca. General Obrogon, an important revolutionary leader, was assassinated May 21 by a soldier in his own camp.

Charleston Exposition Closed.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 2.—President Wagner turned off the electric lights, buglers sounded "taps," a salute was fired and the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian exposition passed into history on Friday night. The exposition opened Dec. 1 last. It is stated the enterprise will be a loss financially, and the stockholders will receive none of their subscriptions back.

Fire at Hollidaysburg, Pa.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., June 2.—A fire of incendiary origin destroyed W. H. Goodfellow & Sons' hardware warehouse, wrecked the Hollidaysburg Opera House and damaged the Law Leet business block, Frank Glessner's department store and John H. Law's clothing. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

A Downpour In Iowa.

BURLINGTON, Ia., June 2.—The heaviest rainstorm of the year struck Burlington yesterday, damaging crops and residence property. It is estimated that the rainfall was six to eight inches. The Mississippi river has risen a foot in the last twelve hours and is still rising.

Nailed to a Tree by Thieves.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., June 2.—Tom Harless, a farmer living near Berkeley, was assaulted and robbed by two men and then nailed to a tree. He was rescued alive, but his hands were badly torn, and he will not be able to work for several months.

Fatal Bicycle Collision.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 2.—One man is dead and another dying as the result of a bicycle collision here. The victims are Walter Powell and Daniel Treewitz, each aged about twenty-seven years.

MONT PELEE SCALED

Professor Heilprin Looks Into the Crater.

OBSERVATIONS IN FACE OF DEATH.

Daring Explorer Returned Covered With Mud and Ashes, but Scored Great Triumph For National Geographical Society.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, June 2.—The National Geographical society has scored a great triumph through its representative here, Professor Angelo Heilprin, who, with three guides, has ascended to the top of the crater on the summit of Mont Pelee. Professor Heilprin is also president of the Philadelphia Geographical society.

Professor Heilprin had gone to the Plantation Vive, which is near the crater, in company with Fernand Clerc and Mrs. Ried, landed proprietors of Martinique. This expedition had been especially organized by United States Consul Ayme and Professor Heilprin and was led by the latter. The expedition left Fort de France last Thursday, May 29, at noon. Friday was spent in studying the newly formed craters on the north flank of the mountain. Saturday morning Professor Heilprin determined to attempt the ascent to the top of the crater, and with this purpose in view he set out at 5 o'clock.

The volcano was very active, but amid a thousand dangers Professor Heilprin reached the summit and looked down into the huge crater. Here he spent some time in taking careful observations. He saw a huge cinder cone in the center of the crater. The opening of the crater itself is a vast crevice 500 feet long and 150 feet wide. While Professor Heilprin was on the summit of the volcano several violent explosions of steam and cinder laden vapor took place, and again and again his life was in danger. Ashes fell about him in such quantities at times as to completely obscure his vision. One particularly violent explosion of mud covered Professor Heilprin from head to foot with the hideous, viscid and semisolid matter thrown out.

Professor Heilprin still persisted in his study and observations, however, and twice more was he showered with mud. He learned, as had been suspected, that there were three separate vents through which steam issued. Full details of the professor's observations cannot be had until he returns to Fort de France.

Professor Heilprin's journey down the side of the mountain was fully as perilous as the ascent. Mont Pelee seemed to resent the intrusion of a puny human being into her most awful precincts and belched out huge volumes of steam, ashes and boiling hot mud.

Professor Heilprin made the important discovery that the crater at the head of the river Fallaise has synchronous symptoms with the crater at the summit of the volcano and that it ejects precisely the same matter at such times. The river Fallaise crater and the crater at the summit showed during Professor Heilprin's visit a new phenomenon. Mud was thrown up in high columns. Heretofore the mud has bubbled or boiled out and flowed downward in huge streams. In the course of one eruption of the river Fallaise crater an enormous mass of intensely hot mud was ejected. This flow reached the rum distillery on the Vive plantation and extinguished all the fires there. This torrent of mud may invade the entire plantation, and as Vive is the centre of one of the richest districts of the island it is feared the damage there may be great.

Professor Heilprin arrived at the edge of the summit of the crater at half past 1 and remained there for over two hours. When he returned to Vive, he resembled a statue of mud. The weight of ashes and mud he carried on his person, the horrible atmosphere he breathed and the fearful difficulties he encountered reduced Professor Heilprin to a condition of extreme fatigue notwithstanding the fact that he ascended Mont Pelee from the most accessible and easiest side.

Another Eruption of La Soufriere.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, June 2.—La Soufriere volcano is still active. Another eruption has occurred. It was accompanied by a thunderous noise and a shock of earthquake, while volumes of dense vapor ascended to such a height that they were visible from Kingstown. The vapor formed a thick cloud over the crater of the volcano, and this cloud was illumined as if by fire. In the crater itself the lightning was more vivid than upon any previous occasion. No damage was done, and the eruption ceased at the end of an hour.

Deadly Shooting Affray.

BUFFALO, June 2.—One man was killed and another was fatally wounded in a shooting affray among the foreigners employed in the construction of the new steel plant on the city line in the eastern part of the city today. A riot grew out of a factional fight. Fifty shots were exchanged before the men were dispersed.

Chilean Parliament Opened.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 2.—President Riesco opened the Chilean parliament yesterday. There was a great attendance of military and civil officials and diplomats. The president in his message said that the relations between Chile and all other countries were satisfactory.

Fast Newspaper Train.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 2.—The Delaware and Hudson railroad newspaper flier averaged over a mile per minute in the seventy-four mile run between Albany and Caldwell yesterday.

WHERE THE BLAME RESTS.

A man was run down by an automobile Friday at the trolley terminus on Watchung avenue, near North avenue, and narrowly escaped being killed. As it was, his injuries were serious enough to make it necessary to take him to the hospital. According to all accounts, the automobile was going slowly at the time and the man, who was driving it, is known as one of the most careful of all the local chauffeurs. That such an accident has not occurred long before is really the most remarkable thing about it.

The blame for the accident, judging from all accounts, does not rest with the injured man or the man in charge of the vehicle. It is simply what may be expected as long as the trolley company continues to use the middle of a public thoroughfare for a depot. With the two track switch at that point, there is barely enough room on either side for a vehicle to pass. In these warm days, when the trolley cars are so largely patronized, the passengers fill up that space and traffic is at a standstill.

No matter how slowly a vehicle may approach, there is always the chance that some passenger will alight or pass around the end of one of the cars, right in the path of the approaching vehicle. Despite the greatest care on the part of the trolley employes and the police, accidents are going to happen there until the day comes when the trolley company secures a place where its exchange station may be located on private ground.

Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, Watchung avenue is completely blocked every time the cars assemble there. Even the greatest care on the part of a driver or chauffeur cannot prevent an accident when so many people are hurrying back and forth. A horse, frightened at the cars, could easily carry death or serious injury to scores.

If the trolley company will not remedy the existing situation, then it is time that the Common Council, to protect the lives of those it represents, acts in the matter.

number of contestants for the Golf Committee cup, owing undoubtedly to the fact that many were tired after the holiday play. H. F. Baker won the first honors with a net score of 78, which places him far in the lead with a total of 8½ points. G. H. Squires finished second, scoring his first two points, and Howard G. Tracy scored his first point by finishing third.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

H. F. Baker, 90, 12—78; G. H. Squires, 95, 15—80; Howard C. Tracy, 104, 23—81; Dudley H. Barrows, 92, 10—82; H. D. Hibbard, 102, 18—84; H. M. Slauson, 113, 27—86; Lawrence Tweedy, 103, 12—91; D. H. FAREWELL WORDS TO GRACE CHURCH PARISH zeal and hearty co-operation which has been displayed in the Master's work, will continue to anunate the workers. Let your prayers ascend to the throne of grace that the vestry may soon find a priest to minister to you in holy things—to take up with as little delay as possible the work which I today lay down, and to push it with as much more wisdom and with as much better results as possible.

"And to this end I believe you will be ready to give him all the help and encouragement that may be in your power. 'And now, brethren, I commend you to God and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among all them who are sanctified.'"

During Mr. Rodman's administration of the affairs of the parish there have been 566 baptisms, 452 persons were confirmed, 216 marriages and 426 funerals were solemnized. At present there are 202 families in the parish, and 470 communicants. The contributions to the church for the past thirty-two years amounted to $299,260.

Miss Stella Codington, of Somerville, has been visiting friends in Plainfield.

Miss Anna Ahern, of this city, has returned from a visit with friends at Somerville.

Frank Hoppock, of this city, has been visiting at his former home in Annandale.

Miss Mae Squire, of Astor place, spent Friday as the guest of friends at Englewood.

Miss Alexander, of East Fifth street, is detained at her home by a severe illness.

Dr. P. B. Cregar, of Grant avenue, is enjoying a visit from his parents who live at Annandale.

DUNELLEN.

Rev. N. J. Sproul occupied his pulpit yesterday after an absence of two weeks during which he has been attending the General Assembly at New York City. In the morning a large congregation was present. In the evening another good sized congregation assembled. The pastor told about the General Assembly, its objects, aims, and what it had accomplished and spoke upon mission and evangelistic work.

The Dunellen Juniors went to Plainfield Saturday morning to play a team there but as the other team did not appear the game was forfeited.

Fred Giddes, Charles Adams and Harry Apgar, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with relatives in town and returned home last night.

Boyle, who played first base for Dunellen Saturday, is an excellent player and fills a weak spot in the infield.

Regular services were held in the Methodist church yesterday. The pastor preached at both services.

Rev. Father Humphrey, of East Millstone, officiated in St. John's Catholic church yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop entertained a number of out of town friends yesterday.

The Dunellen A. C. will play the strong Raritan team on the home grounds Saturday.

The porch on A. H. Gray's house has been finally finished and awaits a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blair entertained out of town friends on Decoration Day.

Mrs Edmund Teel has returned home after a visit with Easton relatives.

Miss Mary Ward, of Newark, spent Saturday at the Mountain View house.

The tennis court of the Dunellen Tennis Club was in use Saturday.

The Silver Leaves played a junior Bound Brook team Saturday.

The new monthly trip tickets were issued this morning.

NEW MARKET.

The New Market baseball team defeated a team from Piscataway Friday on the local grounds by a score of 16 to 8. The game was an interesting one and some good playing was seen on both sides. The locals will probably arrange a game with the Dunellen A. C. shortly.

Miss Nellie Owens, of Newark, spent yesterday with friends in town.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church yesterday.

John Newland, of Metuchen, spent yesterday in Piscataway.

Quite a number enjoyed the rowing on the lake yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Owing to an error, the report of the ball game Decoration Day morning with Murray Hill only credited Harvey, of the local team, with two strike outs when it should have been 12.

Rev. Arthur Glazer, a classmate of Rev. Mr. Bindenberger at Drew Seminary, occupied the puplit in the Methodist church at both services Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott T. Collins, of Brooklyn, have been visiting at the home of Mr. Collins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins, of the borough.

Miss Sadie Reger has returned from a pleasant vacation of several days which was spent with her parents at Succasunna, Morris county.

Seeley's paper mill, which has been closed for several days while necessary repairs were made, resumed work again this morning.

The regular monthly observance of the Lord's Supper was held at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church Sunday.

Henry Frentz, of Jersey City, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Frentz, has returned to his home.

Miss Lena Bruchman led the weekly meeting of the Epworth League at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

The weekly meeting of the Baptist Young People's Union was held in the church parlors last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Harry Tappen, formerly of Newark, has accepted a position with the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works Company in Plainfield, where he began operations this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Tappen will move to Plainfield some time during the middle of this month.

Regular preaching services were held at the Baptist church, yesterday, sermon subjects, morning, "Up to Date," evening, "The False Voice." The pastor spoke at the East Third street chapel in Plainfield, in the afternoon, at the Children's Day service.

The Ladies' Missionary Circle of the Baptist church, will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Manning.

Miss Gussie Clawson spent yesterday at the home of Mrs. Merle Larraby, of Piscataway.

Wm. Hamilton has returned from Perth Amboy, where he visited his mother, yesterday.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

John Wirth, the West Front street baker, is having a great run on his Boston brown bread and pastry. Both are delicious and made fresh every day.

Place your orders early. The Plainfield Art Company in the Y. M. C. A. building, has cut its framing prices in half. Artists' materials are also marked 'way down.

Even if the prices of meat have taken a jump you can buy to advantage at S. Scheuer & Son's on West Front street. A full line of groceries as well as meats can be found at this store.

It's foolish to be sick when Shaw, the West Front street pharmacist, has a remedy for nearly every ill that flesh is heir to. And accept this tip—his prices are the most reasonable in the city.

Wm. H. Brower's Sons, the New York florists, are the most skillful floral designers in the metropolis. Orders left at the residence of John L. Brower, 127 East Fifth street, receive the promptest attention.

R. W. Barnes, the Park avenue grocer, is showing a large and new stock of fruits and vegetables, in addition to his general grocery list, comprising everything required by the family to place on a well-ordered table.

Soon the merry weddings of June will be attracting the attention of society folk and the proper thing is to have the right kind of decorations. Mrs. L. J. Denton, of West Front street, has a faculty for doing this work to the bride's taste.

The merry song of the birds in the summer reminds one of the sweet music to be found in any one of the several makes of pianos sold by G. H. Kenyon. It does not require an expert to bring forth these sweet notes and there are no better pianos made.

Not only does the A. and P. Tea Company give its patrons the standard groceries it imports or manufactures, at extremely low prices, but it presents handsome and useful premiums. The local store at 137 and 139 West Front street will deliver orders and has a large display of presents to select from.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Minnie Trimmer Became the Wife of Ralph C. Runyan, Saturday Evening.

There was a very pretty wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Trimmer, of West Front street, Saturday evening, when their eldest daughter, Minnie, was married to Ralph C. Runyan.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Both bride and groom were unattended. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Chauncey F. Colthar. The parlor and house were beautifully decorated in honor of the event with ferns, roses, and snowballs.

Many costly and useful presents were received from friends, including a handsome silver cake-basket from the night force at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company, where the groom is employed.

Mansfield Hummer, of Annandale, has been visiting friends in Plainfield.

Miss Margaret Bayliss, of Frankfort, has been visiting Plainfield friends.

—Workmen are engaged cleaning up Somerset street. The surface has received a scraping and the thoroughfare wears an improved appearance.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Effect of Height on the Blood.

Recent observations on the gases of the blood during a balloon ascension show: First, that the faculty of fixing oxygen possessed by the haemoglobin of the blood is not diminished as the atmospheric pressure diminishes, but, on the contrary, increased (at least at the altitudes attained); second, up to 3,500 meters the carbonic acid gas contained in the blood does not follow the law of solution of gases—on the other hand, it follows the inverse of this law; third, the nitrogen contained in the blood does follow the law of solution, and escapes from the blood in proportion as the atmospheric pressure is lowered; fourth, the total quantity of gas in the blood increases with the altitude; fifth, the quantity of oxygen and of carbonic acid in the blood increases with the altitude.—N. Y. Sun.

The New York "Uncle."

The person who happens to be temporarily stranded, financially, in New York city, and who goes into a pawnshop and "soaks" his watch, fancies that nobody will know anything about it. That person will be wrong. There is a great deal more to it than that. His name and address will have been reported to police headquarters and registered there, together with the number of his watch, and all this will be on record in black and white, not only for the present generation, but for posterity. That is why uncle is unpopular in New York. The number pawned varies from month to month, but on an average there are fully 100,000 different entries monthly for pawned watches reported to police headquarters, and there filed away for future reference.—N. Y. Sun.

The Queer Roosevelt Names.

The old Roosevelt name comes from the mother's side. Before her marriage she was a Miss Carow, not Carew. The name is an old French Huguenot one, originally spelled Quereau but was changed to Carow by Mrs. Roosevelt's grandfather, Isaac Carow, who experienced much trouble with men in business, who never seemed able to spell Quereau properly. The name of Quentin, one of the boys, belongs to the Carow side, and was also a French Huguenot name, originally spelled Quantine. The same explanation applies to the name of Kermit, doubtless. — Detroit Free Press.

Wasted Precautions.

The story of a Boston woman who lived nearly all of her 52 years in a hotel is interesting, and not the least so was her anticipation and fear of fire. Every night of her life she placed on a chair beside the bed a thick flannel wrapper having many deep pockets, together with a pair of shoes, into which she expected to slip at the first alarm. All her valuables were within hand reach, and no fire department ever drilled for a hurry call with more assiduity than this expectant lady, who was finally drowned!—Indianapolis News.

Inclined That Way.

It was after the smoothfaced man had put his fifth glass of whisky out of sight that he remarked: "I suppose you know, of course, that I am in the profession? But what line would you place me in—tragedy or comedy?"

"I think," ventured the abstemious man on the other side of the table, "that you must be quite at home in the tank drama."—Boston Transcript.

Native Aristocrats' Decadence.

Formerly many of the chiefs of Orissa and the wealthy landlords of Behar and Bengal used to keep ivory carvers in their pay, and would sometimes grant jagirs for the support of their families. Now the native aristocrat prefers chandeliers, musical boxes and outrages of all sorts made in Birmingham, Berlin or Vienna.—Allahabad Pioneer.

Its Significance.

Bobby—Mother, what's that black band around Mr. Jenks' arm for?

Mother—Hush, dear! he might hear you. Mrs. Jenks is dead; that is a sign of mourning.

"Oh! I thought p'r'aps it was to keep the caterpillies from crawling up his body."—Judge.

Uncle Allen.

"I can't say," observed Uncle Allen Sparks, "that I approve entirely of the tobacco habit, but did you ever think what a difference it might have made in the history of the world if Adam had a chew of tobacco in his mouth when Eve tempted him with the forbidden fruit?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Movable Holiday.

The day on which Brazil annually celebrates republican principles has come to be a movable feast, dependent upon the popular sentiment toward the United States. July 14th, the day of the fall of the Bastille, was originally adopted as the official jubilee day, but the Brazilians incline more and more to shift the celebration to our own Fourth of July. This year, so friendly has Brazil felt toward this country, that the press, pulpits, government and popular enthusiasm combined to keep the Fourth. The stars and stripes with portraits of Washington and McKinley, were everywhere present, representatives of the government visited the United States ships in the harbors and the legations on land, military bands serenaded United States officials, and electric lights on government buildings outlined the arms of the United States and Brazil by side. More and more Pan-America is becoming a fact as well as a high-sounding title for expositions and congresses.—Youth's Companion.

Canadian Beaver Coins.

In the old days of the Hudson Bay company, trade with the Indians was conducted wholly by barter. The standard of value was a beaver skin, and guns, knives, powder, lead and blankets were exchanged for furs without recourse to coin. In time, however, the trade produced its own currency—a stick or tally known as the "made-beaver." This was issued by the company and accepted for the value of one beaver skin at any post. Some flavor of the old romance will attach to the new Canadian gold coins to be known as the beaver, the half-beaver and the double-beaver. They will be the counterpart in value of our eagle, half-eagle and double-eagle, the beaver being the "national bird" of Canada as the eagle is of the United States. It is safe to say that interest in these new coins will not be confined to people who care for romance.—Youth's Companion.

The Least Known Land.

The least known land on earth, with the possible exception of Central Australia, is the great peninsula of Kamchatka, whose half million of square miles have a population of less than 7,000. A chain of very high mountains runs down its center, some of them being volcanoes, from whose mouths come smoke and cinders; the others are covered with a very thick growth of trees up to a height of 4,000 or 5,000 feet. Above the tree line live a sort of ibex, or mountain sheep, which are larger and stronger than any that exist elsewhere. The people of Kamchatka have bits of the skin of a few of these creatures and some of their large horns, but no European has as yet killed one.—Detroit Free Press.

Her Eccentricity.

"My second cousin, Almira Stamm, is as queer a person as I 'most ever saw anywhere!" remarked the sage of Kohack, a trifle sardonically. "In spite of her bein' a woman, and also an old maid, still in possession of all her faculties, and also a sharp-pointed, interrogatory-shaped nose, she'd actually rather read an interestin' novel than to listen to the best-told and hoarsest-whispered story of the serious illness of a neighboring woman who has been given up by all the doctors, and the insinuati'nest speculations as to who the sick lady's husband is kind of figgerin' on marryin' in a shamefully short time after his wife's death!"—Puck.

The Ardent Suitor.

"Mr. Shortoscads," said the homely maiden, "why do you woo me?"

"Because I love you!" exclaimed the ardent lover.

"Has my wealth nothing to do with it?"

"Nothing whatever."

"Well," she said, pondering a moment, "I'll take you. I'd rather marry a liar than a fool."—Chicago Tribune.

Death Signs in Venice.

At Venice when anyone dies, it is the custom to fix a placard before the dead person's house, as well as in adjacent streets, as a sort of public notice, stating his name, age, place of birth and the illness from which he died; affirming also that he received the holy sacraments, died a good Christian and requesting the prayers of the faithful. —Cleveland Leader.

CRICKET IN THE SOUTH SEAS.

England's Favorite Amusement Is a Strenuous Game in Those Parts.

Australia does not monopolize all the cricket at the other end of the world. In Fiji, Samoa and Tonga the natives have taken to cricket with perhaps too much enthusiasm. It has become the custom for one tribe to challenge another, and as every member of the tribe insists on playing, the matches are sometimes 60 a side and run into weeks, the defeated tribe having to pay to the victors a forfeit of ten pigs.

In Tonga this was felt to be such an abuse and led to so much neglect of their proper avocations by the natives that a law was passed prohibiting cricket for more than two days in the week. King George II. of Tonga, a young man still in the twenties, is a most devoted cricketer. He is an excellent batsman and his agility in the field is surprising.

The Pacific islanders play cricket without pads, gloves or any protection whatever. Their only garment is the sulu, or waisteloth. They often receive hard blows from the ball on their bare bodies, but apparently suffer no injury. In the remote districts where cricket materials are not easily procurable, a tree serves as a wicket, a cocoanut as a ball and a waraiub as a hat. Under these primitive conditions, says the New York Commercial Gazette, an umpire is occasionally clubbed for giving a decision adverse to the batsman.

STORY OF PRINCE HENRY.

Taken to Task by Captain of His Regiment for Wearing the Order of the Garter.

One evening in the middle '80s Prince Henry of Prussia, just returned from a longer voyage in the far east, found himself at a ball in the royal palace in Berlin. Instead of his naval uniform of commander he had donned the uniform of the First regiment of foot guards, in which he was then a lieutenant, relates the New York Times. A captain belonging to the same regiment soon accosted him, and, noticing certain insignia on his arm, said to him, gruffly: "Do you know, sir, that it is against the regulations to wear foreign orders."

"Yes, sir, but my grandmother conferred this, and—"

"There is also another regulation which says that foreign orders are not hereditary. You will report to your captain to-morrow."

"Yes, captain," humbly replied the prince. "But I said my grandmother 'conferred' this—she did not 'give' it."

"Ah, and what do you call it, young man?" inquired the officer, with a slight touch of curiosity.

"The order of the garter, captain."

"Never heard of it. Must be some fake decoration. I shall look into this matter myself. Who did you say your grandmother was?"

"I didn't say, captain. But she is called Queen Victoria."

A PLEASANT IMPRISONMENT.

German Duellist Who Killed a Student Will Not Have to Suffer Much in Durance.

The sentence of two and a quarter years' imprisonment in a fortress which has been passed on the German officer, Lieut. Thieme, who lately shot dead a student of Jena in a duel, is by no means so severe as it looks. "Festungs-arrest" in Germany is a comparatively pleasant affair. The offenders have an agreeable barrack room placed at their disposal, from which they can emerge at stated hours and enjoy a pensive walk about the confines of the fortress, and they may even have a servant to wait upon them.

There are few officers thus "incarcerated" who do not relish the change from the disciplinary rigor of the barrack yard to the delightful promenades afforded them within the precincts of such picturesquely situated fortresses as Konigstein, on the Elbe, or Ehrenbreitstein, on the Rhine, where they are deprived of almost no privileges save the empty one of wearing their swords. And then, too, says the London Chronicle, in most cases, about five-sevenths of their nominal "time" is always remitted them—especially in cases of dueling—when they resume their career in a new garrison.

The Champion Spanker.

Prof. F. A. Lillie, of Waterbury, Conn., is the champion spanker of the world. Recently he chastied 49 pupils in 37 minutes. A minstrel parade appeared just before the time for the school to assemble for the afternoon session. Every one of the pupils, even to the "littlest girl," struck and followed the band. During the afternoon the children straggled in and when the last one had appeared the professor called an executive session in the basement, where he had put away a nice piece of garden hose of convenient length. In 37 minutes after the 49 children had assembled in the cellar they were marched back to their desks and every one of them had had a taste of garden hose.

Largest Induction Coil.

The largest induction coil, which produces the longest spark for service in wireless telegraphy, is said to be the one which was recently made for flashing messages between the coast of Japan and Corea. It can produce, in fact, a miniature streak of lightning 45 inches in length, capable of killing any number of persons who might get in its way, and when in operation sends out something like thunder rolls. The entire apparatus weighs about 2,000 pounds.

DIFFERENCE IN MANNERS.

Americans Appear to Much Better Advantage in Public Dining-Rooms Than Englishmen.

"Do you know, I thought you were English people," said one woman to another in one of the parlors of a hotel the other morning. "Why, may I ask?" questioned the woman she addressed. "Oh, because your husband walks so decidedly ahead of you into the dining-room."

This remark, showing the result of unexpected and unsolicited observation, set the woman criticised to thinking. She began to observe her fellow sojourners as they came in and went out of the beautiful, quiet dining-room, says the New York Tribune.

To her surprise, she saw that it was almost invariably the case for the husband to pause on the threshold and either walk beside his wife or allow her to precede him and to select the seat she preferred to occupy. As a general thing the smart, well-dressed woman evinced neither hesitation nor embarrassment, but after one rapid glance which seemed to take in the whole situation led the way with unerring perception of the nicest spot.

After a day or two of this uninterrupted proof of what American women do the monotony was broken by the arrival of a party of English tourists—two men and two women. The men at once became conspicuous; they spoke very distinctly to the head waiter, bidding him find a place "away from those heaters," said the atmosphere was "beastly stuffy," and after they were all comfortably placed at table the eldest man in the party evidently asked his wife if she was suited, for she answered with a smile and a gentle voice: "Yes, indeed, dear; yes, indeed."

EUROPEAN UNIVERSITY SONGS

English Students Not So Much Given to College Music as the Germans Are.

The conspicuous scarcity of characteristic songs in British as compared with German universities is probably due to other causes besides the relative indifference to musical culture of British youth as a whole says the London Globe. The undergraduate of Oxford or Cambridge does not take himself with that prodigious seriousness which characterizes the student of Bonn or Jena, and is not naturally inclined to regard his university career as a separate idyllic phase of existence deserving of a reverent and enthusiastic lyrical treatment. His general athletic bias makes him regard "musical men" of a serious cast as a class apart, whose proselytes are fortunately few, while on the occasions when his triumphant soul seeks relief in more or less melodious outpourings, he is apt to find the simple directness of the latest Anglo-American musical comedy fits his needs quite fully. For these different reasons, such an attempt as has once more been made recently to provide English university men with a song-book after the German pattern is not very likely to succeed. There is neither an adequate demand nor a suitable supply. In Germany there exists a great mass of student songs, because for generations the taste of the students has run in that direction. In England there are hardly any songs that have a special suitability for university life at all, and any selections made from songs at large is arbitrary and carries little weight with its intended public.

AN UNEXPECTED TRIP.

Wonderful Nerve and Endurance of an Iowa Boy Carried Off by a Balloon.

Carlton H. Myers, of West Liberty, Ia., a boy 12 years old, displayed most wonderful nerve and presence of mind in a balloon ascension, where even a man of experience might have been expected to lose courage. An Iowa paper gives the story:

"The balloon was almost inflated with hot air when the anchor-ropes gave way and it started upward suddenly with a rush. The spectators were horrified to see a boy hanging head downward from the ropes. The little fellow, boy-like, had approached too near the preparations, and his foot became entangled in one of the ropes. The aeronaut called out: "Straighten up, boy, but hold on for all you are worth."

"The plucky lad obeyed, reached up above his foot, and, catching hold of the rope, quickly righted himself, climbed up about eight feet and then threw his arm through several ropes that came together just under the balloon; he was a number of feet above the parachute, but so close to the outlet in the airship that the escaping hot air and gas almost caused him to faint. He made the entire trip, about three miles, hanging by one arm.

"The height which the balloon reached is estimated to have been about one mile, a distance of 500 feet higher than the aeronaut intended to go. They came down in a cornfield and thus escaped injury."

Lamp of Marine Microbes.

A strange lamp has been constructed by Prof. Dubois. A glass globe placed on a metal stand is nearly filled with a liquid composed of luminous marine microbes; there are two tubes running from the globe, and through these a supply of air can be sent to the interior when the light grows dull, the effect apparently being to revivify the microbes. The light from this lamp will last for several weeks without renewal of the illuminating medium.

THE NEW MODES.

Coronation Effects In Poppy Reds and Deep Purples.

It seems to me now that I never saw such beautiful styles, colors and materials all grouped into one season. The shades of the dress materials are for the most part delicate and dainty, and where there is a decided color it is so very decided that we must like it, whether we would or no. The poppy reds and the deep purples, which, we are now told, will be the favorite color of the queen of England, are seen very often and on the smartest of the smart set. The purples are mostly for the elderly women, and the reds are better suited for those under twenty. To those whose complexions are set off well by the red it is a real blessing, for not every one who looks her best in red can wear anything else without destroying her own best effect. When one wishes to be a little conventional and still wear the becoming red, a black lace covering is put over the bright color and effectually veils it into refinement.

But where there is one red gown there are 600 in light tints and colors, some of them being almost as delicate as the pastel shades of a couple of years ago. One especially pretty shade is a pale blue between a sky and a baby tint. This, when made into dresses, is lavishly trimmed with white or black lace, with a little black velvet ribbon to accentuate the daintiness of the rest.

Really some of the newest sleeves are quite as ridiculous as the big leg of mutton confections of a few years since. The comic writers made so much fun of them that they kept on growing larger until the fashion burst with its own bigness. I saw a wedding dress today, and the sleeves came down to the elbow quite well proportioned, but from there they branched out to a width incredible, and then they were drawn in to the wrists snugly. The idea is to have the shoulders look flat, square and broad and the sleeves to be joined to add to that effect, while the lower part is swelled out of all proportion.

Some sleeves owe their peculiar form to having the upper part tucked in lengthwise folds and the lower left to fall out in a full flowing sleeve or to be gathered to the wrist after the tucks run out.

Among the loveliest of the new summer stuffs we find crash, both corded and plain; madras in many styles of coloring and cord, organdies in the most exquisite colorings, duck quite nice enough to wear anywhere and offered in more tints and colors than I can tell, and linen, both plain and mercerized. This is especially valuable, for no matter what falls from the skies this always comes out like new again. Polka dots are very fashionable, especially in black and white. Some of these are made up with pure white accessories, such as wide collars, cuffs and a natty little short cape to throw over the shouders. Many of the linen and duck suits have smart jackets to wear with them. Sashes are seen, too, with many of the summer suits, but they are not tied, only fastened at the back by a fancy pin. Some of the sashes are of rich black ribbon and have deep knotted fringe, but the most are either quite plain or of the chene ribbon or else painted. I saw one with the most beautiful butterflies painted on it so perfect that one felt sure that they were real. Others have flowers mostly, but one had a regular flight of small barn swallows. This was exceedingly well done.

Hats are so beautiful and varied that one would have to be blind as well as deaf and dumb to refrain from speaking of them. The shapes worn in the days of Empress Eugenie of France are among the favorites, with a few slight variations. The style is a poetic one and lends itself to drooping lace, ribbons and flowers, but the woman of today wants all that was in the old days and a little more. So we have the brims turned and twisted and set at angles, also turned under or over, as the case may be.

Drooping ends fall over the hair in the back, and in front the boa takes the place of the falling ends and shows such a dainty arrangement of lace, chenille, ribbon and chiffon that it is a wonder fashion writers keep their senses. HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

THE WEDDING That Won

THE Joneses and the Smiths lived in the same town. They were both of about the same means, comfortable, with little or no money to waste on extravagances. Now, it happened that Mary Smith and Bessie Jones became engaged about the same time, and their weddings took place within a few days of each other. The young men were clever, nice fellows, worthy in every way, but with their careers still to make.

The Jones wedding was a very gorgeous affair with six bridesmaids and flower girls. It was a warm May day, but if the bride suffered from the unaccustomed splendors of a heavy satin princess gown with an extra long train she certainly did not show it as she swept haughtily up the aisle as if she were quite used to such things. After the ceremony there was an expensive feast to which all the people the Joneses had ever known were invited.

Then there was a great exhibition of the bride's presents, most of them showy and unsubstantial, the gifts of her parents or near relatives. Afterward the young people went away on a long bridal tour, and when they came back to the surprise of every one they occupied a very modest cottage on a back street. I say to the surprise of every one, for naturally after such a wedding they expected the general style of things would be kept up. The little home was furnished very sketchily, too, and during the succeeding winter the strictest economy had to be maintained in both the home of the bride and that of her parents in order that the expenses of the wedding might be made up. But the bride had not been trained to saving and to economical ways, so that it was no surprise when early in the following spring she and her husband broke up housekeeping and came to live with the old people as best they might.

Mary Smith's wedding was not nearly so grand. In the first place, Mary had serious ideas on the subject of marriage, and she prepared herself for being the wife of a poor man by learning to cook and to make her own gowns. Then months beforehand she began to save and encouraged her future husband to do the same in order that their home might be nicely furnished. Her friends, knowing her desire, gave her useful wedding gifts that would be of service to her afterward. Mary had no grand wedding. The ceremony was performed simply and the bride wore a dainty white muslin gown she had made herself. The wedding breakfast took place on the lawn under the fragrant blossoming apple trees, and only real friends of the bride were invited. They said afterward that no more enjoyable wedding feast had ever been given in the town.

Neither did the bride and groom indulge in a long and expensive wedding trip. They were gone for a few days, and they came back as quietly as they had left and settled in their little home. And such a pretty little home as it was—well kept, dainty and cheery. Mary's inexpensive little gowns were always crisp and pleasing to the eye, her dinners were well cooked and her house speckiessly kept. She never tried to do more than her means allowed her, and so no ugly lines and furrows of anxiety appeared on her forehead to mar it and make her old before her time. She went about her house singing, and her husband loved her more each day as he reflected what a treasure she was. After a time people began to appreciate the coziness of Mary's house, her circle of friends grew and enlarged until it comprised the best people of the town. And yet the secret of her success was merely this—that she had started well.

I wonder how many brides have the courage to do the same.

MAUD ROBINSON.

THE STURGIS WAGER

A DETECTIVE STORY.

By EDGAR MORETTE.

Copyright, 1899, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.

The receiver drew the letter from its envelope and read:

"The Knickerbocker Bank,
New York, Dec. 31, 1896.

"My Darling Wife: When you receive this letter I shall be far away—a disgraced criminal—and you will be worse than a widow.

"I dare not ask your forgiveness for the trouble I am bringing upon you; for I realize all too clearly the extent of the wrong I have done you. But I feel irresistibly impelled to lay before you in all their nakedness, as I do before my own conscience, the circumstances which have led to my downfall. A knowledge of these may perhaps enable you to understand, in a measure, the temptation to which I have succumbed; although I find it hard myself, now that all is over, to realize how I came to yield to it.

"Perhaps you may remember the celebration of my fiftieth anniversary. We were having a most enjoyable evening in the company of the friends whom you had invited to participate in the festivities, when a caller was announced. I was obliged to leave our guests in order to receive him in the library. This man lost no time in stating the nature of his business with me. His name was Thomas Chatham; he was an expert accountant, who had been employed at the Knickerbocker bank to examine the books, and he coolly informed me that he had just discovered a serious error in my books—one that had enabled a depositor to overdraw his account by a large amount. At first I refused to believe him, although he submitted copies from the books showing exactly how the blunder had been made. When he intimated that it only rested with me whether the error should be reported to the bank, I indignantly refused to listen to him. He remained perfectly unruffled during our interview and left me at last with the statement that he would wait 24 hours before handing in his report to the president.

"My first step on reaching the bank the next day was to verify Chatham's statements. Alas! they were only too true. There was the terrible blunder staring me in the face. I could not understand how I had come to make it; but there it was, and nothing could explain it away. I had hoped against hope up to this time; now I saw clearly that I was a ruined man.

"There was only one honorable course open to me—to frankly confess my responsibility for the blunder and take the consequences, whatever they might be. I hesitated, and I was lost.

"I hesitated because I felt that my position was at stake. Would not my error appear inexcusable to the officers of the bank, since I could find no palliation for it in my own eyes? I was 50 years old. I shrank from the necessity of beginning all over again at the foot of the ladder which I had so laboriously climbed after a lifetime of conscientious plodding. It would be no easy matter for me to find another position.

"The more I thought the matter over, the more I became convinced that there might be another way out of my trouble. Was it not probable that the depositor who had profited by my mistake had done so innocently? If so, would he not be willing to repay the amount overdrawn? At the worst, if he should refuse to do this, might it not be possible for me to scrape together and borrow enough to make good the deficiency? In this way I could correct the blunder and no one would be the wiser for it. But what of that man Chatham? Would not his report betray me? I recalled his intimation that the nature of his report depended upon myself. What did he mean by that? Probably he would set a price upon his silence. This would add considerably to the amount I should have to raise; but would not this be better, after all, than the loss of my position? At any rate, I should not be any the worse off for listening to his proposal, whatever it might be.

"That afternoon, as soon as the bank had closed, I called at the address Chatham had given me. He evidently expected me. With him was a man whom he introduced as James Withers, the depositor in whose favor my blunder had been made. Had I not been laboring under great excitement, it is likely that my suspicions would have been aroused by the strangeness of Withers' presence in Chatham's room. The two men received me pleasantly, and the alleged Withers, even before I could broach the subject, expressed his regret at hearing of the error which had been committed, and assured me of his willingness to reimburse the bank; but—ah! there was an ominous 'but.' He was short of ready money just then; everything he had was tied up in a promising enterprise which was bound to bring in a magnificent profit in the course of a few days if only he could raise a few paltry hundreds to enable him to hold out a little longer. If he failed to scrape together this small amount, all would be lost. Insidiously and relentlessly they drove me toward the trap they had prepared, and I was weak enough to fall into it. Before the interview was over, I had consented to allow Withers to still further overdraw his account, and I had received his solemn promise to refund before the end of the week, the entire amount he owed the bank. Then Chatham suggested that it would be wiser to let the second overdraft come from another account. Withers agreed with him and stated that the check could be made in the name of Henry Seymour, a relative of his, who had recently opened a small account with the Knickerbocker bank. I strongly objected to sharing the secret of my infamy with any others; but I finally allowed myself to be overruled by the plausible scoundrels into whose clutches I had fallen.

"The next day I took my first step in crime, by making such entries as would insure the honoring of Seymour's check. After that I was completely in the power of these two men. It was not long before I discovered that I had been their dupe. Chatham's accomplice was not the true Withers; for this man, a few days later, made a large deposit, which more than covered his previous overdraft. The false Withers was Henry Seymour himself.

"As soon as I had committed a felony, it became unnecessary for Seymour to keep up any further pretense of a desire to refund the money I had helped him to steal. I was now in the meshes of crime as deeply as my accomplices; and, from that time to this they have forced me to act as their cat's-paw. During this period of two years the bank has been robbed in this way of over $250,000, every cent of which has gone to Chatham and Seymour.

"You can perhaps imagine what a hell my life has been during that time. With prison and disgrace staring me in the face; and with the absolute conviction that exposure must inevitably come sooner or later, I have suffered the torture of the damned. At the bank, I have been in a perpetual state of suspense. I have started at every word spoken to me; I have seen suspicion in every glance which has met mine; I have trembled and paled at every approach of one of the officers of the bank. And yet I have not dared to absent myself from my desk for an hour, lest an examination of my books during my absence should reveal my crime. I have been the first to reach the bank in the morning, and the last to leave it at night; I have not even taken the few minutes during the day which would have been required to enable me to obtain a hurried meal. On one pretext or another, during the last two years, I have had to forego my annual vacation. I have dragged myself to my post when I was so ill that I could hardly stand, because I could not afford to have anyone take charge of my books for even an hour. And all that time, with a full realization of my degradation and infamy, I have been forced to continue my frauds, knowing that each one brought me nearer to the inevitable final exposure; but knowing equally well that a refusal on my part to continue my stealing would result in an instant betrayal by my accomplices.

"At last further concealment became impossible. A week ago the yearly examination of the books took place. The expert accountant employed was, as usual, Thomas Chatham, and of course, as usual, his report was entirely satisfactory. It seemed, therefore, as though discovery could be postponed a little longer; when suddenly, this morning, we were informed that a change in the system of bookkeeping would be adopted after the 1st of January. I saw at once that all was over. The discovery of my crime is now a matter of hours. I must be out of the way before the crash comes or I am doomed. I can already see the felon's stripes upon my back; the clang of the prison gates ring in my ears.

"I am too dazed to think; but I feel that my only escape is in death. And yet I cling to life. I know that the happy days of the past are gone forever; and yet I feel a sort of numb relief at the thought that the worst is now certain to come, and to come at once.

"I have carefully prepared my flight, so that I shall have plenty of time to reach a place of safety. Once there, I shall be free from pursuit; but I shall be an exile, and I shall carry with me to the grave the burden of my sin.

"The most bitter pang in my remorse is caused by the thought of the great wrong I have done you, dear wife. You will now be forced to face the world not only unprotected by the one whose duty and whose desire it was to smooth the way for you; but, what is worse, oppressed by the burden of his sin.

"What little money I have left in the savings bank I have transferred to your name. You may use it all with a clear conscience; for every dollar of it was honestly mine. I swear I have never had a single cent of the money I have stolen. It has all been drawn by Henry Seymour, and used I know not how.

"As soon as I am settled in the place to which I am going I shall try, as far as lies in my power, to redeem my past by a life of honest labor; and I hope to be able to contribute to your support in the near future.

"Oh! my wife! my darling wife! Would that the past could be blotted out, and that I could once more place my hand in yours, an honest man. Though you may find it hard to forgive me now, perhaps in time you may be able to think gently of him who through all his crime and degradation has remained

"Your devoted husband,
"JOHN W. ARBOGAST.

"My safety depends upon your keeping the contents of this letter secret for at least three days. After that time, please send to Mr. Dunlap, president of the Knickerbocker bank, the inclosed papers, which will reveal to him the full extent of my defalcations.

"I do not hesitate to betray Chatham and Seymour; they did not scruple to ruin me. I have sent for Chatham, and I shall give him warning of my intended flight. If he sees fit, he can take such steps as he may choose to escape his own richly deserved punishment."

While Sturgis was reading Arbogast's letter, Dunlap, restlessly pacing the room, had observed him furtively.

"Well?" he now inquired, stopping before the reporter, "what do you think of that?"

"Poor woman!" exclaimed Sturgis, feelingly; "it is terrible to think of the suffering brought upon her by her husband's guilt. I ought to be hardened to a situation like this; for it is the inevitable sequel of almost every crime that is ever committed. But I am moved every time by the pathetic expiation of the innocent for the guilty."

"Yes, yes; I know," said Dunlap, indifferently; "that it not what I meant. Did you note the amount which this scoundrel confesses he and his accomplices have stolen from the bank?"

"Yes; it is a large sum."

"Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars! Why, man, if that is true, it is enough to cripple the bank—No, no; I don't mean that, of course; the bank is rich and could stand the loss of four times that amount. But a quarter of a million is a round sum, for all of that. It does not seem possible that, in spite of all our care, they can have succeeded in making away with so much money. But they did. There can be no doubt about that; for in the papers which Arbogast inclosed for me in his letter to his wife he explains just how the thing was done. It is simple enough when you know the trick; but it took fiendish cunning to devise it. I never would have thought that rascally bookkeeper intelligent enough to concoct such a scheme."

"If the scheme is a work of genius," said Sturgis, "you may rest assured that 'X'—who may very well be Henry Seymour—was the author of it."

"Well, at any rate," observed Dunlap, "there is one thing that must be done at once; and that is to find both Chatham and Seymour. It is not possible that in two years these men have spent a quarter of a million dollars between them."

"It is at all events possible that they may not have done so," replied Sturgis, "for my investigations show that both Arbogast and Chatham have been men of regular and exemplary habits in their private lives. They do not appear to have been living much, if at all, beyond their means. There does not seem to have been, in the case of either man, any room for a double existence, which might otherwise have explained the situation. Neither was a spendthrift or a gambler, and neither was dissipated."

"Then you have not the faintest idea of the present whereabouts of Chatham or of his mysterious accomplice?"

"Let me tell you exactly what I have done up to the present time; and then you will be able to judge for yourself. And I, too, shall see more clearly where we stand; for the necessity of putting one's thoughts into words is an aid to clear thinking."

The Pressure of Light.

M. Lebedew, of Moscow, has experimentally demonstrated that the pressure of light agrees with the theoretical determinations of Clerk-Maxwell. Maxwell's theory declares that the combined effects of the electrostatic and electrokinetic tensions give as a resultant a pressure in the direction of the propagation of the wave. He announced that the concentrated rays of an electric lamp falling on a metallic disk delicately suspended in a vacuum might produce an appreciable mechanical effect. The radiometer of Crookes is a device which arose from this suggestion, though its motion is chiefly due to heat. M. Lebedew has eliminated the effect of heat and measured the effect of the light from an arc lamp and finds, in this very delicate experiment, results that agree within ten per cent. of Maxwell's theoretical amounts. They show that the pressure is directly proportional to the energy of the light and entirely independent of its color.—N. Y. Sun.

Her Ready Answer.

It was at a dinner party. The bright young man found himself privileged to sit next to the young woman with beautiful arms and neck. He thought himself the most favored personage in the room. Suddenly his fair companion exhibited signs of nervousness. Two of his very best jokes, saved for a special occasion, passed by unnoticed. Her face wore a look of alarm. Apprehensively the young man gazed at her, and meeting the look she said:

"I am in misery."

"I am misery?" echoed the man.

"Yes," she replied. "I was vaccinated the other day, and it has taken beautifully. I could almost scream, it hurts so."

The young man looked at the beautiful arms, and, seeing no mark there, said:

"Why, where were you vaccinated?"

"In Boston," she replied, the smile chasing away the look of pain.—Boston Journal.

Curious Sense That Plants Have.

Francis Darwin, speaking before the members of the British association at Glasgow, said that a pine tree grows straight upward because it possesses a gravitation sense. A plant which grows in a curve in order to assume the position best suited to its needs also exhibits a perception of gravitation. Some flower stalks are very curiously guided by the gravitation sense. The common narcissus is an example. At first there is a straight shaft piercing the ground with its compact pointed flower-bud. "But as the flower opens the stalk bends, close to the top and brings the flower-tube into a roughly horizontal position, where it shows off its brightly colored crown to the insects that visit it. The flowers are guided to the right position by the gravitation sense, and they increase or diminish the angular bend in their stalk till the right position is attained."—Science.

The Largest Gold Coin.

The largest gold coin now in circulation is the gold ingot or "loof" of Annam, a French colony in Eastern Asia. It is a flat round gold piece, and on it is written in Indian ink its value, which is about $325. The next sized coin to this valuable but extremely awkward one is the "obang" of Japan, which is worth about $50, and next comes the "benda" of Ashantee, which represents a value of about $45.—Detroit Free Press.

They Spank Them.

It seems that girls as well as boys of a village in Iceland have learned the habit of smoking cigarettes. The officers of the village, in order to check the habit, have passed a law which allows any man or woman who finds a boy or girl smoking to give the young offender a sound spanking and to seize and destroy any cigarette found in his possession.—N. Y. Sun.

Both Rather Egotistical.

Dolly—Yes, I heard that Mr. Flatrum said only the day before yesterday that I was the prettiest girl he ever saw.

Polly—Indeed! Who's Mr. Flatrum? Oh, yes; that young man I met last night who said he never saw me before.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Cheater's Fate.

"You say you are not sure it was suicide?" asked the newspaper man.

"No, stranger," responded Amber Pete, "he was playing solitaire, caught himself cheating and of course he had to shoot."—Chicago Daily News.

A Natural Conclusion.

La Montt—I wonder what they are selling over there? I just heard them shouting, "Here's something to catch a man's eye!"

La Moyne—H'm! They must be selling ladies' umbrellas.—Philadelphia Record.

Versatile.

Husband—What dainty dish has my darling prepared for me this evening?

Wife—Well, I tried to make a cottage pudding, but it fell, so I poured melted cheese over it and called it a rabbit.—The Four Track News.

His Custom.

Uncle Bob—Say, does the baby always holler like that till he gets what he wants?

Papa—Yes; and then he generally hollers for something else.—Brooklyn Life.

Progress.

His Friend—Are you writing a historical novel?

The Literary Cuss—Don't say a word. I'm writing a prehistorical novel!—Puck.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

Strange Adventure of Miss McConnell, of Utica, N. Y.

Her Life Saved by a Deer Which Gave Her Shelter and Protection, at the Expense of Its Own Life, as It Turned Out.

According to the story told in the New York Sun by Miss Margaret McConnell of Utica, N. Y., of her wanderings in the forest while she was lost, she owes her life to a deer.

She started at nine a.m. on Monday from her boarding house at McKeever on the walk which resulted in her losing her way. It was not until Wednesday morning that she was found by Fred Reber, of Boonville, who was out deer-hunting.

Reber shot a buck and the report of the shot had hardly died away when he heard a call and then the words: "I am lost." Following the sound he found Miss McConnell sitting on some boughs on the edge of a swamp. Realizing the state of exhaustion in which she was, he dragged the still warm body of the deer to Miss McConnell and laid her upon it. He then built a fire around her, buttoned his warm hunting coat about her and went for help.

Since she has begun to recover her strength she has told of her wanderings in the forest. She kept moving most of the time. She knew that if she allowed herself to sleep the chances were that she would freeze, and so she compelled herself to keep moving as much as possible and refused to allow herself to sleep.

After spending Monday night in a ruined shack, she resumed her walk and soon was drenched by the rain which fell on Tuesday. Late on Tuesday afternoon the rain changed to sleet and then to snow, and, to give the finishing touch to her hardships, at dusk Miss McConnell fell into a branch of Bear creek and was soaked up to her shoulders.

In this cold and forlorn condition she crawled under some balsam boughs as night fell, trying to protect herself as much as possible. She had been here only a short time when a buck came up to her.

The part of Miss McConnell's story which follows is remarkable, but that such experiences have been known is vouched for by woodsmen. She says that the buck came into her shelter and lay down beside her. After awhile he went away, but soon returned with two does.

The does were more timid, and soon ran away. The buck went with them, but after a few minutes returned and spent the rest of the night in Miss McConnell's company, lying so close to her that she was able to stroke his nose. He stayed until after daylight and then went away.

It may be that to the animal's presence was due the fact that Miss McConnell remained awake through the night and thus saved her life. At any rate it is thought that the buck did save her life at the expense of his own, for it is thought he was the buck killed by Reber and that the shot which killed him was the shot which Miss McConnell heard and which was the means of bringing the rescuers to her. She was greatly grieved that the deer had been killed.

Automatic Needle Threading.

A little machine which threads 1,000 needles a minute is at work in St. Gall, Switzerland. The purpose of the machine is to thread needles that are placed afterward in an embroidery loom for making Swiss or Hamburg lace. The device is almost entirely automatic. It takes the needle from a hopper, carries it along and threads it, ties the knot, cuts the thread of a uniform length, then carries the needle across an open space and sticks it in a rack. The work of threading these needles was formerly done by hand.

Likes the Matrimonial Yoke.

The matrimonial noose has no terrors for James Meridy, of Barbourville, Ky. Last month he divorced his thirteenth wife, and an hour later led his fourteenth to the altar. Four of his wives are dead, nine have been divorced, and the fourteenth was a widow. This much-married man is only forty years old.

GAME WAS ERRORLESS.

In a seven inning game at Port Richmor , S. I., Saturday afternoon, North Plainfield High School put it all over the baseball talent of the High School of that town to the refrain of 20 to 6. The boroughites played an errorless game.

Emmons at first and Woodland at third played gilt edged ball. Teddy Overton was in as good form as ever, and held down second bag in a manner that sickened the base thieves.

A feature of the game was the heavy batting of the North Plainfield team. They lambasted Corbett's delivery all over Station Island for a total of twenty-two singles, including two-baggers by Emmons and Adams. The detailed summary follows:

EASY FOR THE 'PLAINS.

The Scotch Plains baseball team took the Dunellen baseball team into camp, Saturday afternoon, after a one-sided game. The lineup was as follows:

Scotch Plains.	Dunellen.
Ashcroft, c.	Smith, ss.
Albert, 3b.	Etthinger, p, 1b.
Johnston, rf.	Craig, 3b.
Flannery, 1b.	Smalley, rf.

Score by innings.

Scotch Plains	3	2	1	0	0	5	6	0	x—20

The game proved to be the easiest proposition the locals have met this season. Harvey, the regular pitcher, played in the outfield while VanCott, of the Brooklyn High School team, was given a try out. Even this did not make the game interesting.

Plant 1,000 Years Old.

In the town of Hildersheim, Germany, is probably the most unique plant in the world. It is a rash bush 1,000 years old, and sprouts from its branches have realized fabulous sums. Some years ago a rich Englishman offered $250,000 for this entire tree, but the sum was indignantly refused. This wonderful plant clings amid thickly grown moss against the side of the famous old church of St. Michael. It is claimed that it has bloomed perennally since the days of King Alfred, and this statement has never been disputed, for its record has been as carefully kept as the pedigree of the blnest blooded family in the kingdom. It is supposed to have been discovered by some mysterious means through the medium of King Louis of Hildersheim, as far back as 1022.—Presbyterian.

Georgian Prince a Robber.

A 15-year-old Georgian prince living near Kutais, in the Caucasus, has been arrested, charged with a long series of murders and highway robberies. He owns an old stone keep (tower of a medieval castle, in which are dungeons) high over a rapid mountain stream, near the caravan road across the Caucasus, and for two years he has been in the habit of raiding travelers. He is a boy of great physical strength and singularly handsome. Incredible stories are told of his exploits and reckless cruelty. It is alleged that he has thrown prisoners from the parapet of the keep into the raging stream below. All his retainers maintain absolute silence, and the Russian authorities find it difficult to obtain evidence against him.—N. Y. World.

A Chinaman's Age.

How old is a Chinaman? Can you give a good guess. It is harder to tell than the age of a negro. The Chinaman has no beard and his hair is of a jet and glossy blackness, which turns gray only at an extreme age, when a Caucasian head would be either snow white or bald. Then, again, the Chinese have the most perfect nervous systems of any people in the world, and do not wrinkle up with age. So you have little to go by. A Chinaman will look 30 when he is 20 and when he is 50. If you ask him his age he will place it at least ten years ahead, for he holds old age to be honorable, and among his people he will be respected and looked up to by all his juniors.—Washington Post.

Millionaire Chinese.

Although a great deal of money is made in this country by the Chinese, yet one seldom hears of an individual Chinese of any great wealth. However ther are several who have amassed very comfortable fortunes. Chin Tan Sem, of San Francisco, is one of these fortunate men, and is said to be worth several millions. He is six feet tall, well proportioned and very good looking. He wears gorgeous robes, and several valets are needed to care for his wardrobe. He owns ranches, city real estate, gold mines, diamonds, retail stores, factories and canneries, employing hundreds of men. He came over from China a poor lad and is entirely a self-made man.—Chicago Chronicle.

Rules for Pingpong.

1. Knocking the ball through the window counts three.
2. Breaking plate glass mirror counts two.
3. Striking next player with racket takes eight off your score.

5. Hitting self under chin with handle of racket entitles you to another shot.
6. Knocking ball into opponent's eye is game.—Baltimore American.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

THE GAMBLING EVIL.

American Baseball League Strikes Hard Blow at It.

Should Also Stop Sale of Liquor—Patrons of the National Sport Opposed to the Ordinary Procession of Intoxicated Men.

President Ban Johnson, of the American baseball league, asked his brother magnates to strike a blow at the gambling evil which in some baseball cities of the circuit has assumed remarkable proportions. It did not take the league session long to legislate against this practice. Behind Mr. Johnson's commendable action lies a story which illustrates how the fearless executive of the league came to realize to what an extent baseball could be robbed of its interest by betting.

When a well-known ex-ball player requested Mr. Johnson to put him on the list of American league umpires, the jolly, rotund president gave him a look calculated to wither the applicant.

"No, sir," replied Mr. Johnson, "I have no use for a man who would bet and throw a game. You did that years ago when pitching in a game in which I was the catcher. If you will throw a game in a country league for $30, how much would it take to get you to make dishonest decisions in an American league game? This league has no use for such men as you are. I am determined that as long as I have anything to do with professional baseball the game shall be free from gambling. If men will gamble, let them stick to cards and horse races. Baseball will be the national sport of this country so long as the republic lives—and that will be forever."

The seeker for the office of umpire retired without making a reply. He recalled the day down in Ohio when his team played a climax game with another rural nine and the animated scenes just preceding the game, in which a Columbus (O.) gambler made the money fly by betting on the team that was opposed to Ban Johnson's nine. In vain did the pitcher try to get in wild pitches at vital moments. He essayed all sorts of stunts in twirling so as to permit the other side to get a winning lead. But his catcher "tumbled." Try as he might, the pitcher could not get the ball past Johnson. Furthermore, the president of the league was a hard hitter in those days, and when he went to bat with three men on bases he told his pitcher that he would try to land a home run. The hit that followed was one of the most vicious ever made in the state until "Eagle Eye" Jake Beckley found his batting eye. It scored four runs and won the game for Ban's side.

PRESIDENT BAN JOHNSON.
(The Popular Head of the American Baseball League.)

After the game was won the pitcher coolly informed Ban that he was a "chump" for winning, and said that he would have split $30 with him had he played "right," which, of course, meant "wrong."

Yet, pleasing as the rule against gambling looks in the proceedings of the American league, and severe as the penalty may seem—betters are to be ejected from the grounds and their admission money is to be returned—the law must necessarily be a dead letter. It would require a police force equal to the total number of ball players in the league to prevent betting.

But, adds the Chicago Post, one thing which the league might have done with much more hope of abolishing an evil would be to pass a rule preventing the sale of liquor at a baseball park. The majority of patrons of baseball are not interested in whether John Smith bets his friend Harry Jones that a team will win or lose, if the wagering is done in the manner of betters at ball games and not openly, as betting is conducted at race tracks. But the many patrons who would take their wives and sweethearts to baseball games are opposed to the flaunting of liquor drinking before their eyes, opposed to seeing a procession of turbulent men coming from the bar with ribald jests on their lips about the whisky being poor and the beer bitter, etc. Beer bottles flying from the bleachers to the ball field, it is true, are no worse for the players than pop bottles, but the turning of the lower portion of the grand stand into a saloon is scarcely in keeping with the high standard of baseball which the magnates insist upon.

The cities of the big leagues which are charged with permitting the sale of liquor at the ball park are the sore spots in baseball.

Master Plumbers and Journeymen Held Conference and Agreed to All Terms But One.

A committee of five members from the Master Plumbers' Association met with a committee from the Journeymen Plumbers' Association Saturday evening for the purpose of trying to end the strike. The journeymen conceded certain demands except that regarding the non-union plumbers now employed by the bosses.

It was finally agreed that the journeymen committee confer with the members of their association and arrange for another meeting to be held this week. The boss plumbers are not disposed to discharge the non-union men in their employ and some arrangements will have to be made whereby they can remain at work.

Council Decided to Buy Combination Chemical and Hose Wagon for West End.

THE COST OF SMALL-POX.

Health Board Asked for $2,000 More to Meet Its Expenses—The Town Improvement Association to Care for City Park—Lots of Other Business Transacted.

There were a number of very important matters considered by the Common Council at the regular June meeting held last evening. The members, in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Lee, chairman fo the fire and building committee, voted to purchase a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for No. 3 house in the West End to take the place of the worn out hose wagon now in use. The cost of this apparatus is not to exceed $2,400. It is to be thoroughly equipped and have rubber tires. Mr. Lee has several bids and the committee will selcet the lowest at a meeting to be held this week. It will require ninety days to build the apparatus.

Combination Chemical Engine and Hose Wagon.

Mr. Mellick, as a member of the Board of School Estimate, reported that the board had determined upon $61,600 as the amount necessary to maintain the public schools during the year and an ordinance was introduced by him fixing that amount to be assessed and raised by taxation in the usual manner. Last year the amount was $62,350.

In connection with the care and keeping relative to the epidemic of small-pox in this city, Mr. Mellick presented a letter received by him from President Charles J. Fisk, of the Board of Health, citing in particular the expense incident thereto and asking for an additional $2,000 to meet the expenses attendant upon the present cases. There have been thirteen cases in all and three deatths.

In reference to this matter a communication was received from the Board of Health as follows:

To the Honorable Common Council of the city of Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:—Pursuant to the statute which provides for the means and moneys to guard against the spread of contagious or infectious diseases when epidemic, the Board of Health hereby certifies that there will be required in addition to the amount already allowed—For health purposes in connection with measures relating to the protection of the city against small-pox—$2,000.

The Board of Health respectfully urge that your Honorable Body make an appropriation for the amount above given.

All cases are now about recovered and will probably all be released during the coming week.

The amount expended to date, $4,274.45; estimated cost to cover sundries, fumigation, and matters in regard to release of patients from quarantine, $255.55; total, $4,500; original appropriation, $2,500; balance required, $2,000.

Attest:

B. vanD. Hedges.
Secretary Board of Health.
C. J. Fisk,
President Board of Health.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution to the effect that $2,000 be apportioned the Board of Health as requested, which is in addition to the $2,000 appropriated last March and the sum appropriated prior to that time.

Mr. Mellick stated that he believed the city had already been too lenient with delinquents under the Martin Act and he introduced a resolution providing that all such property be deeded to the city within the next ten days unless redeemed by the delinquents.

Regarding G. Q. Packer's petition for exemption from a personal tax, Mr. Mellick moved that it be not granted. By way of explanation he stated that all property is taxable on May 1 and Mr. Packer did not dispose of his property until the following July and August. Mr. Mellick also offered a resolution that $500 be transferred from the general fund to the poor fund and $1,000 from the general fund to the fire fund.

Another resolution by Mr. Mellick provided for borrowing $2,000 on account of the extension of sewers in Terrill road and South avenue.

Early in the evening a petition was received from Patrick J. Plunkitt, the sewer contractor, asking for an extension of time until August 1, and Mr. Tolles moved that such extension be granted. Mr. Tolles also introduced a petition from the Town Improvement Association in which the association agreed for the sum of $100 to take care of and keep the city park in repair until November 1, 1902, so far as that amount of money would permit. Upon a resolution offered by Mr. Tolles that sum was voted for the purpose named.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that a drinking trough for horses be placed at the intersection of Muhlenberg place and South Second street at an expense not to exceed $100. This resolution brought forth a remark from President Goriell and Mr. Buckle that it would be a good thing to move the drinking fountain on North avenue to the West End.

This remark called forth a reply from Mr. Mellick who took exception and said that he hoped the fountain on North avenue would be properly taken care of and placed where it would not be a nuisance and where it would be some good.

In response Mr. Buckle and Mr. Tolles said that there were plans underway to place the fountain on the other side of North avenue near the railroad station park. A petition was received from the Plainfield Water Supply Company and other business houses on North avenue, near the fountain, asking that the fountain be moved as it is a nuisance where it is now located. In response to this request it is the intention of the Council to move it.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution providing for the withholding of the money due the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company until their bills in this city are paid. This was followed by another resolution from the same member which provided for the appointment of commissioners to assess benefits for the work of macadamizing First, Second and Third places, Ninth street, Sixth street and Orchard place, the work having been completed. June 25 at the Court House in Elizabeth, is the time and place set for the appointment of these commissioners.

An important ordinance was introduced by Mr. Tolles which provides for the installation of sewers in Arlington avenue for the drainage of surface water. The ordinance provides for six inlets at West Fifth street, six at West Sixth street, six at West Seventh street, four at West Eighth street and four at West Ninth street. The sewer is to extend from West Fifth street to Cedar brook and the expense of it is to be paid out of the general tax for street improvements. This sewer is not intended alone for Arlington avenue, but for adjacent streets as well.

A number of petitions were received and considered by the Council. F. W. Coleman asked for an inn and tavern license with the privilege of serving liquors at meals. An objection was received from Albertis Swalm regarding a personal tax bill sent to his wife. He claimed exemp-

TO UNITE.

Two Tribes of Red Men Will Join Under the Name of the Miantonomo Tribe, Oldest in City.

The members of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, No. 193, Improved Order Red Men, have decided to surrender their charter, etc., and unite with Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, the oldest tribe in this city. Providing this action is confirmed by the Great Sachem, and there is no doubt that it will be, the consolidation will take place Friday evening, June 27.

Committees from the two tribes met Saturday evening and took the preliminary steps toward consolidation and matters were considered and decided upon relative to the merger which will make the final steps easy. There will be a division of officers between the two tribes, so that each will be represented. The consolidated tribe will continue under the name of Miantonomo. As yet nothing has been heard from Wetumpkah Tribe and it is not believed that it will unite with the other two tribes.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at the annual meeting held Friday, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Miss Elizabeth R. Cock; vice presidents, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. D. T. VanBuren; recording secretary, Miss Emily Tracy; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William M. Stillman; treasurer, Mrs. Josephine Lapsley; auditors, Miss Schipper and Miss Mary Tweedy. The receipts for the past year were $894.69 and the expenditures were $829.34, leaving a balance of $56.35. The visiting committee for June is as follows: Mrs. Dorsey W. Hyde, Mrs. R. E. Ware, Miss Cock, Miss Bass, Mrs. Hyatt and the purchaser is Mrs. C. E. Ryder. It was decided by the members at the meeting that each one endeavor to secure at least $10 toward the erection of a new home for the nurses in connection with the new hospital.

TO CLOSE FOUR SCHOOLS.

The Pupils Will Gather at New and More Commodious Building.

At the last meeting of the school trustees of Piscataway township, it was formally decided to build the projected graded school at East Bound Brook, sometimes called Pierceville. The land was donated by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of patent medicine fame, and he has agreed to bear all cost of the building over $6,000. Four district schools will be closed when the new building is completed, those at Fieldville, Raritan Landing, Harris Lane and Lincoln, and arrangements will be made with the trolley company for the transportation of the pupils.

ROOTS AT WORK.

Blocked Sewer Pipes to the North Plainfield High School.

The sewage system at the North Plainfield High School has been slightly impaired of late, caused by the roots of trees growing through the pipes. Workmen are engaged remedying the evil, and it has been noticed that the soil in which the large pipes have lain for some years, is perfectly dry and free from dampness—a most unusual thing.

Milk Wagon in Trouble.

Joseph Gavin, a milkman of Green Brook road, had his wagon struck by a trolley car at the corner of Watchung and North avenues about 7 o'clock Sunday morning. One wheel of the vehicle was slightly damaged, and a number of milk bottles broken, but Mr. Gavin himself received no injury. The car was moving very slowly at the time, and no blame attaches to the motorman in charge.

Back in His Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, who has been absent from Plainfield three months, occupied his pulpit Sunday morning and evening and was greeted by large congregations. He expressed his pleasure in being privileged once more to meet with his people and the people expressed pleasure in again having their pastor with them.

Disturb the Neighborhood.

Residents in the vicinity of Park avenue and Fourth street are complaining about a gang of hoodlums who frequent that corner in the early hours of the morning and disturb the peace and quietude with their shouts. The attention of the poilce is called to these disturbers.

Pleaded Guilty.

John Russell, of New Providence, pleaded guilty to helpless intoxication, Saturday, in the city court yesterday. City Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

NEW TRUST CO. READY TO OPEN

Plainfield's New Banking Institution Will Open Its Doors to the Public Tomorrow.

ROOMS WELL EQUIPPED.

The Company Is Located at 139 East Front Street—Description of the Quarters to be Occupied by the Plainfield Trust Company—The Officers—The Provisions.

When the doors of the Plainfield Trust Company open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for business this new house will present an attractive and dignified appearance and Plainfield will extend a cordial welcome to this institution which is sure to be a credit and an advantage to the city. For weeks past this new company has been gradually preparing to begin business and it has succeeded in getting everything in shape for the transaction of a banking business.

The Plainfield Trust Company is located at 139 East Front street, where a place admirably suited for a banking business has been properly fitted and furnished. An entire new front has taken the place of the old one. The main front is occupied with large glass and substantial cornice, while the entrance is on the side. Directly overhead in plain lettering is the name of the company. Fancy and attractive grill work will soon be placed in front of the plate glass.

The interior of the bank is finished in pure white, with a green base, giving it a clean and light appearance. The first room, as one enters the bank, is that to be used by the secretary and treasurer, J. Herbert Case, who has taken the lead in arranging the interior, preparatory to beginning business. In this room, which is handsomely carpeted and completely furnished, there is a large roll-top desk and every modern convenience for Mr. Case.

The next room adjoining the one to be occupied by Mr. Case is that for women exclusively. Owing to its arrangement there is privacy from other patrons of the bank. This room is provided with a roll-top desk, chairs and a settee, etc., as well as every comfort for the women is provided. They will have access on one side to the secretary and treasurer and on the other to the teller.

Next comes the teller's department to be occupied by Edward F. Feickert. This room is complete in every detail, being provided with a steel wire cage for the protection of all funds. Directly back of this department is the large burglar-proof safe, weighing eleven tons. This is provided with an electric device connecting with police headquarters. No one can tamper with the safe without causing an alarm. Adjoining this department is the saving's department, thoroughly equipped for carrying on this special work.

Then comes the bookkeeping department in charge of Daniel E. Davis. In this department there will be a transfer department for the registration and transfer of stocks, bonds, etc., which the company will handle. Provisions will be made for one or two assistants in these departments.

A feature that is sure to become popular is the establishment of a large and commodious room for the use of customers, where they can go and hold conversation, count money, or transact any business connected with the company. This room is furnished with a large oak table and chairs and has every convenience. Directly back of this room is the rooms for the president and directors of the company, together with a room for the typewriter and stenographer, Mrs. Adeline P. Robinson.

A spacious corridor, eight feet wide extends from the front of the bank to the officers' room. A desk is provided in the corridor for those who wish to use it. The room for the officers is richly carpeted and furnished with handsome tables and chairs. The bank is lighted throughout by electricity and the place has plenty of day light and is well ventilated.

As previously mentioned, Raymond Stevens, of North Plainfield, is the junior clerk. He is a graduate this year of the North Plainfield High School.

The Plainfield Trust Company is legally organized to do a general banking business, and is empowered

AMID THE CLOUDS.

Exempt Firemen Enjoyed Informal Time After Regular Meeting Last Evening.

The Exempt Firemen's Association held a regular meeting last evening. After routine business had been transacted cigars were passed around and a very pleasant half hour was spent by the members amid the clouds of the Havanas.

Just previous to adjournment President L. E. Barkalew referred feelingly to the death of two brothers of the association within the past month, W. W. Wooden and H. Newton Spencer. Vice President B. A. Mumford suggested that the association should hereafter hold some special services at the burial of a deceased member.

While the cigars were being enjoyed G. Thorn read a very vivid and poetical description of the eruption of Mt. Pelee, which he had written for the occasion. Mr. Thorn also read a short speech delivered at a nuptial feast by a clergyman whose baseball proclivities led him to use the terminology of the diamond with a ludicrous effect.

CALLED TO REMAIN.

Rev. E. E. Jackson Completed the Fourth Year of His Pastorate and Asked to Stay Four More.

Sunday, Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, closed the fourth year of his pastorate with that church. In the evening he preached an anniversary sermon and at the conclusion he received a call from four hundred members present to remain pastor another four years with an increase in salary.

In the report presented by Pastor Jackson it was shown that there had been during the past four years 146 baptisms and an increase of 354 in membership, making a total of 446. At the meeting Sunday evening three letters were received from white friends urging the pastor to remain in his present charge.

BETHEL'S MUSICALE.

Fine Programme to be Rendered at Chapel Tomorrow Night.

A grand musicale and elocutionary recital will take place at Bethel chapel tomorrow and Thursday evenings, at 8:15 o'clock under the auspices, of the Circle of Earnest Workers and for the benefit of the chapel work.

Miss Margaret Tate, of New York city, who is recommended as being one of the best elocutionists of the colored race, will recite. Among her famous selections will be "How the LaRue Stakes Were Won," "The Bogie Man," and noted selections from the writings of Paul Dunbar, the negro poet.

The Park Avenue Glee Club, the Rockland Orchestra and Peterson's Orchestra will appear each night. Vocal solos, duets and quartette will also be rendered by other distinguished talent.

CUPS DID NOT ARRIVE.

Individual Communion Cups Not Ready for Use at First Baptist.

It was with feelings of regret that the congregation of the First Baptist church was unable to use the individual communion cups at the service Sunday morning. Owing to a delay in receiving the cups, they could not be used at this time. The cups were shipped from Rochester on May 22, but for some unknown reason they have not yet arrived. They will be used at the next communion service the first Sunday in August.

Outing for West Enders.

The West End Hose Company held a regular meeting last evening. A committee of three, consisting of Charles Kellar, Wm. Demarest and Frank Perry, was appointed to select a site for an outing to be enjoyed by the company in the near future. The committee will report at the next meeting.

Mad Dog is Gone.

A mad dog, which was cavorting around West Front street, in the vicinity of Liberty, early this morning, ran athwart Patrolman Higgins' trusty weapon. The gun spoke once and Doggie commenced his journey to canine land. It is supposed the animal belonged to a resident in the vicinity.

Auto's First Victim.

Patrick Fahy, the victim of Friday's automobile accident, is doing nicely at Muhlenberg Hospital. Owing to the broken clavicle he needs absolute rest, and it is possible that he will be detained at the institution for two weeks at least.

—Neuman Brothers have a splendid line of fancy fruits. It includes peaches, cherries, muskmelons and also huckleberries.

WALKED INTO A FIRE WELL.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE OF HORSE AND DRIVER FROM SERIOUS INJURY.

Horse Was Thrown Over, While the Driver Did a Back Flip from Seat of Runabout.

Through carelessness in placing the iron cover of an old fire well at Craig place and Grove street, Charles Geer, the local agent for Ballentine & VanFleet, of Somerville, had a most miraculous escape from severe injury, yesterday morning.

He was driving along Grove street, seated in a two wheeled runabout, when his horse was suddenly thrown completely over by the iron cover turning beneath him. It had been placed loosely and allowed the animal's foot to go through. Geer was thrown high in the air and turned a somersault before landing. He was picked up in a dazed condition by Dr. Charles R. Theirs who assisted him to his home until he recovered. Although shaken up and bruised badly he sustained no serious injuries and was able to be about later in the day. The horse was also uninjured although it cannot be determined how it extracted its foot without breaking it.

A POSSIBLE COUNTY SLATE

UNION COUNTY REPUBLICANS CONFERRED AT ELIZABETH YESTERDAY.

Talk of Andrew McCardell for Sheriff—C. J. Fisk Talks of the Senatorship.

A number of Plainfield Republicans, among whom were Charles J. Fisk, Elias H. Bird, Andrew M. McCardell, J. Fred MacDonald, James T. MacMurray and George J. Tobin, visited Elizabeth yesterday and had a conference with Congressman C. H. Fowler and Former Governor Voorhees over the political situation in Union county.

Mr. Fowler expressed himself as highly pleased that the congressional convention had been called for a date so early as June 21. In a part of the new district, Warren and Morris counties, the Democrats hold a special election on June 17, and the Democratic candidate chosen at that time will probably begin re-canvassing for another nomination at once. To offset this advantage the Republican candidate, he thought, should have a longer time than usual to go over the district.

The State senatorship was discussed, and Mr. Fisk, whose name has been mentioned as a candidate, said that if Senator Cross desired a re-nomination he wished it to be distinctly understood that he was in favor of Mr. Cross for another term.

The shrievalty situation was brought up, and Andrew M. McCardell's chances were talked over. His friends assert that Plainfield will send a solid delegation to the county convention for him.

A paragraph in the N. Y. Tribune this morning says that a tentative slate has been made up for Union county as follows: For State senator, Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth; sheriff, Andrew McCardell, Plainfield; surrogate, George T. Parrott, Elizabeth. The slate is said to have the approval of Representative Fowler.

DIDN'T PRESS CHARGE.

So Theo. Glazer Was Discharged by Justice Nash.

In Justice Nash's court, this morning, Fred Roth failed to appear and press his charge of assault and battery against Theodore Glaser, of Dog Tavern, and the defendant was discharged. Glazer was arrested on May 24 and was originally brought before Justice Huff. He was released on his own recognizance to appear two days later when action was deferred until today.

Walked Off Car Platform.

A Polish woman whose name could not be learned walked off a moving trolley car at Scotch Plains Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock and received a few bruises and a shaking up. Dr. Carman was called to treat the woman.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. Randolph, living at the corner of West Sixth and Division streets, fell down the cellar stairs Sunday morning and received a bad shaking up. In the absence of Dr. Keeney, Dr. Pittis was called in attendance.

Change in Meeting Hour.

Beginning next Sunday the Sunday-school class at the East Third street chapel will be at 9:30 o'clock and will so continue throughout the summer months.

SCHOOLS FEEL COAL STRIKE

Bids to Furnish Year's Supply of Coal for Public Schools Much Higher Than Usual.

AN INCREASE OF $500.

Only One Firm, According to Report, Was Able to Fill Order Now—Referred to Committee With Power—City School Board in Session Last Evening.

Rumors of a continuation of the existing strike in the anthracite region with a subsequent scarcity of coal, had its effect on the bids of local dealers to furnish the school fuel supply as opened at last evening's meeting of the Board of Education.

But three dealers made an estimate and, of these, the lowest will make the appropriation for coal $500 more than was that of last year. The entire supply will cost $2,500. The bids as opened last evening were as follows: E. H. Holmes, $6 per ton for egg, stove and chestnut; D. C. Ivins & Company, nut $5.49, stove $5.42, egg $5.24, Nottingham pea $3.84; McDonough Brothers, $5.75 for all sizes except pea. According to Mr. Woodhull, the latter firm has in its bins at present 3,200 tons of coal and is the only firm in the city able to furnish large lots immediately. The bids were referred to the committee on fuel with power.

The remainder of the evening for the most part was devoted to the transaction of routine business. The usual reports were read as follows: Total amount of taxes collected for the month, $869.87 including interest; pupils examined by the medical examiners, 107; pupils vaccinated, 21; receipts for the month according to the custodian of school moneys, $17,186.62, disbursements $6,055.27, balance $11,131.35.

Superintendent Maxson submitted a brief report of the recent school exhibit, which he declared to be an unqualified success. Several thousand persons in the aggregate had witnessed the displays and all had been greatly pleased. In his opinion the exhibit will assist in the advancement of work both on the part of teachers and pupils. Mr. Lovell, for the Board of School Estimate, stated the budget of $61,600 had been passed. The committee on rules and regulations reported completing its work and asked for dismissal but action was deferred until the next meeting.

Committees appointed at the last regular meeting to complete details for the commencement exercises reported as follows: Music, same orchestra as last year; awarding of English composition prize, committee submitted, A. H. Atterbury, Mrs. G. W. Edwards and E. C. Perkins. Following a discussion on the merits of the plan, it was decided to discontinue awarding a prize for penmanship. Owing to the adoption of the vertical system of writing, it was explained, individualism in penmanship had been abrogated. It has become almost an impossibility to distinguish any one pupil's writing and for that reason the work of the committee has continued to become harder each year. It is possible another subject will be selected in its place for which a prize can be awarded.

On motion, all teachers were allowed pay for days on which they were detained by sickness and one teacher who has been ill since December last was voted the difference between her salary and that of the substitute taking her place.

The matter of appointing assistant janitors for each of the larger buildings was broached by President Probasco and was referred to the committee on buildings. This is a question which has been steadily rising in importance until now the duties of janitors are so arduous that it will have to be settled very soon.

The five year lease of the Whittier school building will expire July 1 and the advisability of renewing it for a similar term was left to the proper committee.

At the last meeting a committee was appointed to confer with the local water company in regard to having the system extended to the Irving school. This body reported amid much laughter that the next day the clerk discovered the building has been supplied with city water for six years. The school has no inside drinking fountains and two not in use at the High School building were ordered transferred to it.

ANOTHER BUILDING ADDED.

To A. H. VanHorn, Ltd. Establishment, Making Five Acres Space.

These summer days are witnessing many proofs of enterprise in retail circles, but none are of greater interest than the completion of still another building annex to the furniture establishment of Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd., 73 Market street, Newark.

This new and imposing structure adjoins the main building at 73 Market street and has six stories and basement. The floors are of metal. Otis elevators run to every floor while electricity furnishes light by night and scores of windows give the light by day.

Without exception, these new salesrooms are the most attractive in all Newark, one whole floor being devoted to summer furniture and lawn swings; another is given up to dining room furniture, another to parlor suits, still another to fancy chairs and odd parlor furniture. There is one floor of dressers, chiffoniers, brass and iron beds, and bedding of all grades, while the balance of the building shows a general display of furniture.

One could not help enjoying a tour through this splendid establishment that coants its floor space somewhere near five acres.

A VALUABLE PUBLICATION.

The Pennsylvania Railroad 1902 Summer Excursion Route Book.

June 1 the passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company published the 1902 edition of the summer excursion route book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal summer resorts of eastern America, with the best routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal seashore and mountain resorts of the east, and over seventeen hundred different routes or combinations of routes. The book has been compiled with the greatest care, and altogether is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of summer travel ever offered to the public.

The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and the book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On and after June 1 this very interesting book may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Broad Street station, by mail for twenty cents.

IMPERIAL SPECIAL.

Passed Through Here With Mystic Shriners Bound for San Francisco.

The Imperial Special of the Mystic Shriners, en route for San Francisco with 225 representatives to the twenty-eighth annual session of the Imperial Council of the order, which meets in that city June 10, left New York Saturday morning over the New Jersey Central-Reading-Baltimore and Ohio lines. The train is made up of eight Pullman sleeping and two dining cars, which will go through to the Pacific coast.

The party expects to arrive at its destination at 12:10 noon on June 8 and will return home within three weeks from the time of starting.

Harry L. Maxson, of New Rochelle, spent Sunday in Plainfield with his mother.

Miss Jane Shulteiss and Miss Stella Doyle, of New Brunswick, have returned home after a visit with their uncle, John Shulteiss, of Manning avenue.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

GREAT DAY IN LONDON

Streets Filled With People Rejoicing Over Good News.

THE TERMS OF PEACE ANNOUNCED.

Much Liberality Shown to the Defeated Boers—Self Government Promised—No War Tax—Farms Are to Be Restocked.

LONDON, June 3.—The peace in South Africa and its very elastic terms were welcomed in London last night with a mild repetition of the Mafeking celebration.

Hundreds of thousands of people surged through the streets of London from Whitechapel to Buckingham palace, but never at any time did the density of the crowds equal that of those which created the verb "to mafick."

There was a tremendous noise in the streets composed of a pandemonium of horns and cheers and the coarse jests of costers, but the abandon which marked the announcement of the reliefs of Mafeking and Ladysmith was lacking. Women, many of them carrying babies; boys, drunken loafers and others, glad of any excuse to defy law and order, were the principal elements in the ragged processions which wended their ways through the city, through Pall Mall and up Piccadilly.

The crowds concentrated in Regent street and especially on the Strand and let themselves loose. Women of the lower class jabbed men in the faces with feathers, indiscriminately flung an apology for confetti and in turn were hugged and kissed by any man who found time for such a diversion. A few helpless policemen stood around and watched the fun.

While London went temporarily mad in a saturnalia of rejoicing over the news from South Africa, the telegraphic nerve system of the empire throbbed responsively. From Canada and Jamaica in the west and from India and Australia in the east came messages of congratulation and reports of local rejoicings. Gibraltar, Malta, Cairo, Bombay and Melbourne each in turn recorded the enthusiasm with which the news of peace was received. From the continent also there came announcements of satisfaction, springing not so much from joy at Great Britain's triumph as from feelings of relief that the long tension was over and the belief that the era of peace portended a trade revival and a return to normal conditions.

In the house of commons Mr. A. J. Balfour, the government leader, announced the terms of peace in South Africa as follows:

"His excellency, Lord Milner, in behalf of the British government; his excellency Mr. Steyn, General Brenner, General C. R. De Wet and Judge Hertzog, acting in behalf of the Orange Free State, and General Louis Botha and General Schalkburger, General Reitz, General Louis Botha and General Delarey, acting in behalf of their respective burghers, desiring to terminate the present hostilities, agree to the following terms:

"The burgher forces in the field will lay down their arms and hand over all guns, rifles and ammunition of war in their possession or under their control and desist from further resistance and acknowledge King Edward VII. as their lawful sovereign. The manner and details of this surrender will be arranged between Lord Kitchener and Commandant General Botha, assisted by General Delarey and Chief Commandant De Wet.

"Second.—All burghers outside the limits of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony and all prisoners of war at present outside South Africa who are burghers will, on duly declaring acceptance of the position of subjects of his majesty, be brought back to their homes so soon as means of transportation can be provided and means of subsistence assured.

"Third.—The burghers so returning will not be deprived of their personal liberty or property.

"Fourth.—No proceeding, civil or criminal, will be taken against any burghers surrendering or so returning for any acts in connection with the prosecution of the war. The benefits of this clause do not extend to certain acts contrary to the usages of war which had been notified by the commander in chief to the Boer generals and which should be tried by court martial after the close of hostilities.

"Fifth.—The Dutch language will be taught in the public schools of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony where the parents desire it and will be allowed in the courts of law for the better and more effectual administration of justice.

"Sixth.—Possession of rifles will be allowed in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony to persons requiring them for their protection on taking out a license according to law.

"Seventh.—The military administration of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony will at the earliest possible date be succeeded by a civil government, and so soon as circumstances permit representative institutions leading up to self government will be introduced.

"Eighth.—The question of granting the franchise to natives will not be decided until after the introduction of self government.

"Ninth.—No special tax will be imposed on landed property in the Transvaal or Orange River Colony to defray the expenses of the war.

"Tenth.—So soon as the conditions permit it a commission on which the local inhabitants will be represented will be appointed in each district of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony under the presidency of a magistrate or other official for the purpose of assisting in the restoration of the people to their homes and supplying those who owing to war losses are unable to provide for themselves with food and shelter and the necessary amount of seed, stock and implements, etc, indispensable to the resumption of their normal occupations. His majesty's government will place at the disposal of these commissions the sum of £3,000,000 and will allow all the notes under the law of 1900 of the South African republics and all receipts given up to officers in the field of the late republics or under their orders to be presented to a judicial commission which will be appointed by the government, and if such notes and receipts are found by this commission to be duly issued in return for valuable considerations they will be received by the first named commissions as evidence of war losses suffered by the persons to which they were originally given.

"In addition to the above named free grant of £3,000,000 his majesty's government will be prepared to make advances on loan for the same purposes free of interest for two years and afterward repayable over a period of years, with 3 per cent interest. No foreigner or rebel will be entitled to benefit under this clause."

No Rejoicing at The Hague.

THE HAGUE, June 3.—The news of the conclusion of peace in South Africa was received here with very mixed feelings. While there is general satisfaction that the war is ended, unvarying regret is expressed at the loss of Boer independence. The Boer delegates here are in a particularly trying position. It has been learned upon good authority that the British government at the last moment refused to allow the Boers in South Africa to communicate with their leaders in Europe. Thus the delegates on the continent were entirely shut out of the negotiations and were ignorant even of the terms.

Boer Prisoners Wild With Delight.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 3.—The news of peace in South Africa has been communicated to the Boer prisoners in the inclosure on Hawkins island. The prisoners were delighted and received the news with great enthusiasm, shouting, singing and hurrahing. Some of them rushed wildly about, embraced every English soldier they met and said, "Yesterday we were foes, but today we are friends." Drinks were served out to the Boers on Hawkins island, and the rejoicing there continued until a late hour. The Boers on Tuckers island also received the news with great joy.

Kruger Is Silent.

AMSTERDAM, June 3.—Since the news was received here that peace had been concluded in South Africa Mr. Kruger has declined to receive visitors or express an opinion on the subject. The other Boer delegates here are disappointed at the outcome and are not inclined to discuss the matter. The Dutch newspapers declare that Great Britain will gain nothing "from this unjust war," and that her difficulties in South Africa are now beginning.

Thanksgiving at Cape Town.

CAPE TOWN, June 3.—The announcement of peace was made publicly in St. George's cathedral here and has been hailed everywhere with the greatest relief. The entire town has been decorated with union jacks. June 15 has been appointed a day of thanksgiving in the churches.

Quiet Celebration In Australia.

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 3.—The news of the signing of terms of surrender in South Africa has been received throughout Australia thankfully, but sedately. Flags were raised and bells were rung in general rejoicing, but there were no boisterous demonstrations.

Boer Leaders After Commandos.

PRETORIA, June 3.—A number of the Boer leaders left here. They are going to bring in the commandos. It is expected these operations will occupy about a fortnight.

The Situation In Colombia.

COLON, COLOMBIA, June 3.—The United States gunboat Machias has returned to Colon. The military governor, General Morales Berti, says the insurgents after evacuating Chiriqui Grande left fifty men wounded behind them. He believes the enemy retreated across the mountains toward David. The situation at Bocas del Toro is again normal. The government contemplates bringing the troops at Bocas del Toro back to the Isthmus.

Oregon Probably Republican.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—Polls closed at 7 p. m. Counting was slow owing to length of ticket. It is predicted that the Republican ticket, except for governor, will be successful. Both Republican congressmen are elected. No estimate of the result as to governor can be made until a large portion of the returns shall be received.

Chili Rebellion Spreading.

TIENTSIN, June 3.—The Jesuit priests here are authority for the statement that the rebellion in the southern part of Chili province is spreading. They say also that certain villagers of this district shot representatives of the Chinese government who requested them to lay down their arms.

Exploding Boiler Kills Engineer.

ROME, N. Y., June 3.—The boiler in the Watson Wagon company's works at Canastota blew up and killed George E. Gallaway, the engineer. Owen Thomas, an employee of the company, was fatally scalded. The boiler house was wrecked.

Gas Explosion Kills Sixteen.

VIENNA, June 3.—Sixteen persons were killed and four more were wounded as a result of an explosion of gas in a mine in the province of Galicia.

SEAL EXTIRPATION.

Valuable Fur Bearing Animal Will Soon Be Extinct.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Representative Tawney of Minnesota has presented the report of the ways and means committee favoring a reopening of the Bering sea seal negotiations with Great Britain with a view to securing the permanent preservation of the seal herd or else the destruction of the herd with the exception of a few for the preservation of the species. The report says:

"The killing of the surplus female seals will be an act of mercy since it puts an end at once to the extreme brutality of the pelagic hunters' work. It will prevent the slow torture to death by starvation of tens of thousands of helpless young which is officially observed and counted every season by our agents under existing law and regulations, for if we do it it is but one killing, and then the work is ended. If not done by us, then this infamous and cruel butchery of the female seal and the starvation of the young by the pelagic hunter will continue year after year in the future, as it has prevailed from year to year since 1873, and will end only with the extermination of this seal life in the very near future."

The report says that the young male seals will be destroyed by 1906, and the birth rate will cease on the breeding grounds almost immediately thereafter. The accompanying papers represent that the seal herd has been reduced from 4,700,000 in 1874 to 224,000 at present and that the United States has spent $1,441,331 since 1890 in protecting the herd over and above all receipts for rent, etc.

A DULL DEBATE.

Little Interest In Senate Philippine Talk—House Thanks Hay.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Little interest either on the floor or in the galleries was manifest in the senate debate on the Philippine government bill yesterday under the fifteen minute rule. At two or three stages it almost died of inanition.

Early in the session some amendments were made to the bill by the Philippine committee, the most important of which related to the disposition of the public lands in the islands.

The house by a vote of 129 to 46 suspended the rules and adopted the joint resolution extending the thanks of congress to Secretary of State John Hay for his address on the occasion of the McKinley memorial exercises last February. Unanimous consent for the consideration of this resolution was objected to by Mr. De Armond (Mo.) some time ago, and yesterday Mr. Clark (Mo.) made a twenty minute speech in opposition to its adoption on the ground that Mr. Hay had abused the occasion by injecting a "Republican stump speech" into the address. General Hooker (Miss.), a one armed Confederate veteran, delivered an eloquent defense of Mr. Hay's address, denying that it contained anything that was objectionable from a political standpoint. Mr. Grosvenor (O.), who was in charge of the resolution, argued that Mr. Hay in eulogizing the martyred president could not divorce the man from his achievements and his record as a manly partisan. Only forty-six Democrats voted with Mr. Clark against the resolution.

Consul Evans Sets Out.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Hon. H. Clay Evans, consul general to London, left here yesterday for New York, whence he will sail on the St. Paul tomorrow for his new post. He was accompanied by his wife and two daughters. A large number of friends were at the depot to see him off, and they gave him three cheers as the train pulled out.

NEW PHASE OF STRIKE

Mine Engineers, Firemen and Pumpmen Go Out.

ORDER OBEYED BY A MAJORITY.

President Mitchell Claims Eighty Per Cent of the Hands Have Struck. Operators Confident of Ability to Protect Their Property.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 3.—The order of the United Mine Workers of America calling out on strike all engineers, firemen and pumpmen employed at collieries where the eight hour workday with present wages was not granted went into effect yesterday, and as had been predicted a majority of the men obeyed the order. Neither side can claim a victory at this time because the struggle on this phase of the anthracite coal miners' strike has just opened. There was only a partial showing of strength.

Although a majority of the men quit work, the companies, generally speaking, succeeded in keeping their pumps in operation. The operators feel that at present they have the advantage, but they are not so sanguine of the future. The exact number of men who quit cannot be obtained. Each side refuses to make public their figures, but gave out information that roughly estimates the number of men affected. These estimates are far apart.

National President Mitchell of the miners' union gave out a statement in which he says:

"Reports received from every important mining community indicate that where the eight hour day has not been conceded fully 80 per cent of the firemen, pumpmen and engineers have ceased work. The number will be materially increased. In some sections mine foremen have positively declined to perform the work of engineers, firemen and pumpmen. In some places foremen have manned the pumps, and clerks have also been required to perform this labor.

"A perfect army of irresponsible men have been employed by the coal companies to act as coal and iron policemen. The services of these men are unnecessary and their presence unwarranted. There have been no violations by the mine workers, and I am sanguine there will be no overt acts on the part of the strikers."

On the other hand, a mining official of one of the largest coal companies who received accurate information from the entire coal belt makes this statement:

"President Mitchell's estimate is too high. We have received figures from all our collieries and the general superintendents of all other coal companies, but they are not to be given out, as it would not be policy to reveal our weak spots or to betray our strongholds as far as they relate to the collieries individually.

"Notwithstanding the big desertion of men every colliery in the entire region that made the effort was able to get up steam and maintain it. We are satisfied under the circumstances with the situation as it exists at present, and we do not care to boast of our future ability to keep the mines from flooding. The companies have nearly all the men they want for present needs. We look for intimidation of our men by the strikers, but we will go right along and protect our employees and property as best we can."

Considering the vast number of men who are idle, the coalfield is very quiet. Reports have come in from several sections telling of disturbances, but these are of a minor nature only.

The Blast Furnace Strike.

SHARON, Pa., June 3.—The second day of the blast furnace men's strike finds all but one of the thirteen stacks in Sharon, Sharpsville and West Middlesex in the Shenango valley coked down. The furnace in operation is that of the Sharon Steel company. This plant is under police protection. The ranks of the strikers were increased by 550 men who came out at the National Steel company's furnace and the two stacks of the Shenango company at Sharpsville.

Record Price For New York Property

NEW YORK, June 3.—The Plaza hotel property at Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street has been sold to the George A. Fuller company and allied interests. On the site is to be erected a new twenty story hotel. The price paid for the property is $3,000,000, and among transactions involving no element of trade it is believed that the purchase ranks as the largest in the city's real estate annals. Including the cost of the new hotel building, the enterprise will involve nearly $10,000,000.

Miner and Peddler Shot.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., June 3.—Word has been received here that two men have been shot and killed in the mining settlement of Hibernia, some miles from this city out in the mountains. One of the dead men is a Hungarian miner named [illegible] and the other a Hebrew peddler named Louis Cohn.

Carrie Nation Pardoned.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 3.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, who was sentenced to the Shawnee county jail on May 16 for one month and to pay a fine of $100 at the rate of a dollar a day for smashing saloon fixtures, has been pardoned by Governor Stanley. Her fine also was remitted.

A Month's Coinage.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The monthly statement issued by the director of the mint shows that during May, 1902, the coinage executed at the mints of the United States amounted to $2,350,250, as follows: Gold, $426[illegible]; silver, $1,873,000; minor coins, $60 [illegible].

DR. RICHARDS WILL GO.

Though no official action has yet been taken, it can be stated with much assurance that the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards as pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be accepted. This call which Rev. Dr. Richards has received from the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York, is a very important one and Dr. Richards' best friends, while they hate to lose him, realize that it is something which cannot be lightly considered. The general sentiment, while not yet officially expressed, seems to be to place no hindrance in his path but rather to aid him in the acceptance of this most important post.

A meeting of the officers and congregation of the church has been called for tomorrow evening when the subject will formally be acted upon. While there is no absolute certainty as to the action then to be taken, there is every evidence that Dr. Richards will be permitted to withdraw while the congregation will express its profound regret at its loss and renew the expressions of love and good feeling for the man who has stood at the spiritual head of the church for so many years.

These sentiments, which prevail in the church, are generally shared by the Plainfield public at large. During the two decades that Dr. Richards has made his residence in Plainfield, he hnas made a host of friends outside of his congregation. He is greatly beloved by many. To these people, Dr. Richards' best interests are the first consideration. The opportunity which now presents itself is too good to be lost. Much as his friends would like to see him remain in Plainfield, they believe that they should facilitate rather than interfere with his change.

With the advent of warm weather, the danger from small-pox is past and Plainfield will be able to congratulate itself at the excellent manner in which that dread disease was held in check even after it made its appearance in this city. It cost money, however, to take the preventive steps and to care for those few who did fall victim to it. The report of the Plainfield Board of Health, presented to the Common Council last evening, shows that the total cost to Plainfield was $4,500.

This series of inter-club tennis matches promises to result in a decided boom for the game of tennis in Plainfield. While the tennis itself was decidedly interesting, the social features in connection with the contest made it attractive to many who did not care for the game alone. Tennis promises to become an important rival of golf in the eyes of the fashionable folk.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman has ended his labors as rector of the Grace Episcopal church, after thirty years' service. During those years of service he has labored well and faithfully for the interests of his parish and he is well entitled to retire from active service and enjoy a life of quietness and retirement, realizing that it has been well earned.

The public, as well as the journeymen carpenters, is directly affected by this strike among the plumbers and is particularly anxious that the trouble be settled without delay. The committees from the masters and journeymen should lose no time in settling the present difficulties and resuming work.

The new ticket office in the west bound station has been opened and the Plainfield patrons of the Jersey Central are greatly pleased thereat. Good things have come so easily of late that some of the commuters are now wondering if the old style of commutation ticket is to be revived.

The awarding of the contract to a Plainfielder for making the year's supply of clothing for the Government's Indian wards means something to Plainfield's industrial progress. There will be work for a number of people while this contract is being filled.

Last summer saw the Hotel Netherwood as the summer headquarters of the society set. There is every reason to believe that another prosperous season is at hand for the big hotel on the hill.

GARWOOD DENOUNCED.

Manager Cose, of Hopes, Speaks His Opinion of Garwood's Action.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In justice to the patrons of the game, especially those who take interest in the contests arranged by Hope, I desire to explain the facts connected with the contest scheduled to be played with the Garwood nine, on the local grounds, Saturday afternoon. About the first of May I agreed with William Darroch, manager of the Garwood team, for two games, one to be played on its diamond on May 10 and the other to take place here last Saturday.

We fulfilled our part of the agreement and when the time came for the return game I had my men on the ground. Saturday morning, however, I learned that Mr. Darroch had arranged a game with St. Mary's nine, but believing that he would fulfill the contract paid no attention to the matter. In violation of both agreements Mr. Darroch subsequently arranged a contest with the Rahway Field Club's nine and this match took place on the grounds at Garwood Saturday afternoon. Fortunately we were able to play the Cuban Giants, and the public were not disappointed.

In order to keep the goodwill of the lovers of the sport and enjoy their patronage, I know we must live up to our agreements, and I wish to stamp my disapproval on the unsportsmanlike practice of Mr. Darroch.

John H. Cose,
Mgr. Hope Y. M. A. team.

END OF PITTIS' FIELD.

Is to be Ploughed Up and Y. M. C. A. Must Look for New Quarters.

It has been formally decided after much parleying that the Y. M. C. A. baseball team must abandon Pittis' Field as a playing ground. Notice has been given the management that the grandstand must be removed as the field is to be ploughed up.

Arrangemants have been effected with the Hope management whereby the Y. M. C. A. will alternate with its team in playing on Hope Common The stand will probably be placed along side the Hopes' as the latter has been overcrowded on two occasions.

The Safe Works management is also dissatisfied with its grounds and is negotiating with both the St. Mary and Hope teams for the use of their grounds for League games.

Change in Ticket Agent.

Wm. Wilson, formerly night ticket agent at the new railroad station, has been placed in charge of the ticket office opened Sunday at the North Avenue station. The position left by Mr. Wilson has been taken by Edward Tomlinson. There will be no agent at the North Avenue station evenings, as the travel does not warrant it.

To Elect Officers.

The Woman's Foreign Mission Circle of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its annual session for the election of officers this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Freeman, 1008 South avenue.

Passed His Examinations.

C. M. Dolliver, of Grandview avenue, received word Saturday afternoon that he had passed most creditably the law examinations at New York University.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The habitues of one of the city's busiest saloons were treated to a scene yesterday afternoon, not generally witnessed in a liquor dispensary.

Patrons to the number of fifty were in the place at the time, when all were thoroughly startled by the shrill cries of a female and looking toward the door, they saw a very much excited woman brandishing a parasol at a young man about to leave the place with a "growler" of beer.

"Dont you dare leave this place with that beer," she shouted," if you try to I'll take it from you." The "duck" chaser evidently thought she couldn't back up her statement and assayed to reach the street.

He reckoned without his host for as he neared the entrance, the parasol was swung around and the next instant beer and pail were dashed to the floor. The sunshade continued to be wielded with good effect and a succession of blows rained upon the young man who, it was afterward learned, was her son-in-law.

It was with some difficulty that bystanders forced them apart and ejected both from the place.

CHICAGO HAS A RIOT

Teamsters' Strike Culminates In Fighting and Bloodshed.

POLICE POWERLESS BEFORE MOB.

Attempt of Packers to Move Meat With Nonunion Help Results In Wild Disorder In Northwest Portion of the City.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Riot and bloodshed marked the progress of the teamsters' strike yesterday. There were numerous fights between the police and the strikers and their sympathizers. Street car traffic was stopped while the fighting went on, the police and employees of the packing companies were stoned, and at one place when surrounded by a dense crowd of men and women the police, fifty strong under the command of Lieutenant Collins, maddened by the numerous stones with which they had been pelted, drew their revolvers and charged full into the crowd, which showed no disposition to retreat. Fists, stones and clubs were brought into requisition by the strikers, and the police used their batons and the butt ends of revolvers freely. When this fight was over, there were a number of strikers needing surgical attendance. None was dangerously injured as far as known, however, and the wounded strikers were carried off by their friends. The fighting began on the west side shortly after noon and in different parts of the city continued practically all of the afternoon.

The most serious trouble of the day occurred in Crosby street in the district which is known in police circles as "Little Hell." A detachment of policemen under the command of Lieutenant Collins was escorting a number of wagons loaded with meat to the distributing stations downtown.

A large crowd followed the wagons, shouting and jeering and now and then sending a stone over the heads of the officers in the direction of the men on the meat wagons. The line of wagons escorted by the police was frequently stopped by other teamsters, who would manage to pull across the street just in the proper place to prevent the meat wagons from making any progress. The police would order the men away, and in a few minutes the performance would be repeated, much to the delight of the immense crowd that was following.

Finally one teamster refused to pull his team out of the way of the meat wagons, and the police placed him under arrest. Then the fight commenced. In an instant a shower of stones, mud and sticks fell around and upon the officers, bruising some of them badly. Lieutenant Collins ordered the march of the meat wagons to be stopped and at once charged the crowd.

The sight of a policeman on the aggressive is nothing new to the inhabitants of "Little Hell," and the crowd refused to budge when the police came on. A large number of women came up to the aid of the strikers and were the fiercest fighters of the lot. One officer was knocked down with a brick, and his companions then drew their clubs and made war with such energy that in a few minutes the street was filled with men with bleeding heads.

A Chaplain's Sensational Statement.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 3.—The Rev. C. B. Carlisle of Jordan, a former chaplain in the United States army, addressing the Presbyterian club in this city, created a mild sensation by stating that until the army was withdrawn from the Philippines the Protestant church should send no missionaries there; that the Filipinos understood the military effort as a government attempt at religious conquest and harm was done the American cause. He regarded the Roman Catholic church as the great moral agency in the islands and deplored the efforts of Protestant sects there.

Bridge Workers Strike.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 3.—Four hundred bridge workers in the two plants of the Empire Bridge company here are out on a strike. The strike is due to the attitude of the company concerning an attempt to establish a union in the company's shops. Recently a union was organized in the Elmira plants of the company, and almost immediately a number of men were laid off, all of them union men. The union sent a committee to Superintendent R. T. Lewis, and he told them plainly that the company wanted no union men in its employ.

Mexico Still Shaken Up.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 3.—Earthquake shocks continue in that portion of the state of Guerrero in which seismic activity has long been a matter of observation. There was a renewal of earthquakes in Chilpango on last Sunday, where a previous shock ruined the city, which is the capital of the state of Guerrero. There was also a strong up and down earthquake shock at Taxco, a mining town, and a slight shock was felt here.

English Bantamweight Knocked Out

LONDON, June 3.—"Kid" McFadden of San Francisco knocked out Jem Williams of London at the National Sporting club last night in the fight for the bantamweight championship of the world and a purse of $1,750. This fight was the sharpest five round contest which has been seen in London for a long time.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The monthly statement of the public debt issued by the treasury department shows that at the close of business May 31, 1902, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $982,463,573, a decrease as compared with last month of $646,403.

MARGARET TAYLOR HOME.

Kidnaped Child Restored to Parents After Four Years.

NEW YORK, June 3.—When the Kaiserin Maria Theresa docked at Hoboken a bright faced little girl skipped down the gangplank, holding to her father's hand, and peered curiously into the waiting crowd on the pier.

She was Margaret Taylor, eight years old, who was kidnaped four years ago in Cincinnati by a maiden aunt and only now restored to her parents through the good offices of Governor Nash of Ohio and Embassador Choate at London, through whose efforts she was located in Bardighera, Italy.

When little Margaret was born, her father's sister became greatly attached to the child. She almost appropriated the care of it, and Mrs. Taylor persuaded her husband to provide a separate home. Then as the little one grew up she went frequently to visit her Aunt Clara. One day Miss Taylor took her off with her.

"We learned after three years and a half had elapsed," said Mr. Taylor, "that Miss Taylor had gone to London, where she had interested the British Women's Temperance association in her, and she was taken care of by Mrs. Ormiston Chant until the latter became suspicious of her through articles telling about Margaret's kidnaping. Mrs. Chant wrote to Governor Nash.

"In some way she learned that she was discovered, and though she was in poverty she found means to escape to Bardighera, Italy, where she was arrested through the efforts of Embassador Choate."

Conference at the White House.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A conference was held at the White House last night and was attended by leading Republicans of both houses, the president inviting them to attend. There were present Senators Allison, Aldrich, Hanna, Platt of Connecticut and Spooner, Representatives Payne, Cannon, Dalzell, Babcock, Hull, Sherman and Overstreet and Postmaster General Payne. Those present included members of the finance committee of the senate, the ways and means committee of the house and of the Republican congressional campaign committee. The subjects under discussion were pending legislation and its relation to the coming campaign.

Democrats Open Headquarters.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 3.—The permanent headquarters of the Democratic state committee were formally opened at North Pearl street last night. Many well known party men from every section of the state were present, while letters of regret were read from many others who found it impossible to be present. The headquarters are located in one of the oldest residences in Albany, and beginning today it is expected that a large force of clerks will be kept busy sending campaign material broadcast throughout the state.

Cloudburst In Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 3.—A cloudburst has occurred at Dunham, forty-five miles south of Des Moines, on the Burlington route, and several thousand acres of corn were washed away. The Burlington track for five or six miles was undermined, and all traffic on the Keokuk branch is blocked at this point. Many cattle and sheep are reported lost.

You Never Know the Moment This Information May Prove of Infinite Value.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Plainfield to know the value and use of a medicine for if there is no occasion to employ it in the meantime frail humanity is subjected to so many influences and unforeseen contingencies that the wisest are totally unable to gauge the future. Know then, that Doan's Ointment will cure any case of hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles, or any other disease of the cuticles or skin generally termed eczema. One application convinces—a continuation cures. Read this proof from Vailsburg:

Mr. A. H. Woodruff, of Vailsburg, N. J., says: "For the benefit of those similarly afflicted as I was with hemorrhoids or piles, I want every reader of this paper to know, that I suffered with attacks of this tormenting nuisance for over fifteen years. During that time, I spent a lot of money trying 'sure cures,' and exhausted all my knowledge about salves and ointments, and also the advice of my friends. One day while reading an advertisement about Doan's Ointment I concluded to make one more effort and I commenced the treatment. Greatly to my surprise the area of itching gradually contracted until it completely dried up. What is of considerable more importance to me, there is no indication of a recurrence."

Just such emphatic endorsement can be had here in Plainfield. Drop into L. W. Randolph's drug store and ask what his customers report. Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE.

It Is an Important Part of a Girl's Education Abroad.

The American girl is no doubt fascinating, yet there is one branch of education in which she is very backward in comparison with her European sisters. I am referring to what is known as household science. The American girl is certainly not taught to be useful around the house. If she is useful, it is because it comes naturally to her, not because any pains are taken to make her so.

It is considered rather smart not to be aware of the existence of the kitchen, and there is a mistaken idea that chafing dish cooking is the only kind it is good form to learn.

LADY MARY TIED AN APRON AROUND HER WAIST.

Some time ago quite a lesson was given to American mothers by Lady Mary Sackville, sister of the present Earl de la Warr and one of the greatest belles of London society. She was visiting at a country house and on the first evening of her arrival, an hour before dinner, the cook suddenly became angry at something and left. The household was thrown into despair, and the cause of it all came to the ears of the English visitor. She calmly tied a large apron around her waist and, descending into the kitchen, at once relieved the anxiety of the helpless and distracted servants. The dinner was beautifully cooked and served, and Lady Mary, not a whit abashed, received the fervent assurances of undying gratitude of her hostess, whose daughters looked on with mixed feelings of amazement at the skill in cookery of their noble guest and shame at their own ignorance.

English girls and French girls of the best families are trained housekeepers, well fitted to manage the most difficult establishments. Why should not our girls be brought up to imitate them? It is possible, and if it were done the number of unhappy homes might be less and divorce court scandals fewer.

THE LINEN CLOSET.

How to Arrange It In a Systematic Manner.

The linen closet ought to be the pride of every good housewife. It should be subdivided in an orderly manner and kept beautifully clean and well aired.

Each shelf should be for a special article—towels, sheets, pillowcases, napkins, etc.—and these shelves should be marked off, a certain section for each day of the week. In this way all disorder is avoided and all the linen has a chance to be used, each article in its turn. This is necessary so that the pieces shall not grow yellow through lying on the shelf.

Paint the shelves and drawers white. A good way to keep them from dust is to curtain them with white oilcloth daintily scalloped along the edges and deep enough to reach from shelf to shelf. Tack the upper part to the shelf edge, and along the bottom sew stout hooks about eight or ten inches apart. Opposite every hook in the shelf above and below put a tiny brass screw eye.

The best way to light a linen closet is to fasten a lantern on a chain pulley, which may be raised up or down as one wills. A wire guard should protect this lantern.

Every damp day the closet should be aired for at least an hour. Lining the shelves with sachets of dried rose leaves or lavender will give a delicious fragrance to the linen.

HELEN CLIFTON.

He Failed, She Succeeded.

Charles Albanus had a restaurant in New York city. His wife assisted in the business, but did not like the way he conducted it. She therefore quit him and opened another restaurant of her own. Their daughter, fifteen years old, went to help her mother, leaving Charles to his own devices. The wife's restaurant prospered amazingly; the man's business went down after she left him. Charles became disgruntled, then mad with jealousy because his wife was the better business man of the two. He brooded over it till he became morbid; then he shot himself. Poor thing!

CHAPTER XIII.

THE LOST TRAIL.

So saying, Sturgis settled himself in his chair and began his narrative.

"After leaving you this morning, my first step was to gain admission to the Tombs—"

"To the Tombs?" interrupted Dunlap.

"Yes; the cabman has been remanded to the Tombs to await trial for complicity in the murder of the unknown man whose body was found in his cab."

"Arbogast's?"

"Yes, Arbogast's. But of course the police do not know that."

"Were you allowed to see the cabman?"

"Yes. As reporter of the Tempest, I was able to obtain an interview with him. When first arrested, the man, whose name, by the way, is Reilly, was incapable of making a connected statement; the lawyer assigned to defend him laughed in his face when he heard his story, and advised him to leave the romancing to a trained lawyer as his only chance of escaping the electric chair. Naturally, under the circumstances, the poor fellow hesitated to unbosom himself to a stranger. But I finally managed to gain his confidence by showing him that I believed his story, and that I was trying to find the men whose scapegoat he now is. It seems that yesterday afternoon, at about three o'clock, he was stationed at the cab-stand in front of Madison square, where he was accosted by a man, answering Chatham's description, who engaged him to drive him to the Fulton street ferry. On reaching the ferry, the man ordered Reilly to proceed to a low grogshop on South street. Here he entered, returning in a few minutes to invite the cabman to take a drink with him. The men seated themselves at a table upon which a bottle and two filled glasses were already placed. Chatham handed one of these glasses to Reilly, who drank it and probably many more. At any events, he remembers nothing further until he was rudely shaken by Chatham, who led him out into the street. Here the cold air revived him, and he remembers noticing several things to which he did not pay much attention at the time, but which seem significant now as he recalls them:

"Firstly—It was now quite dark.

"Secondly—The cab, which had been facing south when he entered the barroom, was now facing north.

"Thirdly—Chatham persistently carried his left hand in the bosom of his coat; he was very pale and seemed weak and ill.

"He with difficulty climbed upon the box beside Reilly and ordered him to drive uptown. Presently the cabman became drowsy again. The next thing he remembers is coming to himself after the overturning of the cab by the cable car. That the man was drugged there can be no doubt. It is probable that, while he sat apparently drunk in the barroom, Chatham took the cab to the Knickerbocker bank, expecting to smuggle Arbogast into it without Reilly's knowledge — a deep move, since it would effectually cover up the trail, if they wanted to make away with the bookkeeper, as they evidently did. Seymour may have met him at the bank by appointment; but I am more inclined to believe that he was there unknown to Chatham, and possibly for the purpose of spying upon the latter, to see if his instructions were carried out. He lent his accomplice a hand in the nick of time; and then, like a prudent general, he retired to a safe position, thence to direct further operations. What I cannot yet understand is, why Chatham should have taken the enormous risk he did in conveying Arbogast's body from the bank, since Seymour's intention was plainly to make away with the bookkeeper in any event. I can explain this only on the supposition that Seymour thought he could conceal the body in some way and prevent it from falling into the hands of the police. On the part of any ordinary criminal this would have been rank folly; but the resources of such a man as Seymour are such that I do not feel disposed to criticise his generalship in this particular without first understanding his ultimate object. From what I have seen of his work thus far, I have derived a profound admiration for the man's genius and cunning deviltry. Fortunately fate was against him this time. Its instrument was the cable car which overturned the cab, thus delivering Arbogast's body into the hands of the police and furnishing the key without which, it is quite likely, Seymour might have remained forever undiscovered."

"You think, then, you will succeed in unearthing this villain?" asked Dunlap, eagerly.

"While there's life, there's hope," said Sturgis, with grim determination; "but I must confess that the outlook at present is not exactly brilliant. However, let me finish my report. During the excitement that followed the overturning of the cab, Chatham managed to escape, as you know, and he has thus far succeeded in avoiding arrest, although the police have kept a sharp lookout for him. Every steamship that sails, every train that leaves New York, is watched, but thus far without result. For my part, I am convinced that Chatham has not yet attempted to leave the city."

"You do not think, on the contrary, that he fled from New York immediately after running away from the overturned cab?" asked Dunlap.

"I do not think so," replied Sturgis; "with his wounded hand he is a marked man; he would be easily recognized in a strange city. His safest hiding-place is here in New York, where he counts less has friends ready to conceal him. Be that as it may, he remains for the present under cover and the scent is lost. The police are groping in the dark just now, and—and so am I."

The banker looked sorely disappointed.

"And so that is all you have been able to discover? Not a trace of the money? It does not seem possible that a quarter of a million dollars can disappear so completely without leaving the slightest trace."

"If we can ever find Seymour," replied Sturgis, "I make no doubt we shall be able to locate the lion's share of the money.

"Yes," he added, thoughtfully, "that is all I have been able to discover up to the present time; or, at least, all that seems to be of any immediate importance. Of course, I called on both Mr. Murray and Mr. Scott; but, beyond the fact that Chatham, like Arbogast, was a model employe, all I got from them was the address of Chatham's boarding-house; there I was informed that the accountant had moved on New Year's eve without leaving his new address. There is one other link in the chain of evidence which I have investigated; but I cannot tell yet whether it will lead to anything or not. It may be immaterial; but who knows? Possibly it may prove to be the key to the entire problem."

"And what is this promising link?" asked Dunlap, eagerly.

"There is not much to tell on this score," answered Sturgis. "You will recall that according to the evidence which we have thus far collected, Chatham was attacked by Arbogast while he was in the act of using the telephone."

"Yes; I remember how minutely you reconstructed that scene."

"Well," continued the reporter, "I saw at once that the telephone might possibly prove to be an important witness for the prosecution, if I could only discover the name of the person with whom Chatham was talking when he was shot. I therefore called at the central office to make inquiries. As I was able to specify almost the exact minute at which this call was sent, it was an easy matter to find the young woman who had answered it; but the chances were that she would not remember the number called for. She did, however, for it had been fixed in her memory by some unusual circumstances. It seems that after giving Chatham the connection he wanted, the operator rang him up. While she was listening for a reply, she heard a sharp report, followed by a scream; then a sound of confused voices, and presently another sharp report. After that came complete silence, and she was unable to obtain any reply to her repeated calls."

"You have here corroborative evidence of the scene between Chatham and Arbogast," said Dunlap.

"Yes; but I did not need that. What I wished to know was the name of the person with whom Chatham wanted to converse."

"Did you discover it?"

"The number of the telephone he gave is that of the Manhattan Chemical company."

"And what is the Manhattan Chemical company?"

"That is the question I asked people connected with the commercial agencies. They replied that they knew very little concerning this firm; because, although it has been in existence for a couple of years, it apparently never asks anyone for credit, preferring to pay cash for all the goods delivered to it. I called at the office of the Manhattan Chemical company to investigate on my own account. The office and store occupy the basement of an old ramshackle building, whose upper stories are rented out as business offices. The laboratory and manufacturing department are downstairs in the cellar. The store contains only a few chairs and a long counter behind which rise shelves containing rows of bottles with brilliantly colored labels. A few painted signs upon the walls vaunt the merits of Dr. Henderson's Cough Cure and Dr. Henderson's Liver Specific. I did not expect to find anyone in on New Year's day. I was, therefore, surprised to see a solitary clerk sitting with his feet upon a desk and apparently absorbed in the reading of a newspaper—a pale young man of the washed-out blond type, with watery green-blue eyes and a scant mustache which fails to conceal a weak mouth. He rose to greet me with an air of surprise which does not speak well for the briskness of trade in the establishment. Indeed, if we are to judge by the aspect of things in the office of the Manhattan Chemical company, business in patent medicines does not appear to be flourishing just at present. By the way, did you ever hear of Dr. Henderson's remedies?"

Making a Beauty.

The Mono, like the Turk, has a preference for "moon faced" wives, and a bride is more valued for her weight than her accomplishments. When a girl is about 12 years old, she is prepared for the marriage market by a treatment not unlike that to which geese are subjected before Michaelmas. Her hands are tied behind her, and for so many hours a day she is seated on a carpet, while her father, armed with a stick, stands by, and her mother from time to time pops into her mouth a ball of maise porridge kneaded up with grease and just large enough to be swallowed without the victim choking. If the poor child refuses to be stuffed, she is compelled; so she soon resigns herself to the inevitable and meekly swallows the boluses for fear of a beating. Certainly she has to suffer in order to be beautiful, and it is to be hoped that her afflictions are lightened by rosy dreams of future happiness.—London Mail.

Divorce and Death.

Dr. Enroco Morselli has for some time been compiling statistics in Germany and has published some startling figures in relation to that subject. In Prussia, he says, out of a certain number of persons, 348 women who are divorced or separated from their husbands, commit suicide, whereas only 61 married women die in this way. Among the men the proportion is still higher. Of the husbands who commit suicide during a certain period 286 were living with their wives when they took the fatal step and 2,834 were divorced or separated from their wives. That divorce also frequently leads to madness is clearly shown, he claims, in the lunatic asylums of Wurtemberg, in which there are at present 3,024 divorced persons of both sexes and only 283 married persons, 460 unmarried persons and 676 widowers.—N. Y. Herald.

Value of Time.

The value of odd minutes is illustrated by a story told in a curious little volume, recently published, of advice to a young draper. A large firm required a manager for one of its departments, and appointed 12 o'clock for arrangement of terms with the selected applicant. He arrived at five minutes past 12, to find a dozen directors waiting, the chairman watch in hand. The chairman announced that they could not engage a subordinate who had wasted an hour of his employers' time. And on the applicant deprecating such exaggeration the chairman explained that each director had wasted five minutes, and that made an hour in all.—Detroit Free Press.

One Way of Putting It.

The justice of the peace was performing a marriage ceremony, and he was just naturally forgetful.

"Do you think," he asked, turning to the bride, "that you can give this man a fair and impartial trial?"

"I do," answered the bride, accepting this as part of the customary form.

Just then the clerk joggled the justice's elbow and whispered to him.

"Oh, yes, of course, I quite forgot," said the justice, hastily; then he added solemnly: "Life sentence for both of you. Call the next case."—Chicago Post.

Mummy Wheat.

Popular journals every now and again recount that wheat found in mummy cases has been planted, germinated and grown. Certain wheats of Egyptian origin are known as mummy wheats. The legend will probably live; but it has no verifiable basis. M. E. Gain has recently tried extensive experiments with wheat taken from Egyptian tombs and finds that no cereals there found will reproduce their kind. The embryos of such grains are completely dead, although the reserve material is perfectly fit to nourish them were they alive.—N. Y. Sun.

Explained.

"Gracious!" exclaimed the visitor, in alarm. "What was that terrible yelling?"

"Oh, that was Gertrude's beau trying to hug her," explained the host.

"But it didn't sound like her voice; it sounded like a man's."

"So it was."

"You don't mean to say her beau yells when he hugs her?"

"Certainly. He has just been vaccinated."—Chicago Daily News.

Nothing Doing.

Friend—What are you going to do with the alarm clock?

Salesman—Taking it down to our store.

"Out of order, eh?"

"Not at all. I just get it to go off at the closing hour. Our store doesn't advertise, you know."—Philadelphia Press.

VICE PRESIDENT VOTED.

How Adlai Stevenson Exercised a Constitutional Privilege in the Senate.

The chronicles of our vice-presidents are notoriously barren of incident. This probably was the reason for the way Adlai Stevenson secured the exercise of a constitutional prerogative. It was one sleepy day toward the end of his term as vice president. The United States senate was plowing through the calendar and passing many bills. Bills are considered agreed to in the senate if no oral objection is raised after they have passed through the preliminary stages, but the usual form of asking for the yeas and nays is followed by the presiding officer. The vice president had said:

"Senators in favor of the bill will say aye." Pause. "Contrary no."

Not a single response.

"The vote is a tie," announced Mr. Stevenson.

The senator in charge of the bill paused on his way to the cloakroom and looked surprised.

"In case of a tie the vice-president may cast the deciding vote. In the exercise of his constitutional privilege the vice president votes aye."

Thereupon Senator Hoar offered a peppermint drop to his neighbor, the late Senator Sherman, says the New York Times, and the late Senator Isham G. Harris made his way to the senate restaurant for refreshment.

FOURTEEN TONS OF FLOWERS.

Sent from the Scilly Islands to the London Market in One Week Recently.

Before England had fully awakened from winter, the Scilly islands were all abloom. It seems odd that spring tourists do not take the islands into their itinerary, for even along the Mediterranean there is no flower land better worth seeing, says the New York Sun.

For some reason explicable by winds and tides flowers bloom in the Scilly climate fully six weeks before even the most careful nursing can bring them out on the neighboring mainland, and the luxuriance of the blooming is a marvel.

Not so many years ago the islands accepted their climate and their flowers as blessings of Providence and had no idea of coining either into hard cash. A steward on a little trading vessel began taking a basketful of the early violets, primroses, daffodils and narcissuses over to the mainland whenever he went and selling them. They brought good prices and he increased the size of the basket.

That was the beginning of the Scilly flower trade. Several weeks ago it reached what is, so far, its high-water mark. Fourteen tons of flowers were sent from the islands to the London market in the one week.

DECEPTIONS IN CIGARS.

Extremely High-Priced Ones Are Not All That They Are Represented to Be.

One reads from time to time of the fabulous sums paid for cigars. A favorite story is that Mr. Chamberlain never touches anything cheaper than a five-shilling cigar, and that every time Lord Rothschild smokes ten shillings vanish into the ambient air.

According to Mr. Weingott, the well-known tobacco merchant, all such stories are the purest invention. As far as mere quality of tobacco goes, the best cigar in the world can be purchased for one shilling sixpence, and anyone who gives more than this sum is paying for size, peculiar shape or for some peculiar brand which is only valuable for its rarity and not for its excellence, says London Tatler.

Those torpedo-like cigars which one sees in tobacconists' windows incased in glass sheaths are mainly traps to catch the unwary. The most remarkable thing about them is their size and their startling variation in price, according to the locality in which they are sold. In the West end they are priced at anything between £1 1 shilling and 15 shillings; in the less gilded precincts they are sold for 7 shillings 6 pence apiece.

Microbe-Made Cigars.

"Genuine Havana cigars," correct in appearance and flavor, are made in Chicago out of American tobacco leaf with the aid of the "Cuban microbe." There is a man in Chicago who is making Havana cigars of a good quality from American tobacco leaf. He examined the bacteria which are on the real Havana leaf. Securing some of them he began to propagate them in beef tea or some other form of bacteria culture. He takes the American tobacco—a good article of it—and puts it through what is known as the sweating process. While it is in the "sweat" these bacteria are injected in it. The American tobacco takes the flavor of Havana tobacco and is made into Havana cigars.

The Life-Saving Stations.

Since the organization of the service in 1871, $146,000,000 worth of property has been saved, 93,792 people rescued, and 15,900 succored, and 12,633 vessels reached and aided. The service was organized by Gen. Sumner J. Kimball, its present chief, who from the first made fitness and merit his rule in appointing men. This accounts for the superb personnel of the service today. The only qualifications are American citizenship, ability to read and write, skill in swimming and handling boats. Most of the men are fishermen—strong and hardy from boyhood.

California's Industries.

The leading industries of California are in close rivalry as to annual product. Sugar and slaughtering each produces about $15,000,000, while lumber, flour and fruits each show about $13,000,000.

ENDEAVORERS MET.

County Convention Was Held at Elizabeth Yesterday, Afternoon and Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 3—The annual convention of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union was held in Elizabeth yesterday, with representatives present from every section of the county. Sessions were held in the afternoon and evening.

The afternoon session began at 2:30 o'clock, with W. J. Hamilton, Jr., of Westfield, president of the county union, presiding. The chief feature was a workers' conference, conducted by Field Secretary Eberman. This was followed by a junior rally, when Mr. Eberman again spoke.

At 6 o'clock supper was served to the out-of-town delegates and at 7 o'clock the annual business meeting was held. The evening session was full of interest. F. H. Jacobs, the well-known gospel singer, conducted a service of song, after which Mr. Eberman made the address of the evening. His subject was "The Ephiphany of the Young People." This was followed with an address by State President Lumbar and a brief address by W. J. Hamilton, Jr.

IN HIS PRIME.

Death Ended Career of Frederick R. Burner, of Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 3—The funeral of Frederick Rinehart Burner, aged twenty-seven, a prominent young business man of this town and well-known in Plainfield, was held at his late home here this afternoon. He had been ill about six months, from goitre.

Mr. Burner was a member of Bridgewater Council, No. 1375, R. A., and Solomon's Lodge, No. 46, F. and A. M. He was a deacon in the First Reformed church. About three years ago he succeeded his mother as proprietor of a large notion and confectionery store. Last summer he made a trip to the Holy Land for his health.

tion on the grounds that her property was sold some time ago and what property there is in the family is held by him and he is exempt on account of being a veteran of the Civil War. H. W. Wheeler protested against a personal tax of $16.43 assessed on Mrs. Henry Wheeler. He asked for exemption on the ground that his father, who died a few years ago, was dependent on him prior to his death and the estate does not possess the personal property assessed for.

Mrs. Sarah R. Runyon asked for an adjustment of taxes on property located on West Fifth street. She was assessed for the property at 935 and 937 West Fifth street, while she owns the property at 933 and 935. J. W. Turner, of Somerset street, protested against a poll tax bill for $1.25 for the year 1899. He claimed that he was not of age at that time.

Superintendent J. N. Ackaman, of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, informed the Council that its letter regarding the stopping of trolley cars at the corner of Arlington avenue and Fifth street, had been received and its request granted. D. W. Hyde and others asked the Council to open and grade Central street, between La Grande and Woodland avenues. Building Inspector Doane reported that during the month of May twenty-one building permits were granted.

Mayor Jenkins appointed Moses F. Quaas a special policeman and the appointment was confirmed. He will do regular duty as a special with a view to being made a regular man on the force.

President Charles J. Fisk of the Board of Health communicated with the Council regarding an extension of the sewage system in the West End. The communication stated that in order to show the importance of this matter there are 270 houses as follows, not including factories, that are not connected with the sewer system: Sixth street west of Plainfield avenue, 21; Fifth street west of Plainfield avenue, 32; Fourth street west of Plainfield avenue, 67; Third street west of Grant avenue, 48; South Second street to Clinton avenue, 57; Spooner avenue, 28; Lee place, 17.

The communication was referred to the proper committee and will no doubt receive early attention.

Waked Up the Constable.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 3 — George Overland and William Wright, both of Plainfield, were arraigned before Justice Clark, Sunday, charged with disorderly conduct and loitering on the streets. They were arrested at 3 o'clock, Sunday morning, by Constable Allen and his brother, who were aroused from sleep by the shouts and cries of the young men. Both paid a fine of $2 and costs.

Usher at Elizabeth Wedding.

William Rushmore, of Plainfield, will act as usher this afternoon at the marriage of Miss Grace Eugenia Squire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Squire, of Elizabeth, to Dr. Francis Henry Glazebrook. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock in St. John's church, Elizabeth.

New Uniforms for Police.

New uniforms for the summer season, made the officers of the local police force stand out prominently, Sunday. The suits are essentially the same as others previously used during warm weather, with the exception of the bicycle policemen's, which are better adapted for the machines.

Buggy and Car Bumped.

A buggy driven by Henry Starr, of New Providence, and a Dunellen trolley car bumped together on East Front street, opposite police headquarters, Saturday evening. One wheel of the wagon was demolished and the occupants were thrown out. No one was injured.

Passed on Line Bridge.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met the members of the Hunterdon County Board at Riverside, yesterday, for the purpose of passing on a line bridge. Andrew Lutkins and Augustus Mobus represented the borough and township at the meeting.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes H. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

KNOCKED OUT TEETH.

Peter Sheehan Held for Grand Jury for Amusing Himself With an Italian.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 3—Yesterday Peter Sheehan, who assaulted a fruit vender at the TenEyck House corner a few days ago, was arraigned before Justice Kitchen and held under $300 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. Sheehan was intoxicated and out of pure willfulness pounded the son of sunny Italy, knocking out three of his teeth.

Frank Sisser and a chum, who gave his name as John Jones, had a scrap with a trolley car conductor, coming from New Brunswick Saturday night. At Bound Brook they were arrested and arraigned before Recorder Brampton, who fined them $10 each. They were sent to the county jail here and on Sunday their parents paid for them and they were released.

Sisser is an old hand and has been in several scraps before.

HORSES MADE FLYING TRIPS ABOUT TOWN

Lively Runaways Did Some Damage But Nobody Was Very Seriously Injured.

SEVERAL RUN DOWN.

THRILLING RIDE OF MISS CORA SCHORB BEHIND ONE RUNAWAY HORSE.

Two of the Runaways Occurred on Somerset Street Last Evening—Futile Attempts to Stop Them—Other on Watchung Avenue.

Somerset street was a scene of many somersaults last evening. Two brisk runaways furnished plenty of excitement for the passing throng and incidentallly some hard knocks for amateur lassoers of maddened horseflesh.

About 8 o'clock a pair of high strung equines, hitched to a large wagon in the service of the Plainfield Bottling Company, took fright at the corner of West Front and Somerset streets and dashed down the latter thoroughfare [at a pace that would make the whizzing chariot horse look like an aged nag on its way to the boneyard.

Several men and boys made futile attempts to catch the flying animals. An agile individual grabbed one horse by the halter, but its mate put on extra speed and the man was thrown clean under the horse's hind hoofs beneath the wagon, but managed to escape the wheels on either side of him. But for his good fortune he might now be resting uncomfortably in Muhlenberg hospital.

After two or three more people had been knocked down the team was finally captured in front of the High School. When the harness had been fixed up and the horses' heads turned towards the city again, they made another bold dash for liberty, but were quickly subdued. Ultimately it was necessary to unloosen them from the vehicle and lead them back to the stables by the halter.

About an hour earlier in the evening a horse belonging to John Schorb, attached to a wagon in which was seated Miss Cora Schorb, dashed out of the yard on Somerset street and started pell mell down the street. Miss Schorb held on to the reins for dear life but could not control the beast. A pedestrian ran into the roadway at the corner of Manning avenue and tried to stop the runaway. He was rudely hurled to earth and the horse sped along Manning to Norwood avenue, thence to Mountain avenue, back to Somerset street and galloped direct to the stable without breaking a spoke, all before the spectators had time to realize that anything had happened.

Then Miss Schrob stepped down and out of the wagon, suffering slightly from nervous shock, but otherwise none the worse for her exciting experience.

Watchung avenue also boasted an equine escape yesterday afternoon. Frightened by the sudden clanging of a trolley car gang, a horse owned and driven by George Skellenger, of Wairenville, became frightened and ran away.

The fractious animal gave a leap that hurled Skellenger from his seat and, unretained, dashed into West Second street. It was galloping toward Park avenue when, at great risk to himself, Harry Bush, of fire headquarters, sprang out and grasped it by the bridle. After a sharp struggle he brought the frightened animal around and held it until the much bruised owner appeared. There was no damage to speak of.

STAKED OUT HOSPITAL.

Building Committee Fixed on the Exact Location for the New Hospital Buildings.

The building committee from the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, of which Charles J. Fisk is the president, visited the site for the new hospital yesterday afternoon and staked off the position for the new building.

The building will stand 175 feet back of Randolph road and about 250 feet back from a line on Park avenue, which places it nearly in the centre of the property. The land is rather peculiar in shape especially on the Park avenue side, hence the greater number of feet between Park avenue and the place for the building. The committee gave the engineer necessary instructions in accordance with the stakes.

Mrs. Andrew Love, St., lies very ill at her home on Duer street.

DAY OF JUDGMENT.

Proved Only to be Cross of Two Heavily Charged Wires.

Yesterday afternoon the workmen in the Pond Tool Works thought the day of judgment had come. A large heavily charged electric wire carrying the current that runs the big crane fell on another wire, also heavily charged, and immediately there was an electrical display that would outrival any combination of Fourth of July pyrotechnics. Every flash was accompanied by a crackle, a burning sizz and an explosion. Some one thoughtfully inserted a large piece of greasy waste between the wires and ended the excitement.

ALL DOGS MUST BE MUZZLED

SIX REPUTABLE CITIZENS IN CITY COURT FOR NOT DOING SO

Judge Runyon Held That Unmuzzled Dogs With Masters Were Technically Roaming at Large.

Unmuzzled dogs following their masters along the streets, technically speaking, are running at large ruled City Judge Runyon, this morning, when six reputable citizens were arraigned before him charged with violating the ordinance relating to canines roaming at will without the necessary safeguard.

The defendants were the first to fall into the police drag-net which was set for this purpose, yesterday morning. They were Voorhees Laing, Patrick Casey and Tronolon Henri, of this city, John Bauermeister, of Warrenville, Goldson Smalley, of Dunellen, and Nestor Rappleye, of the borough. Most of the excuses were to the effect that the dogs blelonged to the family and followed them to town, which they allowed them to do, thinking it did not constitute a violation of the law. In Mr. Rappleye's case, he stated that he had complied with all requirements of the law in the borough, where no muzzle is necessary, and when he brought his dog in the city he was unaware he was breaking an ordinance.

In rendering his opinion, City Judge Runyon oberserved that an unmuzzled and unrestrained dog, following his master, is just as liable to bite a person as a homeless mongrel. Whether the person in charge of the dog is the owner makes no difference as the ordinance specifies that a person who harbors one is liable. Accordingly he adjudged all guilty but suspended sentence with the admonition that the publicity of the matter would bear more weight than the infliction of a fine.

Chief Kiely states that the ordinance will be upheld to the latter and that in the future he will bring every influence to have imposed the $10 fine mentioned in it.

TO REPAIR BRIDGE.

The Somerset County Freeholders Looked Over Damage by Storm.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 4—Monday the Somerset county Board of Freeholders met at the west bridge in Hillsborough township and decided to build new abutments and wingwalls and straighten up the present covered structure. Bids for masonry will be received at the Court House here Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The committee appointed is composed of E. B. and R. W. Hoagland, Gibson, Cruser and Logan.

A concrete apron will be built on the east side of the wall now in course of construction on the causeway of the river bridge below Somerville This is the structure that was damaged so badly by the storms last winter.

The board met today with the Hunterdon county Freeholders at the line bridge at Riverside. The regular meeting will be held at Court House here Tuesday.

FOR INDEPENDENCE DAY.

Hope Y. M. A. Begins to Make Arrangements for Its Big Time.

At the regular meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., held last evening, the membership list was increased by the addition of seven new names. A change in the constitution was proposed by G. E. Firstbrook.

The committees having in charge the arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration reported progress and some alterations were made in their membership. Thomas Muir was made chairman of the entertainment committee in place of George B. Cose, resigned, and George McCombe was added to the athletic committee. A meeting of all the committees will be held Monday evening when plans will be fully matured.

MONTH OF MAY WAS VERY COLD AND DRY

In Two Ways, Last Month Broke Records of Weather Observers for Many Years.

FIGURES FROM NEWARK.

FURNISHED BY THE OFFICIAL WEATHER OBSERVER OF THAT CITY.

Average Temperature Last Month Was 56.8 Degrees—May, 1901, Was Next Coldest—The Hottest and the Coldest Days.

There were some pretty warm days and some pretty cold ones last month, but the warm days were few and far between. The month will stand on record as one of the coldest Mays ever experienced in this locality. Figures furnished by the official weather observer at Newark, show that the average temperature for the month is lower than that of any May since 1892, when the Newark weather bureau was established.

The average temperature last month was 56.8 degrees. The next lowest in the last eleven years was in May, 1901, when the temperature averaged 57.2 degrees. Only once besides those two months did the average for May during that period fall below 60 degrees. The highest was 66.8, which was the average for May, 1896. The total average for the ten Mays preceding this year was 60.9, or more than four degrees higher than last month. Records have been kept by amateur observers since 1843. The average temperature for May from then until 1892 was 59.2 degrees.

The hottest day last month was Friday before last, when the thermometer registered 91 degrees. The heat on that day was felt severely because of the exceptionally cool weather that preceded it. The highest point reached by the temperature in the last eleven Mays was 97 degrees, on May 31, 1895.

The records also show 94 degrees in May, 1896, and 93 degrees in May, 1900.

The coldest day last month was May 10, when the thermometer stood at 37 degrees. The mercury came within two degrees of that mark last Thursday. It was down to 34 degrees on May 10, 1900, which was the coldest May day since the bureau was established. The coldest one in the preceding half century was in 1861, when the temperature was as low as 31 degrees.

There were flurries of snow through the northern part of the State last week. Such a thing is unusual, although it is likely to happen during almost any month of the year. If the atmosphere contains a great deal of moisture a particularly cold current of air will cause snow to fall, although it is likely to melt before it reaches the ground. A genuine snow storm in May is rare, but they sometimes occur. One happened ninety years ago. The Newark Sentinel of Freedom printed on May 5, 1821, the following paragraph:

"Snow—We mention it as a circumstance uncommonly rare that yesterday noon the gardens and fields were covered with snow. The snow commenced falling in the morning and continued at 3 o'clock p. m. Had the weather been as cold as to prevent the snow's melting as it fell (in part), it would probably have been five inches deep. Some kinds of vegetation, and peach trees in particular (which are in blossom), will be materially injured if it should blow off freezing cold."

Other snowstorms have occurred in May since then, but probably none that was more severe.

May this year was an exceptionally dry one. During the first twenty-nine days only 1.54 inches of rain fell, whereas the precipitation in May, 1901, was 5.96 inches. The rainfall during the Mays for four years previous to that was: 1900, 4.62 inches; 1899, 1.63 inches; 1898, 6.66 inches; 1897, 5.56 inches.

Temperance Meeting.

The temperance committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church has arranged to have Miss Elizabeth Goodwin, a well-known member of the Y. W. C. T. U., speak at the meeting of the society Friday evening at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Summer Schedule.

The summer schedule for the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school will begin Sunday, when the sessions will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, instead of 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

FOUR BROKE OUT OF JAIL

General Jail Delivery at the County Jail at Somerville Early This Morning.

ALL OF ONE GANG OUT.

Four Who Escaped Were Members of Gang Which Assaulted Mr. Huff—How They Managed to Force Their Way—Help From Outside—One Remained.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 4—A clever and successful attempt to break jail was effected this morning at 2 o'clock, when four of the five men in the gang which gagged and robbed M. V. Huff along the Raritan river three weeks ago, got out of the jail and escaped. The men were John Dolan, George Wilson, James Kelley and Charles Miller. The fifth member of the gang, Daniel Rose, was about to leave the jail by a window, when he became frightened at the approach of officers and he returned to his cell and pretended to be asleep.

The men were placed in separate cells last evening at 8 o'clock and locked up for the night. The means of escape is considered to be one of the most clever on record. The man in the first cell took two broom handles and lashed them together with the wire from a broom. Through the use of this instrument he succeeded in pushing the lever down which unlocked the entire row of cells.

The four men then went to the north window on the east side of the jail and succeeded in sawing the iron bars. In the meantime friends on the outside cut the wire grating which allowed the men plenty of room for escape. While the men were leaving the jail, Officer Holmes, who was on that beat, heard a peculiar whistle in the vicinity of the jail. He reached the latter place just as the men were making their way across a cornfield. He gave chase and shot at them several times. It is is his belief that he hit one or two of the escaping men, but they got away and up to the present time their whereabouts is unknown.

Officer Holmes then returned and found Rose, the remaining prisoner, in his cell. He pretended to be asleep and claimed that he did not know of the escape of the other men. Every effort will be made to capture the four prisoners and their description has been sent to all nearby places. The gang is considered to be one of the most desperate in this section of the State.

STATE GOLF TOURNEY.

Will be Played on the Course of the Montclair Golf Club This Week.

A delegation of local golfers is preparing to spend part of the present week at Montclair. Tomorrow, Friday and Saturday the third annual championship of the State will be decided and there is a general desire on the part of nearly all the nearby experts to make a good showing.

Entries close for this tournament with H. H. Spies, box 285, Montclair, and it may also be added that only resident golfers of New Jersey will be eligible to compete.

Taking present form as a criterion, there is every reason for the belief that Allan Kennaday, the State champion, stands an excellent chance of retaining his title. Saturday he made the circuit of the course, which now covers a playing distance of 6,045 yards, in 78, and Monday cut these figures a stroke. Last year Professional Jack Park played the course in 76, but it was nearly 300 yards shorter than at present.

Y. M. C. A. Tennis Court.

A neat and attractive tennis court has been laid out under the direction of Physical Director Heywood at the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building on Watchung avenue. The grounds are for the use of members of the association.

To Decorate Graves.

Next Sunday the Odd Fellows will observe their annual decoration day Wreaths will be placed on the graves of departed brethren.

Miss Maxson's Recital.

Miss Mabel Maxson, of East Front street, has fixed Tuesday, June 10, as the date for the annual recital for her pupils.

SUMMER BOOM BEGUN AT SHORE RESORTS

The Crowds Began to Hasten Oceanward With Decoration Day and Opening of June.

HOTELS ARE OPENING.

MERCHANTS AND ATTRACTIONS ARE BEGINNING TO FEEL THE RUSH.

Bath Houses May Open Next Week—Talk of College Men for Waiters—New Clubhouse, to Cost $125,000, for Allenhurst—Golfat Deal.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, June 4—Decoration Day brought thousands of visitors to Asbury Park and the neighboring coast resorts. While most of these were cottage hunters, and others in search of permanent quarters for the summer, there was a large contingent that helped to fill the hotels in Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, which are now open.

The temperature of the ocean is quite warm and there is some talk of opening at least one of the bathing groups by the tenth of June. The effect of the influx has been observed on the boardwalk, where many strange faces are seen. The Coleman House bowling alleys, which were opened last week, are crowded every night, and already several high scores have been made in the trophy tournament. The Empire swimming pool opened last week, and is again a centre of attraction.

On Kingsley street, in the hotel district, the rapid advance of the season is most noted. The storekeepers, bric-a-brac men and Japanese auction rooms are doing business at the old stands, with the evident determination of forcing the season in this district.

On Wesley Lake boating parties are numerous, and a similar condition is observed at Deal, where Commodore J. E. Wortman's motor launch fleet is now being prepared for the summer excursion season. Several additional hotels were opened Sunday, and every boarding house in Asbury Park is now prepared to receive guests.

A promised innovation in Asbury Park this summer is the introduction of college students as waiters. Several of the most progressive hotel proprietors, who have tried French waiters, colored waiters and pure American attendants, and found each and all wanting in proper attention, have decided to introduce the college young men as a feature of the dining room service. This system, they claim, has proved eminently satisfacotry in many of the New England summer resorts and in the Adirondacks.

Last fall Mrs. J. K. Dodman, proprietor of the Madison, on Sunset avenue, requested the president of a certain college to inform his students that she intended to employ student help this year. She was soon overwhelmed with applications. This question is an important one, and will be discussed at the next meeting of the hotel proprietors' association. Whether college bred waiters will be acceptable to paterfamilias with susceptible daughters remains to be seen.

Little Allenhurst is highly elated over the coming building on the site of the burned inn of a new and elegant clubhouse, which will cost $125,000. Work on this magnificent new structure will begin on the first of July. The clubhouse, while it will not be so large and imposing as the burned inn, will nevertheless be all that is required for the social functions of Allenhurst for some years to come.

At Deal the golf links are growing in popularity. The clubhouse has been thoroughly renovated throughout, and a full schedule of entertainment will be introduced early in June.

Little Ones to Sing.

The children of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, except those in the kindergarten, are to sing in the choir Sunday at the Children's Day exercises, and parents are requested to see that they are at the church at 10 o'clock in the morning. Parents will have an opportunity that day to present their children for baptism.

To Entertain Little Ones.

The children of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, including those on the cradle roll, are invited to spend next Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Murray, 205 West Ninth street. If the day is rainy the gathering will be held the following Saturday.

MISSION SOCIETY ELECTS.

Officers Elected and Reports for the Year Were Received.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Freeman, of South avenue, when the annual reports were received and officers elected for the coming year. It was reported that the society had raised and expended for foreign missions during the year about $100.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Walter Freeman; vice president, Mrs. Levering; secretary, Mrs. David M. Runyon; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Doane.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

WILL BE HELD IN VINCENT CHAPEL TOMORROW AFTERNOON AND NIGHT.

Arranged by the Methodist Sunday-Schools—Several Important Speakers to be There.

Among the speakers at the Sunday-school convention, to be held in the First Methodist church tomorrow afternoon and evening, will be Rev. Drs. T. B. Neely, Chas. Roads, G. C. Wilding, H. M. Simpson, Anderson and Earp. W. D. Murray and James R. Joy will also discuss topics in the afternoon.

The convention, which will be composed of representatives of twenty Methodist Sunday-schools, will meet in Vincent chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Methods of work will be considered at the afternoon session.

Rev. Dr. Chas. Roads, the first secretary of the Sunday-school Union, and one of the foremost among Sunday-school workers, will open the discussion with an address on "Better Teaching and How to Get It." W. D. Murray will relate experiences concerning usefulness of the cradle roll. J. R. Joy will speak on "The Beginners Class." Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding will talk on the subject of attendance. Rev. Dr. John Krantz will discuss Sunday school literature.

In the evening, the address by Rev. Dr. T. B. Neely will be replete with instruction. Dr. Neely is editor of the Sunday-school Journal with a circulation of considerably over 100,000 and is exceedingly well qualified to talk on Sunday-school topics. The evening session will begin at 7:45 with a song service conducted by Walter M. McGee, superintendent of the Monroe Avenue Sunday-school.

While conducted under the auspices of the Methodist church the institute is not in any strict sense denominational and Sunday-school workers of all denominations will be gladly welcomed to the meetings.

NEW INSTRUCTOR.

Change to be Made in Faculty of Borough High School.

A. P. D. Tobien, teacher of science and mathematics in the North Plainfield High School, will next year hold a professorship teaching the same subjects in Somerville High School. His place in North Plainfield institution will be taken by Mr. Clark who will be graduated this month from Amherst College. The new teacher is spoken of as possessing high attainments in his favorite subjects.

Mr. Clark is also one of the star pitchers on the Amherst College baseball team this season and the borough pupils are enthusiastic over the prospects of having an efficient coach in their midst.

JOBS FOR SUMMER.

Borough High School Boys Who Have Obtained Positions.

Edgar Adams, a pupil at the North Plainfield High School, has accepted a position with the New Jersey Central for the summer months.

Edgar George, another pupil at the same school, has obtained a position in the commercial department of a New York Mining Company for the vacation.

Trust Company For Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 4—There is a movement on foot to form a trust company at this place. A number of Westfield people are interested in the new organization, as well as a number of Union county men.

Annual Festival on Lawn.

The Ladies' Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold its annual festival on the lawn at the home of Mrs. George H. Babcock, West Eighth street, Wednesday evening, June 18.

Meets in the Morning.

Commencing last Sunday and continuing during the summer months the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will meet in the morning instead of the afternoon.

CITY MILK SUPPLY IS BEING IMPROVED

Other Subjects Discussed at the Monthly Meeting of the Board of Health.

SMALL-POX ABOUT OVER.

MOST OF THE BUSINESS TRANSACTED WAS OF A ROUTINE NATURE.

Work Done Among the Dairies by Health Officer Thurlow—Plans to Investigate Ice and Water Supply—City Board Met Yesterday.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms on North avenue. There was a full attendance of members. Aside from the routine order of things little was done.

Inspector W. H. Addis presented his report for the month which covers the care, keeping and condition of the contagious diseases in the city. The number of cases at last report were thirteen and five were reported during the month. There were eleven released from quarantine and seven still in quarantine. The total number of visits to the isolation hospital and houses where there was contagious disease were 212. There was one death from small-pox during the month.

Mr. Addis reported that there is still many complaints regarding the kerosene engine at the skirt factory on Watchung avenue, which causes a constant thumping during the day and impregnates the neighborhood with an ordor of kerosene. Mr. Addis stated that Mr. Kapp made several attempts to stop the nuisance, but had failed. He suggested that the matter be referred to the corporation counsel.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow reported a better condition of the dairies about the city and vicinity, with a steady improvement. He made forty-one visits to dairies during the month and tested thirty-five samples of milk, all of which showed improvement. He suggested that the board issue each month to the milk dealers cards showing the analysis of the milk they sell, thus enabling them to conduct their business in an intelligent manner and if the milk was of high quality the dealers could use it as a certification to that fact.

Mr. Thurlow also reported concerning inspections of the ice and water supplies which he expects to begin very soon. The laboratory is now fitted with the proper equipment to make these tests. All applications for the privilege of selling ice were referred to Mr. Thurlow with power.

The new sanitary code was considered and Mr. Thurlow again reported that Mr. Marsh still has the code concerning which he is awaiting for an opinion regarding some of the essential points.

It was reported at the meeting that Benjamin Potts, colored, and Wm. Butterfield, two small-pox patients, were released from the isolation hospital yesterday, they having recovered from the disease. Mrs. Crowley and her three children will probably be released this week.

FIRST FESTIVAL.

Strawberries and Ice Cream Were the Attractions at the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

First among the numerous church strawberry and ice cream festivals, which are features of church social life at this season of the year, was that of the Monroe Avenue church, last evening. It was successful to a degree that will require much activity on the part of those in charge of its successors to attain.

The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and during the evening an informal musical programme was rendered. The delicious combination of cake and cream was there in plenty and the hot evening resulted in everything being sold. Quite a sum will be realized from the affair.

In charge of the festival was Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Mrs. Nicholas Brouard, Miss M. E. Brower, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith and Miss Charlotte Aldrich.

Others who assisted were Mrs. Fred Wenzel, Mrs. Theodore VanPelt, Mrs. Stephen Higham, Mrs. W. H. Stine, Mrs. Waldron and the Misses Lulu Randolph, Daisy Brouard, Etta Randolph, Beulah Kline, Olla Kline, Annie Stafford, Minnie Gunzelman, Carrie Brower, Sadie Brower, and John Cox and Theodore VanPelt.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The choice of the Rev. William William Rogers Richards, of Plainfield, N. J., to be pastor of the Brick church in Manhattan shows that Presbyterianism has again drawn a strong man to the metropolis, which is regarded as the apex. Still, a Manhattan pastorate on several accounts is the hardest for a man to fill and the one the least likely to satisfy him. Manhattan pastors are envied but are rarely happy. — Brooklyn Eagle.

The new managers of the Central Railroad of New Jersey are preparing a system whereby their employes may be pensioned. The plan is similar to that long since adopted by the Pennsylvania Railroad, but it is none the less to the credit of the Central road that a system so just and equitable and humane should be adopted at the earliest practicable moment. If any class of men should be pensioned, railroad employes are the ones. Their work is ever attended with danger. Every hour their lives are in peril and they give themselves up, more fully than other class of men, to the comfort and convenience of others. Railroading is a nerve-racking business at the best, and men of strong constitutions break down under it. The Central Railroad is putting itself on a par with the very best roads in this country—which means the very best roads in the world—in the adoption of a pension system for its employes. Happily, too, there are other features in which the Central road is taking rank among the best managed railroad companies. These latter are not yet fully perfected, but they are being perfected as rapidly as possible.—Elizabeth Journal.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

THEATRICAL.

The waning season marks no abatement in the throngs which flock to the Proctor playhouses. His four theatres in New York are enjoying one of the most prosperous spring seasons in their history. For the summer ample provisions have been made for good continuous entertainment.

The permanent stock companies at Proctor's Albany and Montreal have won immediate favor. The best metropolitan successes are being presented with a change of bill weekly, and the selected companies give fine performances. There is just enough vaudeville interlarded between acts to lend diversity and maintain the performances continuous.

F. F. Proctor's $20,000 production of living art studies have made an immediate hit at Proctor's, Newark. The best vaudeville is weekly presented at this new and pretty theatre, and its first season will close with a record of prosperity hitherto unknown in the history of new theatres, in new fields with new departures in entertainment.

The Proctor Stock Company retains possession of the Fifth Avenue, Fifty-eighth Street and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres in New York, while continuous performances of the best vaudeville are retained at the Twenty-third Street—New York's first home of the continuous.

Miss Smith, of Easton, Pa., who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, on Duer street, has returned home.

Miss Carrie Egel, who is taking a course in Newark for trained nursing, has been visiting her father, George Egel, of Somerset street.

Even a Stoic Groans

under the torment of neuralgia, when every nerve in face or limb throbs and jumps. Philosophy cannot endure this agony but Perry Davis' Painkiller relieves it. Bathe the affected parts freely, keep them warm and do not expose yourself to cold and dampness. Medical science marches right along, but it has not found the equal of Painkiller in the treatment of neuralgia.

LITERARY.

Henry Loomis Nelson, for many years a correspondent and student of affairs at the capital, will contribute to the June Century a paper on "Making Laws at Washington," setting forth entertainingly the modus operandi of national legislation. It is said to be a plain-spoken treatment of the subject, in which the "hierarchy" which controls the course of business in the House—that is to say, the system by which a hierarchy is possible—comes in for severe criticism. Mr. Nelson's thesis is the necessity for a more responsible form of legislative control, and his points are illustrated profusely by humorous anecdotes.

As full as usual of timely articles on men and affairs, McClure's for June will perhaps be chiefly welcomed for the first instalment of Booth Tarkington's new serial, "The Two Vanrevels." The author might appropriately have called the new novel "The Two Gentlemen from Indiana," to emphasize the fact that in it he is returning to the field of his first great success. "The Gentleman from Indiana," however, was a story of contemporary life, while "The Two Vanrevels" harks back to the days of the Mexican War. The three opening chapters unfold most alluringly. The story seems to combine all the charms of "The Gentleman from Indiana" and "Beaucaire," and to add a surer mastery of style of its own. Certainly no serial now running in any other magazine will surpass it in importance or popularity.

For thrilling narrative of fact it would be hard to beat Harold Spender's "End of a Great Mountain Climber," which is the story of the death of Owen Glynne Jones and three guides on the Dent Blanche, in 1889, one of the most famous Alpine tragedies. If anything could surpass the story it would be the astonishing series of photograbs of mountain climbing that illustrates it.

The stories in the number are all by authors who have won a name by their contributions to McClure's. Edwin Lefevre, of "Wall Street Story" fame, has a child story; Henry Wallace Phillips, who has just published "Red Saunders," has an animal story, "Billy the Buck," one of the funniest of its kind; Ray Stannard Baker contributes "The Roping at Pasco's," a fine description of a lassoing contest; and Ellsworth Kelley "The Man Who Found Himself," a story of Kansas, beautifully illustrated by Charlotte Harding. Kipling's poem on Cecil Rhodes is reprinted in full.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free disribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

COAL MINERS' STRIKE

Ranks of the Strikers Slightly Augmented.

THE ANTHRACITE REGION IS QUIET

In One or Two Instances Operators Were Compelled to Shut Down Their Pumps—Few Nonunion Men Employed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 4.—There are no new developments or incidents of special mention in the anthracite coal miners' strike. The mine workers are trying hard to bring out additional engineers, firemen and pump-runners, and the companies are equally earnest in their efforts to hold the employees that have been loyal to them. The union has succeeded in getting out quite a number of men, and the labor leaders assert that they are satisfied with the work done. One or two collieries have been compelled to shut down their pumps because of a lack of men, but in all other cases the operators were able to fill the vacancies by drawing on their reserve force of office and other employees. The mine owners claim that thus far they have employed a very few nonunion men and have plenty of workers to draw on.

The entire coal belt remains comparatively quiet, although disturbances of a minor nature are becoming more frequent. These affairs are in the nature of demonstrations ranging in numbers from about a dozen persons up to about 100. At Miners Mills last evening men and women gathered on the street corners and hooted the men that came from the mines to go to their homes. At Plymouth also there was a small demonstration against those still working at the engines and pumps in the collieries there. About 100 men, women and children followed the workers to their homes, calling them opprobrious names all along the way. Many of the workers who go to to their homes are accompanied by coal and iron policemen. The latter have been cautioned not to notice the actions of the crowds unless they attempt to do the men bodily harm. In nearly every colliery temporary living quarters have been provided for those employees who do not care to leave the place. Colored cooks are being brought into the region to provide for these men.

All Did Not Go Out.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 4.—A portion of the engineers, firemen and pumpmen who remained at work Monday at the collieries of the Lackawanna Valley company quit yesterday, and the company is reported to be handicapped for workmen. It is stated that not over 100 of the old workmen are on duty and that there is considerable effort necessary on the part of the company to get enough bosses and other help to work in the firerooms and at the pumps and engines. District President Nichols of the United Mine Workers declares the situation most satisfactory to the strikers.

A Few Shots Fired.

HAZLETON, Pa., June 4.—About 200 men from Nuremberg marched into Oneida yesterday, where Coxe Bros. & Co. have a big colliery. There was some promiscuous shooting, but no one was injured. A car carrying special officers was sent from Drifton to the scene of the disturbance, but when the police reached there the crowd had dispersed.

The Proposed Postal Check.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—An administration bill for the establishment of a postal currency has been drafted by the committee appointed to consider the question. It authorizes the postmaster general to cause to be issued postal checks of fixed denominations not above $1 in even multiples of 5 and 10 cents. These are to be redeemable or payable at any money order postoffice. A fee in addition to the face value will be charged for every check issued.

Rallied From Lightning Stroke.

UTICA, N. Y., June 4.—A severe electrical storm passed over this city yesterday afternoon. On one of the golf courses a young man was struck by lightning, and it was supposed for a long time that he had been killed. He finally revived, however, and was taken to a hospital. Two years ago a young man was killed by lightning in almost the same spot.

Oregon Election Returns.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 4.—Incomplete returns from every county in the state reduce the Democratic majority on governor, and Chamberlain (Dem.) leads Furnish (Rep.) by only 500 votes. Complete returns may wipe out Chamberlain's lead. The balance of the Republican ticket is elected by safe majorities.

Kept as a Holiday.

RICHMOND, Va., June 4.—The birthday of Jefferson Davis was observed here as a state holiday, the offices at the capitol and the city hall and the public schools being closed. Last evening a portrait of President Davis was presented to R. E. Lee camp of Confederate Veterans.

Convicted of Murder.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., June 4.—Charles Grether has been convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Adam Strunk of Middle Smithfield last September. The jury was out only one hour. Grether shot Strunk while the latter was attempting to arrest him for robbing a house.

Great Naval Maneuvers Planned.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Secretary Moody has laid before the president and his cabinet plans for the grandest set of naval maneuvers ever undertaken by the United States government. They are to be held next winter and are expected to prove of the greatest value in maintaining the steady development which has characterized the United States navy since the beginning of the Spanish war. The central project is the assembling of three great squadrons or fleets, the north Atlantic, the south Atlantic and the European squadron, at or near Culebra island, on the east coast of Porto Rico, about Dec. 15 next.

Lightning Causes Powder Explosion.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 4.—Fifteen hundred kegs of powder blew up at the Oliver Powder works, located on the mountain south of here, during a thunderstorm. No one was injured. Because of the coal miners' strike and the consequent lack of demand for powder the works have been closed, and no one was about the place except Superintendent William McDonald. The superintendent said he was standing near the buildings when a blinding bolt of lightning struck one of them, and both were wiped out of existence.

Fatal Railway Collision.

WESTCHESTER, Pa., June 4.—A fatal collision has occurred on the Central division of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad between a special train en route from New York to Lincoln university and an extra freight train. John Hendricks, fireman of the special, was killed. Among the injured are following named New York passengers: Rev. Dr. Semple, former moderator of the Presbyterian assembly, badly bruised; Rev. George Alexander, scalp wounds; Rev. C. W. Stewart, bruised.

Irish-Americans Protest.

CHICAGO, June 4.—The meeting of the Irish-Americans of Chicago at the Auditorium last night to protest against the coercion laws in force in nine counties of Ireland was perhaps the largest demonstration of its kind ever held in this city. Bourke Cockran was the principal speaker, and when he began his address about 8,000 persons joined in the applause that greeted him. Crowds thronged the avenues outside, disappointed at being unable to gain admission.

Herr Krupp's New Gun.

BERLIN, June 4.—According to the Boersen Courier, Herr Krupp has brought to perfection a gun the projectile from which is capable of penetrating the best and thickest armor plate he manufactures. Emperor William has already witnessed trials of this gun, and his majesty has exacted a promise from Herr Krupp to reserve it exclusively for the use of the German navy.

Jefferson Davis' Birthday.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 4.—The anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis was generally observed here. The stores, schools, banks and markets were closed, and many private residences were decorated. The Confederate Veterans' association held a meeting in the evening and listened to an address by Veteran Captain L. G. Young.

LODGE BILL PASSED

Vote on Philippine Government Measure 48 to 30.

SENATE ENDS SEVEN WEEKS' DEBATE

Three Republicans Voted Against and One Democrat For the Bill. Some of Its Provisions Outlined.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the senate passed the Lodge Philippine government bill by a vote of 48 to 30. Three Republicans—Messrs. Hoar (Mass.), Mason (Ill.) and Wellington (Md.)—voted against the measure, and one Democrat, McLaurin (S. C.), voted for it. All amendments offered by the minority were rejected. The debate on the measure has been in progress seven weeks and two days. Mr. Lodge (Mass.), chairman of the Philippine committee, who has been unremitting in his advocacy of the measure, was the recipient of many cordial congratulations on his successful conduct of the bill.

Just at the close of the discussion a sharp exchange occurred between Mr. Dietrich (Neb.) and Mr. Patterson (Colo.), in the course of which the former reflected caustically upon the Colorado senator.

He was called to order. His remarks were read, and he was declared to have been out of order in uttering them. He withdrew his statement, thus ending the controversy.

During much of the time the senate was in recess, no senator caring to discuss the measure.

After the passage of the Philippine bill the Nicaragua canal bill was made the unfinished business, and its consideration begins today.

The house began consideration of the antianarchy bill. The house committee reported a substitute for the senate measure. Mr. Ray (N. Y.), chairman of the judiciary committee, who was in charge of the bill, argued that the senate bill was unconstitutional.

The Philippine government bill as passed by the senate approves the action of the president in creating the Philippine commission and the offices of civil governor and vice governor of the islands and authorizes the governor and vice governor to exercise the powers of government as directed by executive order. Future appointments of the governor or vice governor shall be made by the president, with the advice and consent of the senate.

The "bill of rights" of the United States constitution are applied to the Philippine Islands, with the exception of the right to bear arms and the right to a trial by jury.

The supreme court and other courts of the islands shall exercise jurisdiction as heretofore provided by the Philippine commission, and the justices of the supreme court shall be appointed by the president and the senate, the others by the civil governor and the commission.

All the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands are deemed to be citizens of the Philippine Islands and entitled to the protection of the United States.

When the insurrection in the islands shall have been subdued, a careful census of the islands shall be taken, and after such census the governor of the islands shall make a full report to the president and make recommendations as to future government.

Meantime the Philippine commission is authorized to establish municipal and provincial governments with popular representative government so far and as fast as the communities are capable and fit for the same, the Philippine commission being authorized to determine the qualifications of the electors. The president is authorized to regulate the commercial intercourse with the archipelago in the interest of the general welfare.

The government of the Philippines is authorized to provide for the needs of commerce by improving harbors and navigable waters, providing warehouses, lighthouses, signal stations, etc.

All land in the Philippines is placed under the control of the Philippine commission for the benefit of the inhabitants of the islands, except such as may be needed for the use of the United States.

The bill provides at length how claims, both agricultural and mineral, shall be located, and the Philippine commission is authorized to establish a mining bureau.

The government of the Philippine Islands is authorized to acquire and convey title to real and personal property and to acquire real estate for public uses by the right of eminent domain.

The Philippine commission is authorized to acquire the friar lands and is empowered to issue bonds to pay for them. These lands, once acquired, shall be a part of the domain of the United States and may be disposed of as such.

Upon the supreme court of the United States is conferred the right to review the decisions of the supreme court of the Philippines.

Municipalities are authorized to issue bonds for municipal improvements with the consent of the president and congress, the entire indebtedness of any municipality not to exceed 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of property. It is provided that the bonds shall be gold bonds and shall be free from any taxation.

A mint is to be established in Manila, and coins authorized may be coined at the mint, the coinage laws of the United States being extended to the islands.

The bill authorizes the division of insular affairs of the war department, the chief of which shall have the rank of a colonel of the United States army.

APPARATUS IS NEEDED.

Now that the Common Council has authorized the expenditure of not over $2,400 for a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for use in the West End, it is to be expected that some people will declare that the expense was not justified and that the addition to the present fire department equipment was an extravagance which could have easily been dispensed with. Those who are fully acquainted with the situation, however, will take a far different view.

It should be remembered that the relative size and equipment of a fire department should not be reckoned on the usual demands of the city but rather on the unusual conditions which occasionally prevail. In this case, it is not frequent that there is demand for protection from fire from both the business section and the outlying portions of the city at the same time. Nevertheless, it must be provided for as it may mean the loss of thousands of dollars of valuable property.

The establishment of an engine house in the West End was a move in the right direction. The only apparatus at hand did not exactly answer the purpose but it far was better than nothing. Now its period of usefulness is drawing to an end and the department will soon have to replace it. The combination chemical engine and hose wagon has proved itself the most useful kind of apparatus for outlying districts where large buildings are not numerous. So the Council followed the proper course in securing one.

The change, which is soon to be made, will work to the advantage of the entire city. This combination apparatus will not make it necessary for the regular chemical enigne to attend any of the fires in the West End except on special call. The new apparatus will be on the ground sooner and will answer the purpose of the larger one in most cases. As a result, the chemical engine will be retained for use in case of fire in the business section or the eastern part of the city. In case of two fires at the same time, the department will not be as greatly handicapped as it would today. With the growth of this city, it is to be expected that the fires will become more numerous and it is the duty of the city officials to provide for such a state of affairs.

The New York Tribune announces a Union county slate which it believes will be nominated at the next Republican county convention. Plainfield's share is the shrievalty, which is allotted to Andrew McCardell. It is rather early in the game to declare Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk out of the race for senator. While he may be perfectly willing to see the renomination of Senator Cross, his friends may prefer a change.

The Plainfield Trust Company began business at its offices on East Front street this morning. This institution is largely composed of some of the most prominent men in Plainfield, the mere mention of whose names brands the concern as a reliable and trustworthy one. It has at the head of its management one of the brightest young men of the city who has already made a success in the banking world.

Just as long as the middle of Watchung avenue is used as a depot and transfer station for the trolley company, there will remain the likelihood of frequent accidents at that point. All the care in the world will not prevent some serious results. The only way is for the trolley company to build a loop and depot on private ground.

It was a surprise to the public when the Plainfield Board of Education decided to drop the prize for penmanship this year. The reason given was that the change to the vertical hand made it next to impossible to compare the writing.

Plainfielders will have to pay for their share of the coal miners' strike when they pay their school tax next year. The cost of the winter supply of coal for the public schools is $500 more than it was a year ago.

Water meters are just as much in demand today as they ever were. Only when they are introduced will the water rates be placed on an equitable arrangement.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRRAY, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., June 3, 1902.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide Separate Sewers or Drains to Carry Off the Surface Water in Portions of Arlington Avenue.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows :

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water, or the water flowing into Cedar Brook and Green Brook, be constructed in and for the said City of Plainfield in Arlington Avenue from West Fifth Street to Cedar Brook, with six inlets at West Fifth Street, six at West Sixth Street, two at West Seventh Street, four at West Eighth Street and six at West Ninth Street, all with the necessary manholes and appurtenances to complete the same, said separate sewers or drains to be of the dimensions and materials, and to be laid in said street and along such lines and at such grades and in such manner as indicated and specified on map on file with the City Clerk of the City of Plainfield, entitled, "Map of Storm Sewer in Arlington Avenue from West Fifth Street to Cedar Brook, City of Plainfield, N. J., Andrew J. Gavett, City Surveyor, May, 1902."

Sec. 2. That the cost and expenses to be incurred under this ordinance shall be paid with money to be raised by taxation (by general tax for street improvements) pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, as other moneys are raised in said City.

Plainfield, N. J., June 3, 1902.

Notice is hereby given that Frederick W. Coleman has applied to the Common Council of the City of Plainfield for a hotel license to sell spirituous and fermented liquors at Netherwood, in the Second ward, which application is signed by Frederick W. Coleman.

All persons knowing of any reason why such license should not be granted are requested to make known the same in writing to the City Clerk on or before the 19th day of June, prox.

Done in accordance with the requirements of the "Ordinance to license inns and taverns, and to regulate and prohibit the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors."

J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

SHOT IN LEG.

Italian Arrested for Shooting a Bound Brook Man—Farrington in Hospital.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 4—George Farrington, a well known young man of this place, lies in the Somerset hospital at Somerville with a bullet wound in his right leg, which may possible cause amputation. The shot, it is alleged, was fired by Jerry Pietro, an Italian, who became angered because Farrington remonstrated when he caught the Italian beating a small boy.

The Italian was placed under arrest. Farrington is a moulder by trade and lives with his mother in the Drake building.

According to advance reports at least 400 visitors will be here during the day. Last year's outing was held at Passaic Falls and nearly a thousand people attended. The local Saengerbund society has appointed William Gardner, Henry Haurand, John Retzger and John Bergen to look after the details.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Go to Smalley Brothers on North avenue for a chop, a steak, roast beef, chickens or anything usually found in a first-class market. Orders called for and delivered at your home.

J. R. Blair, Park avenue, is showing a fine array of straw hats, including Panamas and the latest style fedoras. If you want a straw hat Blair's is the place to invest your money.

At W. W. Dunn's, the park grocer, North Plainfield, you will find vegetables and fruits, new and fresh in stock every day. In the general grocery line, Dunn's supply is second to none.

In selecting an outing hat or any kind of a hat you will make no mistake in trading with Bonn, of West Front street. His line of millinery compares favorably with any in the larger cities and at equal prices.

Special goods at a special price always attract. R. H. Keenan, the East Fifth street grocer, makes a specialty of fine groceries at strictly cash prices. Consult the columns of The Daily Press for his bargains.

Before purchasing your summer clothes you should inspect the large stock at the Paris Fur and Cloak store on West Front street. There is to be found some of the most attractive and serviceable dresses and waists on the market.

There is no better time of the year to have your painting and papering done than at present and the New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, is prepared to give you a first-class job. The company has a wide variety of wall-papers to select from, all best quality.

You know yourself there's always trouble at the office when you arrive late. The bewhiskered excuse that the clock was slow isn't accepted because everybody knows it can be easily remedied by taking it to Brown, the English expert, of Watchung avenue. He makes a specialty of clock and watch repairing.

Neuman Brothers, the Watchung avenue grocers, are in the lead with fancy fruits. They are now displaying cherries, peaches and muskmelons. Colburn's Plainfield strawberries, considered to be the best in the local market, are received at this store daily. Jersey berries are here in abundance and at prices that court purchasing.

Deeds Filed.

The following local real estate conveyances were recorded at Elizabeth last week: Craig A. Marsh, master, to _____, 12 acres on Stelle's line, corner Randolph's corner, $5,000; Elizabeth H. Kent to Sarah F. Abbott, 60 feet on southwest line of Harrison street, corner of S. A. Oliver, $250.

Second Luncheon.

Mrs. Pliny Fisk, of West Seventh street, today gave the second of a series of delightful luncheons. Like the first affair, nothing was left undone in making it all that it should be. The luncheon was given at 1:30 o'clock to a limited number of friends.

Last Meeting This Summer.

The Young Ladies' Mission Society of the First Baptist church will hold its monthly meeting Friday afternoon. This will be the last meeting for the summer months.

Novelty Festival.

A novelty festival will be held tomorrow evening at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Miss Susie Kay, of Jacksonville, Florida, is the guest of Mrs. Irene Irving, of Watchung avenue.

Miss Edith Loomis, formerly of the borough, but now of New York, has been visiting friends in town for a short time.

PORCH PARTY.

Given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Patterson at Their Home Last Night—Ping-Pong a Feature.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Patterson, of West Seventh street, gave a delightful porch party at their home last evening, when a number of friends were present to enjoy the hospitality of the host and hostess. Supper was served at small tables on the piazza from 7 until 9 o'clock.

In each of the spacious parlors regular ping-pong tables were set and this game brought to a close a very pleasant evening. Duncan Taylor won the men's prize and Miss Bessie Gilmore the woman's prize. In the play off for the championship of the evening, Miss Gilmore won.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Day, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Yates, the Misses Gilmore, and Munger, Mr. Munger, J. P. Murray and Mr. Gilbert.

FIRE DEPARTMENT OFFICERS.

Will Soon be Chosen by Somerville's Four Fire Companies.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 4—The four fire companies of this place elected the various officers Monday night. Saturday evening next they will vote for department officers and there is quite a scrap on for the position of second assistant chief.

Lincoln Chemical Engine Company has recommended the following: For chief, Wm. D. Quick; first assistant, Wm. H. Howell; second assistant, John Ernerl, Jr. These have been endorsed by Central Hook and Ladder Company.

West End Hose Company has put Nathan Weill in the field for second assistant, while Somerville Engine Company has made no recommendations.

PROMINENT RESIDENT.

George W. Abbott, of Somerville, Passed Away Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 4 — George W. Abbott, aged seventy-three years, one of the best known citizens of this place, died last night. Besides being for a number of years a member of the Board of Commissioners, he was superintendent of streets, chief of the fire department, chief of police and for a number of years was in the employ of the New Jersey Central as supervisor. The funeral services will be held from the late house Friday.

First Number of Quiver.

The first number of "The Quiver," a journal in magazine form, published by the Qui Vive Society of the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School has appeared. "The Quiver" is published for the general interest and pleasure of the school and its friends. The articles, stories and poems have been contributed by the boys and girls of the school. The present will be the only issue this year. Beginning in October, however, the paper will be published at regular intervals.

GIFT FOR KITCHENER

Victorious British Leader to Get Title and Wealth.

SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM THE KING.

Pretoria Dispatch Describes Simple Ceremony of Signing the Peace Agreement—Army to Be Represented at the Coronation.

LONDON, June 4.—Contrary to custom, the house of lords will hold a sitting today to receive a message from King Edward with reference to peace in South Africa. It is expected that this message will announce the conferring of a title upon Lord Kitchener and the granting him a reward for his services. This reward will probably be £100,000.

It now appears that Lord Kitchener will not return to London for the king's coronation, and Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, has said that the government does not propose to have the new South African colonies represented at the crowning of King Edward. Transvaal and Orange River representatives could hardly reach London in time for the function.

A dispatch from Pretoria says:

"The signing of the peace agreement on Saturday night last was carried out with the least possible ceremony. Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner and General De Wet and others representing the Orange Free State and General Schalkburger and others of the Transvaal government quietly met in the dining room of the residence occupied by the burgher delegates, adjoining Lord Kitchener's house.

"The document lay on a table ready. Amid profound silence the Boer leaders took a pen in order of precedence and affixed their signatures, thus surrendering the independence for which they had so gallantly struggled. The document was then intrusted to Colonel Hamilton, Lord Kitchener's military secretary, and Captain Marker, an aid-de-camp, who have left Pretoria to deliver it to King Edward.

"There was great rejoicing in all the concentration camps upon receipt of the news that peace had been concluded. The occupants assembled in the open spaces and chanted psalms, the women weeping with joy.

"Arrangements are being made to send representatives of each unit of the British army in South Africa to participate in the coronation festivities in London."

Replying to a question in the house of commons during the day, the war secretary, Mr. Brodrick, said the total number of Boer prisoners in South Africa and elsewhere was 25,565, of whom 783 were under sixteen and 1025 over sixty years of age.

A Mysterious Shooting.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., June 4.—Persons who have come in from Schroon Lake report that George Rickert, residing near Sherman pond, was shot in the forehead Saturday night by some one unknown. Rickert had just returned from the village and was going to bed when a bullet was fired through a window, striking him in the forehead, but not passing through his skull. He made his way to the kitchen and found it to be ablaze, having, he thinks, been set on fire by his would be murderer. Rickert crawled from the house and was found Sunday morning in an exhausted and unconscious condition.

Czar Receives Red Cross Delegates.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 4.—At yesterday's meeting of the international Red Cross conference, which is in session here, it was resolved to devote the interest accruing from the fund established by the dowager empress of Russia and the czarina to the creation of prizes for the best inventions for the alleviation of the sufferings of wounded and invalid soldiers. The czar and czarina received the delegates to the Red Cross conference at Tsarskoe-Selo, and the dowager empress received them at Gachina.

Virginia Constitution Completed.

RICHMOND, Va., June 4.—The constitutional convention has completed consideration of the new constitution and referred the document to the committee on enrollment to be engrossed. It also adopted the preamble as reported by the committee on bill of rights and added thereto an amendment recognizing Almighty God and making acknowledgment of his bountiful mercy to all the people. No material amendment other than this was made.

Austrian Riots Continue.

VIENNA, June 4.—The disturbances in the Lemberg district were continued yesterday. In the reichsrath the Austrian premier, Dr. von Koerber, announced that an inquiry into the rioting at Lemberg had been instituted and that the government was endeavoring to improve the condition of the workmen of Lemberg by finding employment for them.

Explorers Return to Fort de France From Mont Pelee.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, June 4.—George Kennan, accompanied by Professor Heilprin and Messrs. Jaccaci and Varian, has arrived here after an absence of twelve days.

Professor Heilprin, Mr. Kennan and Mr. Varian have ascended Mont Pelee. They stood on the very edge of the crater and looked down on the incandescent mass within. The ascent was made last Sunday, and it was the second time Professor Heilprin climbed the mountain. All the explorers are in perfect health and good spirits. No accident occurred on the trip up the mountain, although the explorers were exposed to many hardships and dangers. In an interview with a correspondent Mr. Kennan said:

"I must preface all I have to say by paying the highest possible tribute to Professor Heilprin. He is modest and brave, a superb mountaineer and the nerviest and pluckiest man I ever saw. Professor Heilprin's first ascent of Mont Pelee last Saturday with Mr. Leadbetter was a most awful experience, yet he started a second time undaunted.

"Five of us started for the crater of the volcano last Sunday, and three of us reached our objective. We crossed Lake Palmiste, which is now dry and full of bowlders and huge, ragged rocks of trachyte, rhyolite and andesite. We then climbed on up and reached the edge of the crater. We found it to be a huge chasm, or crevasse, with perpendicular walls.

"We could not see down into the crater more than 150 feet. It was like looking into a white hot furnace. The chasm opens out toward St. Pierre, but the enormous columns of steam cut off the view in that direction. There were hundreds of fumaroles all about us. What was thought to be a cone of cinders in the crater we learned in reality to be a huge pile of gigantic rocks piled up one upon the other. There were crusts of sulphur everywhere, but we saw no ashes or cinders in or near the crater. The whole vast bed of the old crater and of Lake Palmiste is emitting steam through thousands of orifices.

"The ascent was the most terrifying experience of my life."

Twenty Hours to Chicago.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Official announcement is made by the general passenger department of the New York Central Railroad company of a twenty hour "flier" between New York and Chicago. The announcement says: "The New York Central and Lake Shore railroads have decided to place in service June 15 a new twenty hour train to run between New York and Chicago every day in the year. It will be called the Twentieth Century train and will make the 980 miles between New York and Chicago in exactly twenty hours, including all stops.

Fast Train on the Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—In order to meet the popular demand for a faster train between the great commercial and financial centers of the east and west the Pennsylvania Railroad company will on June 15 inaugurate a twenty hour train between New York and Chicago. The new train will be known as the "Pennsylvania special." This will be the fastest long distance train ever regularly scheduled on the Pennsylvania railroad, the average rate for 912 miles being about forty-five miles an hour.

Barracks at Peking Burned.

PEKING, June 4.—Fires occurred Monday at the French barracks here and at the quarters of the Austrian troops. Although the fires were large, the resulting damages were small. The fires are believed to have been of incendiary origin. When the buildings burned, there was much excitement and rejoicing among the crowds of Chinese who had congregated outside the legation quarter of Peking to enjoy the sight of the flames.

New York Policeman Found Guilty.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Police Commissioner Partridge announces that he has found Captain Michael E. Foody guilty of neglect of duty and ordered that he be publicly reprimanded. He said that inasmuch as no bribery or blackmail had been shown in connection with the case he considered the punishment sufficiently heavy, but warned the members of the force that in the future he would deal more harshly with them.

Better Pay For Railroad Men.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 4.—Two thousand signalmen, dispatchers, telegraphers and towermen employed by the New York Central railroad will receive an increase in their May envelopes, due on June 10. The additional pay aggregates $125,000 a year.

Small Shops Yield to Strikers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 4.—The smaller shops employing garment workers have increased the scale of subcontractors 8 per cent, and employees of such shops returned to work today. The larger concerns, employing nearly 1,500, are holding out.

Baltimore to Washington by Trolley.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—The Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad company has just given out contracts for grading a trolley line to Washington. The road will be thirty-one miles long and will be finished in eight months.

Martinelli's Successor.

LONDON, June 4.—A dispatch to the Central News from Rome says that Mgr. Falconio, the papal delegate in Canada, has been definitely selected to succeed Cardinal Martinelli as papal delegate in the United States.

RIOTING CONTINUES.

Wild Scenes in Connection With the Chicago Teamsters' Strike.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Rioting broke out again in the streets of Chicago yesterday as the result of the packing house teamsters' strike. Although great precaution had been taken by the police to prevent crowds from congregating where the wagons were carrying meat under the ban of the strikers, the attempt to move a caravan of twenty-four wagons under police protection from the yards met with conflict.

The rioting took place in South Clark street in front of the stores of Irwin Bros. & Wagner and Winslow & Co., wholesale dealers using meats from the big packers.

Wagons from the stockyards were driven to these stores and were being unloaded when a crowd of spectators and strike sympathizers began hooting and interfering with the nonunion drivers.

The disturbance drew a mob of nearly 2,000 persons to the scene. The police who were guarding the wagons tried to preserve order, but were not sucessful. The two Irwin brothers seized handles and in company with the police beat back the crowd. In the melee one man, Isaac Bean, was thrown down a stairway.

He had his back broken. A passing street car overturned a patrol wagon on the way to the riots and dumped the police into the street. A score or more of persons were arrested, but were released again.

In other sections of the city attempts were made to move meat, but because of the large gatherings of people to watch the trouble wagons were put back to warehouses and unloaded.

To add to the burdens of the police department 1,300 drivers and their helpers employed by the State street general retail merchandise department stores went on a strike. An attempt was made to deliver "department store" goods in the downtown district in the afternoon with nonunion drivers under police protection, but so much disorder developed that the attempt proved futile. Before the project was abandoned several rioters were hurt and many arrests had been made.

New York Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The census report on agriculture in New York, just issued, shows that the 226,720 farms of that state enumerated on June 1, 1900, were valued at $888,134,180. Of this valuation 38 per cent is in buildings and 62 per cent in land and other improvements than buildings. The value of farm implements and machinery was $56,006,000 and live stock $125,583,715, making the total value of farm property $1,069,723,895. The total value of farm products in 1899 was $245,270,600.

Going to the Coronation.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The battleship Illinois, flagship of Rear Admiral Crowninshield, commanding the European station, will leave the Mediterranean so as to arrive at Spithead on June 24 to take part in the naval ceremonies at the coronation of King Edward VII. NEW WOMAN SAYINGS

THE founders of the American republic held it to be self evident that all men are created equal. Concerning women they were silent, either deeming the feminine sex not worth considering or else thinking it best not to stir up the woman question. Owing, perhaps, to this most melancholy failure on the part of the fathers to define the status of the befrilled half of the race, American women have apparently taken it for granted they are not included in the Declaration of Independence, but have the right to divide themselves into two great classes—classes that may be broadly designated as snobs and menials. The snob is she who has money; the menial is she who works for her living. In the first class there is likewise a subdivision—namely, she whose husband accumulated the money which floats her in the swim and she whose father or grandfather got it. The one whose father or grandfather got the millions holds herself higher in the scale of being than the person whose mere husband made the money. There are thus the heavy snob and the middle sized snob. In a pretty factory town is a flourishing Christian church. This church proclaims the equal sisterhood of women and that all are one in the spirit. The women of the church organized a society for social and other purposes. It was under the general direction of their pastor. Some factory girls, intelligent, nice looking and of high character, got into the club with the approval of the pastor. Immediately there was a fine feminine outburst among the American women whose ancestors had come over in the steerage a generation or two ahead of the factory girls' ancestors. A meeting was held at which both the heavy snobs and the middle sized snobs joined in venting their indignation on the factory girls that had dared to come into the club. They sputtered, then they gathered up their skirts with a swish, stuck their noses in the air and resigned from that club on the spot, not forgetting to shut the door with a bang. Oh, my! Oh, my! Oh, my!

Here is how Eleanor Kirk speaks her mind on the subject of both mental scientists and doctors: "When a 'scientist' advises the wholesale sweeping out of doctors, I know where to place him. A DETECTIVE STORY.

"So; I cannot say that I have," answered Dunlap.

"That is the curious part of it," said Sturgis. "I have been unable to discover any advertisement published by this firm; and it is only by profuse advertising that such a concern can live."

"Yes, of course," exclaimed Dunlap, somewhat impatiently; "but what has all this to do with Chatham?"

"I don't know," replied Sturgis; "possibly nothing; perhaps a great deal.

"I asked to see Dr. Henderson," he continued, "at which the sleepy clerk stared at me in open-mouthed amazement. Dr. Henderson was not in; it was quite uncertain when he would be in. Indeed, as far as I was able to judge, Dr. Henderson appears to be a rather mysterious personage. No one knows much about him. Even his clerk admits that he has seen him only once or twice in the 18 months during which he has had charge of the office. The doctor attends to the manufacturing part of the business himself; his laboratory, which is down in the cellar, is a most jealously guarded place. No one is ever admitted to it under any pretext. He is evidently afraid that some one may discover the secret of his valuable remedies."

"You say that as if your words were meant to convey some unexpressed meaning," said Dunlap, studying the reporter's face.

"No," Sturgis answered, thoughtfully, "but I am trying to attach some ulterior significance to the facts. There is certainly something mysterious about Dr. Henderson and the Manhattan Chemical company; but whether the mystery is legitimate or not, and if not, whether it is in any way connected with the Arbogast case, is more than I am at present able to determine."

After a short pause he continued:

"When I found that there was no chance of seeing Dr. Henderson himself I required at a venture for the

For an instant a puzzled expression to the otherwise features of the young man. a sudden inspiration seemed to me to him. 'Oh! ah! yes,' he exclaimed, 'you mean Mr. Smith.' 'Yes,' I replied, catching at a straw, 'Well, but Mr. Smith is not in, either.' I offered to wait for Mr. Smith, and started toward the door of the private office in the rear, because it bore in prominent letters the inscription: 'NO ADMITTANCE.' I had turned the knob before the clerk could stop me; but the door was locked. Mr. Smith, it seems, comes to the office only once a week to receive the clerk's report and to pay him his salary. I tried to make a special appointment to meet Mr. Smith, on the plea of important business, I left my address name and address so that Mr. Smith's answer might be sent to me. That was all I was able to do for the time being; but I thought it worth while to keep an eye open on the Manhattan Chemical company; so I have engaged private detectives to watch it day and night and day until further notice. And there the matter stands."

Dunlap rose wearily from his chair. He looked anxious and careworn.

"Mr. Sturgis," he said, "if you can find any part of that $250,000, a good share of whatever you can recover for the bank is yours."

The reporter flushed and bit his lip; but he answered quietly:

"You mistake me for a detective, Mr. Dunlap; I am only a reporter. I shall be paid by the Tempest for any work I may do on this case. You would better offer your reward to the police."

CHAPTER XIV.

THE LETTER.

There is a magic in the refreshing sleep of youth calculated to exorcise the megrims. When Sprague, arising after a good night's rest, found the world bathed in the sunshine of a crisp January day, he felt the physical pleasure of living which comes from supple muscles, from the coursing of a generous blood through the veins, from the cravings of a healthy appetite.

He remembered the "blue devils" of the day before, and found it difficult to account for them. He was in love, certainly. But that in itself did not furnish a sufficient reason for despondency. It was rumored that the object of his affections was on the eve of betrothal to another. But what dependence can be placed upon a public rumor? As a matter of fact Miss Murdock wore no rings; in the absence of the badge of the betrothed woman, was he not justified in believing her fancy free?

In that case, there was a fair field and no favor. Why should not he have as good a chance of winning the prize as another man? No man, of course, was worthy of Agnes Murdock. That was the fundamental axiom. But in love success does not perch only upon the banner of the worthy. If it did, the human race would soon become extinct.

So the young man's thoughts ran on, while hope once more found a resting place in his heart.

Miss Murdock was not to pose again, but Sprague was eager to work on the portrait. He was about to step into the studio after breakfast, when the housekeeper announced a call from his lawyer, who wished to consult him about some important matters. The entire morning was thus consumed in necessary but tedious business, and it was not until after luncheon that the artist was at last free to set to work.

Uncovering the portrait, he stood off to examine it. As he did so, something white upon the floor caught his eye. He stooped to pick it up. It was a letter in a beautifully regular masculine hand. Mechanically he turned it over and unfolded it. His eyes carelessly swept the written page; then in a flash he realized what it was, and he flung it violently from him.

Only a few words had left their impress upon his retina—a few scattered words and a signature. But these were branded deep upon his brain for all time, in letters of fire which burned their way to his very soul. For he had recognized the letter which had been delivered by the messenger to Miss Murdock the day before, and he had seen enough to know that it was couched in words of passionate love. In that instant was quenched the last ray of hope which had lurked within his heart. Overwhelmed with a sense of utter desolation, he sank back upon a divan, and for a long time remained lost in bitter reflections.

But Sprague, in spite of his dilettanteism, was a man of grit when occasion called for it. Summoning at length his fortitude and his pride, he proceeded to carry out what he conceived to be the duty of a gentleman under the circumstances.

Picking up the letter again, he placed it unread in an envelope, into which he slipped his card, with a brief explanation of the finding of the paper. Then, after addressing the envelope, he started out to mail it himself.

"Thomas Chatham!" he mused, as he went down the stairs; "Thomas Chatham! Why, he is the man who took such pains to inform me that Miss Murdock was betrothed, or on the point of being betrothed—the flashily dressed young man with red hair who is so regular an attendant at the Murdocks' informal receptions, and who never seems to be invited on state occasions; an insignificant and conceited puppy. Poor girl, what a pity that she should throw herself away upon such a man. But, if he marries her, he shall make her happy, or else—"

The balance of his thought was not put into words; but his face became set in stern lines and his hands clenched in grim determination.

Sprague, with the letter for Miss Murdock in his hand, hurried to the nearest letter box, raised the lid of the drop, inserted the letter in the slot and then tightened his grasp of it and began to think.

The letter, if mailed, might perhaps not reach its destination until the following morning. It might be of importance, since it had been sent by messenger and to the studio instead of to Miss Murdock's house. Besides, Miss Murdock would probably be worried when she discovered that she had lost it. It ought therefore to be returned to her at once.

The letter, by this time, had been withdrawn from the slot of the letter box.

Yes, it ought to be returned by messenger instead of by mail. By messenger? It was about half a mile to the nearest district messenger office. The Murdocks' house was not much further. Why not deliver the letter himself?

Why not, indeed? The human heart has unfathomable depths. Why should a hopeless lover pine for a mere sight of the woman whose presence only adds to his misery? Explain that who can.

Sprague carefully placed the letter in his breast pocket and started off again, this time directing his steps toward the Murdocks' home.

Old-Time London.

The population of the city of London, in the year 1580 has been estimated at 123,000 souls. In that year John Lyly was the most fashionable English author, and Sir Philip Sidney the darling of the court. Edmund Spencer had just leaped to his immediate and lasting popularity, and Shakespeare was courting Anna Hathaway in the green lanes of Warwickshire, and a line of his dramas so much as thought of. It was until 25 years later, when King James had come to the throne, that the city came to number 200,000. London was then, as now, the center of the English-speaking world, but as the world was smaller in population than our single states of Pennsylvania or New York, all interests political, social and literary were concentrated in the metropolis to a degree far beyond the present, even in England.—Prof. Felix E. Schelling, in Lippincott's Magazine.

An Algerian Pompeii.

Letters reaching Marseilles from Algiers state that the excavations carried out at Timgad, on the site of the ancient Thamugas, have brought to light a veritable Algerian "Pompeii." The boundaries of the ancient city have now been laid bare on three sides. During 1901 more than 100,000 cubic meters of earth were removed, and the archaeological results were of the richest. These include a magnificent Roman mansion belonging to Sertius, public baths, a fountain, a Byzantine basilica with three aisles, a grand staircase leading to the upper part of the theater, a superb pagan temple in marble, probably dedicated to Calestis, 11 other buildings, and a most varied collection of objects such as arms, utensils, and vases. One of the ancient gates of the city and a great number of streets have also been laid bare.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Criticising the King.

"Did you notice, dear boy, that the king has been to that place don't you know, where the big breweries are, and has had something to do with the brew?"

"Has he? It's one of those places where they brew ale, isn't it? Yes, and I cawn't drink the stuff, I cawn't really. It's so bittah, don't you know."

"Yes, I've noticed the same thing. I took a glass once at a function, don't you know, and it made me quite foolish. I don't really like to say it, but it seems at times as if the king was just a little thoughtless."

"In what way, Edgah?"

"Why, it would be so much nicer of him if he would just visit ginger ale breweries, don't you know, and lemonade distwilleries."

"I never thought of that, Edgah, but you are quite right."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

If Leo XIII. Lives One Year.

It is pointed out that if Leo XIII. is spared to see the year 1903, that year will be to him one of quite exceptional interest, a veritable "annus mirabilis." As everybody knows it will be his silver jubilee of papacy (elected pope February 20, 1878); but more than that it will also be his golden jubilee as cardinal (proclaimed by Pius IX. in the Consistory of December 19, 1853), and his diamond jubilee of episcopacy (preconized archbishop of Damietta by Gregory XVI. on January 27, 1843, and consecrated February 19). Such a triple jubilee, if his holiness lives to celebrate it, will probably be unique in history.—The Tablet.

Queer Window Glass.

In a new building attached to some boiler works in Germany a novelty in windows has been introduced. The ordinary panes of glass were impracticable on account of the nearness of the work to the railway lines, so pneumatic glass stones have been used. From the outside the appearance is the same as the so-called "Butzen" panes. They are translucent, and, at the same time, as strong as the stone wall in which they are set. They will withstand any pressure or blow the walls will stand.—Science.

A FORTUNATE FIND.

An Illinois Daughter in Poor Circumstances Discovers Her Dead Mother's Fortune.

The old adage that truth is stranger than fiction, was illustrated anew over in Abingdon the other day, when Miss Christine Norman discovered a sum of money, amounting to $1,800, which had been left by her mother, Mrs. Anna Norman. The old lady, who was very eccentric, died a short time ago, and money for the funeral expenses was subscribed by the people of the town, as the mother and daughter had lived for years in the most abject poverty, the daughter doing washing to support the two, reports the Stark County (Ill.) News.

After the death of the old lady Christine began to examine the effects left by her mother in the house. Among other things in the house there was a box that the old lady had guarded with great care for years. The box was made of solid iron and fastened with two strong locks. When the chest was at last opened a joyous sight was that which met the gaze of the daughter and those who were assisting her in the investigation. Gold, silver and paper money were found in large quantity. Much of the gold was made 40 years ago, and the paper money was of a species long ago gone out of use and recalled by the government. This sum of money was taken to the bank and placed on deposit in trust for the daughter, who has worked so hard all these years to care for her mother.

WALLS OF CHAMPAGNE.

Czar of Russia Rides Between Nine Miles of Stacked-Up Bottles in French Wine Vaults.

When the czar was on his recent visit to France he had the felicity of riding nine miles between two stacks of champagne bottles six feet high, says Beverages. This experience fell to his majesty in the vaults of Pommery and Greno. Each gallery in the vaults is marked with a name. The names are those of the greatest towns in the world, and there are hundreds of galleries, for the vaults contain 12,000,000 bottles of champagne, some of them nearly 100 feet down in the bowels of the earth. The vaults occupy 150 acres, and are built in an old chalk quarry outside of Rheims, near the Church of St. Remi. There are 450 hands employed down in the vaults, of whom some 50 are women, whose work consists for the most part in labelling the bottles and twisting the wires for the corks. Each hand employed quaffs a tumblerful of Pommery before descending into the cold, electrically lighted vaults, where the work is done, and also reserves two bottles of good red wine per day, so that it is not altogether a bad game.

AN ISLAND WITHOUT MICE.

So Uncongenial Is Its Soil That the Little Rodents Will Not Remain Upon It.

There is a small island named Papa Little that lies in St. Magnus bay, on the west side of Shetland. It gets its name in contradistinction to Papa Stour; or the Big Papa, another island in the same bay. Both names are of Norse origin and signify Priest islands, from the fact that they were colonized by the Irish Catholics who first introduced Christianity, says the Liverpool Daily Post. There was a solitary croft on this island at one time, but all that now remains is a ruined homestead, for the place is used purely for grazing purposes. A striking feature of the isle is the fact that no mice can live there; and on various occasions, to test the truth of this, mice have been caught and slipped on the isle, but so uncongenial did its soil prove to their existence that in a short while they were dead. There are instances of crofters on the mainland, when troubled with mice, going the length of fetching earth from this isle and sprinkling it on the ground before building their stacks. This is said to have had the desired effect in all cases.

GOAT WITH BRAIN-POWER.

The Odoriferous Quadruped Summons Assistance When Its Dog Friend Falls Into a Well.

Farmer Wainwright, of Cascade, has a pet goat and a pet puppy that are great friends, says a Susquehanna (Pa.) report. Together they ramble through the neighborhood during the goat's spare moments, when there are no oyster cans, door scrapers, or other edibles for it to nibble.

The singular behavior of the goat on a recent Sunday afternoon attracted the attention of the farmers. It ran to and fro, bleating piteously, and seemed half distracted. Some one suggested that the animal should be followed. The goat seemed to appreciate the fact that it was understood, and led the way to the rear of the yard, where the puppy was found in a pit ten feet deep, almost in its last struggles.

The puppy was rescued and restored to the goat, which greeted it with fond caresses and bleated its thanks to the rescuers.

SPORTING NEWS.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Y. M. C. A. team will be out for a short ball practice on Pittis field tomorrow evening at 6:30.

A nine from the North Plainfield Atheletic Association will play the Cuban Giants on the Randolph road grounds this afternoon at 3:30.

The next scheduled League games will take place Saturday afternoon. The victorious Hopes will cross bats with the Y. M. C. A. on the former's grounds and on St. Mary's field that team and the Safe Works contingent will battle. All four teams will have practically the same line-up as on Decoration Day.

The knockout blow in the abdomen sustained by Gus Feiring, of the Hopes, in Saturday's game with the Cuban Giants, was one of the worst received by a local player this season. He was felled to the ground by the force of the blow when tagged by the first baseman and was unable to arise for ten minutes. He did not fully recover until the day after.

Another prize has been added to the list donated by local merchants to be contested for by local teams. Harry Dreier has given a handsome suit case which will be awarded the player stealing the greatest number of bases. "Pete" Roseberry and "Teddy" Overton, of the Hopes, Fred Winn and Dick Scott, of St. Mary's are already well in line for this particular prize.

GOLF.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team will have an opportunity Saturday to retrieve lost honors. The team will meet the Princeton team on the Hillside course and a determined effort will be made by the local team to win.

All of the cups being competed for by the members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club were on exhibition at the clubhouse on Decoration Day. Those who saw the prizes claim that they are as fine a collection as will be found in New Jersey. In addition to these cups, S. L. Schoonmaker has offered two silver cups for mixed doubles putting and approaching contests for June and September. This form of contest has been neglected at the club and those who compete will have a chance to improve their game.

The Metropolitan Woman's Golf Association tournament was opened last Monday and the team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has won a match and lost one. Last Monday the woman's four from the Hillside Club went to Harbor Hill and lost by a score of 10 to 0.

The result of the match is as follows:

HILLSIDE.
Miss vanHerwerden	0
Miss Maude VanBoskerk	0
Miss Edith Tracy	0

HARBOR HILL.
Miss Scrymser	3
Miss Edith Scrymser	3
Miss Worth	2
	10

Yesterday afternoon the team from the Richmond County Country Club played the Hillside team on the Hillside course and won the match handily by a score of 9 to 2. The local team played in excellent form and everyone scored points but Miss Goddard, who had a particularly strong opponent.

The result of the match is as follows:

HILLSIDE.
Miss vanHerwerden	3
Miss Edith Tracy	3
Miss Maude VanBoskerck	3

HARBOR HILL.
Miss Lane	0
Miss Irving	0
Miss Woods	0

According to the rules of the tournament each team must have four members. Each of the ten teams play two games at this time of the year and the other two games in the fall. Monday the Harbor Hill team will play a friendly match on the Hillside course to give the local team a chance to retrieve lost honors.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

A surprise was given to M. Quinn, at his Avon Park stables Decoration Day morning, when he went out and saw a grand, big baby colt playing around the stall, out of May Wilkes. The breeding is excellent. Sired by J. W. Johnson's Sidney Nutwood, young stallion with a record of 2:25¼, by Sidney with a record of 2:19¼, and the sire of five yearlings with records from 2:22 to 2:30. Nutwood, the sire of Sidney Nutwood's dam, is the sire of Lockhart, 2:08½, and others; also the sire of the dam of Arion, two years old, record 2:10¾, and sold to Mr. Forbes for $125,000. May Wilkes, the dam of this colt, is by Madison Wilkes, record of 2:24¾, sire of Linden, 2:15, and lots of others. The dam of May Wilkes is by Little Dick, a son of Volunteer. Mr. Johnson has also a grand young stallion in Woven Wind, winner of the M. and M. $10,000 stake in Michigan, as a three year old.

TENNIS.

In the semi-final round at tennis for the Mellick cup, women's competion, Monday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts, Miss Mary Whiton defeated Miss Helen Martin, 6-1. The finals between Miss Whiton and Miss Schuyler will be played some afternoon this week.

HEARING BEFORE SUPREME COURT AT TRENTON YESTERDAY.

Did Justice Lose Jurisdiction Over Case by Adjourning Case in Absence of Interested One.

An important and novel hearing, and one that will settle the status of all such cases in the future was held in the Supreme Court at Trenton yesterday. The case was that of VanDervoort & Dorland against W. H. Fleming.

Last September Swackhamer & Codington brought an action before a justice of the peace in Hunterdon county, in behalf of VanDervoort & Dorland, a company engaged in digging artesian wells. Against W. H. Fleming, upon whose lot a well was sunk, September 20, the jury disagreed. The justice discharged them and gave another hearing one week later. Senator Geo. F. Large for the defendant moved to non-suit on the ground that the justice had lost jurisdiction when he adjourned the case in the absence of the interested parties. Mr. Swackhamer, contrary, moved the case and his position was sustained. The jury after being out all afternoon till midnight returned with a verdict for plaintiff in full amount.

Fleming then appealed to the Hunterdon Common Pleas. Senator Large, when the case came up, moved a nonsuit again on the previous ground that the judge had lost jurisdiction. Swackhamer, opposed the motion on the ground that judge had not lost jurisdiction and secondly, if he had so lost, the taking of an appeal waved all irregularity. Mr. Swackhamer cited many precedents but the judge, after taking time to decide, non-suited the plaintiff. Then, the plaintiff through his lawyers, individually took a writ of certiorari to review the judgment of non-suit in the court of Common Pleas.

The case was argued yesterday in the main branch of the Supreme Court at Trenton. After hearing Mr. Swackhamer for the plaintiff for fifteen minutes, the judge interrupted and asked to hear the other side. Finally decision was reserved, but the court was most favorably impressed by the argument of the Plainfield lawyer. Mr. Swackhamer had prepared exhaustive brief on the case, and cited a great many authorities in support of his position. Members of the bar are watching the case with great interest, as it will furnish a valuable precedent.

MR. DUMONT RESIGNED.

Library Directors Accepted His Resignation as a Director and Treasurer With Much Regret.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library, last evening, the resignation of J. B. Dumont as director and treasurer was read and accepted. The following resolution was then unanimously passed:

"Resolved that the resignation of Mr. John B. Dumont be accepted and be it resolved that the Board of Directors express their deep regret at Mr. Dumont's severance of his long connection with the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, which has continued since its organizaiton upwards of twenty years since; and their profound sense of the value of his faithful service and of the loss now sustained by his resignation."

The secretary was ordered to send Mr. Dumont a copy of the resolution. Edward C. Perkins, one of the directors, was elected treasurer pro tem.

After an amount of routine business had been transacted the meeting adjourned.

ENTERTAINED MEMBERS.

Social Committee of I. C. T. Club Provided a Programme.

The social committee of the I. C. T. Club entertained the members at the conclusion of the regular business meeting, last evening. Piano solos by Claire Bickel and Charles Suhr, boxing contests and quoit matches were the features. Refreshments were served at the close. The committee in charge consisted of George L. Apgar, Claire Bickel, Hiram Humes, Bert Bilyeu and Charles Overbaugh.

Three More Knights.

Three candidates were initiated at the regular weekly meeting of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, last evening.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

TRUST CO. OPENS ITS DOORS

UNDER FAVORABLE CONDITIONS THAT INSTITUTION BEGAN BUSINESS.

All Employes Were on Hand—The Rooms Not All Quite Complete —Many Visitors.

Under the most favorable conditions the Plainfield Trust Company opened its place of business for the first time this morning, and while the bank is not completely furnished as planned, everything is in readiness for conducting business.

All of the employes of the company were at their post of duty and during the morning and afternoon there were many callers, both to congratulate the new company and to transact business. As soon as the doors were opened at 9 o'clock sharp, a well-known person, who does not want his name mentioned entered and made the first deposit which was $10,000. After that and throughout the day deposits of various amounts were received from the people of Plainfield.

In connection with the opening there were many pleasant features. A handsome bouquet of carnations were to be seen on the desk of the secretary and treasurer, J. Herbert Case, while E. F. Feickert, the teller, was generously remembered with two large beautiful horseshoes. Both were gifts of friends in the employ of Kountze Brothers, New York bankers, where Mr. Feickert was employed for eleven years. Other employes were also remembered.

A. V. Heely, of New York, one of the officers of the company, was at the bank today. He and Mr. Case were kept busy receiving visitors, while Mr. Case took occasion to introduce Mr. Heely to the callers. Both were the recipient of many pleasant words of congratulations for the success of the new institution.

A number of people deposited various amounts in the saving's department and in a number of cases this was done by parents for their children. This promises to be a feature of the bank. Within a short time the furnishings will be complete and the company perfectly equipped.

LAST CHANCE.

To Settle Delinquent Taxes Before Martin Act Sale.

The Common Council will hold a special meeting June 9 and 10 at which time the report of Collector F. H. Smith will be confirmed as regards the delinquent taxes under the Martin Act. It is very important that the delinquents see the collector and settle before this report goes to the Council otherwise they will have to pay the advertising fees.

At the Council meeting the collector will be authorized to sell the property upon which taxes are due under the Martin Act. Mr. Smith will have to make a full report to the Council and there is no alternative for the delinquent after this is done.

NO SENTENCE.

One Offender Apeared in Court and Other Was Released Without Trial.

In the borough police court last evening Mrs. Brun was released with a reprimand on condition that she leave town immediately.

Chief Campbell last night arrested Jos. Cook hailing from Easton, Pa., who had been visiting some place in the borough where the tin pail was passed around too freely. As the man was merely helpless when locked up and naturally inclined to be peaceable he was allowed to go without a trial when he sobered up.

Rogers Concerns at Law.

Before Vice Chancellor Emery at Newark Monday the International Silver Company, of Hartford, Conn., was granted a ruling in its petition against the William H. Rogers Corporation, of Plainfield, compelling the latter to show cause as to why it should not be enjoined from using certain trade marks which the complainant company claims are exclusively its own.

Landed on His Head.

Lewis Cahill, a ten-year-old boy living on West Second street, fell from a cherry tree, this morning, landing squarely on his head. He was rendered unconscious. At Muhlenberg hospital, where he was taken, it was found he had sustained contusion of the brain. He was resting quietly at noon and it is thought he will recover.

THREE TIED.

First Honors Divided for Hooley Cup at the Park Golf Club Yesterday Afternoon.

For the second time since the season opened, the women of the Park Golf Club were enabled to complete their round in the weekly competition for the Hooley cup, on the links of that club yesterday afternoon. As it was an approaching shower prevented all from turning in their scores.

Three members divided the points for the day, all making 58 net. Miss Harriet Shreve now leads for the cup with four points with Miss May Shreve and Miss Laura Long tied for second place with three each. Then comes Miss Lydie Loizeaux with two points.

Yesterday afternoon's scores were:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Miss Lydie Loizeaux	70	12	58
Miss May S. Shreve	81	23	58
Miss Harriet Shreve	81	23	58
Miss Helen Phillips	89	25	64

FELL DOWN CELLAR.

Mrs. Vincent W. Nash Injured in Fall Down Cellar Stairs.

Mrs. Vincent W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, sustained painful injuries Monday morning, the result of a fall down stairs. She started to go to the cellar with some provisions for the refrigerator, when a foot tripped over the sill, causing her to fall nearly to the cellar bottom. Her daughter, Miss Nash was home at the time and she assisted her mother to the first floor. Proper treatment was given. Mrs. Nash is still detained to her home and it will probably be several days before she recovers from the effects of her injuries.

Employer Paid Fee.

James Hann, John Hey and Nathan Savacool, guardians of a vegetable wagon, were arrested yesterday noon by Patrolman Higgins for peddling without a license. They were released later on their own recognizance. This morning Wm. Brown, the head of the firm by which they are employed, came to this city and paid the required license fee.

Not Enough Business.

Being unable to produce a license, Fred Waters and James Gardner, two itinerant peddlers, were haled to police headquarters, yesterday afternoon. Business in Plainfield, they said, was too slow to warrant their depositing the necessary fee to continue and they agreed to leave town never to return on a suspension of sentence.

Committees for Warren.

At the regular meeting of Warren Engine Company, last evening, J. J. Stahl, E. Smith and Jno. Schenck were appointed an investigating committee; W. Bennett, Alonzo Brokaw, and Dave Bodine an auditing committee; Wm. G. Debele, Jacob Higgins, and Chas. Stahl, good and welfare committee.

Report on Consolidation.

Panghcaughnaughsinque Tribe, No. 198, I. O. R. M., will meet this evening to receive the report of the committee on consolidation with Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118. A full attendance of members is desired.

Lots of Business.

Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will meet this evening and receive six propositions. Five candidates will be initiated, after which a social time and refreshments will be served.

Union County Grand Jury Made a Presentment Against Automobile Racing.

SEVERAL INDICTMENTS.

Full Text of What Grand Jury Has to Say on Subject of Speeding Automobiles—The Grand Jury Thinks Robinson's Murderers Should be Run Down.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 5—The Grand Jury adjourned yesterday afternoon sine die, but before doing so enjoyed many pleasantries. Robert H. Cook, of Plainfield, the genial foreman, was presented with a handsome gold headed cane, valued at $75, and the efficient clerk, John English, received a present of a pair of gold cuff buttons.

The Grand Jury made a presentment concerning the operation of automobiles throughout the county, that is as to speed.

The presentment is as follows:

Union Oyer and Terminer, May Term, A. D., Nineteen Hundred and Two:

The grand inquest of the State of New Jersey in and for the body of the county of Union, upon their oath present: That complaint has been made to them and their attention has been called to a frequent infringement of the right of the people of the county of Union by certain persons to the body now unknown. It appears that certain vehicles called automobiles and certain other vehicles called motorcycles, that emit and give forth clouds of steam and vapor, and at the time produce a loud beating and throbbing noise, have been and are now propelled over and along the public highways of the county of Union; that these machines are driven at a high and dangerous rate of speed through public roads and streets of the county which are very largely used and traveled by the people of this county on foot and with wagons and carriages drawn by horses, and which roads and streets have so been used and traveled free from danger by the people from time immemorial. The effect of the rapid passage of these and other automobiles and motorcycles along and over the public streets is that the lives of pedestrians are endangered, and the horses of the people of this county, while being lawfully driven over and along the public highway are so terrorized that accidents and injury have been caused and many of our citizens are afraid to use or drive their own horses upon the public streets. In frequent cases after damage or accident or injury has been caused to citizens of the county by these vehicles, the parties propelling them have driven away at such a rapid rate of speed that the names of the persons so using them have been impossible to be ascertained.

The grand jury feel that the use of the highways of the county which have been built and are kept in repair by the public funds, are maintained for the use and enjoyment of the general public, and not for the convenience and pleasure of the few; and that any use of the public highways of the county which renders them less commodious to the public and causes them to be dangerous and of annoyance to the general use of the same, works an unauthorized obstruction of the highways, and an abuse of the privileges of travelers over the same; and that the person or persons, who, by using automobiles and motorcycles or otherwise, persist in causing injury, annoyance, inconvenience and danger to the larger class of the people using the highways, are guilty of maintaining a nuisance therein and liable to indictment therefor.

The grand jury make this presentment and order that public notice may be given that it is the intention of the grand jury to protect and preserve the highways of the county for the safe and unobstructed use and enjoyment of the general public, and that all persons interfering with or preventing this ancient and undisputed right, render themselves amenable to the criminal laws of the State.

The grand jury request that the proper authorities will bring to their attention the names of such parties as may hereafter be found causing the injury, annoyance, inconvenience and

MORE DOGS RUN AT LARGE

THEIR OWNERS HAD TO ANSWER IN CITY COURT THIS MORNING.

Varied Excuses Were Accepted and Sentence Suspended With a Warning.

Another batch of dog owners who allow their animals to run at large unmuzzled, appeared before City Judge Runyon, this morning. They were Charles Schantz, Moses Schloss, Alex McGuigan, Mrs. Susie Peterson, Clarence Anthony, Julius Siegel and William Kline. Mrs. L. W. Serrell and Mrs. Catherine Burke were ordered to appear but did not do so.

Everyone came provided with an excuse and the diversity was amazing. Mrs. Peterson said the fence was to blame and she would have a new one erected; another said his animal had chewed the rope that held him while a third couldn't account for the dog being out at all. He closed with the remark that he would dispose of the canine today, at which "Carrie" Higgins smiled broadly.

All the offenders were warned of the terms of the ordinance and impressed with the fact that a repetition would result in the prescribed fine. The crusade will continue and heavy punishment will shortly begin to be inflicted.

AT STATE SCHOOLS.

Commencement Plans at Normal and Model Schools.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 5—The commencement exercises of the State schools will be held during the week beginning June 16. The class day exercises of the model graduates will be held Monday afternoon, June 16. On the afternoon of June 17 the normal graduating class will hold its class days exercises, and in the evening the graduation exercises of the model class will be held in the school auditorium.

The Normal commencement will be held Wednesday evening, June 18. The annual meeting of the State Schools Alumni Association will be held at noon Wednesday, June 18.

The programmes for all the above events are now being arranged and will be on a more elaborate scale than heretofore.

—At Neuman Brothers: Fancy asparagus, Jersey peas, green and wax beans, hot-house tomatoes, celery and lettuce. Prices all right.

STRAWBERRIES IN POWER

RULING ATTRACTION AT FESTIVAL AT GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH.

Opened Successfully Last Evening and Will be Continued Tonight.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church gave a strawberry festival last night which proved a great success. The basement of the church was very nicely decorated. A new piano recently purchased by the Aid Society was used for the first time. All present enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

The following programme was rendered: Vocal solo, Miss Annie Boss, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Angerbauer; recitations by Miss Florence Windham and Miss Rosy M. Hook; piano solo by Miss Elvin Hoerster; two recitations, "Der Blinde Konig" and "Das Hubsche Madchen" by August Wolf. After the programme refreshments were passed around and a very pleasant hour was spent over the strawberries.

The committee in charge of the affair was Mrs. Joseph Angerbauer, Mrs. Philip Bach, Mrs. Charles Hook. At the candy table were Mrs. William Krausse, Mrs. Catherine Blimm; at the cake table, Miss Louise Windham, Miss Sadie Blimm; at the ice cream table, Mrs. Charles Hook. Members of the Willing Workers acted as waiters during the evening.

The festival will be continued this evening. A splendid programme has been arranged, stereopticon views being one of the main features.

GOOD MUSIC.

Pleasant Programme Presented at Bethel Chapel Last Evening.

At Bethel chapel last evening a large audience gathered to enjoy a musicale and elocutionary recital. Miss Margarate Tate, of New York, a famous entertainer, completely electrified her audience with several well delivered selections.

Among other numbers on the programme were soprano solos by Edward Blair and Mrs. C. C. Irby. The Park Avenue Glee Club appeared in three quartettes and its performance was much appreciated. During the evening Miss Alice Maynard presided at the piano. At the close refreshments were served.

Another entertainment will be given this evening when Miss Tate will again appear.

MEN ENTERTAINED.

Closing of Season for Men's Social Club of Congregational Church.

The members of the Men's Social Club, of the Congregational church, entertained their friends, last evening, on the occasion of the last meeting of the season.

By way of instructive entertainment, Ernest R. Ackerman gave his illustrated lecture, "A Trip Around the World." The lantern was operated by John Neagle. Afterward refreshments were served and an hour was spent in social intercourse.

The committee in charge consisted of W. B. Wadsworth, Alex Miller, J. A. Polison and Phillip Suffern.

AFTER CHILDREN'S DAY.

Asked Dr. Richards to Defer Announcement of His Decision.

William D. Murray, of the Crescent Avenue church, has written to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, the pastor, asking him to defer the announcement of his decision regarding the call extended to him, until after the Children's Day exercises at the church Sunday morning, as he believes it would dampen the ardor of those present. Mr. Murray thinks it would be wise for Dr. Richards to announce at the morning service that he would give his decision in the evening.

Agreed to Terms.

The members of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, met last evening and received the report of its committee concerning consolidation with Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118. The report was received and agreed to as to terms of consolidation.

Extension to His Home.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has issued a permit to O. M. Dunham for the erection of two-story extension, 33x14, to his dwelling on Madison avenue. Theodore Grey will do the masonry work and Edgar Schenck will be the carpenter.

Police at Drill.

The regular weekly drill of the local police department was held in the Marsh building, yesterday afternoon. Chief Kiely and Sergeant Frederickson were in charge and put the bluecoats through the manual.

PLAYED HOOKEY.

Youthful Offenders in City Court Who Climbed Cherry Trees Instead of Going to School.

Charged with playing "hookey" and destroying cherry trees, Willie and Oliver Peel, Theodore Pruden, George Margentino and Gifford Jones were arraigned in the city court, this morning. All owned up to the second part of the complaint but there was a split in the ranks when the truancy part was brought up.

Oliver Peel said he didn't play hookey because he commenced work, yesterday, in a cigar store, but his absence previous to that time he couldn't account for. Willie Peel owned up to playing "hookey" once, when he staid away for two months. All were lectured severely by City Judge Runyon and the truancy officer was instructed to see that they attended school until the close of the year.

HONOR MAN.

Philip Bissell Won Honors at College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Friends of the late Morgan S. Taylor and his sister, Dr. Mary Taylor Bissell, of New York, will be interested to know that Philip Bissell, the son of the latter, is one of the ten honor men of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, selected this year. The men who were chosen by the faculty of the college be come eligible to compete for the Harsen prizes of $500, $300 and $200, respectively. A special test examination will be given the honor men and the names of the winners will be announced on commencement day, June 11. An immediate result of the distinction is that the honor men receive appointments at once to various hospitals, Dr. Bissell having been assigned to the New York Hospital.

READY FOR TROUBLE.

Men Are Being Held in Readiness at South Plainfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield, June 5—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company is preparing for any trouble that may arise at the company's coal mines. Recently 150 men, believed to be special policemen, arrived at South Plainfield and the company is keeping them there until it is found necessary to send them to the mining district. Most of them are young men and some have seen service in the United States Army. They sleep in the company's cars at night and get their meals at Higgins's Hotel. Last Sunday a number of these men were sent to the mining district.

Death of Willard Randolph.

Willard I. F. Randolph, son of T. E. F. and Marie Randolph, died at at his home on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, after an illness of some duration with Bright's disease. He was in his thirtieth year. The funeral services will be held from the residence of his parents, tomorrow afternoon at 2:45.

Going to be Adjusted.

Tapscott & Hardingham, insurance agents, received word yesterday that the loss on the Babcock building is to be adjusted by the insurance companies interested. This is the first report of this kind received in several days.

First Annual Visit.

There will be a meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps tomorrow evening, when the new department president, Mrs. Vickery, will make her first official visit. A full attendance of the members is requested.

Patroness at University Ball.

Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, of Watchung avenue, was one of the patronesses at the Senior ball given at University Heights Tuesday night by the graduating class of New York University.

All Officers Chosen.

The New Jersey Home Buyers Leauge met last evening and completed its Board of Trustees by the election of C. H. Dunham and Fred J. Viewig.

Randolph Road Completed.

The work of macadamizing Randolph road is completed, much to the pleasure of the large number of people who now travel over that thoroughfare.

Yesterday's Business.

At the close of business yesterday the deposits at the Plainfield Trust Company amounted to $125,000, which is considered good for the first day.

Missionary to Speak.

Miss Harriot Dailey, missionary to the mountain whites in Tennessee, will address the meeting at Warren chapel Friday evening. All are invited.

Sunday's Offering.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday will be for the mission Sunday-school work conducted by the Board of Publication.

HORSE FRIGHTENED AT AUTO

MRS. HENRY HEIDLOFF AND THREE CHILDREN WERE THROWN OUT.

Horse Started to Run Away and Overturned Carriage—Occurred on Somerset Street.

Mrs. Henry Heidloff, of West Front street, and her three children narrowly escaped serious injury while out driving Tuesday evening.

Just as their carriage was turning the bend at "the notch" on Somerset street above Mountain avenue, an automobile was encountered coming in the opposite direction. The horse shied, jumping clear to the opposite side of the road, breaking the shafts, and overturning the surrey. Mrs. Heidloff and the children were thrown heavily to the ground. They all escaped without serious injury, but Mrs. Heidloff was badly bruised about the arms and body, and her daughter Lulu had her knee cap thrown out of joint.

The automobile was guided by Mr. Wright, of Shorthills. As soon as the horse shied, he stopped the machine, prevented the horse from running away and assisted to fix up the broken carriage.

It was necessary for Mrs. Heidloff and the children to return home by trolley.

A. O. H. STATE LODGE.

Date of Annual Meeting Has Been Changed From July to August.

The officers of the State lodge of New Jersey, Ancient Order of Hibernians, have decided to postpone the annual meeting of this year from July to August, so that the session will be held after the national lodge meets in Denver, early in August. New Jersey will be represented at Denver by State President James E. Clinton, of Trenton.

In past years the State body met just prior to the meeting of the national lodge, but this has been found impracticable, as frequently considerable of the business transacted at the State convention is made void by the legislation enacted by the national lodge. This is particularly true with rules and regulations. After the Denver meeting, the State lodge can meet, and, knowing the laws to govern the order, it can so shape its legislation as to prevent any confliction. The State meeting will be held in this city.

The term of State President James E. Clinton will expire this year, and it is not known whether or not he will accept a renomination.

Report of Morristown Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary held yesterday at the Public Library the detailed minutes of the report of the convention held recently at Morristown were read, also an interesting letter from France telling of the work being carried on there in an encouraging manner.

It was reported at the meeting that a legacy of $500 would soon be received by the association, and it was hoped that this would prove an incentive for others to do likewise. This was the last meeting of the association until October.

Reform Hall Tonight.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will speak at the service in Reform Hall this evening. Song service will begin at 8 o'clock and at the close of the meeting ice cream and cake will be served. The services at the hall have been largely attended for the past few weeks and the members of the club are very much encouraged because of the increased interest manifested in the work.

Service for Odd Fellows.

Rev. William C. Nelson will address the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Queen City Lodge, No. 226, and Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., will attend the meeting. Miss Clara J. Mears will sing and there will also be special instrumental music. All men are invited.

Rescue Mission's Attractions.

Following the regular meeting of the Rescue Mission, this evening, an especially entertaining programme is to be provided. One of the features will be a mock trial and possibly a debate on annexation. The committee in charge has a number of other good things prepared for the occasion.

Temperance Meeting.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the temperance meeting to be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Miss Elizabeth Goodwin, a well-known member of the Y. W. C. T. U., will speak.

EQUIPMENT OF NEW WAGON

PLANS FOR NEW CHEMICAL ENGINE AND HOSE WAGON.

Will Have Long Ladders, Hand Extinguishers and Other Fire Fighting Apparatus.

Chief Doane and members of the councilmanic fire committee have made a number of alterations in the designs for the new West End combination chemical and hose wagon, which will make it a hook and ladder truck as well.

Longer ladders will be placed on the sides and in place of a basket to hold the chemical hose, a reel is to be provided, similar to the one on the present chemical enigne. A standing platform and guards will be on each side and the specifications call for as much space between the front and rear wheels as can possibly be made.

A better system of lights is projected and room is to be provided for a large quantity of small fire fighting apparatus such as chemical cans of three gallons capacity, axes, poles and hooks.

The contract will be let within a short time and it is hoped the new vehicle will be ready for service by the latter part of August.

PLANNING TO SEE THE POPE

PLAINFELD'S PRIESTS SAIL ON PILGRIMAGE JULY 1.

Go With Party of American Roman Catholics Who Will Vist Rome and Other Parts of Europe.

Rev. Andrew M. Egan, of St. Mary's church, this city, and Rev. William H. Miller, St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, will sail for Europe July 1 by the Italian liner, Nord America. They will form part of a pilgrimage of American Catholics that will visit Rome in honor of the pontifical jubilee of Leo XIII.

The object of the pilgrimage is not only Rome, its churches and catacombs, but also other places of religious interest, Padua Paray le Momal, and it will preach Laurdes August 15, the feast of the Assumption, an interesting day at the great French shrine.

Arrangements have been made for an audience with the Pope. At this audience His Holiness will be presented with an album, embellished with the papal colors, and bearing on leaves of parchment the name and address of each visitor, and also the diocese to which he belongs. Word has been received that a visit from an American deputation would give great pleasure to the Pope.

After leaving Rome the party will visit Naples, Venice, Lucerne, Milan, Geneva, Lyons, Marseilles, various points along the Rhine, and afterwards a trip will be made to the British Isles.

Besides Father Egan and Father Miller it is expected that about forty priests of this diocese will take the voyage. They will leave Liverpool on their return home August 27, arriving in New York, September 4.

HOME WEDDING.

Ceremony Was a Quiet One and Not Made Generally Public.

The marriage of Mrs. Marie Blume, of West Front street, to George Geibelhouse, of Arlington avenue, took place Saturday evening, May 24, at the home of the bride. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leifke, of West Front street, stood up with the couple, while there were several members of the bride's family and friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Geibelhouse expect to spend the summer at Newport.

Successful Fete.

The lawn fete, held at Mrs. Evarts Tracy's on Saturday, May 24, realized a good sum for the benefit of fresh air work in New York. After all expenses had been paid there was a balance of $255.15. The expenses were $20.85. The members of the Lenten Sewing class thank the public for the generous response to their appeal.

Death of Mrs. Brunson.

The death of Mrs. Caroline R. Brunson occurred this morning at the Park Avenue Hotel about 6 o'clock, following a large illness. She was the daughter of the late Jeremiah VanDeventer, and has always been a resident of Plainfield. Two children, Augustus Brunson, a lawyer, and Miss Mary V. D. Brunson, survive her.

Children's Day at Mt. Olive.

The Children's Day exercises at the Mt. Olive Baptist church will be held a week from Sunday.

ADVICE FOR DR. RICHARDS

Members of Crescent Avenue Church Expressed Varied Opinions of Pastor's Call.

MANY WERE PRESENT.

While All Were Sorry to See Him Go, Some Prominent Men Declared That He Was Needed in the Greater Sphere of Usefulness—The Several Speakers.

Fully five hundred members of the Crescent Avenue church and congregation assembled at the church last evening in response to an announcement that there would be a conference of the church and congregation with the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, for the purpose of giving counsel and advice to the pastor relative to the recent call extended to him by the members of the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York. There was a deep interest manifested and many prominent members made remarks on the subject.

The meeting was held in the main part of the church and Dr. Richards presided. Several hymns were sung, lead by E. C. Martin as precentor, and prayers were offered by L. N. Lovell and William D. Murray, asking for God's guidance in the matter under consideration.

Following the devotional exercises, Dr. Richards made a few remarks in which he stated the object of the meeting. He then spoke in a more personal manner concerning the subject. He said that if there should be a question raised about his going, his desire to stay in Plainfield would be stronger than that of going to New York. He considered the recent call one of unique importance and made reference to the fact that it is through the church that a pastor works. He referred to the larger field in a congested population of a big city, where the needs are greater and there are more opportunities.

"God's kingdom and its advancement," said Dr. Richards, "is a paramount question and for that reason this call has forced itself upon me as nothing has before in my life. I have not given my decision in this matter and at present I will not. This meeting was called for the purpose of giving advice and counsel which I have a right to ask from the members of my church."

Dr. Richards spoke in a feeling way of the many years he has been with the Crescent Avenue church and of the strong ties of friendship and love now existing which would make a severance very hard.

After Dr. Richards concluded his remarks, W. H. Sampson arose to make inquiries concerning the mission work connected with the Brick church in New York. The question was not easily answered for not a great deal is known concerning it.

Charles J. Fisk, a trustee of the church, was the next speaker. Addressing Dr. Richards, he said: "I love you as a pastor, a friend, an advisor and as a man. You are a man of conviction and not afraid to do your duty as you see it. You came here when a younger man and you have been faithful to your trust. You have endeared yourself to this church which as grown to be one of the most influential in New Jersey.

"If the members of this church were asked to vote on the question of your resigning your pastorate here there would be a unanimous vote in favor of your remaining in Plainfield, but a careful consideration of the question the matter is left to you to decide. The Brick church has said to us 'Let us have your pastor,' and I do not see how, under the circumstances you can say no. It is the largest and most influential church in the country and I would say go to the greater Christian church with its greater opportunities. If Dr. Richards says yes to the call the members of this church should say go and may the blessings of God go with him."

H. M. Humphrey was the third speaker, and he said it seemed to him that it was a meeting where one must speak or forever hold his peace afterward. Mr. Humphrey referred to Dr. Parkhurst's work in New York in the reform movement and of the hard work that would surely come to Dr. Richards should he accept the call extended to him. He did not believe that Dr. Richards would be as useful

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The report that the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey is to establish a pension scheme for its employes is new evidence of the effort being made to modernize this railroad. The plan of pensioning employes was first adpoted by the Pennsylvania, and is being followed by other railroads. It is not a benevolent enterprise, but a business necessity, required by modern railroad methods and the result of legal tests as to railroad responsibility for the life and safety of employes. But it is a good thing, none the less, as experience has shown.—Newark Call.

Those persons who are attempting to prove that a pipe dug up at Five Mile Dam, two miles from Bound Brook, on the bowl of which was caried "G. W., 1779," was not the property of George Washington, have not allowed in their calculations for the peculiarities of human nature. They call attention to the fact that history records that George did not smoke and that he was not anywhere near Bound Brook in 1779. Still they must admit that he had many friends in that vicinity, and as it is the ordinary thing for people to give presents that the recipient has no use for, G. W. may have been the victim of misguided generosity. Such being the case, and as he was noted for giving vent to his feelings on occasion, it may be taken for granted that he returned the pipe to the donor, who, in disgust over the rejection of his gift, threw it away. This explanation is plausible and should entitle the pipe to a secure resting place in one of the Washington headquarters in New Jersey.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

At Keith's New York Theatre the programme offered for the coming week is of undeniable excellence, and goes far to bear out the boast of that house that no really good act ever escapes Keith's.

The head-liners on this exceptional bill are McIntyre and Heath, who will present their screamingly comical act entitled "On Guard," which has won for them name and fame. Marion Elmore, Sidney Booth and Lena Merville will appear in their absolutely original comedy sketch "The Two Juliets;" The Three Livingstons, wonderful acrobatic performers; Tom Almond, the Australian comedian and dancer; The Gleesons, in their high-class dancing specialties; Morrissey and Rich, well known for eccentric comedy; Montgomery and Pearl, with a musical sketch; Hafford and Worth, vocalists, and more than a dozen other artists of European reputation, make up an offering of such excellence as to be noteworthy even in Keith's Theatre. Noon till 11 p. m., 50 cents.

HER LAST WORDS.

Husband and Son Do Not Agree as to What They Were.

There seems to be some question as to what was said by Mrs. Scott Wallace just before her death relative to the union among the colored churches of Plainfield. Rev. Scott Wallace says that the statement made yesterday—a statement made on the authority of her son—that she expressed any wish in regard to union is a fabrication. He also asserts that it is his own request that the clergymen of Plainfield be present and assist at the funeral.

Quietly Married.

Mrs. Marie Blume, of West Front street, and George Geibelhouse, of Arlington avenue, were married, Saturday evening, May 24, by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The bride and groom will spend the summer at Newport, R. I.

—There will be an important meeting of the W. C. T. U. held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

FOR BASEBALL.

A New Attraction for Trolley Resort That is Being Built on the Raritan, Near Bound Brook.

The Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company has announced a new feature for its park now in course of construction on the Raritan river, near Bound Brook. To the many other attractions provided a baseball diamond has been planned. It will be built at a convenient location and will be laid out in the most approved manner. A level stretch of ground splendidly adapted for a ball field has been selected. The company will rent the diamond to local nines, and it will also arrange for exhibition game of baseball between well known out-of-town clubs.

Work on the several other features of the park are also progressing favorably. The foundations for the theatre structure and the dancing pavilion have been laid and the work on the superstructure of these buildings is being pushed just as rapidly as possible. They will be in excellent shape for the opening of the park on June 15.

The docks to be built in the river above the dam, where persons may embark in launches and row boats, are also well under way and will be completed in due season.

LITERARY.

The issue of The Outlook for June 7 is the thirteenth annual recreation number. The leading features are "Hunting Big Game with the Camera," by A. G. Wallihan; "When You Meet a Bear," by W. J. Long; "Mountain Climbing," by Charles E. Fay; "Camping for Women," by Martha Coman; "Lost in the Woods," by George Kennan; "Behind the Guns," by James Barnes; "The Salmon Leap," (a beautiful picture illustrating a passage from Isaak Walton); and "Winning a Y," by Walter Camp. There are also Dr. Hale's "Memories," an illustrated article on Jane Austen's Home, a good story, and interesting, timely portraits. The number is richly illustrated with drawings by Charles S. Chapman, Philip R. Goodwin, Henry Sandham, J. Conacher, and F. C. Gordon; and photographs by A. G. Wallihan, J. Horace McFarland, and others.

The leading article in the June Forum—the last issue of that magazine before its transformation into a quarterly—is contributed by Prof. Felix Adler, who writes on "The Philippine War: Two Ethical Questions." O. P. Austin effectively uses the commercial statistics of recent years to demonstrate "Our Growing Dependence upon the Tropics," and shows the bearing of this fact upon the possibilities of our acquisitions in the East. An important political problem in connection with these acquisitions is considered, in the light of European experience, in Prof. Paul S. Reinsch's paper on "Representation and Colonial Government." Prof. S. J. McLean deals with "Railway Rate Regulation in Canada," a subject which the Canadian Government last year appointed him to investigate. Some strange anomalies in "The Municipal Situation in Ohio" are described by Prof. S. P. Orth. The debit and credit sides of "Our Legacy to the Cuban Republic" are contrasted by Albert G. Robinson. "Japan's Mission in the Far East" is expounded by T. Iyenaga as the function of a mediator between the Western Powers and China. W. J. Shearer protests against "Faulty Grading in our Public Schools," and F. Burk shows the possibility of harmonious relations between "The Old Education and the New." This month's number concludes with two literary articles—"Among the Constantinople Bookshops," by Dr. Henry Otis Dwight, and "Victor Hugo, the Novelist," by Prof. Moritz Levi.

PERSONAL.

T. J. McGann, of Lincoln place, has returned from a visit to Rhode Island.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson, of Crescent avenue, have gone to Alexandria Bay, N. Y., to spend the summer.

Wm. Cogswell and family, who have been the guests of Horace J. Martin for the past winter, left today for Atlantic City.

Hours of Meeting.

Commencing next Saturday the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will meet at 11:45 in the morning and the Christian Endeavor Society will meet in the afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Bears Its Name.

A galvanized iron cornice has been placed over the top of the front of the Plainfield Trust Company building, and the name of the company will be put there in large letters.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS.

State Convention Harmonious—The Ticket Nominated.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 5.—At the Democratic state convention held here today there was a remarkable lack of excitement. Candidates for all but three of the offices were chosen by acclamation. The hardest fight on the floor of the convention was for the office of secretary of state, the struggle being between Schoonover and Ballou. The friends of Mr. Ballou brought him forward at a late hour, but they made such a vigorous fight that for a time they had Mr. Schoonover's friends in trouble.

While there was no fight in the convention proper, there was a battle royal in the meeting of the committee on resolutions. A number of the friends of William J. Bryan from the Second district were very earnestly in favor of the insertion in the platform of a plank indorsing him and the Kansas City platform. The majority of the committee was against any such indorsement, saying they considered it out of place at the present time to inject Mr. Bryan's name into the state campaign. The fight lasted well into the night, and it was nearly noon before the report of the committee was ready for presentation to the convention.

The Philippine plank also created much discussion.

The ticket named is as follows:

Secretary of state, Albert Schoonover; attorney general, W. E. Stilwell; state auditor, James R. Riggs; state treasurer, Jerome Herff; clerk of the supreme court, Adam Heimberger; superintendent of public instruction, Samuel L. Scott; statistician, Myron D. King; state geologist, Edward Barrett, and judge of the supreme court, Fifth district, Timothy E. Howard.

HERBERT FOR EMBASSADOR.

Appointment of Lord Pauncefote's Successor Officially Announced.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—It is officially announced from London that the Hon. Michael Herbert, first secretary of the British embassy at Paris, will succeed Lord Pauncefote as British embassador at Washington.

The British government had asked the president, through the secretary of state, whether the Hon. Michael Herbert would be acceptable to the United States government as embassador from Great Britain to succeed the late Lord Pauncefote. The secretary of state replied that this appointment would be eminently satisfactory.

Mr. Herbert is the first secretary of the British embassy at Paris and was formerly first secretary of the legation in this city under Sir Julian Pauncefote. He is a brother of Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, and his wife was Miss Wilson of New York, a daughter of R. T. Wilson and a sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

Austrian Strike Ended.

VIENNA, June 5.—A compromise between the contractors and the striking workmen at Lemberg has been reached, and the strike has been called off.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Oriental advices reported fears in China of another Boxer uprising.

Yaqui Indians ambushed Mexican troops near Hermosillo, killing thirty. A general uprising is reported.

Eight miners were burned to death by an explosion of gas at a colliery at Dowlais, Glamorganshire, Wales.

Four prisoners in the Somerville (N. J.) county jail by cleverly manipulating the lever locking their cells effected their escape.

The Gusyran, a mud volcano in Caucasia, was reported in eruption. The country adjacent is enveloped in flames, and flocks of sheep were destroyed.

WATER FILLS MINES

Operators Forced to Abandon Some Collieries.

MORE MEN OBEY STRIKE ORDER.

Only Minor Disturbances Reported In the Anthracite Regions—President Mitchell Praises the Conduct of His Followers.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 5.—More engineers, firemen and pump runners obeyed the call of the miners' union and struck yesterday, but in most instances the coal company officials were able to fill the places of the strikers. The Susquehanna Coal company's colliery No. 5, at Nanticoke, was the worst sufferer, all the firemen refusing to go to work, which compelled the company to shut down the engines. This colliery furnishes the power for the water supply of Nanticoke, and unless the engines are again started the borough will have a water famine to contend with. There was a fire in the town during the day, and as the fire alarm is sounded by means of the colliery whistle there was considerable trouble and delay before the volunteer firemen could be called to the scene of the fire. The company, it is said, will allow its mines to fill with water and let the borough get its water supply as best it can.

It was comparatively quiet in the Wyoming valley. There was the usual gathering of crowds at several collieries at starting and stopping time, but nothing of a serious nature occurred. Some men were stoned on their way to and from work, and several were thrown into pools of water. The fear of bodily harm is causing more men to quit work than are the arguments of the strikers.

President Mitchell is kept busy in his headquarters. He will say nothing regarding his visit to Scranton, where he met Frank P. Sargent, chief of the locomotive firemen. Regarding the general strike situation he said everything was progressing satisfactorily, that more men were coming out each day and that the idle men are behaving themselves well. In emphasizing the latter statement Mr. Mitchell said the chief of the Wilkesbarre police told him that during the twenty-one days the strike has been on there have been fewer arrests than during the same number of days prior to the suspension of work. Among the arrests that were made not one was a miner. The national president had no comment to make when informed that the New York board of trade had decided to ask President Roosevelt to take up the task of trying to end the great struggle.

Water Rising In Mine.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., June 5.—Strikers' pickets were out in force yesterday and turned back bosses on their way to work at Tunnel Ridge colliery. The water is rising rapidly in the mine, and unless pumping is resumed soon the ruination of the underground workings is inevitable. Mine Foreman Terrill was kept a prisoner at the colliery for two hours through fear of violence. The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company through counsel has served notice upon Mayor Leonard that its employees have been mobbed in the streets on their way to work. Mayor Leonard replied that he would preserve peace at all hazards.

Bloody Labor Riots.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., June 5.—A riot broke out yesterday between several hundred striking molders and non-union employees of the American Steel and Foundry company, and as a result five men, two nonunion negro workers and three white strikers, were shot, two of the latter fatally. The trouble occurred when a train load of negroes imported by the steel company to take the places of strikers reached Granite City. As the men were proceeding through a narrow lane to their work in the mills they were first threatened by the strikers and then assailed with stones. Revolvers were then brought into play, and shots were fired by both sides with the above result.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 5.—Because they refused to man the pumps and firerooms the fire bosses at Henry Clay shaft, operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, were discharged yesterday. The mine, which has been idle since Monday, is filling with water and in a short time, unless the water hoist is operated, will reach an upper level and flood the Sterling colliery, owned by the same company. The water in the Excelsior and Corbin collieries, owned by Andrew Robertson & Co., is ascending the workings, as no men have taken the strikers' places.

President Urged to Act.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—President Roosevelt spent some time yesterday afternoon considering the proposition of the New York board of trade and transportation that he appoint a commissioner to investigate the strike situation in the anthracite regions with the view to effecting an arbitration of the differences between the miners and operators. It is stated that the president has not yet decided what action he will take in response to the suggestion.

Thrives on Borax.

BERLIN, June 5.—Medical men in Germany continue their animated discussion as to whether or not the consumption of borax is injurious to the human system. This discussion has brought out the fresh fact that Professor Virchow, the world's foremost physiologist, has taken a dose of borax daily for years past and that this has resulted in benefit to his health. Professor Virchow celebrated his eightieth birthday by taking a double dose of borax.

AN ALL DAY FIGHT.

Bloodshed Results From Chicago Strike Riots.

NONUNION DRIVERS CUT AND BRUISED

Disgraceful Scenes Witnessed In Chicago Streets—Police Unable to Handle the Angry Crowds. Packers Move Some Meat.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Driven by men covered with dust and blood, many of them barely able from exhaustion to hold the reins in their hands, thirty-six meat wagons entered the main gate of the Union stockyards last night amid a shower of stones, bricks, bottles and sticks. The wagons, guarded by five police wagons filled with bluecoats and two omnibuses crowded to the fullest capacity with policemen, were on their return from a delivery of supplies to downtown provision houses after one of the fiercest days in the strike of the beef packers' teamsters. Many of the drivers, who are officials at the packing houses, were cut and bruised from head to foot. The police were in even worse condition. The wagon drivers had been working from 5 o'clock in the morning, and their progress from the stockyards into the city's business district and back again had been contested bitterly by mobs of strike sympathizers. At the very entrance of the stockyards, after all seeming danger had passed, George June, an employee of the Anglo-American Packing company, was struck by a baseball bat and knocked from his wagon seat. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and it is believed that he may die.

Many others were struck at the same time by a shower of stones, but the police were too worn out to offer resistance.

More than a dozen battles were fought during the day between the rioters and the police, and the hospitals last night were overcrowded with the injured. The fiercest battle of the day took place in the afternoon at Sixteenth street and Michigan avenue. The rioters stood on the viaduct and hurled rocks at the meat wagons passing underneath. The throng was the most formidable in numbers and in glaring of any of the crowds that gathered during the day. Before this mob could be dispersed the police were compelled to use revolvers. More than fifty shots were fired, the bullets passing over the heads of the crowd, which finally became frightened and scattered, but not until many of the rioters and policemen had suffered serious injuries.

A conference was held last night between representatives of the packers and the teamsters looking to a settlement of the strike. President Frederick W. Job, chairman of the state board of arbitration, brought about the meeting. A settlement of the strike of the drivers of delivery wagons of the retail State street department stores earlier in the day formed the basis on which the opposing elements hoped to effect a compromise.

Compromise In Rice Will Contest.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 5.—A partial compromise has been entered into between H. B. Rice, administrator of the estate of W. M. Rice, the recluse millionaire, for whose murder Albert T. Patrick is now under sentence of death, and O. T. Holt, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Rice, in whose interest Patrick claimed to have been working. Under the agreement Mr. Holt has filed two instruments relinquishing all claim to the estate of W. M. Rice, the consideration in each being $53,000. Some of the heirs under the will of Mrs. Rice are not included in the settlement.

Notorious Burglar Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—William Dowd, said to be the leader of a gang of burglars who have operated throughout the Dominion of Canada and for whom the British authorities have been searching for months, is in prison here, awaiting extradition papers. Dowd, who is also said to be known as Frank Williams and Henry Blanchard, was arrested in Chambersburg, Pa., by Deputy United States Marshal Myers of this city, where he had been serving a six months' sentence for carrying concealed deadly weapons. Dowd was identified by a gunshot wound in his arm.

Russia Regrets Peace.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 5.—The newspapers here comment rather freely upon the conclusion of peace in South Africa and express undisguised regret that the war there is over. The press voices the feeling that the release of Great Britain from her entanglements in South Africa will leave that country a free hand to oppose Russia wherever the policies of the two nations conflict.

Bridge Workers Refuse Offer.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 5.—The Empire Bridge company has offered to take back the 400 union men who went out on a strike Monday, as well as the union men previously discharged, if within twenty-four hours they would return as individuals and pledge themselves not to continue as members of the union. The men rejected the proposition and voted to continue the strike.

Car Equipment Plant Burned.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The Illinois Car Equipment company's plant at Hegewisch, a southern suburb of Chicago, was burned last night. The company was engaged in the building of railway freight cars and employed 1,100 men, practically the entire population of the town. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and cooler; fresh north winds.

ON PELEE'S PEAK.

Professor Heilprin Looked Into Volcano's Crater.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, June 5.—Professor Angelo Heilprin, president of the Philadelphia Geographical society, who is here for the National Geographical society, has returned from his explorations of the crater on the summit of Mont Pelee. Professor Heilprin is well and in good spirits. He has rested from the fatigues of his last trip and is ready for more work.

The following important points have been settled by Professor Heilprin: The location of the new crater has been accurately determined. It is positively known that there has been no overflow of molten matter from the lip of the crater. There has been no subsidence of the mountain, and the height of Mont Pelee is unchanged. The crater does not contain a cinder cone. There has been no cataclysm and no topographical alteration of the country. The period of violent eruptions has probably ended, although the volcano may continue to be quietly active for a long time to come.

Referring to his expedition, Professor Heilprin said:

"As we stood on the edge of the crater a sublime spectacle began. I now have some conception of what is going on inside the earth and have been a spectator of nature's secret interior work. We were assailed with noise. Far below there was a hissing of steam like a thousand locomotives, as well as violent detonations. The principle output of the crater while we were there was steam. The phenomena were limited and were not essentially different from those of other volcanoes in action. Positive assurance was gained that no molten matter has flowed over the lip of the new crater.

"Several observations taken with the aneroid barometer showed that the height of Mont Pelee has not been changed. I agree with Professor Robert T. Hill, the geologist of the United States government, that Mont Pelee has erupted no lava and that there has been no cataclysm nor any serious topographical alterations. No cinder cone was visible in the crater. What was taken for a cone is a pile of ejected rocks. Perhaps the bottom of the new crater may contain a cinder cone, but we could see down only about 150 or 200 feet. I believe, however, that the crater is very much deeper than this.

"The eruption of Mont Pelee of May 8 was unique in that it resulted in the greatest destruction of life and property ever known by direct agency of a volcano. The phenomenon of the explosion of flaming gases is probably new, but a careful study of observations is necessary before an opinion can be reached. The electrical phenomena are also new. They probably did not play the chief role in the destruction of St. Pierre, but were developed by and aided the other forces. I have specimens which show the effect of the bolts of lightning. The latter were small and intense and penetrated within the houses of the city. For rapidity of action and for lives destroyed Mont Pelee holds the record among volcanoes."

Change at Custom House.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The treasury department has determined on a new method of handling express matter from abroad through the customs port at New York which will expedite its delivery several days. The new plan is the result of a personal investigation by Secretary Shaw, who has spent several days in New York looking into the passage of express matter through that port. Hereafter each morning the express companies will deposit a lump sum with the subtreasury large enough to cover all possible customs charges on the day's consignment. Upon its arrival all express matter will be sent to the general storage. There, in the presence of a representative of the collector of the port, a representative of the express companies and a representative of the appraiser, the packages will be unpacked and examined. The amount of the duties will be paid by the express companies from the deposit in the subtreasury, and thereupon the express packages will be released and will be forwarded by the express companies to their destination. It is estimated that in this way the saving in time will be from eight to ten days at least.

State Senator Indicted.

BALTIMORE, June 5.—The grand jury of Dorchester county has returned three indictments against State Senator William F. Applegarth, a leading Democratic member of the legislature, a prominent aspirant for congressional nomination and the wealthiest man in his county. The first two charge him with trying to corruptly influence the grand jury. The third presents him for violating the local option law by selling liquor at his store. The indictments have created a sensation in Maryland.

Von Wahl's Assailants to Die.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 5.—Two men named Hirsch and Leckert have been sentenced to death for having inflicted wounds upon Lieutenant General von Wahl, the governor of Vilna. The recent attempt to assassinate Governor von Wahl, in which he was wounded in the hand and foot, arose from his wholesale flogging of political prisoners.

Children's Fatal Quarrel.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 5.—At Winton during a children's quarrel Mamie Cubellis, aged eleven years, was struck behind the ear with an iron rivet by Stephen Cheyon, aged ten, and died in a few minutes.

A Pencil Maker's Munificence.

BERLIN, June 5.—Carl Faber of Munich, a son of the late Johann Faber, the pencil manufacturer, has given $250,000 to the Germanic museum at Nuremberg and to the Bavarian National museum at Munich.

INJUNCTION AGAINST TRUST.

Beef Packing Companies Get a Hard Blow In New York State.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 5.—Justice Chester has granted an injunction restraining the beef packing companies of the west from carrying on business in this state in violation of the provisions of the Donnelly antitrust law.

The order was served upon the representatives of the concerns in this city and Troy and will be served on others throughout the state as quickly as they can be reached. It was obtained upon the affidavit of D. W. Meredith, a former manager of Swift & Co.

The injunction is directed against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Cudahy Packing company, the Hammond company, the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger company, domestic and foreign corporations, and against Nelson Morris, Edward Morris and Ira Morris, copartners carrying on business as Nelson Morris & Co.

The order directs that their managers, agents, attorneys and servants and all persons acting for them are restrained and enjoined from fixing and determining by combining together the prices to be charged for meat and from agreeing between themselves as to the supply of meat to be brought into this state by them and from acting upon any understanding tending to diminish such supply and from fixing or maintaining prices of their and each other's products by agreement between them.

They are also enjoined from acting under any agreement whereby the price of labor shall be affected or competition therein affected and also from maintaining uniform rules for credit to dealers or fixing uniform prices for cartage.

In obtaining the injunction Attorney General Davies asked that it be made permanent, and Judge Chester directed that it "continue until the other or further order of the court."

Writ of Ouster Against Packers.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—The supreme court has directed a writ of ouster to issue against the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger Packing company and suspended the same on condition that the company comply with the state laws relating to corporations within five days. The question of fine was reserved until further orders of the court. The other packers against whom similar information was filed were given until June 18 to respond and file return to rule.

The Case of Gaynor and Greene.

QUEBEC, Que., June 5.—The counsel for Colonel Gaynor and Captain Greene, who are wanted in Savannah, Ga., for alleged fraud in government contract work, have filed answer to the petition of the prosecution to set aside habeas corpus writs under which the two prisoners were brought from Montreal to Quebec. The prisoners want the case taken out of the hands of Extradition Commissioner La Fontaine of Montreal and to have the Quebec courts decide upon the legality of their sensational arrest in Quebec and their liability to extradition under the present treaty. Counsel representing the United States government petitioned the court to set aside the habeas corpus proceedings by which the men were taken away from Montreal. The answer to this petition alleges that the accused were violently taken away on warrants illegally issued in Montreal.

Ard Patrick Won Derby.

LONDON, June 5.—J. Gubbin's brown colt Ard Patrick, at 7 to 1 against, ridden by J. H. Martin, the American jockey, won the Derby, with Colonel H. McCalmont's Rising Glass second and the Duke of Portland's Friar Tuck third. Eighteen horses ran. The favorite, Scepter, at 5 to 4 on, was unplaced, finishing fourth.

CANAL BILL TAKEN UP

Senator Morgan Opens the Debate.

NICARAGUA ROUTE STRONGLY URGED

Chairman of Committee on Interoceanic Waterway Does Not Deem Danger From Seismic Disturbances Worth Consideration.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Discussion of the project of constructing an isthmian canal was begun by the senate yesterday. Mr. Morgan (Ala.), chairman of the committee on interoceanic canals, opened the debate, speaking nearly three hours. A considerable portion of his speech was devoted to an examination of the recently suggested danger to the Nicaragua canal route by seismic disturbances. This danger, he concluded, after a careful review of many authorities, existed only in the imagination of those who desired to defeat any canal project. His study of the situation had convinced him that really there was greater danger from volcanic and earthquake disturbances to the Panama route than to the Nicaragua route, but he was satisfied that little danger to either was to be anticipated.

Mr. Morgan reviewed at length the political conditions in Colombia, finding in them a grave menace to the United States in the construction of a canal by the Panama route. He presented also the present phases of the diplomatic negotiations looking to the building of a canal by both the Nicaragua route and by the Panama route. He closed with a strong appeal for the passage of the Nicaragua bill.

The debate on the antianarchy bill continued all day in the house. It was without sensational features, being confined almost entirely to the legal and constitutional phases of the question. Mr. Jenkins (Wis.) and Mr. Parker (N. J.) contended that the bill did not go far enough; that the killing of the president should be made punishable by death without any limitation whatever.

Mr. Powers (Mass.) and Mr. Nevin (O.), the other two speakers, supported the measure as it came from the committee.

Marconi Station Completed.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Marconi Wireless Telegraph company has completed its new station at Sagaponack, near Bridgehampton, on Long Island. This will supplement the Nantucket station's work in furnishing maritime information. The American line has signified its intention of installing the Marconi system now used on the Philadelphia on board the St. Louis and the St. Paul. The United States coast survey has made arrangements to use the device on board of one of its steamers, and the United States signal corps has signed a contract for its employment in Alaska. The company expects to complete its primary station at South Wellfleet, Cape Cod, for transoceanic messages about June 22.

A New Political Labor Party.

DENVER, June 5.—The organization of a new political labor party has finally been agreed upon by the western labor union convention, which adopted a declaration for socialism and independent political action. The convention has adopted the name of the American Labor union for the organization and voted to send organizers throughout the east. President Daniel McDonald says the party will not enter the political field with nominations for at least another year.

Only American Yacht Entered.

KIEL, June 5.—It has been learned from an unofficial source that the yacht Virginia II., belonging to Isaac Stern, an uncle of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, is the only American yacht which has thus far been entered for the Kiel regattas this summer. As the entries for the regattas close next Sunday it is hardly expected that any other American yachts will be listed for competition.

Exploding Locomotive Kills Two.

PIEDMONT, W. Va., June 5.—A Baltimore and Ohio locomotive blew up near Piedmont, instantly killing Fireman Robert Graham of Cumberland and E. Smith of Rowlesburg, W. Va. Engineer W. G. Lynn of Cumberland, Md., was badly hurt, but may recover. Brakeman Charles Powell of Grafton was fatally hurt. The engine is a total wreck, and tracks were blocked.

Bicycle Records Broken.

BALTIMORE, June 5. — Howard Freeman lowered the world's two-mile motor paced bicycle record in the second heat of his race with De Guichard at the local Coliseum. The former world's record was 14m. 40 3-5s., made at the Pan-American exposition last year on Aug. 15 by Harry Elkes. Freeman's new figure is 14m. 47 4-5s.

Governor Odell Returns.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 5.—Governor Odell has returned from his extended western trip and is at his desk in the executive chamber. He stated that he had had a most delightful trip and that his health had been greatly benefited thereby. He expects to remain in Albany for three or four weeks.

Cuxhaven Docks Completed.

BERLIN, June 5.—After twelve years of labor the great docks at Cuxhaven are now completed. They were built by the state of Hamburg and were leased by it to the Hamburg-American Steam Packet company for a period of twenty-five years.

Mr. Kruger Ill.

BRUSSELS, June 5.—A dispatch received here from Utrecht says that Mr. Kruger is seriously indisposed and confined to his bed.

MUZZLE THE DOGS.

It has been customary for the police to annually start a campaign against unmuzzled dogs. It has generally been the policy to gather in the canines themselves but this year Chief Kiely is trying the experiment of gathering in the owners themselves. Although due notice was given of the campaign through the newspapers, there were many who did not see the notice or else heeded it not. As a result, quite a little gathering of highly respected citizens took place in the city court room.

Those who were haled before the City Judge were no greater offenders than hundreds of others. The only trouble was that an example had to be made of somebody and they were unlucky enough to be the ones selected. Sentence was suspended but it was announced that those arraigned in the future might not get off so easily.

It is perfectly proper that the city officials should insist upon the muzzling of all dogs running at large. It is so natural to wait until something happens before taking action that this preventive measure is specially to be commended. There is a city ordinance which requires that dogs should be muzzled at all times but it is not generally enforced except in the summer months. Then the police have to start a fresh crusade against those dogs which are allowed to go unmuzzled.

Plainfield has been particularly fortunate in being free from mad dogs. Occasionally one will run about the town carrying consternation in its path. It is to prevent incidents of that nature that it is insisted that muzzles be worn. Many people have believed that because the dog happened to be with its owner that a muzzle was not required. City Judge Runyon has ruled that a dog not held by a chain or cord is technically considered as running free, no matter how well it follows its master. It therefore behooves every citizen who owns a dog to see that the animal is properly muzzled.

There has been a temporary halt in the agitation for and against Greater Plainfield while the Union Association of the borough has awaited a reply from the Citizens Association. Martin I. Cooley, as president of the former, challenged Charles W. McCutchen, as president of the latter, to a joint debate, each side to name the speakers. No answer has yet been received to that letter as Mr. McCutchen is out of town. It is a question as to whether or not the challenge will be accepted. There does not seem to be any good reason why it should not but the "antis" may discover some. If the debate is held, it will serve to further the joint cause of consolidation and annexation. Try as they may, the "antis" have certain unanswerable arguments to confront them. They cannot get around the fact that this is a single community divided against itself.

Another meeting of the local league teams is booked for Saturday afternoon. Baseball is an uncertain quantity, after all, and there is no telling what will be the result. At the opening day of the league, the Y. M. C. A. team generally surprised the baseball enthusiasts over the comparatively poor showing it made. Now people are wondering what that team will do to the boys of the Hope Y. M. A.

The graduation season is at hand and all the local schools are preparing for that event. With the colleges and universities, the school ends earlier than does the term with the local schools. As a result the young people who attend the higher institutions of learning may be expected home for the long vacation in a very few days.

The Daily Press is not the only newspaper which has observed the good things that have come since the new administration took command of the Jersey Central Railroad affairs. The changes are being commented on all along the line.

It is encouraging to learn that the efforts of the City Board of Health to improve the standard of the milk supply have not been entirely without results. This is a subject which cannot have too much attention.

The storm sewer for Arlington avenue and the adjacent streets is something which the residents of that neighborhood have long been clamoring. They do not enjoy the floods which follow every rain.

The street sprinkler of the street railway company still continues to distribute its supply of water with a too generous hand.

June does not promise to follow the example of the preceding month and have a temperature below the average.

danger herein presented, to the end that appropriate action may be taken in this regard. Robt. H. Cook, Dated June 4, 1902. Foreman.

A resolution was also passed deploring the untimely death of James Robinson, the aged man who was robbed and burned at his home in Linden, and it was suggested that the Governor be asked to offer a suitable reward for the capture of the men implicated in the dastardly crime.

There were forty-three indictments presented by the Grand Jury, including some Plainfielders. In discharging the jurors, the Court extended its hearty thanks.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

A recognition sociable, a novel form of entertainment, will be held June 15 in the Methodist church. Ice cream and cake will be served and music will be furnished.

The Dunellen Juniors are getting subscriptions to raise money for the purpose of buying suits. A fair will be held on Dr. Brakeley's lawn at a later date.

The pupils of Whittier school are practicing the music which will be rendered at commencement. The programme will be fully as good as in other years.

Percy Cannon, who lived with Rev. N. J. Sproul for some time after his home was burned down, is now located on West Second street, Painfield.

Mrs. H. S. Garretson entertained Friendship Social Circle yesterday afternoon. The usual enjoyable time was held.

Saturday Dunellen will bat against Grogan, of Raritan, who is said to be the best pitcher in Somerset county.

It is probable that the Juniors will hold their annual Fourth of July celebration as usual this year.

Prayer meeting was held last evening in the Presbyterian chapel and was well attended.

It is rumored that the Eight Row will be used shortly as the site for a large factory.

John Wagner attended the meeting of the G. A. R. in Plainfield, last evening.

The brass band expects to be fully equipped with uniforms before very long.

Mrs. John Lane, of Westfield, visited friends in town yesterday.

The cornet band met for practice last evening in Apgar Hall.

The W. C. T. U. will hold its regular weekly meeting today.

Arthur Giles, of Plainfield, visited in town yesterday.

William Giles' condition is about the same.

NEW MARKET.

The graduation exercises of the public school June 28 will be about the same as in former years. A speaker will be secured and essays will be read by the graduates.

It is not probable that any Fourth of July celebration will be held in town this year.

The brass band will hold its regular weekly practice this evening in Recreation Hall.

A meeting of Friendship Council will be held this evening in Friendship Hall.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayes, of Randolphville, is ill.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A hasty settlement by the delinquents will save both trouble and expense as property upon which taxes are due will be sold and delinquent poll tax, will spend a time in the county jail.

The first strawberry and ice cream festival of the season is announced. The women of the Methodist church will hold their annual event in Excelsior Hall, Thursday evening, June 12.

Another batch of tax warrants for delinquent taxpayers has been issued by Judge Clark and placed in the hands of Special Constable Henry Guenier for collection.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Farther Light Society, of the Baptist church, will be held in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company met and transacted routine business in the company rooms last night.

Roger Haskard, of Grant avenue, Plainfield, has been visiting his grandmother, Mrs. John R. Haskard.

Mrs. Charles Clark, of Dover, this State, has been visiting at the home of friends in town.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet in the Library Rooms tonight at 8 o'clock

The Wednesday evening dances at Ivamy's pavillion have been resumed.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Ladies' Missionary Circle of the Baptist church met this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William H. Manning. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. L. Cubberley, and was of a devotional character.

Wm. Clawson has recovered from a short illness. He was seized with a violent pain in the side, Tuesday night, so that yesterday he was quite weak from the effects of it.

Thomas Brantingham is erecting a building which will consist of a number of box stalls. The process of construction is well under way.

Mrs Peter Johnson has returned home after a short visit with her sister in Newark.

Camp No. 41, P. O. S. of A., meets tonight in Washington Hall for routine business.

PLAINS COMMENCEMENT

Will Take Place in Scotch Plains Baptist Church on Evening of June 19.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 5—Commencement exercises of the Scotch Plains public school will be held in the Baptist church Thursday evening, June 19. Dr. Tomlinson, the well known author of Elizabeth, will make the address of the evening. The class of '02 which will leave school to take its place in the world is composed of Miss Lilian Fancher, president; Miss Minnie Meyers, Miss Blanch Merceir and Miss Edith Marsh.

Following the exercises in the church the members of the class will tender a reception to their friends in the assembly room of the school building.

The school year about to close has been one of the most successful ones in the history of the school. Under the guiding hand of Principal Howard D. White, who has been ably assisted by a most efficient corps of teachers, the school has maintained its high standard and today ranks with the best schools of the State. The Board of Education though has one regret for all the year has been such a promising one, and that is in the loss of Miss Johnston, the only one of the corps of the past year who will not be found at her post when school reopens in September. Owing to a happy event which it is said will take place in the near furture, Miss Johnston decided to give up teaching, much to the regret of not only the Board of Education but to the many friends she has made during her year's work at the school.

Those who have assisted in the success of the school during the past year and who will be found back at school after the usual summer vacation are: Principal, Howard D. White; Miss H. M. Squires, Miss Ella Squires, Miss Sadie Reger and Miss Pond.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Endress' seafood market can be relied upon for first-class goods. Delaware shad, Boston mackerel, white and bluefish are the specials for this week.

Thinking of putting in a mantel, tiled floor or fireplace? Consult R. B. VanArsdale at his office, 140 Central avenue, and have him furnish estimates. His prices are reasonable.

John H. Doane, proprietor of the "Sorosis" shoe store, is offering a fine line of low shoes. They are in great favor for summer wear and the new styles are graceful and comfortable.

The best time-piece, whether a large mantel clock or an alarm clock to disturb the morning slumber, [or a neat watch, can be obtained at remarkably low prices at L. Moraller & Sons, Park avenue.

Porch chairs are not to be dispensed with during the summer. They are as necessary to comfort as ice is to the pantry. Powlison & Jones have a large line of select from. Price?—why, low of course.

For provisions and groceries, George Kirch, the Liberty street grocer, has the reputation of keeping one of the best stocked stores in the city. Fruits and vegetables are always on hand at prices away below the level.

Noticed those Panama hats on the street and the comfortable smiles of the wearers? Of course, then why not be one of the latter? Harry Werner has them in profusion as well as many other of the popular styles.

Too much care can not be exercised in the selection of cooling drinks these warm days. Some of the much used concoctions do more harm than good. At Fowler's East Front street candy kitchen nothing but pure juices are used in all his soda flavors.

During the summer months a blue-flame oil stove is a blessing and a comfort in a house. It does away with a hot coal fire, thus allowing the house to remain cool. Hill & Schupp are selling this wickless, automatic and valveless oil stove at a reasonable price. Some of them can be used with oil or gas.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—A. F. Budlong and family, of Crescent avenue, moved today to Central avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dodge, of Bayonne, have taken up their residence in Plainfield.

—A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will be held this evening at 8 o'clock.

—Harry Zimmerman, of Dunellen, has taken a position with the New York Painting and Decorating Company.

—Antonio Arintano, women's tailor, has removed his place of business from 148 East Fifth street to 130 Watchung avenue.

—H. C. Squires, superintendent of Hope chapel Sunday-school, has leased John E. Stewart's house on West Seventh street for the summer.

—Mrs. G. W. F. Randolph, owner of the property at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, is having the same painted and otherwise improved.

—The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon. A full attendance is desired, as this will be the last meeting for the summer months.

Case Discontinued.

The case of Councilman Clarence L. Murphy against J. H. McVey, which was appealed from Justice Huff's court a few weeks ago, has been discontinued at the request of Mr. Murphy.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash has returned from a business trip to Trenton.

Ralph W. Christy, of Jersey City, has taken up his residence on Fairview avenue.

Lawyers Robert M. Clark and Francis J. Blatz have returned from a trip to Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, of West Eighth street, will leave the city in a few days for a two weeks' outing.

Miss Etta Johnson, of East Third street, has returned home after a visit of several days with Philadelphia friends.

Mrs. J. Herbert Case, of Duer street, who is ill with typhoid fever, is improved today and the chances for an early recovery are better.

Rev. George M. Francis, of the Baptist church, Westfield, will have charge of the meeting at the East Third Street chapel this evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Schloss, of East Front street, will attend the wedding of Mr. Scheuer, of Newark, to Miss Katz, of Paterson, which takes place this evening at Delmonico's, New York.

Mrs. Crowley and her three children, who are at the isolation hospital recovering from small-pox, expect to be able to return home within a few days. The desquamation stage is nearly over.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

REFRESHMENTS STOLEN.

So That Feature of Endeavor Meeting Was Not a Usual Success.

Disappointement was met by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society, of Hope chapel, last evening, which anticipated holding a social topped with the usual refreshment features. After the regular meeting the social committee proceeded to prepare cake and lemonade but to their great surprise the supply which had been left in an ante-room had disappeared.

An open window led to the belief that they had gone that way with the assistance of some small boys. The social was held but the ardor of the attendants was somewhat dampened by the knowledge that plans had miscarried.

Inspected Valuable Collection.

The Col. Julian Scott collection of Indian relics and paintings was inspected yesterday by various superintendents of museums of national importance. Among the visitors were the curators of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C., the Field Museum, Chicago, Ill., the Museum of Natural History, Philadelphia, and the department of natural history in the Metropolitan Museum., N. Y.

Iona Nominated Officers.

Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, met last evening, initiated one candidate and received ten propositions. There was also nomination of officers. The election will be held in two weeks. Miss Kennedy was the only one nominated for Pocohontas. After the meeting there was a social time among the members.

Marriage of Miss Ginna.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Ginna for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Tompkins Ginna, to Erickson Perkin, Wednesday evening, June 18, at "The Pines," the residence of the bride's parents. A limited number of invitations have been issued to the wedding and a large reception from 8 to 10 o'clock will follow.

Children's Day Exercises.

Children's Day exercises will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday under the auspices of the Sunday-school. After that the school will meet Sunday morning during the summer months.

BOERS IN MONTANA.

Hollander Colonists Have a Number of Thriving Settlements and More in Prospect.

Montana has several flourishing settlements of Boers, and it is announced that the coming summer will see the arrival of a new influx of the natives of Holland. The Boers who are in the state already are highly satisfied with the conditions there, and say their countrymen are coming to the state in large numbers, reports the Minneapolis Journal.

The Boer settlements in Montana are at Manhattan, in Gallatin county, near Big Timber, in Sweet Grass county, and around Wormser City, in Custer county. Rev. George Wormser, after whom the town of Wormser was named, is a leader among the Boer colonists.

The Boers in Montana are farmers and for a dozen years or more they have been making the land about their settlements bloom like the rose. Farming is natural to them and they have adapted themselves to the conditions in Montana as their countrymen did in South Africa with a wonderful facility.

They have constructed large irrigation ditches to feed their land with water, and one of their fine pieces of engineering work in the form of a big irrigation conduit near Big Timber has been purchased by the state.

The Boer immigrants scheduled to arrive in the state this summer will be distributed among the three colonies. Mr. Wormser, who manages many things for the Boers, has already made arrangements for their settlement on the land.

The Boers make good citizens and their neighbors of all nationalities speak well of them.

THE MAKE-UP OF A CONSUL.

Should Be a Man of Tact and Discretion and of Good Address and Bearing.

A consul is, in a certain sense, the representative of his country. To the people among whom he is stationed and to the local authorities he is the impersonation of his government, says the Forum. He should be a man of dignity, of self-possession, of good address and bearing, of tact and discretion, who should command the respect and confidence of foreign merchants and officials, and who should be honored even by his traveling countrymen. These qualifications cannot be determined by a civil service examination, but they are matters which should receive careful consideration. Hence, the president must be allowed some discretion in making a selection from among those whose names are presented to him by the board of examiners.

When Prince Gortchakoff was at the head of the Russian foreign office, the candidates for the diplomatic service, after passing the examination, were always granted an audience with his excellency, who then made a final decision by observing the manner in which they entered the room, the way in which they addressed him and their general deportment during the interview. A consul may know all about invoices and ships, and also about seals and sealing wax, but if he be rude and undignified, if he lack savoir faire and savoir vivre, he could serve his country to better advantage in that obscure region known as "the classic shades of private life."

WANTED TO WED WHITE GIRL.

Colored Man Was Willing to Do Anything to Obtain Bishop's Approval.

Bishop Conaty, rector of the Catholic university at Washington, while on a visit to Brooklyn recently told of a priest's experience in a small New England town. The clergyman was just about to retire for the night when he heard a knock at his door. He called: "Come in," and a black man presented himself and said, rather shamefacedly:

"Father, there is a girl outside. May I bring her in?"

Assent having been given, he disappeared for a moment and returned with a white woman and informed the scandalized priest that they wished to be married.

He was shown the door with promptness and the girl was severely admonished on the course she was pursuing.

Fifteen minutes later, says the New York Times, there came another knock and on opening the door the priest found himself again face to face with the would-be colored bridegroom.

With great indignation the priest said:

"I thought I sent you about your business before!"

The ebony-hued citizen paralyzed him with this reply:

"Yes, I know you did, Father James, but Mary and I have talked it over, and we thought maybe you would look at the matter differently if you knew I was willing to turn Irish."

Public Debts.

There are several states without debt, but no American city with the single exception of Washington, the local debt of which is an obligation of congress. State debts are decreasing steadily, but city debts are increasing.

The Making of Books.

Another "Life of Napoleon" is announced. Still, says the Chicago Record-Herald, it isn't likely that the world knows all about the Little Corporal even yet.

In the Interests of Good Health.

The druggists threaten to raise the price of ice cream soda. If they do, says the Chicago Record-Herald, the death rate should be lower next summer.

Farms in Cuba.

There were in 1899, 60,711 farms in Cuba, having an average size of 143 acres and an average cultivated area per farm of 13 acres. Only ten per cent. of the farm area and only three per cent. of the total area of the island was under cultivation. Matanzas and Havana provinces are the most highly cultivated parts of the island. Of the cultivated area, less than 50 per cent. was owned by its occupants, the rest being rented, and 85 per cent. was occupied by whites, as owners or renters, only 11 per cent. by colored, the remainder being unknown. Measured by the areas under cultivation, sugar cane occupied 47 per cent. of the cultivated lands; sweet potatoes 11 per cent.; tobacco, nine per cent., bananas a little less than nine per cent., and other crops in smaller proportions.

Military Uses of Snow.

Some interesting experiments have been recently carried out in Norway to ascertain the amount of resistance offered by parapets made of snow to the penetration of rifle bullets. It was found that a wall of snow four feet thick, the snow being neither rammed nor frozen, was proof at 50 yards' distance against the bullets of the Krag-Jorgenson rifle. Snow, therefore, it must be concluded, has a greater resisting power certainly than soft wood, and one nearly equal to that of loosely piled-up earth. The Norwegian rifle, it must be remembered, is sighted up to 2,500 yards, and with a caliber of 6.5 millimeters has a velocity of 2,360 feet, and therefore is to the full at least as powerful a weapon as that of any other army.—London United Service.

First Justice to Wear Gown.

"Few people, I venture to say, even in high official positions, know what justice first wore the gown in the supreme court of the United States," said Hannis Taylor, ex-minister to Spain, who is a recognized authority among writers of law books, being the author of two—"The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution" and "International Republic Law." "When Justice John Jay took the office he thought the members of the supreme bench should wear a gown of some sort. Accordingly he appeared in his own academic gown, which he wore by virtue of having received a degree from the University of Dublin, or, as it was then known, "Trinity College." It was a tri-colored gown, too. Such a garment would look peculiar now, since the black gown has been adopted."—Washington Post.

London Air Deposits Gypsum.

A recent chemical examination of the black deposit, resembling foiler scale, that has formed to a thickness of three-quarters of an inch under the coping of the balustrade surrounding the "Stone gallery" at the base of the dome of St. Paul's cathedral, reveals the curious fact that it is essentially a calcium sulfate collected from the air. In two centuries the smoke and gases from London chimneys have charged the rains with sufficient sulfurous and sulfuric acids to cover the stone with a deposit that strikingly resembles calcerous tufa. It is thickest on the under side of the coping because of the dripping of the rain.—Science.

Locating Them.

"Has anybody lost a diamond scarf-pin?" asked a gentlemanly, well-dressed man, in a loud voice, as the crowd made its way slowly out of the theater.

Istantly a score of hands were seen fumbling at an equal number of neckties pertaining to the owners of the hands.

Nobody, it appeared, had lost any.

A few moments later, however, after the crowd had wedged through the congested exits, most of the aforesaid owners found they had.—Chicago Tribune.

Australia's Heat.

Australia is the hottest country on record. I have ridden for miles astride the equator, but I have never found heat to compare with this. Out in the country in the dry times there appears to be little more than a sheet of brown paper between you and the lower regions, and the people facetiously say that they have to feed their hens on cracked ice to keep them from laying boiled eggs.—Sydney Telegraph.

Mrs. Nextdoor—An' ain't you glad!

"No; I'm not; how kin I tell when it's goin' t' rain on wash day after this?"—Boston Post.

Quieted Him.

"I—I think there's a hack in your razor," faltered the stranger in the chair.

"Well, did yer expect to find an automobile?" roared the tough barber, as he splashed the lather on the ceiling.—Chicago Daily News.

READ ALL OF THIS.

You Never Know the Moment This Information May Prove of Infinite Value.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Plainfield to know the value and use of a medicine for if there is no occasion to employ it in the meantime frail humanity is subjected to so many influences and unforeseen contingencies that the wisest are totally unable to gauge the future. Know then, that Doan's Ointment will cure any case of hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles, or any other disease of the cuticles or skin generally termed eczema. One application convinces—a continuation cures. Read this proof from Vailsburg:

Mr. A. H. Woodruff, of Vailsburg, N. J., says: "For the benefit of those similarly afflicted as I was with hemorrhoids or piles, I want every reader of this paper to know, that I suffered with attacks of this tormenting nuisance for over fifteen years. During that time, I spent a lot of money trying 'sure cures,' and exhausted all my knowledge about salves and ointments, and also the advice of my friends. One day while reading an advertisement about Doan's Ointment I concluded to make one more effort and I commenced the treatment. Greatly to my surprise the area of itching gradually contracted until it completely dried up. What is of considerable more importance to me, there is no indication of a recurrence."

Just such emphatic endorsement can be had here in Plainfield. Drop into L. W. Randolph's drug store and ask what his customers report. Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. TRAINED NURSES IN PARIS.

The First Were Taken There by an American Girl.

The lively, restless disposition of the Frenchwoman naturally makes confinement in a sickroom attending on an invalid irksome to her. It can be easily understood, therefore, that French sick nurses are among the poorest in civilization, although French child nurses are well nigh perfect. But in Paris, with all its preparations for the art of living, there is not today a school for nurses.

The few trained nurses that are in the gay city are English, not French, and an American girl took them there only this year. The story of how she came to do it illustrates well the American way of doing things. She is a clubwoman and learned to take an interest in the public welfare through her membership in the first Paris woman's club, which itself grew out of Frenchwomen's work for the Paris exposition. Its splendid activity in public matters, the serious, sincere work of its members in endeavoring to broaden their intelligence and thought, may well put to the blush three-fourths of the women's clubs in free America. The club was founded by the beautiful and public spirited Mme. Durand, who is so much in earnest for the emancipation of woman in France that she pays from her own purse all expenses of the meetings of the organization. The American girl who introduced trained nurses in Paris was for a time the club secretary and may well have caught some of Mme. Durand's spirit.

One day it was announced in a French newspaper that there was not a trained nurse in all Paris, though such nurses were abundant in every other large city in civilization. The fact was deplored, talked about and written about among American and English residents in Paris, then dropped by all but Miss McClean. The matter simmered in her mind till she decided to supply the need. She called on the leading physicians in Paris and proposed that a united effort be made to introduce the trained nurse into France. Many turned down her scheme; said it could never be accomplished, because such a thing had never been done in France.

"That is exactly the reason why it ought to be done now," said the American girl, and she continued on her mission. It is the custom of French physicians to do many things which in England and America are left to the nurse. Some of these doctors perceived that it would be a money loss to themselves to inaugurate the trained nurse since she would be somewhat of a rival, and these actively and hotly opposed the innovation.

A few favored trying the plan at once, and among these were the American and English doctors. At length an American—of course it was an American—physician called a meeting of the medical fraternity to forward the introduction of trained nurses into Paris. Miss McClean, the young clubwoman, was present and addressed the physicians, portraying the advantages of their having qualified assistants at their call and also unfolding the plan she had formed. She begged them to collect money to import four trained nurses from London and, if necessary, to support them three months. Her eloquence was convincing, and in two days later she received notice that the money was ready.

Immediately she cabled to London an advertisement calling for certificated nurses who could speak French to go to Paris. She went to London immediately to meet them and to spend some days in the nurses' homes and training schools. In five days her London work was accomplished, and the ladies were engaged. Then the indefatigable American girl went back to Paris, found homes for her nurses, caused to be printed and distributed among the leading families and physicians of Paris a circular setting forth that the trained nurses had arrived in Paris to stay and where she could be found. Through this shrewd scheme of advertising every nurse from London was employed within a week of her arrival in Paris, and more had to be sent for.

The next thing ought to be the establishing of a training school for nurses in Paris, and this might well be done under American auspices. Meantime it is almost certain that American trained nurses who speak French, if there are any, could go to Paris with excellent prospect of getting good paying employment.

CHAPTER XV.

TWO LOVERS.

Miss Murdock was seated at the piano in the drawing-room, her shapely fingers wandering dreamily over the keys, when a servant knocked at the door.

"A gintleman to see yer, miss," said the maid.

"A caller!" exclaimed Agnes, in surprise. "At this time of day? Did he give you his card?"

"No, miss. Nor his name, nayther."

"Well, then, Mary," said Agnes, with a mixture of amusement and severity, "why do you announce him? I think you would better keep an eye on the hat-rack."

"He ain't no thafe, miss," said the maid, positively; "he do be dressed up too foine fur that. Besoides, Oi've sane him here before. A hansum young feller wid rid hair—Mister—Mister—Chi—Chapman."

"Chatham!" suggested Agnes, with sudden seriousness.

"Yis, miss; it do be the same."

"I cannot receive him," said Miss Murdock, in frigid tones. "I am surprised that John should have admitted him, after the explicit instructions I gave him yesterday. Hereafter I am never at home to Mr. Chatham."

"Your butler is not at fault in this instance," said a voice from the hallway, and before either of the women could recover from her surprise, a flashily dressed young man with intensely red hair entered the room. He carried his left arm in a sling. His face was pale; his eyes glittered with a feverish light; his voice quivered with repressed excitement.

"I was waiting for your father in his office, when I heard your maid go by, and I asked her to announce me. I hoped for, but I can hardly say I expected, a more hospitable reception."

Miss Murdock, after the first shock of surprise, had drawn up her graceful figure to its full height, and stood looking at the young man with undisguised contempt in her flashing eyes.

Chatham paused as if expecting a reply; and then:

"Shall I explain the object of my visit before your servant?" he asked, bitterly.

"You may leave, Mary, until I ring for you," said the young girl, turning to the maid.

The woman reluctantly left the room, casting curious glances upon her young mistress and her unwelcome guest as she went.

Chatham made a motion as if to take a chair; but Agnes remained significantly standing.

"Perhaps," she said, coldly, "you will be good enough to explain as briefly as possible your object in forcing your presence upon me in this ungentlemanly way?"

"I suppose my conduct does strike you as ungentlemanly," said the young man, piteously; "but what could I do? I love you devotedly, madly, and you will not allow me even to tell you so. You instruct your servants to turn me away from the door like a beggar. Is it a crime to love you?"

"No, Mr. Chatham," said the girl, more gently, "it is not a crime to love a woman; but it is at least a serious blunder to adopt the method you have selected of showing your affection, and it is certainly not generous to force it upon her as you are doing."

"What else can I do?" he repeated, doggedly. "Here am I suddenly obliged to leave New York for a long time—perhaps forever—and unable to get a single word with you. I called yesterday morning and was informed that you were at that artist fellow's studio. Then I wrote you a letter, asking for an interview, and I left it there for you myself. The only notice you took of it was to give instructions to your butler not to admit me if I called again. I cannot go away like that, without a ray of hope to lighten my exile, and to leave you here surrounded by a lot of men who are anxious to marry you."

The tender-hearted girl felt a growing pity for the awkward and vulgar young man in whom she began vaguely to discern a genuine suffering.

"I am sorry, Mr. Chatham," she said, "more sorry than I can say. But what can I do? I do not care for you in the way you wish, and affection is not to be coerced. I have done the best I could to discourage you, because—"

"I know you have," interrupted Chatham; "you have avoided me, and snubbed me, and taken every way you could to show that you do not like me."

"It would have been mistaken kindness to do otherwise," said Agnes, gently.

"No, it wouldn't," exclaimed the accountant; "I don't ask you to love me; not at once, at any rate. But give me a show; give me time; give me a little hope—"

"I cannot do that," said the girl, in a low tone.

"Why can't you?" urged the young man excitedly. "I have sacrificed everything for you; I have given up all I had; I have lost my position; I have risked my life—"

"I don't understand you," said Miss Murdock, looking at him in astonishment.

"Your father would," he replied, huskily; "it was he egged me on to this; he promised me that you would have me—"

"My father promised—"

"Yes, your father; and, by G—!"

Chatham, who was growing more and more excited, brought down his clenched fist upon a table near which he stood, and with an evident effort repressed the oath which rose to his lips. Miss Murdock, startled and bewildered, observed him in speechless amazement.

After a momentary struggle, the accountant suddenly broke forth in piteous pleading:

"I don't ask much now. Tell me only one thing and I shall go away content for the present. Say that no other man has any better chance with you than I have. Say that you do not love anyone else."

The young girl tried hard to avoid his ardent gaze.

"Say it!" he commanded, in sudden sternness.

Agnes drew herself up proudly then.

"I don't know by what right you presume to catechise or to command me," she said, coldly, at the same time making a motion as if to touch the button of the electric bell.

A Spoiled Child's Whims.

"Sit down," said the fierce old man, and the trembling youth obeyed. "Well, what is it?"

The unhappy young man cleared his throat.

"I have come, that is, I have come," he began in stammering accents, "to ask you for the hand of your daughter Ruth."

The old man leaned back in his chair and intently regarded his visitor.

"Does my daughter want you?" he asked.

"Yes, sir; I am sure she does," the youth replied with some eagerness. "She sent me to you."

The old man sighed.

"The whims of that child are really unaccountable," he muttered. "It seems but a day or two ago that she cried for a doll. Then it was a pony. Now it is a monkey. Of course she'll have to have it if she wants it. That's all. Good-day." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Beans and Typewriters.

"Typewriter brains," said the downtown business man, speaking of the gray matter of the young woman who operates the type machine and not the machine itself, "are developed largely by a diet of beans. Beans, judging from the quantity of them used in the cheaper restaurants, may be called a national article of diet. I have been investigating the downtown restaurants lately, and I find that the young women in the offices live largely upon this nutritious food. In one restaurant alone, which the office girls frequent, they use every week in summer nine barrels of dried beans—that means an enormous quantity when cooked—and 11 barrels in winter. The relation of diet to conditions of life is interesting, and the next thing to do is to learn the quality of the brain thus fed, to discover if the food is a satisfactory one."—N. Y. Times.

A Critical Doorkeeper.

Two young men sat through the first act at a local theater, then adjourned to a neighboring tavern for refreshment. The acting was bad and would have excused the use of stimulants by any but the players. When about to reenter the building only one could produce his return check.

"It's all right," said he of the check, airily. "You remember him; he's with me."

"Yes," answered the gatekeeper, more doubtful than polite, "but he may have given his check to some other person."

"But he didn't," was the convincing reply. "He's a stranger here and hasn't an enemy in the city."

The gate opened wide.—Boston Record.

A Far-Reaching Lighthouse.

A blinding beam of electric light, 13 inches wide, is a new warning to ships off the dangerous shoals of Cape Hatteras. Diamond Shoal lightship, No. 71, has been fitted with a 3,000-candle power search light, the first of its kind ever placed at sea as a mariner's beacon, and it is expected to be visible 40 miles, 22 miles farther than the regular beacon lights of the lightships can be seen. The chief element in the effectiveness of the new light is found in the fact that, the lightship never being at rest, the beam of light will sway in a varying angle and always be distinguishable. If expectations are not disappointed, Sandy Hook, Fire Island and Nantucket Shoals will be equipped with similar electrical apparatus.—Success.

Religious Lady Sees Ben Hur.

"My landlady," said a young man who lives in a Spruce street boarding house, "is very religious. I don't think she has been inside a theater more than five times in her life. One of these occasions came off last week, when I gave her a couple of tickets I had bought and couldn't use, an unexpected business engagement preventing. The next morning at breakfast some one asked her how she had enjoyed the performance. "Oh, it was grand, simply grand!" she exclaimed. "There was a chariot race, and men in kilts, and it was just like the Bible. And we had such fine seats." "Where were your seats?" asked one of her boarders. "They were in the best place," she replied. "They were in the third pew back from the band.—Philadelphia Record.

Cheap Coronation Seats.

A searcher in by-past records writes to the effect that seats at coronations were not always so difficult to secure as they will be at the ceremony of the crowning of King Edward VII. At the coronation of Edward I. seats could be obtained for a farthing. At the ceremonies of Henry VIII., Edward VI. and Queen Mary the price was a groat. At Queen Elizabeth's the charge rose to sixpence. From that time the price rose gradually from a shilling to ten guineas, which was reached at the coronation of George III. At Queen Victoria's coronation the rate for seats in the abbey was much higher.—Pall Mall Gazette.

What Minever Is.

Although minever is threatening to supplant ermine many persons do not seem to know the difference between this pretty fur and ermine, which it resembles closely. Minever is pure white, and forms the foundation of both furs. Ermine has the black tails we know so well and minever shows a multitude of small black dots. These tiny morsels of silky fur have a curious origin—they are obtained from between the toes of a black Persian lamb.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Remains of Man and Mammoth.

M. Redelin has discovered the remains of a mammoth associated with palaeolithic remains of man near Brignoles in lower Provence. In a cave under rocks there were found four chipped flint implements associated with a part of the molar of Elephas primigenius, part of the frontal bone of a human skull with the jaw bone, teeth, etc. The discovery comes to fill a blank in the prehistoric records of Provence.—N. Y. Sun.

Cumso—Why?

N. Peck—Well, you see it is composed of a lot of women who have it in for each other, and the one who stays away is always roasted throughout the entire afternoon.—Los Angeles Herald.

Give Him a Chance.

Felix Barnwell wants to run for congress," said Farmer Clayton, looking up from his paper.

His wife nearly dropped a pan of dough.

"Run!" she exclaimed. "Land sakes! Any time he wants to run he oughter have the chance. He's so lazy he can't even walk fast most of the time."—Chicago Post.

She—Yes, I'm sorry I married you; so there!

He—Oh! You were glad to get anybody, I guess. You were no young bird when I married you.

"No? But considering what I got you must admit I was an early bird."—Philadelphia Press.

Friendly Suggestion.

Ethel—Tom declared his love for me last night. I'm actually at a loss to understand why he should want to marry poor little insignificant me.

Mayme—I'm sure I don't know—unless you have him hypnotized.—Chicago Daily News.

The Reversible Pursuit.

GENUINE YANKEE IDEA.

"Carting" in Midair Is a New Labor-Saving Occupation Invented by a New Yorker.

Very novel is the form of horseless carriage, or rather wagon, being used to remove the dirt and stone from a great cellar now being dug in New York. The contractors in charge of the excavation have discarded the use of horses entirely, except for drawing wagons to and from work. Instead, the heavy two-horse carts are picked up by a giant crane, lifted higher than the average house and swung about in great arcs of half a block or more. Derricks have been used for such purposes before, but never probably on so extensive a scale.

"CARTING" IN MIDAIR.
(The Very Latest Form of the So-Called Horseless Wagon.)

This peculiar hauling or rather lifting, operation goes on all day long on the west side of Herald square, between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth streets. The excavation being made of this entire block is said to be the largest in the city. The floor of this cellar is 30 feet below the level of the street, making it very difficult to haul heavy loads upon an incline which could be built. The plan adopted is really amazingly simple and effective. A roadway was built a block in length, spanning the great excavation at the street level.

Well out in the middle of the great hole a huge crane 50 feet high was placed and rigged with a powerful steam lifting apparatus.

The empty double trucks are driven on one end of the elevated roadway, a long line of them, and are hauled near the middle, where the horses are taken off. A stout chain is quickly passed under the wagon and at a signal the entire truck, wheels and all, is hoisted rapidly into the air. At another signal it is swung into space 40 feet above the ground and lowered to any point in the excavation.

There are a dozen or more of these empty carts being loaded down in the hole at the same time. As soon as one has been filled with great bowlders it is again attached to the derrick, raised as easily as though it were a toy, swung about half a block or so and dropped on the elevated roadway, exactly behind the particular team of horses which are waiting for it. During working hours a cart is handled in this way on an average every five minutes.

Democratic Congressional Committee Takes Up Plans for Winning the Fall Elections.

Representative James M. Griggs, of Georgia, recently elected chairman of the democratic congressional committee, and Benjamin T. Cable, of Illinois, who will be chairman of the executive committee and the real leader in the coming campaign in all the states, have begun to map out the work before them. Both are confident of electing enough democrats in the various states to make the next lower house of congress democratic.

HON. BENJAMIN T. CABLE.
(In Charge of Democratic Congressional Campaign of This Year.)

Mr. Cable's headquarters will be in Chicago. Mr. Griggs will have his office in Washington.

The most powerful leaders in every state will be associated with the general committee and all will work harmoniously together for the success of the party under the determination to eliminate the silver issue from the platform at the next national convention.

SPORTING NEWS.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Y. M. C. A. will be out for a sharp hour's practice on Pittis' Field at 6:30 this evening.

Manager Heywood is trying to arrange a date with the Murray Hill baseball team for a game in the near future.

It is rumored in baseball circles that Geo. Schoonmaker will soon retire from the diamond. So far this season he has been holding down third bag for Y. M. C. A.

The North Plainfield High School boys finished their season when they defeated Port Richmond at that place Saturday. They have no more games on the schedule.

Edgar Adams, one of the star players on the North Plainfield High School team, is scheduled to take care of first base for a fast New York nine during the summer months.

The Crescents and the Plainfield Tigers will cross bats on the old golf grounds, Saturday. The Crescents have only been recently organized, but are well up in the ranks of juvenile base ball teams.

"Hey mister, wot's de score?" will not be necessary at future games on the Hope grounds. The mangement has contracted for the erection of a score board of sufficient size to be seen from the grandstand and a good part of the field.

In a sharp five-inning contest on the Randolph road grounds yesterday afternoon the Cuban Giants defeated the North Plainfield Scrubs by a score of 6 to 2. The score by innings stood:

Cuban Giants	3	2	0	1	x	6
N. P. Scrubs	0	0	2	0	0	2

George Schoonmaker, the popular third baseman of the Y. M. C. A. team, has resigned his place. He has in formation plans for a western trip which will prevent him from continuing to play ball. As yet no permanent successor has been named in his place.

In Friday's game with the Hopes, Pitcher Doyle, of the St. Mary's, was not up to his usual standard. He was hit pretty well and for some long drives, too. There is no doubt but what he will be in better form for Saturday's game with the Safe Works aggregation.

The Westfield aggregation that defeated the Y. M. C. A. team Saturday, has arranged games with some very strong teams. Following is a schedule for this month: June 7, Knickerbocker Athletic Club, N. Y.; June 14, Jersey Cubans of Passaic; June 21, Brooklyn Field Club; June 28, Marion Field Club of Jersey City. All the games will be played at Westfield.

Manager Muir, of the Ironworkers, ascribes the loss of Friday afternoon's game with the Hopes, to the substitution of three men in responsible positions at the last moment. Two of his best men were laid up by an accident a few days before and another was compelled to be absent from the city. To guard against this in the future, he has imported a fresh batch of old timers from New Rochelle who will be on the bench for the emergencies.

There is no doubt but what interest in baseball, locally, is more apparent today than it has been for years past. At all the League games last Friday the attendance was very large while the old rooters formerly seen at the Crescents games were much in evidence. At one game Friday every municipal office was represented by one or more executive. Plainfield is being furnished with good baseball games and it is a pleasure to the managements of the various teams to see that their efforts are being appreciated.

GOLF.

Last Tuesday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Frank O. Reinhart, in competion with Howard deP. Wright, made the low scores of 74 and 75. Wright made a 79. The 74 is the record for the course for scratch play.

The official programme of the third annual championship of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association is at hand. The dates for the event are June 10 to 14, inclusive, over the links of the Essex County Country Club, near West Orange. Last year the gold medal for the best score in the qualifying round was easily won by Miss Genevieve Hecker with a capital of 95, which, over the Nassau course, the scene of the 1901 competition, is a performance calculated to bother all but the best of the male players.

Miss Ruth Underhill, of the Nassau Country Club, has been the runner-up to Miss Hecker in both of the previous M. G. A. championships. The former is secretary of the association, and entries for the coming championship should be sent to her at Glen Cove, L. I., on or before June 7. The official programme follows:

Tuesday, June 10, 10 a. m.—Medal play round 18 holes, the first 16 to qualify for match play for the championship, the second 16 for the consolation prize.

Wednesday, June 11, 10 a. m.—First round 18 holes match play for championship; 10 a. m., first round at match play for consolation prize; 3 p. m., driving competition, approaching and putting competition.

Thursday, June 12, 10 a. m.—Second round match play for championship; 10:30, second round match play for consolation prize.

Friday, June 13, 10 a. m.—Semi-final match play round for the championship; 10:30 a. m., semi-final match play round for consolation prize; 2 p. m., handicap medal play, 18 holes, open to all previous entrants for the championship.

Saturday, June 14, 10 a. m.—Final round match play for championship; 10:15 a. m., final round match play for consolation prize.

Don't Waste Them.

Any fruit or vegetables that can be spared from gardens in Plainfield and North Plainfield can be used with much profit for the poor, who have no gardens and few green vegetables during the hot summer months. Please send them to, or leave them at the Relief Association rooms, 544 West Front street, before noon any time during this summer.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue for a tea in honor of Mrs. Stauffer and Miss Scribner, of Yonkers, to be given Friday, June 6 from 4 to 6 o'clock.

WHERE TROLLEYS MEET.

in New York as New Jersey, where there are detrimental conditions. He said that Dr. Richards would be equal to the Brick church pulpit, but can that church offer enough reasons for Dr. Richards leaving Plainfield.

Goerge A. Strong followed with impressive remarks in which he said that there are more people in New York and the need there is greater than in Plainfield. "If it is a question of money," said Mr. Strong, "the Brick church can pay more than the Crescent Avenue church and there would be no need of calling this meeting. That is not the question, however, but how can the greatest good be acomplished." Mr. Strong believed that Dr. Richards should be located where he can do the greatest good to the greatest number.

Isaac L. Miller said that Dr. VanDyke's letter to the church did not explain the reasons why Dr. Richards should leave the Plainfield church, except that the Brick church needed him. He said that there were 350 people present at the meeting which called Dr. Richards, while there were a great many more than that present last evening to favor his remaining in Plainfield and not accepting the call. "We have three mission churches with one of the largest Sunday-schools in New Jersey. Dr. Richards is a power in this city and with all his multifarious duties he has been good enough to serve as a member of the Board of Education. He has done a noble work in Plainfield and I hope he will stay here."

Elliot T. Barrows said that the church should not recount its past deeds at this time. It was not the Brick church alone that is calling Dr. Richards, but a higher power. "It is you," addressing Dr. Richards, "and not we that is to be mourned," said Mr. Barrows. "Dr. Richards has made this the leading church in the State and it shows what he will do in New York. The people of the church should be behind him and give him encouragement in this matter."

Rev. Edward Love read his remarks, which were to the effect that the call to remain in Plainfield is louder than it was when Dr. Richards was called to the church eighteen years ago. He invoked God's blessing on Dr. Richards in deciding the question before him.

Frederick H. Andrews said: "You know, Dr. Richards, how our hearts are torn when we think of your leaving us. You are the father of the chapel work which has been conducted so successfully. We have come to sympathize with you. This church has been built up with prayer. I would suggest that you withhold your answer to the call for three days and that during that time the people of this church devote their time to earnest prayer that God may lead you unmistakably as to what you should do."

William D. Murrary made a strong plea in behalf of the call being accepted. He said that the need is the call and all know that the need in New York is as great as in any foreign field where there is so much godlessness and Sabbath desecration. In conclusion Mr. Murray said "I am free to say that while the happiest hours of my life have been spent in this church, the need is so great in New York that this church cannot afford to stand in the way of this call."

This concluded the remarks and Dr. Richards in closing said that he believed that God would guide him in answer to prayer. He further stated that he would give this decision within a short time after careful consideration of the words of advice given at the meeting. Following a prayer by Rev. Dr. Hubbell, and the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light," the meeting was closed with the benediction by the pastor.

Among those present at the meeting was Rev. George Webster, pastor of the East Side mission chapel of the Brick church, New York. He happened to be visiting friends in the city and hearing of the meeting attended. After the meeting he met a number of the prominent members of the church.

In relation to the call extended to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards to become the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, a letter was received a few days ago by Dr. Richards from Dr. Henry vanDyke, who has taken the initiative in this matter. The letter was read Sunday morning at the Crescent Avenue church by Dr. Richards.

It is as follows:

"My Dear Richards:

"The meeting last night was large, enthusiastic and absolutely unanimous in calling you to the Brick church. There is no doubt in any mind that you are the man for the place, and no hesitation in any heart about asking you to come. We know the value of your present work, the mutual attachment between you and the Plainfield church, the many ties of love that hold you where you are. The tie by which we would draw you to New York is the tie of duty—clear and strong. The cause of Christ needs you here. The strongest Presbyterian church in America, standing in the great city where its influence is most needed, asks you to come to it and lead it forward.

"The call is affectionately and respectfully addressed to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church as well as to you. We do not imagine that your people can think of giving you up without great sorrow, but we want you, if it may be so brought about by the Spirit of Wisdom and Love in recognizing the exigencies of the hour for the sake of the interests of the whole church and for the welfare of the Master's kingdom. We lay before you and your people in love and loyalty this earnest, straightforward, altogether invitation for you to come to the Brick church.

"Eighteen years of my life have been given to its service. God has called me now to work among young men in the college world by tongue and pen through the country. But whatever service I can render you in the Brick church, if you go there, is hereby pledged to you with all my heart. In regard to the time of your coming our wish would be to have you consider the interests of the Crescent Avenue church, as well as ours.

"Our prayer is that the Holy Spirit may guide you in the decision of this matter and my hope is that the appeal of duty may lead you to us.

"Faithfully, your brother in Christ,

"Henry van Dyke."

THE WORKMEN'S NEW RATES

THE OLD SYSTEM TO BE SET ASIDE FOR CLASSIFIED ASSESSMENTS.

Chrnge Will be Made July 1—How the New Rates Will be Based.

At the adjourned meeting of the grand lodge of New Jersey, Ancient Order of United Workmen, held last week in Trenton, the question of rates was definitely settled by the adoption of a plan termed "classified assessments." The vote was 70 to 1 in favor of the change. The new rates will become effective on July 1 next.

This subject has been before the grand lodge at each session for several years past, but each time the majority of the representatives from the "level rate" system under which the order was started over thirty years ago. The old system provided that each member should pay the same sum per year for insurance, regardless of age. This caused the younger members to pay more than their acknowledged share of assessments. One by one the various jurisdictions changed to other and more equitable plans, by which each member paid his own cost and that of no other member. New Jersey, however, declined to make any change. Since the regular session closed in March last, the subject has received more than the usual attention.

The effort resulted in success for the advocates of "classified assessments," and they claim the order in New Jersey will now record each year a larger increase in membership than in the past. The ratings will be, according to classes, as follows: 18 to 24 years, 24 to 29, 29 to 34, 34 to 39, 39 to 44, 44 to 49, 50 and over.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

EDITORS ON AN EXCURSION

Jersey Central Railroad Officials Took Them to Mauch Chunk Yesterday.

A DELIGHTFUL TIME.

Over a Hundred Guests Taken on Special Train to One of the Most Picturesque Spots Along the Line of the Jersey Central—Were Hospitably Entertained.

The complimentary editorial excursion to editors, their wives and families, on the line of the road, given yesterday by General Manager W. G. Besler and General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt, of the New Jersey Central, to Mauch Chunk, Pa., including a trip over the ever-romantic and picturesque switch back railroad, winding up with a trolley ride to a high mountain point called Flag Staff, was a most enjoyable affair. There were 141 persons on the train.

In the language of Mr. Besler's invitation, "The excursion was given with the idea that a better understanding and relationship might be brought about between the representatives of the two great quasi-public institutions, the newspapers and the railroads. Everybody knows how to run a newspaper and everybody knows how to run a railroad. It would seem, therefore, most appropriate that we should come together."

Four magnificent new vestibuled coaches, finished in red cedar, inlaid, and directors' observation car "Central," were drawn by the new powerful compound engine 615 in charge of Engineer C. VanMiddlesworth and Fireman W. H. Perry. The train was in charge of Conductor F. S. Lewis and Brakemen M. Collins and F. J. Feltus.

The officials on the train were W. G. Besler, general manager; C. W. Huntington, general superintendent; C. M. Burt, general passenger agent; Mr. Ruhe, division passenger agent; Ira D. White, assistant passenger agent New Jersey Southern division; and Walter H. Hayden, of the advertising department of the road.

Everybody was made to feel perfectly at ease as soon as the train was boarded. The run to Mauch Chunk was made "on time," of course, but all were saddened by the killing of a man who was walking on the track, just before the train reached its destination. The whistle was blown and the brakes applied, but the man was evidently deaf or confused.

A well-served course dinner was partaken of at the American House, where all of the party were seated, in the large dining room of that well-kept hotel. Then came the ride by trolley to the switch back railroad station and the ride up Mt. Pisgah and over the switch back railroad to Summit Hill. From Summit Hill the party was taken to Hackelbarnie, where the trolley was again taken and the ride up the mountain to Flag Staff was successfully accomplished. A most magnificent panaromic view was there obtained which the whole party thoroughly enjoyed. From Flag Staff down the mountain side the trolley took the party to their train at the station.

On the return trip the editors exchanged autographs in little souvenir books provided by the railroad company, and soon all were one family, having become thoroughly acquainted. The railroad officials were the recipient of a perfect shower of congratulations on the success of the excursion, which, together with the charming weather, was greatly enjoyed and long to be remembered by the members of the party.

A substantial lunch was served, on the train after leaving Allentown, on the return trip.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the Jersey Central were:

From Newark: Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Adler, F. C. Alder, E. Adler, of the Pioneer; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. L. Beyer, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Burke, of Town Talk; W. H. Howell, of the Evening News; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McDougal and son, of the Sunday Call; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pearce and the Misses Pearce, of the Ledger; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Chapin, of the Railroad Employe.

From Elizabeth: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Altai, of the Freie Presse; Gen. and Mrs. J. Madison Drake and F. S. Drake, of the Leader; Mr. and Mrs.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS GOING WEST

ONE OF THE LAAGEST GATHERINGS OF FRATERNAL ORDERS EVER HELD.

Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Meets at San Francisco, Cal., During Month of August.

One of the largest gatherings of fraternal order members ever held in California will take place when the representatives to the supreme lodge, Knights of Pythias, reach San Francisco about August 10. Special trains in numerous sections will be run from all parts of the country. Besides the representatives and others who will have votes in the supreme lodge, large delegations from commanderies of the order's uniformed rank and many friends of members will make the trip to enjoy the sights of the Golden State. The railroads are quoting low rates for this event.

The civil and military authorities, from the Governor down, have joined the local committee in preparing to make the welcome to be given the visitors the most cordial ever extended to a fraternal order. Members of other orders are also at work.

There will be a street fair on Van Ness avenue. This avenue is eighty-one fet from curb to curb, and is three miles long. It is lined with stately residences and makes an ideal thoroughfare for the exhibition. The State is being scoured for a collection of trees, large and small, and for flowers to make up part of the exhibit.

Arches will span the roadway at the intersection of some of the principal cross streets, and the electrical display along the avenue will be most elaborate. Gold and silver quartz will be crushed in sight of the visitors, and the metal will then be cast into souvenirs, which will be presented to those who desire them. It is said that those in possession of the mystic signs peculiar to the order and any friends with them will be given complimentary trips to all points of interest within one hundred miles of San Francisco.

The great pavilion will be the headquarters for the officers of the uniformed rank, the commanderies being chartered in a great camp nearby. Fully 15,000 uniformed men are expected to attend. The convention will bring about 100,000 visitors to San Francisco.

SECOND NIGHT OF FESTIVAL.

Proved Even More Successful Than the First at German Reformed.

The strawberry festival, given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church, was continued last evening with even greater success than on the previous evening.

The following programme was effectively rendered:

Piano and vocal solo, Miss Christine Sorensen; vocal solo, Edward Krausse; vocal solo, Miss Anny Boss, accompanied by Miss Anna Bartlian; recitations, "Der Weisse Stiefel," and "Die Alte und die neue Welt," August Wolf; piano solo, Elvira Hoerster; piano solo, Miss Anny Boss, accompanied by Miss Anna Biartlau; piano solo, Edward Krausse; piano solos by Mrs. Williard Swick; piano and vocal solo, Miss Christina Sorensen.

After the programme had been concluded refreshments were enjoyed.

COLLECTING FOR CARPETS.

No One Has Been Authorized to Make Any Such Collections.

It has come to the knowledge of the officers and members of Grace M. E. church that some person is making a tour of the West End of the city soliciting money for a new carpet for Grace church. The officers want it plainly understood that no one is authorized to collect any money for the purpose mentioned or any other purpose. John Valiant, superintendent of the Sunday-school, has announced this fact to the church and Sunday-school and he wants the people of Plainfield to fully understand the situation.

Another Show Coming.

Phillip Harris, general agent for The Lowery Brothers New Olympia Shows, is in this city making arrangements for their show which will play in this city June 12 and 13 on the grounds corner North and Filmore avenues.

Freedom Castle Going to Church.

The members of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will attend divine service at Trinity Reformed church Sunday evening, when the pastor, Rev. Dr. Schenck, will preach an appropriate sermon.

Final Meeting of the Season of the Ensemble Club.

The final meeting of the Ensemble Club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Anna O. Marsh on Madison avenue. The programme was selected from the works of the modern composers and consisted of eight-hand, four-hand and solo selections by Gade, Liszt, Gounod, Grieg, etc. The music was preceded by a sort of informal guessing contest in which each participant anonymously represented one of the composers to test the musical erudition of her companions. Those who took part in the council and rendered the music were the Misses Strong, Randolph, Moore, Phillips, Palmer, MacIntosh, Thompson, Harriott and Mrs. Stack.

MUSICALE CONTINUED.

Another Large Crowd Turned Out at Bethel Chapel.

Another musicale and elocutionary recital was given in Bethel chapel last evening. A second large audience was present to hear Miss Margaret Tate, the talented elocutionist, in a number of delightful selections.

Other numbers on the programme were a contralto solo by Miss Hattie Thomas, solos by Mrs. L. Dempsey and Edward Blair, a piano duet by Mr. White and Miss Maynard.

A feature of the evening was a tableau, in statuary, "Pygmaleon and Galatea," Miss Doyle and Miss White. At the close refreshments were served.

UNION LODGE BALL.

G. U. O. of O. F. Held Successful Affair in Saengerbund Hall.

Union Lodge, Grand United Order of Oddfellows, gave a successful ball in Saengerbund hall, last evening. Several hundred people were in attendance, many of whom were from New Brunswick, Elizabeth and Newark. Dancing continued until 4 o'clock, this morning.

The committee in charge consisted of William Douglas, William Jones, Thomas Bowser and Edgar McCray.

DEATH OF MRS. TEN EYCK.

Passed Quietly Away at Home of C. B. TenEyck, of the Borough.

The death of Mrs. Margaret M. TenEyck occurred last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of her stepson, Cornelius B. TenEyck, Franklin avenue, North Plainfield. Mrs. TenEyck was eighty-seven years of age and had been in poor health for the past year.

The funeral services will be held at the residence on Franklin avenue, Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck. The remains will be taken to North Branch, N. J., for interment.

Porch Whist Party.

Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow, Jr., gave a charming whist party yesterday afternoon on the awning shaded veranda of her home on Central avenue. Six tables were arranged for duplicate whist. At the close of the game, refreshments were served from the dining room where Mrs. Isabel Milne and Mrs. Walter M. McGee presided at the table, daintily decorated in green and white. The assistants in the dining room were Miss Elsie Brokaw and Miss Belle Milne.

Funeral of Child.

The funeral of Theodore Wilson, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wilson, was held yesterday at the parental home on Craig place. The services were conducted by Rev. E. L. Earp. Misses Jennie and Alice DeMott sang "Christian's Goodnight" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

At Perseverance Tonight.

The regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will be held this evening. Four candidates will receive the first degree. The committee, recently appointed for the purpose, will report on the preparations for the thirteenth anniversary to be held next week.

Language Was Not Choice.

James Street was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by Mrs. Patrick O'Flaherty, of Stebbins place, with using profane and indecent language. He pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned until Monday morning.

Pretty Luncheon.

Mrs. George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, gave a pretty luncheon at her home, this noon, to a number of young women friends. It was tendered for the purpose of introducing Mrs. Stausser and Miss Scribner, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Henry Seader, janitor of Trinity Reformed church, has resigned his position.

GRADUATING CLASS AT CITY'S HIGH SCHOOL

Those Who Will Complete Their Course at the High School This Month.

PLAN COMMENCEMENT.

EXERCISES WILL BE FOLLOWED BY USUAL RECEPTION AT CASINO.

Commencement Falls on Thursday, June 19—The Honors Both Go to Young Men This Year—Members of the Class of 1902.

The commencement exercises of Plainfield High School will be held in the First Baptist church on the evening of June 19. The programme will begin at 7:30. At the conclusion of the exercises a reception will be tendered at the Casino to the new graduates by members of the classes of 1901 and 1902. Elaborate preparations are being made for the event under the direction of Miss Marion D Woodcock, chairman of last year's class. A limited number of tickets will be issued to members of the alumni.

The valedictorian of 1902 is Erwin B. Leland, salutatorian Clarence B. LaRue. The names of those who will be graduated are:

WATER COMPANY WON.

Supreme Court Sustain Plainfield Company's Contension That It Was Exempt From Franchise Tax.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 6 — Chief Justice Gummere filed yesterday an opinion in the case of the State Board of Assessors against the Plainfield Water Supply Company, which involved the Voorhees franchise tax act. The decision is in favor of the company.

The Voorhees act provides that all companies using the streets shall be subjected to a franchise tax of two per cent. on their gross receipts, to be apportioned among the different municipalities in which they exist.

The Plainfield Water Company and a number of other companies that exist by reason of special charters granted by the Legislature, previous to the passage of the General Corporation act took the position that they did not exercise municipal franchises.

That position is sustained by the opinion of Chief Justice Gummere. The decision applies to a large number of companies throughout the State all of which refused to make a return of their gross receipts to the State Board of Assessors as required by the Voorhees act.

No Games Scheduled.

The Plainfield High School team has not yet arranged a game for tomorrow. They were scheduled to play the Port Richmond, S. I., team, but the latter have cancelled the engagement. A game may be arranged with North Plainfield High.

Hurt in Fall From Bicycle.

John J. Kenney, of East Second street, has a badly bruised knee as the result of a fall from his bicycle, Wednesday evening. In making a sharp turn the machine slipped and he was thrown to the ground. The injury is very painful.

—Jersey asparagus and cucumbers, green and wax beans are some of the specialties to be offered in Neuman Brothers vegetable display tomorrow.

INSPECTING BEDS.

Chairman of State Sewer Commission Pleased With Improvements.

Charles F. Harrington, chairman of the State Board of Sewage Commissioners, accompanied by Thomas LeClair, of New York, an expert chemist, visited this city today for the purpose of inspecting the municipal disposal plant.

Mr. LeClair has been engaged by the State board to take samples of the sewage and make a series of analysis. The first visit to the beds was made today in company with Street Commissioner Gavett. Mr. Harrington was greatly pleased with the new system. He congratulated the citizens on the marked improvements made by the recent alterations.

MORE DOG OWNERS.

Haled to City Court Because Their Dogs Ran About the Streets.

Owners of dogs, who fail to keep their animals off the streets, still continue to visit the city court, on summons. This morning Frank Linke, George Leland, Sr., Mrs. Dora Parsons, Mrs. Anna Petersod and Harry Werner faced City Judge Runyon and pleaded guilty to the charge. All were warned that a continuance of the offense would result in a fine, after which sentence was suspended.

PROTESTED AGAINST FINE.

Short Visit to Cell Changed Chas. Barry's Mind and He Paid Fine.

Protesting that he had been fined illegally, Charles Barry paid $2 into the city treasury, this morning, after City Judge Runyon had adjudged him guilty of violating the hack ordinance.

Barry at first flatly refused to pay the fine and it was only after he had spent a short time in a cell that he decided to do so. He announced his intention of appealing to a higher court even if it cost him $100.

The police say Barry has been up more times than any of the other depot hackmen for violating the ordinance but he has never pleaded guilty.

Change in Faculty.

Miss Anna Prescott, of the City High School teaching staff, will resign her position at the end of the present term. Her place will be filled next year by Miss Phoebe D. Lovell, graduate of the High School, '94, and of Vassar, '98.

Graduated From Law School.

At the seventieth annual commencement of the New York University, held at the Metropolitan Opera House, last evening, C. M. Dolliver, of this city, graduated from the Law School. He received the degree of bachelor of laws.

To Invest the Legacy.

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. decided, last evening, to invest as part of an endowment fund, the legacy of $1,000, recently received from the estate of Miss Eleanor Roome.

Gone Into Hands of Receiver.

The Republic Savings and Loan Association, of Newark, has gone into the hands of a receiver. John J. Kenney, of this city, is treasurer of the local branch.

Interest on Deposits.

In the adverstising columns of The Daily Press today, the First National Bank announces it will allow interest on satisfactory deposits, subject to liberal rules.

—The I. C. T. Club has purchased from Woodhull & Martin a handsome couch for their parlor.

—Rahway and Westfield as well as Plainfield lodges I. O. O. F. will attend the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All men are invited.

Mrs. Charles Hyde, of East Front street, will sail for Europe on Tuesday, June 17.

Miss Loretto Martin and Miss Elizabeth McAllister have returned to Newark after spending a very pleasant week with Miss Martin's sister, Mrs. Garrett J. Powers, of Vine street.

GRAIN FIELD ON HILL TOP

CROPS RAISED REGULARLY ON THE HIGHEST PEAK IN WARREN COUNTY.

Field is so High That the Bugs and Other Pests Never Trouble the Crops There.

One of the strangest places for a grain field is the summit of Round Top, near Washington, the highest peak in Warren county.

Four years ago, when John Potts, who has a farm of about fifty acres on the Oxford side of the mountain, conceived the idea of clearing the top and having the loftiest grain field in Warren county, many persons ridiculed the scheme. However, the approach to the summit of Round Top from the Oxford side is not as steep as on the southern side, and Mr. Potts opened a road to the top. He persevered in his work of clearing the land, although he encountered many obstacles, and the result was a field of three acres, the most of which is on the Washington side.

Rye was the first crop selected, and from four bushels sown by the farmer he received a yield of forty-eight bushels, or sixteen bushels to the acre, which is considered a large yield. The rye was over six feet in height and the profit from the straw as a neat one.

The field is so elevated that no bugs nor other pests that trouble the farmers in the valleys have thus far succeeded in reaching the crops.

Mr. Potts experiences much difficulty in ploughing the field owing to its steepness, and the same trouble was met when he came to gather his crops. Last year he had grass in the field, and used it for pasture, and it answered the purpose admirably.

Round Top has always been a favorite place for lovers of picturesque landscape. With the aid of a glass one can see from its summit points at least fifty miles distant.

Mr. Potts has a fine crop of rye growing in the field at present, and on Arbor Day, when he visited the spot, he discovered that his grain was being ruthlessly trampled under foot by visitors to "Old Round Top." He remained on guard all day, and by actual count drove sixty-eight persons from the field.

MRS. WALLACE'S FUNERAL.

Impressive Services at Calvary Baptist Church Yesterday.

The funeral of Mrs. Susan Wallace, wife of Rev. Scott Wallace, was held yesterday at 3 o'clock at Calvary Baptist church. Rev. E. E. Jackson was master of ceremonies and Rev. Dr. Graham, of Richmond, Va., preached the sermon, subject, "The Resurrection."

Floral designs were numerous, many cut roses and wreaths having been sent by the people of Plainfield, both white and colored.

The honorary pall-bearers were Rev. Wm. T. Young, New Brunswick; Rev. E. E. Elliott, Newark; Rev. Wm. Hill, Newark; Rev. Mr. Harris, Cranford; Rev. Dr. Robinson, New Brunswick; Rev. E. D. Samiel, Orange; Rev. Mr. Bird, Rev. Mr. Crudup, Rev. F. J. Tilden, and several others. The active beareres were Deacons Spencer Conway, Fernando Brown, Hampton Probasco, Patrick Reed, Scipio Wellington and Wm. Robinson. Interment was in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

Had No License.

Max Freedman, of New York, was arrested by Patrolman McCarthy on Cottage place, yesterday, for peddling spectacles without a license. He claimed to make them but had no way of proving it. He paid a fine of $3 in the city court, this morning.

Letter Was Found.

A letter addressed to John J. Hanigan, attorney-at-law, New York, was dropped in J. W. VanSyckel's meat market this morning and the letter was afterwards placed in a mail box. The owner of the letter could not be found.

Juniors' Picnic.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will go with the pastor tomorrow on the annual picnic if the weather is fine. They will start from North avenue on the 9 o'clock trolley for Scotch Plains.

Summer Schedule.

The Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will meet tomorrow morning at 11:45 o'clock and the Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. This will be the summer schedule.

WILL ANTIS ACT TONIGHT?

Councilman Clark is Ill and Cannot Attend Meeting of the Council This Evening.

LEAVES IT A TIE VOTE.

Prospects of a Vote on the Greater Plainfield Questions in September—One of the Reasons Why—How City and Borough Look From the Top of the Mountain.

Yesterday afternoon a Press reporter clambered up to the top of Watchung mountain and took a birds-eye view of the city and borough sleeping peacefully in the valley at his feet. There was one of the most beautiful prospects that could possibly be spread before the material eye. There was one of the strongest arguments for annexation that could possibly be placed before the mind.

Who would think, unless he had previously seen the little sign designated "North Plainfield" dangling from the trolley wire on Somerset street, that before him lay a district with two different governments, in two different counties. The red brick schoolhouse away down in the West End, the water tower and the Netherwood Hotel in the east, looked as if they might be beyond the Plainfield limits, but the borough could not be thought of except as a component part of a homogeneous community.

The borough and the city are one in beauty. Nestling between the Netherwood heights and the Watchung mountains, the houses almost lost to view beneath clusters of green and spreading tree tops, they form a striking panorama. Here and there a church steeple rises above the foliage, or a thin wreath of smoke ascends to the sky, eloquent of soft coal in these days of strikes, or light filmy cloud cast dancing shadows along the sunlit sunface of the tree line. Away in the distance the white spire of the Westfield Presbyterian church rose skyward, a solitary sentinel, and as far as the eye could reach, might be seen the dim outlines of the columns of Brooklyn bridge, like flimsy fortresses on the confines of space.

One hundred feet below Mayor Smalley was seated in the shadow of the mountain, while his workmen were engaged annexing Somerset county at the rate of 3,000 tons a month. The mayor was busy devising ways and means to circumvent the anti-annexationists at the Borough Council meeting this evening, wondering what would be the next move of the foe and how it could be properly met.

"There," said the mayor, as he waved his hand over the scene, "why should that one compact city be situated in two counties?"

It is hard to say what developments may arise at the meeting, this evening. A report has been in circulation, given credence in many quarters, that John Frech, counsel to the Somerset Board of Freeholders, will be present and demand immediate action on the question by submitting the matter to the people at the earliest convenience. The story goes that the Freeholders will hold up all appropriations unless the Borough Fathers accede to the request.

"Let him come," said a prominent annexationist, "Somerset county won't have the nerve to withhold appropriations while we are paying more in taxes than any amount we receive from the county for improvements."

Whatever the Freeholders may do, it is not probable that any election will be held before September. Even that tentative date is very early, since certiorari proceedings will no doubt be instituted in the Supreme court to test the constitutionality of the law. The annexationists do not want any election before this point is decided, because should the law be found unconstitutional after the borough votes to annex, there would be a pretty comedy of errors. Those "higher up" are fully confident that the law is constitutional, yet, so as not to complicate the public mind, and that a lever may thus be taken out of the hands of their opponents, it is deemed wise not to proceed until the road is perfectly clear. Moreover every day adds to their strength, and the "election deferred maketh the antis sick."

At the last meeting of the Council Robert Clark, Jr., was appointed

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

At Meissner's hand laundry, Watchung avenue, yonu can have your lace curtains, fine dresses, and fine laces done up in the best manner and at the most reasonable prices.

Cashin, the Park avenue tailor, is up-to-date with his stock of summer goods. He has a full line of men's suitings, also straw hats, including gennine Panamas and men's furnishings.

Fred Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, has a reputation for the genial way in which he treats his customers. If you want to be promptly waited on and receive the best satisfaction go to Firstbrook.

Foss & Jeter are the largest receivers of seafood in this city. They are constantly receiving big shipments which rapidly leave their Park avenue store because they set low prices on all grades.

The ice cream season is now in full swing and Campbell, of West Front street, is kept busy night and day supplying his patrons with pure wholesome ice cream, also delicious home-made candies.

E. S. F. Randolph, the North avenue drug store, is the place to buy good drugs. It is worth while to slip in there and get one of those ice cream sodas for fancy cool drinks before boarding the trolley.

It is worth a great deal to a milk dealer to have a Board of Health certification that his milk is absolutely pure and perfectly reliable. Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue, hold one of these certificates and they sell the pure article.

There is much being said at present about the high price of meat but none of these remarks applies to J. W. Van Sickle, the North avenue marketman. He is still selling the best cuts of beef, veal and mutton at prices within the reach of all. 'Phone your orders and they will be delivered.

Don't go around at this season of the year as if you had no ambition and wanted to be a drone. It's simply that tired feeling that accompanies spring and Nagle, the druggist, has the proper tonic to imbue new life in your system. Try a bottle and it will make you another person.

SUMMER MEMBERSHIP.

Special Attractions Offered Now by the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. is offering its usual summer privileges this season. From June 1 to September 1 special inducements are offered those who wish to take advantage of the various attractions.

For the nominal sum of three dollars, one may obtain the privilege of using the shower baths, the swimming pool, the bowling alleys and a locker. He may take part in the bicycle runs. The offer includes ordinary membership for one year and admits to star course of entertainments.

The bowling alleys at the Y. M. C. A. are of regulation length and good equipment. The swimming pool, 31x 12 feet, is one of the features of the physical department. The water is frequently changed every week, and the temperature is regulated at all times. Other bathing facilities are the shower baths with hot and cold water. The conditions are always perfectly sanitary, and a locker room thoroughly ventilated and filled with Yale locks is within easy access. Bicycle runs are conducted by an officer of the association.

Police Collection of Wheels.

The police department has in its possession five bicycles which have been picked up by patrolmen during the past year. All have been advertised but no claimants have appeared. Permission will be asked the Common Council to have them disposed of in the most advantageous manner.

To be Represented.

Representatives from Plainfield will attend the Y. M. C. A. conference to be held at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, next week.

WILL NEW DISTRICTS MAKE MANY CHANGES?

Possibilities For Congressmen Since State of New Jersey Was Redistricted.

ONE IS DEMOCRATIC.

SOME OTHERS PROMISE TO RESULT IN CLOSE CONTESTS.

Newark Call Sums Up Possibilities in the Ten Districts—Comparison of Figures in Past Years—Some of the Candidates.

There will be important changes in the make-up of the New Jersey delegation to Congress to be elected at the November election, says the Newark Call. Possibly one important change will be in the political complexion of the delegation. This is an off year, and the vote is not likely to be as heavy as it was at the last Congressional election, two years ago, when an important national election was held. Vital issues that were not present in the election two years ago may seriously divide the Republican vote this year and cause disaster to some of its candidates.

The Congressional election this year is the first to be held under the reapportionment by the United States census of 1900. Under the reapportionment New Jersey will have ten members of Congress instead of eight, at present. The present delegation is made up of six Republicans and two Democrats—at least there were two prior to the death of Representative J. S. Salmon, of the Fourth District.

Under the reapportionment of 1900 only one district, the Tenth, comprising the lower section of Jersey City, Hoboken and other rock-bound Democratic Hudson county towns, is conceded to be overwhelmingly Democratic. Based on the Congressional vote of 1900, only the new Tenth Congressional District gave a Democratic majority. This left nine Republican districts. The vote of 1900 is hardly acceptable as a basis for comparison, for in that year McKinley and Roosevelt were elected, and the anti-Bryan movement seriously ruptured the Democratic party.

The Congressional vote of 1898, which was an off year, shows three of the ten new Congressional districts Democratic. In two of them the majority was small, but in two of the seven Republican districts the Republican majority was very narrow, on one, the Fourth, comprising Mercer, Somerset and Hunterdon counties, the Republican majority was only seventeen.

The majority in 1900 and in 1898, as shown by the vote for Congress in those years by districts as newly arranged under the apportionment of 1900, is given below:

	1900.		1898.
District.	Rep.	Dem	Rep.	Dem
First	10,926		5,101
Second	10,336		4,896
Third	5,720			349
Fourth	7,008		17
Fifth	5,163		1,438
Sixth	4,837		625
Seventh	8,917		3,099
Eighth	9,825		3,173
Ninth	2,947			434
Tenth		6,068		10,327

The Essex county districts are very evenly divided—that is, the Republican majority in each is about the same. Territorially, the bulk of the county lies in the northern part of the two districts, which is the Eighth, but by population the county is about equally divided.

Among Republicans it is generally conceded that Congressman R. Wayne Parker will be renominated to represent the Eighth district. R. W. Hawkesworth, of East Orange, is said to be slated for the nomination in the other Essex district, the Seventh. He is a lawyer by profession, a man of very high standing, and a prominent member of the New York bar.

Congressman Fowler, of Union county, will have to seek re-election in an entirely new district. Heretofore the strong Republican townships of Essex county have helped to overcome the Democratic tendencies of some other sections of Mr. Fowler's district. Now his district comprises Union, Morris and Warren counties, all of which a few years ago were considered very doubtful counties. Politically Warren is safely Democratic, and the Republican majority in Union and Morris counties is very uncertain. Congressman Fowler is desirous of re-election. While the Republican machine in Union county is largely made up of men antagonistic to him there is known to be no opposition to him and his renomination is generally conceded.

Congressman Stewart, of Paterson, is also a candidate for re-election.

The First and Second districts are almost certainly Republican. In the First, Congressman Loudenslager is having opposition from David Baird, of Camden, who is now trying to get even with the Congressman because the latter did not favor Baird's senatorial aspirations last winter. The contest is very bitter, but it probably will not affect results. Congressman Gardner in the Second district will undoubtedly be renominated and re-elected.

No particular activity has been shown in the other districts. Congressman Howell will probably desire to run again in the Third district, which now includes Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties, two Democratic counties to one Republican. In 1898 the vote on Congressman in this district was 349 Democratic. The Fourth district includes Mercer, Somerset and Hunterdon counties, two Democratic counties ordinarily against one Republican. In 1898 the Republicans had only 17 majority in this district. The Ninth and Tenth districts are in Hudson county, and will probably return two Democrats.

NEW ASSESSMENT SCHEDULE

CIRCULAR JUST ISSUED BY GRAND MASTER WORKMAN NASH.

Table of the New Classified Assessments—The Contents of the Circular.

Every one of the thousands of members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of New Jersey will receive with his June assessment a circular calling attention to the graded assessment schedule. The circular is sent out by Grand Master Workman Vincent W. Nash. It says:

"At the adjourned session of our Grand Lodge, held in the city of Trenton, May 20, 1902, classified assessments were adopted by this jurisdiction, to go into effect July 1, 1902, by a vote of 97 to 14, thus placing our jurisdiction upon a basis that promises perpetuity beyond question, in the judgment of those best qualified to judge by reason of study and experience.

"That the new method is far better than the old level plan of assessment is apparent even to the most casual observer. Now, each class will pay its own fair and equal proportion of the cost, while under the old method the young men paid more than their just proportion, a fact which the young men discovered, and, as a consequence, sought protection in other orders more aggressive."

The following schedule of rates, which will be in effect after July 1, will explain the cost of each assessment to each member in both the $1,000 and $2,000 classes:

Ages.	$1,000 policy.	$2,000 policy.
50 and over	1.92	3.84

A NEW HOME FOR NEW JERSEY'S SENATE

Plans Accepted by the State House Commission and the Work Soon to be Started.

TO ASK FOR BIDS SOON.

ARCHITECT IS NOW BUSY DRAWING UP THE SPECIFICATIONS.

It Will First be Necessary to Tear Down Old Senate Chamber and Build New One in Its Place—Mr. Moses' Plans Accepted.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 6—The new home of the State Senate is to be easily the most elaborate and exclusive chamber at the State House. The plans of Arnold H. Moses, of Merchantville, which have been accepted by the State House Commission, call for luxurious quarters that may be used for "state functions."

It is said that with the completion of the handsome new Senate Chamber the holding of inaugurals in Taylor Opera House will be done away with, and the oath of office will be administered to the new governor in the Senate. In many respects it is proposed to have the new quarters a counter-part of the United States Senate Chamber. This is especially so with reference to the main floor of the chamber, which is to be reserved for the exclusive use of the Senators.

Mr. Moses has already begun work, having staked off the grounds that are to be used by the new chamber. He is now engaged on the specifications, and within a month bids will be asked for. It is anticipated that the contractors, with the general idea they already have of what is wanted, will require less than a fortnight to prepare their estimate, and the bids will likely be received and opened in less than six weeks. By or before the middle of July it is expected the work of construction will be actually commenced.

The first thing to be taken up will be the demolition of the present Senate chamber, which, to the ordinary observer, is regarded as a very commodious and comfortable place of meeting. This work will not occupy much time, and the laying of the foundation for the new chamber will be gotten under way early. It is expected that upward of a year and a half will be required in the construction of the chamber, so that the improvised Senate chamber will be necessary for the session of 1903. This is a matter to be taken up later.

Besides the new Senate chamber, provision is to be made for a new Supreme Court room, where the branches of the court may sit during the court terms. At the present time the Judges have to hold court in small offices, while the vice-chancellors, during the terms of the Chancery Court, meet around in dingy conference rooms. It is now planned to have an extensive branch court room over a portion of the building to be devoted to Senate uses. The court room will not be over the Senate chamber proper, but over some of the committee rooms and officers' rooms of the Senate.

The new building will extend across the westerly side of the Capitol, offsetting the Assembly chamber, which is located on the easterly side of the building. The plans of Architect Moses show a very attractive prospective structure.

GETTING EVIDENCE.

Opponents of Live-Pigeon Shooting in New Jersey Will be Active at Next Legislature.

The opponents of live-pigeon shooting in New Jersey believe that ample argument against the practice is to be found in the recent shoot of the State Sportsmen's Association at Freehold.

An agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals attended the meet, and gathered much information, which will be presented to the next Legislature in urging the passage of a bill prohibiting live-bird shooting.

The agent found that in the first instance the target birds were so closely confined that many died before they were liberated. Many of the birds were wounded, but made their way out of bounds, to die where they might in slow torture. Others which fell in bounds were thrown in a big heap, there to flutter until death ended their sufferings.

When asked why these birds were not at once killed, a member of the society vouchsafed the information that it was useless, as they could not get away.

—The regular meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members are urged to attend as this is the last meeting before the summer vacation.

OUGHT TO BE PUNISHED.

It was only a few days ago that Magistrate Mott, of New York City, fined four men $10 each for destroying shrubbery and plants in one of the city parks. There are some people who seem to believe that any plants and shrubbery, which are not inclosed within four walls, are public property and may, therefore, be appropriated at will. There are such people in Plainfield as well as in New York and, at present, residents of Belvidere avenue and the Netherwood district are complaining at the frequent inroads made by these marauders.

Along Belvidere avenue, many of the residents have taken special pains to beautify their lawns which are bounded with blossoming shrubs of various kinds. These improvements have been just as much for the benefit of the community as for the owners themsleves. Any destruction of these floral decorations is as much an offence against the public at large as against the owners.

Certain miscreants are in the habit of visiting that portion of the city in the early morning hours and helping themselves to the bright blossoms. These invasions come often after the night police force has quit duty. It is to be hoped that something can be done to run down these offenders or, at least, prevent the constant recurrance of this trouble. It is really too bad that residents, who take the trouble to improve the appearance of their homes, should have all their labor and expense for naught.

The action of the Union county Grand Jury in demanding that the horseless vehicles, which spin over the roads of this county, go at a more reasonable speed, is only in line with steps that are now being taken through the eastern States. The automobile promises to be decidedly a menace to human life if it is not properly kept within bounds and the various official bodies throughout this and other States are preparing to see that the chaffeurs are compelled to use judgment as well as the other people who use the same thoroughfares.

The editors from all along the line of the Jersey Central Railroad were most pleasantly entertained yesterday by the officials of the railroad company. They were given an opportunity to see one of the most picturesque portions of New Jersey and Pennsylvania and in most congenial company. This courtesy on the part of the railroad officials was highly appreciated and will not be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to partake of it.

While no formal decision has yet been rendered by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards to the call extended by the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York, those who are acquainted with the circumstances feel that his decision will mean the loss to Plainfield of one of its most prominent clergymen. He will be greatly missed.

The demand for advertising space in The Daily Press is greater than ever today. Local news will be found on every page.

—Neuman Brothers will have three deliveries of Colburn's Plainfield strawberries tomorrow, at 6, 12 and 3 o'clock. All will be large, luscious and clean.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

Repairing Bridges.

The bridge gang of the New Jersey Central is busy in this city repairing the overhead structures. Much attention is being paid to the supporting columns which have been badly shaken at the bases from the heavy weight of the modern engines. In most cases new plates have to be put in and the girders retightened.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The recognition sociable held in the Presbyterian church, last evening, was a great success. Every person was expected to bring a photograph taken in infancy, and the person recognizing the most was given a prize. Ping-pong and krokinole were played and ice cream and cake were for sale. A large number was present and a considerable sum realized.

A baseball team has been gotten together, under the captainship of Frank Fletcher, and play the New Market team tomorrow at New Market. Percy Abbot will do the twirling for Dunellen and Jack McMann will go behind the bat.

A strawberry and ice cream sociable will be held in the borough park shortly under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church. The brass band will be present and other pleasant features will be added.

The graduates from Whittier School this year are Miss Nellie Dodwell, Miss Sarah Tilton, Miss Gertrude Badum, Miss Edna Baldwin, William Kennedy, William Giddis and Francis Giddis.

Joseph Thomas, formerly of this place but now of New York, sails Monday for an extended trip through Europe. He will visit England, Scotland, Wales and Switzerland.

George W. Day went to Mauch Chunk yesterday on the special train which took the editors of the newspapers along the Central Railroad on an excursion.

A horse, belonging to Dr. Brakeley, became frightened and ran away on North avenue yesterday, but was stopped before any damage was done.

The younger children of Lincoln School will spend this afternoon in a picnic near the brook.

The band expects to hold a series of out-of-door concerts during the coming months.

Several trains, leaving here in the morning, have been fitted with foot carpets.

The W. C. T. U. held its regular weekly meeting yesterday.

William Giles is still improving from his recent illness.

Charles Gunn, of Somerville, visited in town yesterday.

The Checker Club will meet, as usual, this evening.

Mrs. Frank Wynkoop spent yesterday out of town.

The baseball team practiced last evening.

NEW MARKET.

Letters are advertised at the postoffice this month for Emery Hunnts, Miss Jenkeny, Charles Johnson, Mrs. G. Johnson, A. W. Nibelius, W. H. Relfull, Mrs. Oscar E. Horne.

The regular monthly meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavor Society will be held next Sabbath.

A meeting of Lakeside Council was held last evening, and several new members were initiated.

On Saturday afternoon the New Market team will play a second team from Dunellen.

Miss Lizzie Dumont, of Peapack, is spending a few days with friends in town.

Prayer meeting will be held this evening in the First Baptist church.

The band met last evening in Recreation Hall for practice.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The large stage, belonging to the Baptist church, has been engaged to take the baseball team and its friends to Springfield tomorrow afternoon. The stage will hold nearly forty people and it is expected that it will be well filled with the rooters who will accompany the team. The start will be made at 2 o'clock sharp from in front of the postoffice.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Ladies' Circle, of the Baptist church, was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Parks, Wednesday afternoon. The officers were all re-elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. J. H. Parks, president; Mrs. G. M. Shott, vice president; Miss Laura Bornman, secretary; Miss Hayes, treasurer.

Children day exercises of the Baptist Sunday-school will be held in the church Sunday morning. Dr. Vassar, of the First Baptist church, of Elizabeth, author of "Uncle John Vassar," will make the address. The friends of the school are cordially invited to attend the exercises.

The marriage of Frazee Ryno, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ryno, and Miss Agnes McNair, of Plainfield, was quietly solemnized at the home of Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks, Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Ryno for the present will make their home with Mr. Ryno's parents.

The Cuban Giants second team, of Plainfield, failed to show up for the game with the Junior team yesterday afternoon. The game was given to the local team by default.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a large and interesting weekly meeting in the library rooms last night.

Friday evening prayer meeting will be held in the Baptist church tonight at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Shott will lead the meeting.

Weekly prayer meeting at the Methodist church has been changed from Saturday evening to Friday evening at usual hour 8 o'clock.

The county examinations will begin in the public school Monday morning.

Horace Hand was the guest of friends in town last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The local camp, P. O. of A., will hold a lawn festival on the evening of June 17, at the home of Mrs. George Reighton on Park avenue. Strawberries, ice cream and lemonade will be among the edible attractions. There will be dancing on the barn floor.

The women of the Baptist Aid Society have taken the pains to choose a good night for their strawberry and ice cream festival. The moon is scheduled to shine in all its splendor on the night of Wednesday, June 11.

There will be a wedding in town in the near future. The particulars are to be carefully guarded until after the ceremony is performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clawson visited at the home of John Tingley, of Dunellen, yesterday.

Bert Brighton is learning the blacksmith trade with William Hamilton

Clear Chrystal Quartz.

Councilman J. K. Arnold has in his possession a beautiful block of clear chrystal quartz, weighing about two pounds, found a few days ago on the top of Watchung Mountain.

To Meet on Rifle Range.

There will be a shooting contest on the Maple avenue range, tomorrow afternoon, between the Independent Shooting Club and members of Company K.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

HOW TO RUN A SUNDAY-SCHOOL

Institute Conducted at Vincent Chapel by the M. E. Churches of This District.

MANY STRONG TALKS.

Afternoon and Evening Sessions Were Held at Which Many Interesting Addresses and Discussions Were Given on Sunday-School Methods—The Speeches.

The first of a series of two Sunday-school Institutes under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church of the Elizabeth District, was held in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon and evening. Rev. Dr. Halleron, the presiding elder for the Elizabeth District, was in the chair, and there was a large attendance of Sunday-school workers present from the various towns between Elizabeth and Raritan.

The programme opened with a talk by Rev. Dr. Roads, of New York, on "Better Teaching and How to Get It." This speaker referred to the urgent need of getting persons suitable for this kind of teaching and the care to be exercised in making a selection of a teacher. In using care in the selection the teaching would surely be better. Dr. Roads brought out many valuable points along this line and prepared the way for Rev. C. M. Anderson, of Westfield, and Rev. E. L. Earp, of Grace M. E. church, who followed in leading a general discussion of the topic.

The question of grading a Sunday-concern which should be in every Methodist Sunday-school.

During the afternoon session the audience was favored with a pleasing vocal solo, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," by Mrs. Thomas McDonald. At the close of this session all were entertained at supper which was provided and served by the women of the First M. E. church.

The evening session was called at 7:45 o'clock when there was a fifteen minute song service conducted by Walter M. McGee, of the Monroe Avenue church. Rev. Dr. Halleron then introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Thomas B. Neely, corresponding secretary of the Sunday-school Union of the M. E. church, who delivered a strong and impressive address on the subject of "The Ideal Sunday-school."

"A good many Sunday-schools are built on fads," said Dr. Neely, "while a few are founded on common-sense. What a Sunday-school ought to do is a paramount question. It stands for imparting knowledge of the Bible to a scholar so that he may know what is right and then be taught how to do it. What does the average scholar know about the Bible? Is a school doing all it should when a scholar spend ten years in it and learns nothing about God's Word. Very few scholars are today converted in the average Sunday-school. There are some teachers who never spend a minute in preparation for teaching the lesson. They generally look upon a school as a pleasant place to spend a social hour. As a rule the average school is a place of confusion and uproar, with the superintendent ringing his bell for order. There is altogether too much time spent in opening and closing the school and not enough for the study of the lesson.

"There is miserable music, an echo of the dance hall and the waltz too often in the average school. You tell me the music of a church or Sunday-school and I will tell you what that church or school is. Then there is a lack of reverence. The scholars come in the school as they would in a theatre or concert hall. The average school was assigned to Rev. H. M. Simpson, who told of the various excellent methods that can be used. He spoke of the necessity of having the classes properly graded and how it would result in better work for both teacher and scholars.

Rev. George Wilding, of Elizabeth, spoke in an interesting manner on the subject of "Attendance." He said that there are very few novel ways of securing a better attendance, but he would advise a judicious use of the newspapers, while individual work would accomplish much. He suggested that it would be well for teachers and members of the school to personally call on persons not interested in Sunday-school work and thus win them.

Under the head of newer lines of work, W. D. Murray, of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, opened the subject by telling about the cradle roll department. He described this department in his own school and told how successful it has been in winning parents into the Sunday-school. He told in detail about the methods used to get members on the cradle roll. They are up on this roll at birth and kept there until old enough to come to the school. Mr. Murray exhibited a well-devised method of keeping the names of the little ones. According to his system the roll will last for ever, as the names can be taken off when necessary and others put on.

James R. Joy followed with a helpful talk concerning the work for beginners in the Sunday-school and he told how successfully this department had been maintained in his school. He told of the interest manifested by the little ones, as well as their parents.

The home department work was assigned to Rev. Dr. Roads, in the absence of Miss Welsh, of Westfield, who was not present. He described this department of work and said it had proved to be a most helpful adjunct to a Sunday-school. The afternoon session closed after Rev. Dr. Crance, of the Methodist Book Concern, New York, gave a brief talk about the various publications of that teacher does not know what to teach and does not know how to care for the pupils. He or she should be a friend, a pastor as it were to the members in the class. Oftentimes when a school meets in the morning the scholars and teachers too often remain away from a church service.

"Yet, the Sunday-school with all its defects is an invaluable institution and should be continued. The ideal school is a mental picture of perfection, something that may be. There should be in it every person with an abundance of officers and teachers and there should not be those defects which I have mentioned."

Dr. Neely then spoke about the proper division for an ideal school in the classes and grades so that the greatest good can be accomplished. He paid especial attention to the home department work as an institution that should furnish extra teachers. He also spoke of a People's Bible College now being organized all over the country for this purpose. He impressed upon all the importance of using graded literature in the schools and recommended that furnished by the Methodist Book Concern as the kind for the Methodist church Sunday-schools.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Thomas McDonald sang a solo, as did also Charles L. Lewis, and after the singing of the doxology, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Bryan.

Those who took charge of the arrangements for the supper and waited on the tables were as follows: First M. E. church—Miss Minnie Sharp, chairman; Mrs. J. R. Joy, Miss Susie Jackson, Miss Amanda Carman, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull, Miss Gertrude Sharp, Miss Nettie Wilson, Miss Mabel Wyckoff, Miss Elizabeth Stafford, Mrs. Ida Courser, Miss Gertrude Huber, Miss Cora Harris, Miss Anna Smalley. Grace M. E. church—Mrs. Anna Most, Mrs. Corra Ryno, Miss Della Voehl, Mrs. Isaac P. Runyon, Miss Mary Steiner, Miss Grace Clark. Monroe Avenue church—Mrs. Walter Manning, Miss Haff and Miss Mary Beekman.

TO ALEXANDER D. FRAZEE, LULU FRAZEE, BESSIE FRAZEE, CAROLINE REIFF (formerly Frazee), WILLIAM H. REIFF and LILLIA F. MEIGS:

You are hereby notified that at a public sale made by the City Collector of the City of Plainfield on the twenty-fourth day of June, nineteen hundred and one, the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield purchased for the sum of four dollars and fifty-one cents all the land and real estate situate in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, fronting on Rushmore avenue, which is laid down and designated as lot No. 232-238, in block No. 456, as shown on the official assessment maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, said sale being made, pursuant to the provisions of an act of the Legislature of New Jersey, passed March 30th, 1886, entitled "An Act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in cities of this State, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to future taxation and assessment," and the several supplements thereto and amendments thereof.

And the certificate of said sale was afterward assigned to me. And you are further notified that you appear to have an estate or interest in said land and real estate, and unless the said lands and real estate shall be redeemed as provided in said act before the expiration of one year from and after the service hereof, and when one year has elapsed from and after the time of said sale, a deed for the same will be given, conveying to me the fee simple of said land and real estate, according to the provisions of said act.

chairman of a committee to report on the disvanatges and advantages of annexation and consolidation. Mr. Clark has been ill for the past three weeks or more and will be unable to attend the meeting this evening. The report will have to go over until July. It will be remembered that at the May meeting of the Council a vote on Councilman Lee's surprise resolution showed three in favor of union and two against. Councilman Nichols was absent and it was then doubtful how he stood on the matter, but since that time he has declared himself squarely against annexation. This leaves the Council evenly divided.

With Mr. Clark absent this evening some apprehension has been expressed that the antis might take advantage of the opportunity to carry things their own way. Mr. Clark, seen at his residence yesterday, said it would be impossible for him to attend the meeting, but he would ask Councilman Codington to pair with him. Mr. Codington says he feels strongly on this question of annexation and up to a late hour last evening was non-committal on the subject of pairing. Plainly he was not in favor of the idea, but he had not reached any definite conclusion as to how he would act if requested to pair by Mr. Clark. Some of the lesser lights among the antis are in high glee over the situation and would roundly condemn Mr. Codington if he let slip any advantage that might present itself.

If the worst comes to the worst, Mr. Clark may emulate the example of Wm. Pitt, and attend the meeting, even if he has to go there on crutches. Developments are awaited with interest.

THE STURGIS WAGER

A DETECTIVE STORY.

By EDGAR MORETTE

Copyright, 1899, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.

Chatham saw the motion and sprang before her to intercept it.

"Ah! that is the way of it, is it?" he exclaimed, with passionate jealousy. "You are—in love—with another man!"

The words seemed to choke him in the utterance. The blood rushed to his head; the veins on his temples stood out in purple vividness, and, as he clutched spasmodically at his collar, a wild light came into his eyes.

Agnes caught their mad glitter and shrank back in sudden terror.

"I have been duped!" he shouted, frantically. "I have been a cat's-paw, and now that I have done all that was wanted of me I am to be turned off like a dog, with a kick. The dirty work is done, is it? We'll see about that; we'll see what your father has to say. But, at any rate, you can be sure of one thing."

His voice sank to a hoarse whisper and the words fell with impressive distinctness:

"If I don't marry you, no one ever shall!"

As he spoke he leaned forward upon the table which stood near him, and his fingers closed nervously upon the handle of a jeweled paper knife. There was murder in his eye at that moment, and the frightened girl quailed before it.

Suddenly her ear caught the sound of footsteps in the hallway. She opened her lips to call for help, but before she could utter a sound the door opened, revealing the anxious face of the housemaid, who had heard enough to realize that it was time to interrupt the tete-a-tete without further ceremony.

"Mr. Sprague, miss," she announced, with a comforting nod at her young mistress, whose pale face and frightened eyes had not escaped her attention.

Sprague stood on the threshold in evident embarrassment, looking from Agnes to Chatham, and uncertain how to act.

"I fear I am intruding, Miss Murdock," he said at last; "your maid told me she thought you could receive me. Perhaps I would better call again."

"No, no, Mr. Sprague," replied the young girl, effusively, coming toward him with outstretched hands; "I am so glad to see you." And then, observing his inquiring glance toward Chatham, "I think," she added, coldly, "that this gentleman has said all that he has to say to me."

Chatham's excitement had subsided; in the reaction, he seemed ill and weak and he nervously clenched his tremulous right hand.

"I will wait to see Dr. Murdock," he said, doggedly, in a low voice.

"As you please," replied Agnes, after a slight hesitation. "Mary, show Mr. Chatham to the doctor's study."

As the accountant followed the servant from the room, blank despair was stamped in every feature, and it seemed to Sprague, as the door closed, that he heard something like a convulsive sob.

Unconsciously Agnes had clung to Sprague's hand. Now, as the sense of danger disappeared, she became aware of what she was doing; and, in sudden embarrassment, she withdrew her hand from his reassuring clasp.

The artist, recalling the object of his visit, at once became grave and formal.

"I am sorry to intrude upon you at this unconventional hour, Miss Murdock, but I found this letter in my studio to-day. It was evidently dropped by you yesterday; and, thinking it might be important, I—"

"A letter? What letter?" asked Agnes, puzzled.

Sprague held out the sealed envelope. The young girl tore it open and cast a hurried glance at its contents. Then suddenly understanding, she tore the paper to shreds and threw these angrily into the fire which burned brightly in the large open fireplace.

"Oh, that!" she exclaimed, contemptuously. And then after a pause: "Do you mean to say you thought—"

She stopped short, seized by a sudden shyness.

"What else could I think?" said Sprague, softly.

He was watching the fragments of paper as they flared upon the hearth. The flame which consumed them seemed to shed a radiant glow upon his heart.

"Then," he added, presently, and still more softly, "if there is nothing between you and—and him—perhaps—perhaps I may hope—Miss Murdock—Agnes—"

His hand sought hers and found it. But the reaction had come at last, and the brave girl who had been able to control herself in the presence of a threatening madman now gave way to a fit of hysterical weeping.

Sprague, not being a medical man, could hardly have known what remedies to employ in an emergency of this kind. All he did was to whisper soothing words in the young girl's ear and to kiss the tears from her eyes. But apparently that was enough. Evidently for a layman he must have possessed considerable medical intuition; for, after sobbing awhile upon his shoulder, Agnes quieted down gradually and remained contentedly nestling in his arms, while the artist, doubtless fearful of a relapse, continued, for perhaps an unnecessarily long time, to ply the treatment whose effect had produced upon his patient so marked, so rapid, and so satisfactory a result.

The attention of the medical profession is respectfully called to a treatment which, though empirical may possibly possess specine virtues.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE ROENTGEN RAYS.

"I tell you, Sturgis, it is a wonderful discovery. I don't know what applications may ultimately be made of it in other branches of science, but I am convinced that it is bound to cause a revolution in surgical diagnosis," said Dr. Thurston, enthusiastically.

"Yes," replied Sturgis, "I have no doubt that Roentgen's rays will be of great assistance to the surgeon in the examination of features and in the location of foreign bodies which cannot be reached by the probe."

"As a proof of that, I must show you a beautiful photograph which I have just made. After leaving you on New Year's morning, I found a patient asleep in my office. He had been waiting several hours. It was the usual case of a pistol in the hands of a fool friend, who did not know it was loaded; and of course with the usual result—a bullet wound in my patient."

Sturgis was listening in an absentminded way while his friend spoke.

"The wound was not severe; no bones broken. The bullet had entered the palm of the left hand and had passed up into the forearm."

A sudden light came into the reporter's eyes; but he maintained his listless attitude.

"Well, sir, probe as I would, I was unable to locate that bullet. At last I concluded to try the Roentgen rays, and here is the result. It is as pretty a shadow photograph as I have yet seen."

So saying, Dr. Thurston handed the reporter a photograph, which the latter studied carefully in silence.

"Notice how clearly you can see the peculiar shape into which the bullet has been flattened," said the physician.

"Yes," replied Sturgis, "I was observing that. Have you a duplicate of this that you can spare?"

"Yes: keep that one if you wish."

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The State Board of Taxation is making a systematic effort to impress on the local assessors the necessity for a careful study of the laws under which they perform their duties. The rules which have been formulated by the board and transmitted to each assessor for his guidance are explicit and if lived up to future assessments will not be subject to the criticisms which have been provoked in the past.

The duties of local assessors are most important, but the manner in which they are frequently performed makes their work a travesty of equal taxation. The State Board calls particular attention to the provision of the laws directing that all property shall be assessed at its full and actual value. It is in this particular that assessors most often fail to live up to the law, with the result that great injustice is done. As the board points out, the assessing of property upon any percentage less than true value makes the tax rate higher than it otherwise would be, and invariably results in unequal taxation between individuals and taxing districts

But this is not the only fault that is justly found with assessors. The board, in its rules, plainly indicates where reforms are necessary. A careful study of these rules by the assessors, and a willingness on their part to conform to them faithfully, is sure to result in a considerable lessening of the complaints regarding unequal taxation. It is a timely warning that the State Board has given that the "diligent inquiry" enjoined by the statutes will be expected of all assessors in the performance of their duties.—Newark News.

Several papers announce—upon what authority it is not stated—that at a recent conference of the Republican leaders, held in this city, the following ticket was tentatively "made up:" For senator, Joseph Cross; for surrogate, George T. Parrot; for sheriff, Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield. If any such conference was held the most singular part of it is the fact that the Republican leaders most interested were not present, and therefore no slate could have been made. Nevertheless those who guessed at the conference and missed it made a very excellent guess at the probable ticket for next fall. There is little doubt that Senator Cross will be renominated. He is one of the ablest and best members of the senate; one of the most satisfactory that ever represented Union county, and, so far as can be learned, there is no opposition to him. Any reference to Surrogate Parrot must be couched in practically the same words. There has never been a better official nor a more capable leader in the Republican councils. Mr. McCardell has been spoken of many times and very favorably for the office of sheriff. If the senator and surrogate come to Elizabeth it is unquestionably proper that the sheriff should go to Plainfield, if the latter city wishes it, and Mr. McCardell is well qualified, as to ability and popularity, for the office.—Elizabeth Journal.

MAPS OF NEW JERSEY.

Fine Topographic Maps of This Section Just Reissued.

Of interest to inhabitants of New Jersey are the four sheets of the topographic map of New Jersey which the United States Geological Survey has recently reissued.

They are the Plainfield sheet, which shows the city of Plainfield, and the thickly settled suburban country adjoining it, and as specially interesting features, the bluff escarpment of the Watchung Mountains and the confused topography of the terminal moraine of the great glacier; the Lake Hopatcong sheet, which shows the lake of that name, well known as a popular resort and the rugged mountain country surrounding it; the Lambertville sheet, which covers parts of Hunterdon and Mercer counties bordering the Delaware river; and the Atlantic City sheet, which shows Atlantic City and the ocean beach north to New Inlet.

The maps are drawn on a scale of one inch to the mile and show in great detail all towns, roads and streams. A feature of these maps, in common with all government topographic maps, is the representation of relief, or the shape, slope, and altitude of the hills and valleys, by contour lines.

They may be had for five cents each, on application to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington.

Emil Droll, of Stebbins place, who was recently discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, is able to enjoy short walks daily.

Patrick Fahy, of West Fourth street, the victim of the Decoration Day automobile accident, is getting along very nicely at Muhlenberg Hospital.

The I. C. T. Club has been challenged by the O Be Joyful Club to a baseball game. It has been accepted and both organizations are now getting nines into shape to commence practice work at once.

The Park Athletic Club will play the Underwoods at 3:30 Monday afternoon on Hope Common, and on Wednesday they will play the Dunellen juniors. The members of the Park club have recently received from the A. G. Spalding Company uniforms of Yale gray with blue trimmings and caps to match.

League baseball games tomorrow: Hope against Y. M. C. A. on former's grounds; Safe Works against St. Mary's on latter's grounds. The executive committee has assigned Umpires Young and Bodine to the Hope-Y. M. C. A. game and Umpires Brown and Townley to the other contest. Both games will be called promptly at 3:45.

Three of the League team managers have presented names of new players which are to be added to their respective teams. David Pond and Charles Dupee have been entered by Manager Heywood; Michael Sullivan by Manager Monahan and William Enright and Benjamin Franklin by Manager Muir. None of them will be allowed to play for two weeks.

GOLF.

There will be the weekly play for the Boys' and Golf Committee cups on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow.

The first competition for the Schoonmaker cups, mixed doubles, will take place tomorrow at the Hillside grounds. It is the desire of the committee that as many members as possible may enter the competition.

The match game of golf between the regular Hillside team and the Princeton team for tomorrow has been declared off, and instead there will be a match on the Hillside course between a team of middle-aged members and a similar team from the Baltusrol Club.

A few errors were made recently in publishing the standing for the Boys' cup in competition on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course. The correct standing is as follows:

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Samuel Johnson, one of the best known conductors on the New Jersey Central, had a lively experience yesterday afternoon while crossing the Newark Bay bridge with his train, which was making a short run to Roselle. When a point in the middle of the bridge was reached, Mr. Johnson was going from one car to another, when a strong gust of wind came along and carried his brand-new black silk uniform cap off his head into the rapidly-flowing waters below. The conductor made a desperate effort to catch the hat before it could get away, but the wind was too quick for him. He continued the run to Roselle, where he arranged for another hat.

A prominent member of the Crescent Avenue church in speaking to a representative for The Daily Press, yesterday, took occasion to say that C. J. Fisk was in error Wednesday evening, when he stated at the meeting of the church that the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, was the largest and most influential church in the country. The member said that there are a great numer of churches in the Presbyterian denomination that are larger in membership and influence and he mentioned several that are located in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and many other large cities that have a memership of from 1,200 to 2,800 and exert a far greater influence than Brick church. He said that he thought Mr. Fisk must have meant that Brick church was one of the largest.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. FIXED DATE FOR A VOTE

Borough Council Called Special Election for September 16 to Vote on Annexation.

ALL WAS HARMONIOUS.

Councilman Nichols Had Three Famous Resolutions Which Went Through With Bells On—Committee to Confer With City Council on Terms of Consolidation.

When the Borough Fathers convened in regular session last evening, the meeting seemed like the anniversary re-union of a scattered family. The characteristic marks of a love feast were distinctly in evidence. Contrasted with the previous meeting of a month ago, last evening's session was like the normal beating of the human pulse compared with the convulsive throbs of Pelee. There was some banter, a little thinly veiled sarcasm, a few side thrusts, but no real jarring rote. There was almost absolute unanimity on three resolutions introduced by Councilman Northrop relative to annexation and consolidation.

The group of enthusiastic annexationists and the no less ardent coterie of antis, who were present at the May meeting, were conspicuous by their absence. When the clerk came to that part of the minutes dealing with Councilman Lee's noted resolution, a slight smile flitted around the board, which spread itself to the spectators in the body of the hall, and in which the Mayor and Mr. Lee joined.

Councilman Clark, notwithstanding his illness, was present and aided by his vote to carry the important resolutions presented by Mr. Northrop. Without his presence the first resolution setting a date for the popular decision on the question of annexation would have been lost. As forecasted in The Daily Press, yesterday, September 16 was the date chosen for an election on that question. Councilman Nichols, who was absent at the last meeting, was in his place at the board.

After miscellaneous business had been transacted Councilman Northrop arose and offered a resolution to the effect that a special election be held in the borough of North Plainfield on September 16, 1902, as provided for by an act to annex the territory within the boundaries of North Plainfield to that territory within the boundaries of the city of Plainfield, and that the borough clerk give due notice of said election.

Councilman Lee moved in amendment that the resolution be referred to the corporation counsel to ascertain if it were properly drawn and in accordance with the law passed by the Legislature. The corporation counsel being absent, this would necessitate the holding over of the motion. Councilman Northrop took the heart out of Mr. Lee's amendment, which was a parody on a similar amendment which caused the tabling of his own famous resolution of a month ago, by declaring that the corporation counsel drew up the resolutions at Mr. Northrop's request. Lee, Nichols, Codington voted for the amendment; Clark, Northrop, Arnold against. The Mayor declared the amendment lost.

On the original question being put, it was carried unanimously, Lee, Nichols and Codington voting yea.

A second resolution was submitted by Councilman Northrop to the effect that the Mayor and Council of the city of Plainfield be requested to appoint a committee to confer with a special committee heretofore appointed by the Borough Council upon the subject of the consolidation of Plainfield with a view to establishing, so far as practicable, an understanding as to the terms and conditions under which consolidation may be made. Councilman Nichols said that since it was the intention to have an early vote on the matter he was in favor of the resolution which was carried unanimously.

Councilman Northrop then introduced his third resolution: "Be it resolved by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield that no date be fixed for holding an election under the provision of acts to consolidate the corporations until after the special committee heretofore appointed by the Mayor shall have made its report thereon."

Councilmen Nichols and Lee were

THREE YOUNG WOMEN WERE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Commencement Exercises and Musicale Held at the Plainfield Seminary Yesterday.

THE EXERCISES SIMPLE.

MUSICALE BY MISS MAY, MISS KIEB AND MISS HENRY, OF NEW YORK.

Diplomas Presented to the Three Graduates by Miss Kenyon—All Will Enter Wellesley in the Fall—Charming Decorations.

A musicale full of charm was given yesterday morning at the Plainfield Seminary on West Seventh street in connection with the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class.

The accompanying programme was rendered with the skill that always characterizes the performances of Miss May and Miss Keib and the rendition of several selections on the violin by Miss Mary Henry, of New York, was a rare treat to all lovers of that most tuneful instrument. The programme:

Hungarian Idyl . . . . . Keler Bela
Miss Mary Henry.
Romance . . . . . Schumann
Electra . . . . . Jensen
Fruhlingsrauschen . . . . . Sinding
Mazurka . . . . . Leschetizky
Miss Ruby Keib.
The Swan . . . . . Saint Saiens
Mazurka de Concert . . . . . Musin
Miss Mary Henry.
Prelude . . . . . Rachmaninoff
Impromptu . . . . . Chopin
Meditation . . . . . Tschaikowsky
Troika . . . . . Tschaikowsky
Etude de Concert . . . . . Lisst
Miss May.

At the conclusion of the muiscal programme Miss E. E. Kenyon presented the diplomas to the members of the graduating class, Miss Harriet Louise Curtis, Miss Ethel Cook Smalley, Miss Eleanor Kenyon Stimson and Miss Ruth Titus. This class has the distinction of having the highest average for scholarship during four years of any previous class.

In a few earnest words in which Miss Kenyon emphasized the superiority of nobility of character to merely intellectual attainments the formal farewell was said and the God speed like a benediction given. All of these young women will enter college, Wellesley being the choice.

Study Hall, where the exercises were held, was simply but most effectively decorated, with rhododendrons massed in the background and the four large white pillars of the hall twined with sprays of roses as dainty as a design on dresden china.

ALUMNI RECEPTION.

Will be Conducted on Same Plans as in Past Years for Graduates of the City High School.

The commencement reception, this year, which will follow the graudation exercises of the Plainfield High School Thursday evening, June 19, will be conducted on the same lines as in previous years. The committees of the classes of 1900 and 1901, which are in charge of the reception, are hard at work and promise an excellent time on that occasion. As usual, it will be held at the Casino from 10 o'clock until 1.

There was some talk of forming an alumni association to take charge of this reception to the graduating class and allow all the members of the alumni to participate in it instead of the last two classes that have graduated. For lack of a leading spirit, however, the plan fell through and the old custom will be continued. The committee in charge has decided to sell a limited number of subscriptions among the old pupils of the High School. These may be obtained of W. Holloway Titus, president of the class of 1901, or Miss Marion D. Woodcock, president of the class of 1900.

Preparing to Close the House.

During the summer season when arrangements are being made to leave home, the disposal of silverware and other valuables is a matter that must not be overlooked. The City National Bank will receive all of these articles for storage, and will also rent private boxes. The safe deposit and storage vaults in this bank are thoroughly up-to-date.

—Press want ads pay.

—Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf, will light up the entire lower floor tomorrow night for the inspection of the public.

—There will be bargain sales at the Woman's Exchange on Park avenue, Wednesday and Thursday, June 11 and 12, and the public is invited.

HOPE CHAPEL'S WORK IN WEST END

Wonderful Growth of the Chapel and the Progressive Methods of Its Earnest Workers.

In this modern age of keen competition and progressiveness there is no room for the organization or individual that persists in clinging to customs and methods that sufficed generations ago. "The world do move" and never more than at present. Not only in the business world with its seekers for success vieing with each other in their daily turmoil, nor the lone citizen, but also the church, which only a few decades ago was a synonym for somnolence and monotony.

No where is this change of custom in religious circles more apparent than in Hope chapel, the one institution in this "city of churches" which stands out prominently as an example of what energy and progress can do. Started fourteen years ago with some apprehensions as to its ultimate success today it represents the religious and social life of an entire section of the city. At first but a small building discarded by another body of worshippers, it now embraces three distinct structures, any one of which has four times the seating capacity of the beginning. In 1888, boasting of a membership of fourteen, it now points with pride to an enrollment of 700 earnest workers seeking to uplift and help their fellow men, there comes the social life which is distinct in itself. Prominent to a degree which has made it familiar in every part of the city is the Young Men's Association, composed of 100 youths, the future upholders of the chapel and its principles. It is housed in a building adjoining the Sunday-school, containing a complete gymnasium. In it is every device for perfecting physical proportions, bowling alley, shower baths, locker and reading rooms and visitors' gallery. It was donated the young men by an anonymous friend, but they now pay its running expenses and are constantly adding new attractions. Two new bowling alleys, a pool table, shuffle boards and other devices for innocent divertisement are some of the things projected and for which the members are now striving.

The association also embraces a baseball team which now stands at the head of the local league, a bowling and basket ball team and a minstrel troup which can outclass anything of a similar nature in the city. Last March this organization gave a performance which was witnessed by nearly 2,000 persons and which revealed to the outside world some of the versatility possessed by these young men whose only place of amusement is within the walls of the chapel and its environs. In preparation now, is a typical county fair which the association is to give on Independence Day in connection with its baseball games and which promises to attain no small degree of success.

At the head of this department is City Judge William N. Runyon, who has worked unceasingly with the boys for the past two years. Anything which tends to improve the minds or morals of his associates he has always advocated and he is now striving to have established a night school. The importance of this project cannot be under estimated as the West End contains scores of young men who by force of circumstance were compelled to terminate their school careers at tender ages and who long for an opportunity to learn. The matter is to be decided upon at the September meeting of the association.

Another organization in the chapel is the Christian Endeavor Society which is always seeking to interest the young people in church work. Though small in numbers its influence is always felt as the leaders are characteristic chapelites. During the past winter the social committee was ever ready with an affair of some sort to promote sociability among the members and its original methods have been copied by other churches.

There is also a Ladies' Aid Society, a Mission Society, sewing school for very young girls and other minor organizations, all of which assist in making the chapel as near as possible what a twentieth century church should be like.

The Sunday-school has grown and prospered under the direction of Henry C. Squires, who has been superintendent since its beginning and who has been regular in attendance year in and year out, braving all sorts of conditions and weather to reach his favorite field of labor. He has had associated with him in his work, F. H. Andrews, now superintendent of Warren chapel which with Hope is fostered by the Crescent Avenue church, City Judge William N. Runyon who has been its pianist for six years, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, I. W. Travell, principal of the City High School, and many others.

The chapel's first pastor was Rev. G. Kennedy Newell who was succeeded last fall by Rev. Lawrence R. Howard. Although but with the people a short time, he and Mrs. Howard have endeared themselves to the congregation. Mr. Howard is a member of the Young Men's Association and he is looked upon as one who has its best interests at heart.

Thus has Hope chapel grown and there is no one can gainsay the fact that its policy is successful and to be commended. While an impression of its importance may be gleaned from reading this account, it needs but a visit to Hope to convince the outsider that it is doing more for its people, young and old, mentally, physically and spiritually than any similar institution in the city.

President W. N. Runyon of Hope Chapel Y. M. A.

Sunday-school pupils alone with an average attendance of about 400 with half as many at church services. All this has been accomplished by push and progress, two essentials which are never lost sight of at Hope chapel.

These figures convey but a faint idea of the activity at the institution, which does not wait for attendants, but seeks them and then retains them. The latter is not a difficult problem as once acquainted with the chapel and its people, it must indeed be a pessimistic individual who does not become imbued with the spirit and come again and again.

Leaving aside the church and its affairs, which constitutes a host of

For Odd Fellows.

Rev. W. C. Nelson will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Clara J. Mears will sing and there will be special instrumental music. Plainfield, Westfield and Rahway Lodges, I. O. O. F., will attend. All men are invited.

Harry Lindabury, of this city, has returned from High Bridge, where he has been spending a few days.

Miss Margaret Rand, of Watchung avenue, has returned from Mt. Holyoke College for the summer vacation.

MISSION WORKERS END MEETINGS FOR SUMMER

Winter Has Been a Successful One for Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Church.

LAST MEETING TILL FALL

INTERESTING REPORTS OF OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES WERE PRESENTED.

Some Business Was Transacted—Delegates to Anniversary Meeting of Woman's Board Made Their Report—Other Pleasant Features.

The last meeting until next October of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening. Miss Mabel Woodruff, the president, occupied the chair.

Reports of the officers, including that of the treasurer, all gave evidence of progress and increased interest. The treasurer, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, showed the receipts to be $35.40, including $2.50 as dues for the month of May. There was expended 15 cents, leaving a balance of $35.25.

The reports of the committees were encouraging. It was stated that barrels have been and are being packed to be sent to mission station. The birthday committee reported five birthdays in May. There was also reported one new member.

A letter was read giving the name of the native girl in India which the band has undertaken to support, and telling something about her. The band has pledged $30 a year for the support and education of this girl.

It was decided that the band pay the remainder of the pledge for the new piano, also that the special collection taken recently for the Kentucky mountain fund be paid. Miss Woodruff announced that next week the work of sending flowers to the New York mission every week would be started and named committees who will look after this work. The president also suggested that when the band meets again in October the members begin the practice of responding to the roll call by relating some item of interest.

Miss Cutter and Miss Lillian A. Force gave interesting accounts of the morning and afternoon sessions of the anniversary meeting of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions held recently in the Collegiate church, New York. During the intermission between the reports there was a vocal selection by Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, Miss Mary Randolph, Miss Dunavan, Miss Minnie Williams and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, accompanied by Miss Lillian A. Force on the piano.

A feature of the evening then followed. It was called "Missionary Mysteries," and was in charge of Mrs. W. C. Startup. She had placed in a large receptacle a number of curios from China, Japan and Arabia, such as hair comb, coffin, Hindu cooking utensils, paper money, idols, Arabic roll of Bible texts, etc. These were all numbered and different persons held slips of paper also numbered explaining the curios. As Mrs. Startup called the numbers these slips of paper were read. Afterward the curios were passed around and examined.

This part of the meeting was then concluded with the singing of a hymn and the benediction by Pastor Schenck, after which there was a social time and refreshments were served.

BOYS' SECRETARY HERE.

Kenneth Robbie Paid Short Visit to the Scene of Future Labors.

Kenneth Robbie, the newly appointed boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was in the city yesterday afternoon and evening. Mr. Robbie came down from Montclair where he was attending a conference on boys' work, and returned to Springfield, Mass., today, where he will shortly be graduated from the Y. M. C. A. training school. While here, Mr. Robbie met some of the young men who will be under his charge at Camp Wawayanda.

Examination for Bar.

The regular June examinations for admission to the Bar were held at Trenton Thursday. There were forty five persons who took the examination for attorneys, while thirty-eight took the counselor's examination. A number of those taking the examinations have been up before and hope for success this time.

ROUTINE AT MEETING OF BOROUGH FATHERS

Council Approved the Plan to Build New Fire Headquarters for the Borough.

SOME MINOR MATTERS.

SIGNIFIED ITS WILLINGNESS TO ISSUE BONDS FOR $10,000 FOR BUILDING.

Warren Engine Company Sent in Its List of Officers—The Reports Received From Borough Departments—Suits for Marshals.

In addition to the annexation and consolidation discussion reported in another column, the usual miscellaneous business was transacted at the Borough Council meeting, last evening.

A most important matter brought before the board was the resolution introduced by Councilman Clark relative to the erection of a new engine house. The Council passed favorably on the matter and signified its willingness to issue bonds to the amount of $10,000, in parcels of $1,000 each, the interest not to exceed five per cent., to cover the cost of erection, if the necessary number of signatures were obtained to enable them to proceed with the undertaking. There seemed to be a decided sentiment in favor of new engine quarters. The Mayor and several of the Council made some approving remarks.

A communication was read from Warren Engine Company stating that the following oeffiers had been elected for the ensuing year: Foreman, Lafayette Rosenstiehl; first assistant, L. B. Bodine; second assistant, A. Brokaw; recording secretary, L. B. Bodine; financial secretary, W. G. Debell; treasurer, J. M. Higgins; engineer, ——— ; first assistant, Geo. L. Feiring; second assistant, A. DeCamp; stoker, W. Conover; delegate to relief association, D. Bodine.

A number of bills against the borough were referred to the auditing committee and subsequently ordered paid. In this connection a resolution was later introduced by Chairman Nichols of the auditing committee authorizing the Mayor and Council to borrow $1,000 to meet current expenses. The resolution was agreed to.

The following report was received from Collector and Treasurer Geo. F. Brown: Taxes, $464.58; Board of Health, $2.70; special school, $103.68; bills payable, $500; fines, $26; liquor licenses, $1,852.50; back taxes, $39; F. Rowley, licenses, $80; F. Rowley, sale of stone, $1.25; balance on hand, May 1, $1,948.86; total receipts, $5,018.57; disbursements, $3,014.83; cash on hand, June 1, $2,003.74.

Chairman Arnold of the street committee reported the following expenditures: Park place, $117.65; Mercer avenue, $40.57; Jackson avenue, $106.14; Manning avenue, $149.40; Greenbrook road, $496.43; Summit avenue, $54.75; Farragut avenue, $32.58; Somerset street, $80.73; Grove street, $35.55; Harrison street, $25.75; Grandview avenue, $4; street sprinkling, $142; total, $1,285.45.

Mr. Clark, chairman of fire, water and lamp committee, reported expenditures: 334 lamps, $15.50 per dozen, $431.42; salaries and supplies, $13.57; total, $563.79.

Chairman Lee, of the police committee, reported 8 arrests, drunk and disorderly; 3 for disorderly conduct; total, 11; fines, $21.

An appropriation of $50 was set aside for the purchase of clothing for the borough marshals. The mayor suggested that some further repairs be made to Summit avenue and Harrison street. He also drew attention to the fact that the marshals have not yet secured bondsmen. Their bonds should be submitted in June, and the clerk was ordered to see that they were presented at the July meeting. Clerk Rowley handed his own bond and that of Treasurer Brown to the chairman of the committee on laws, ordinances and taxes. Meeting then adjourned.

To be Ordered This Week.

Chairman Robert E. Lee, of the Councilmanic fire committee, says he thinks the new combination chemical engine and hose wagon can be delivered in about seventy-five days from the date of order, which will probably be this week.

W. Holloway Titus, of Central avenue, is home from Cornell University for the summer.

Mrs. Annie C. Stryker and daughter Nellie, of Harlingen, have been visiting Plainfield friends.

THE FOURTH AT PARK CLUB

UNIQUE INVITATIONS SENT OUT FOR THE ANNUAL CELEBRATION.

Tennis, Social Features and Fireworks, Day and Night, Will be the Attractions.

In a very unique invitation printed on paper reminding one of the wrapper about a package of fire-crackers, the Park Club announces that it will celebrate the coming glorious Fourth in appropriate style.

In the morning "Old Glory" and tennis will predominate. In the afternoon, more tennis, and with the assistance of the women, tea and so forth. Also at 5 o'clock there will be a display of day fireworks.

The evening will be devoted to fireworks galore, music and dancing—a shirtwaist affair. Admission to the evening entertainment will be by card only, and this will apply to regular and associate members as well as guests. Regular members are entitled to three guest cards. It is requested that application for cards of admission be made to the members of the committee as soon as possible after June 20. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Augustus VanDeventer, Charles L. Nichols and Nelson A. Miller.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

There must be some remissness on the part of the teachers in the Plainfield High School which has permitted roots to stop the sewerage pipes of the structure. If the instructors had made the pupils extract the usual amount of square and cube roots, the difficulty might have been avoided.—Newark News.

The Somerset county officials have some excuse for allowing four prisoners to escape from the jail at Somerville. The authorities have been kept so busy trying to prevent the people of North Plainfield from breaking away that they have had little time for anything else.—Newark News.

The first act of the Republicans of Union county was to capture the control of the new Fifth Congressional District in convention by fixing the representation in such a way as to give Union county a plurality of delegates over both Morris and Warren counties combined. In this act is seen the fine hand of Congressman Fowler, who is seeking the nomination for Congress on the Republican ticket for the Fall election. This scheme gives Union county the absolute control of all Republican congressional conventions for the next ten years, and Morris and Warren counties become mere figureheads and but a tail to Union's kite. The nine thousand Republican voters of Morris and Warren counties, if they will, can hereafter step up to the polls and cast their vote for such a candidate as Union county sees proper to nominate, but in the selection of a candidate they will hereafter have no voice.

This being the situation, what is to become of the budding politicians of Morris and Warren? They are lost in the Republican scheme of re-districting the State in the interest of a few party leaders.—Washington N.J. Star.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. NEW STORM SEWER.

Work of Building the One on Arlington Ave. to be Started in Sept.

The work of building the storm sewer in Arlington avenue, between Fifth street and Cedar brook, will probably not be started before September. This will give a sufficient amount of time to complete it before cold weather. The ordinance has just been introduced and after its final adoption, it will be necessary to advertise for bids for doing the work and it will be well along toward August before this is completed. The sewer will undoubtedly be one of the greatest improvements in that section of the city and will effectually carry off all surface water.

ANOTHER ERUPTION.

Mont Pelee Has a Violent Outburst. The Sea Agitated.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, June 7.—A volcanic outburst from Mont Pelee resulted in the formation of a heavy cloud similar to that of May 20 last, though it was not so dense.

No stones fell, and when the cloud had spread over Fort de France half an hour later there was no panic here.

It is noted at Fort de France that the volcanic outbursts coincide with the changes of the moon.

A dispatch from Kingstown, St. Vincent, says that vessels leaving the island of Martinique have experienced upheavals and agitations of the sea, pointing to submarine eruptions between Martinique and St. Lucia.

In the island of St. Vincent the shining fleece clouds which are continually rising and spreading from the direction of the Soufriere volcano since May 16 and which have been mistaken for tropical clouds have proved to be steam emitted from the crater, from which flashes of flame are issuing nightly.

The eruptions at Martinique seem to relieve the St. Vincent volcano materially. Connection between the two volcanoes is indisputable.

St. Lucia In Darkness.

CASTRIES, St. Lucia, June 7.—The royal mail steamer Eden, Captain Down, arrived here yesterday. Captain Down reports that while leaving Fort de France, Martinique, at 10:15 o'clock yesterday morning Mont Pelee erupted and threw out an enormous cloud of smoke, which passed to the eastward. The passengers on the Eden were much alarmed. At half past 11 o'clock almost entire darkness prevailed, and while three miles distant from the shore of the island of St. Lucia clouds of volcanic dust obscured the coast and made it difficult for the vessel to enter the harbor. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the darkness was intense over St. Lucia.

Darkness at Midday.

BASSE TERRE, St. Christopher, June 7.—It grew very dark here yesterday morning at 10:15 o'clock, and lights had to be lit. Very loud detonations were heard from the southward.

MILES NOT RECALLED.

Statement From the West Positively Denied in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The statement from Kansas City to the effect that General Miles had been called to Washington was exhibited to every officer of the war department who could by any possibility have handled any order to General Miles and by each and all of them was positively denied. It is stated that no person connected with the administration has sent any order to General Miles from Washington since his departure on his present trip, nor has the war department communicated with him. The intimation is that any recall, such as referred to by General Miles, must have come from some of his personal friends or family.

It is explained in another quarter that Lieutenant General Miles only desired to see that portion of the field gun tests at Fort Riley which took place the first day. After that he intended to come east again to West Point, stopping at Chicago to look into some private matters and again at Syracuse, N. Y., where an informal reception is to be tendered him by a body of war veterans.

West Pointers Take to Tents.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 7.—The Military academy cadets have vacated their barracks in the old stone, cellar-like structure and moved into Camp Churchman, overlooking the Hudson river, for the summer. The establishment of the camp was a novel spectacle for the board of visitors. At a given signal and while the academy band was playing "Hail Columbia" the 200 tents were almost instantly and simultaneously shot upward into position as if by magic, everything having previously been arranged for the purpose.

The Wilson Endowment.

LEXINGTON, Va., June 7.—Washington and Lee university has received from the committee which raised the William L. Wilson endowment fund for the chair of economics at the university a check for $94,553, which, with $6,000 already received, makes the fund $100,553. The paper received with the check bore the signatures of former President Grover Cleveland, chairman of the committee, and Herbert Welsh, secretary, and was drawn up by former Secretary John G. Carlisle.

Gale on Newfoundland Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., June 7.—A fierce northeast gale is sweeping the coast line of Newfoundland and doing much destruction to fishing boats, fishing gear and other property. The same gale is blowing over the Grand Banks and is forcing the fishing fleet in toward the land. A number of fishing boats have arrived here and bring reports of fair catches until the gale arose and compelled them to leave the grounds.

Torpedo Boat Standish.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 7.—The torpedo boat Wilkes went out to sea yesterday afternoon for an endurance test of two hours with the board of inspection and survey. She made twenty-five knots for two consecutive hours without being forced. This completes her official trials, and the vessel probably will be accepted by the government.

Engineer Killed In Collision.

KANSAS CITY, June 7.—The Missouri state express on the Chicago and Alton road from St. Louis, due here at 7:15 p. m., was wrecked near Blue Cut, fifteen miles east of Kansas City, about 6:30 o'clock last night by collision with a freight train. The express engineer is reported killed and several passengers injured.

WILL NOT INTERFERE

President Declines to Act In Mining Strike.

NO LEGAL GROUNDS TO WARRANT IT.

The Application of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation Considered In Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—After a conference with the members of his cabinet President Roosevelt has decided that there is no legal grounds for interference by him in the settlement of the dispute between the coal operators and striking miners.

The resolutions of the New York board of trade and transportation requesting the president to appoint a commissioner to visit the anthracite regions and investigate the situation were discussed at great length, but as the law of 1892 which conferred authority upon the president to appoint such an official has been repealed the president has no desire to assume the responsibility which the New York board of trade suggested.

QUIET AT WILKESBARRE.

President Mitchell Claims the Tieup Is Complete.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 7.—Thursday night's shooting had a sobering effect upon the idle men and boys in this valley, and as a result the Wyoming region was a place of almost absolute peace yesterday. There were no parades, marches or any considerable gathering of persons, and the police authorities of the county had little more to do than keep watch.

The Stanton colliery, where the shooting occurred, was visited by hundreds of persons who expected to see more trouble, but no crowds were permitted to congregate in the neighborhood. The colliery is closed down as tight as a drum as a result of the disturbance there. Even the coal and iron police, with the exception of four or five, gave up their jobs and left town as quickly as they could get out. There were about twenty in the party, including several colored cooks.

The preliminary hearing of the four coal and iron policemen who are charged with the shooting of Charles McCann, the thirteen-year-old boy, was not held. The condition of the boy is still serious, but it is believed he will recover.

Sheriff Albert Jacobs of this county swore in twenty men as deputies yesterday. They are now quartered in the courthouse, ready for any emergency. Some of the coal companies wanted him to swear in as deputies some of their policemen, but he preferred to pick his own men.

There were a number of desertions among the fire bosses employed at several mines in this vicinity, which caused the companies considerable inconvenience.

President Mitchell claims that the strike of the engineers, firemen and pumpmen is practically complete. The mining superintendents say that as far as they are concerned there is no change in the general situation during the past twenty-four hours. Water is still accumulating in the lower levels of some of the mines, but the coal company officials seem to be indifferent regarding the flooding of the workings.

The borough of Nanticoke has decided to begin injunction proceedings against the Susquehanna Coal company to enjoin that company from cutting off the water supply from a portion of the borough. The coal company furnishes the power for pumping water into the reservoir, and when the engineers, firemen and pumpmen quit the company the pumps were shut down.

The strike of the soft coal miners in West Virginia for higher wages which is to be inaugurated today will be directed by President Mitchell from Wilkesbarre. There are 29,000 men in that field, and it is claimed that 18,000 will stop work now and all will be out in the course of a few days.

Operators Hung In Effigy.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 7.—The miners in the Lykens valley region threaten to make trouble if the pumpmen and engineers do not quit work. During the past twenty-four hours operators and other mine officials have been burned in effigy in Lykens, Williamstown and Wiconisco. When the men at work left their posts at quitting time and started for their homes, they were hooted and jeered by the strikers, and spoiled eggs were hurled at them.

The Tieup Is General.

ROANOKE, Va., June 7.—A special from North Fork, W. Va., says: "The miners' strike ordered to take place today is general, and a complete tieup of the forty or more coal and coke companies' works in the Flat Top fields results. All is quiet at this place, and no trouble is anticipated. Twenty thousand men quit work last night."

Mines Begin to Flood.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 7.—The Locust Gap and Locust Spring collieries, owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company and when in operation employing 1,144 men and boys, has begun flooding because of the subbosses quitting work rather than keep up steam for the pumps.

Riot Proclamations Posted.

HAZLETON, Pa., June 7.—Riot proclamations were posted late yesterday afternoon everywhere on the property of the Lehigh Valley Coal company at Yorktown. A special train, with steam up, is at Roan Junction ready to carry a carload of officers to any part of the district.

Weather Probabilities.

Local rains; fresh to brisk south winds.

NEEDS OF FILIPINOS.

Senor Buencamino Writes a Letter to Root.

EDUCATION ONE OF THE REQUISITES

An Appropriation For Sending Students to This Country Urged. Also an Increase of Teachers. Full Amnesty Is Asked.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Senor Buencamino, now in Washington, has addressed a letter to Secretary Root, which is in part as follows:

"I have concluded my statements before the committee on insular affairs of the house of representatives, and I have attempted to show to the honorable members thereof that the following are the most urgent requirements of the Philippines:

"A civil government, with full powers for the reconstruction of the ruined governmental organisms of the Philippine people.

"A legislature composed of a high and low chamber in accordance with the provisions embodied in the bill reported by the committee to the house.

"The appropriation of $50,000 per annum from the Philippine revenues for the purpose of sending Philippine students to the United States, giving preference to those who wish to study industry, commerce and agriculture.

"Full amnesty on declaration of peace.

"Increase of the number of teachers to 6,000, with an increase of their salaries to double what they are now receiving.

"In answering the objections of the Democratic members I incidentally brought to the attention of the committee the humane conduct of the army and the enormous and excellent work performed by the Philippine civil commission in organizing a provisional government under the wise instruction received from you and the intelligent direction of Governor Taft.

"This government now established in the islands, which is to the Filipinos of the middle and lowest classes highly satisfactory, will be re-enforced by the provisional measure pending before the house, to the satisfaction of the higher and intelligent classes."

He then offers his services to prepare a statement of Filipino events if Secretary Root desires it and says if his services are not needed he wishes to visit Canton, New York, Charleston, Boston, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Chicago and Detroit and the widow of General Lawton. He then wishes to visit his sons and San Francisco, saying that he expects San Francisco to be in the future the base for the Philippine trade. The letter then adds:

"I wish to prepare a small exposition in Manila in honor of Dr. Risal similar to that held in Charleston, with an appropriation of $100,000. The receipts would probably be a similar amount. I would employ in the direction and management of this exhibition Malvar, Trias, Mascardo, Alejandrino and other prominent ex-insurgents under American control. They would be very useful and active on account of the numerous data which they have with regard to our secret wealth, and they would furthermore be distracted from the theoretical political ideas they entertain and can practically know all the benefits of American civilization.

"Such is the resume of my private intentions upon this long trip, with the purpose of creating better relations of a commercial character between the Philippines and America. If these purposes meet your approval I would thank you to furnish me such facilities as you can to carry them out."

Father Ford's Will.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The will of Paul Leicester Ford, the author, who was killed by his brother, Malcolm Ford, has been filed for probate. His heirs at law are his widow, Grace Ford, and his daughter Lesta. The widow is the residuary legatee of the will. To his brother, Worthington C. Ford, the testator leaves the property at 100 and 102 Pineapple street, Brooklyn, with the library in the rear. He gets custody of the books, manuscripts and library, with the request that his brother at his death transfer them to the New York Public library on condition that they are to be made part of the Ford collection. To his sister, Mrs. Roswell Skeel, Jr., he leaves $5,000. The will was made Sept. 18, 1900.

Horse Train Wrecked.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., June 7.—A special horse train on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad was wrecked near Mix Station yesterday, injuring about twenty valuable horses out of the ninety-one on the train. Brakeman James Borden of Ansonia was killed, and Engineer Daniel Hunkel and Fireman George Boyer, both of Bellefontaine, were badly injured. A number of horse owners were also injured, none seriously.

Played For the Queen.

LONDON, June 7.—Queen Alexandra sent for Anton Hegner, the New York cellist, at noon yesterday to come to Buckingham palace to play for her. Hegner could not find his accompanist and went to the palace in much distress. Princess Victoria volunteered to accompany him, which she did for two hours, the queen turning the music. The queen and princess were much pleased.

Gamblers Arrested.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Detectives who have been in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel seeking to solve the mystery of the Kingdon jewel robbery have arrested four "sure thing" card sharps in the hostelry. At the same time an alleged counterfeiters' den was raided in the neighborhood, and two men and a woman were arrested.

GOVERNOR ODELL'S POSITION.

Will Not Take Renomination Before It Is Offered.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Governor Odell is in the city, having just returned from the west. He expressed himself as delighted with his trip. In California, he said, the thing that impressed him most was the number of men from this state he met.

The governor paid a visit to the rooms of the state committee and then consented to a brief interview. He said it was seven weeks since he had been in this city. His son Bryant, who broke his leg in a fall from a horse, has quite recovered.

"Are you going to accept the nomination for governor again this fall?" he was asked.

"I don't understand that the nomination is lying around loose," he said. "There are twenty-five Republicans eligible for the place, any one of whom could carry the state. It is true that none of them has come forward yet, but there is no reason why they should not. They need not hold back on my account."

Somebody said something about the enviable record he has made, and the governor replied quickly: "Oh, I appreciate all the complimentary things that have been said, but there are lots of good men. The Republicans can carry the state with any man they nominate."

Governor Odell was reminded that in several places the delegates have been instructed to vote for him and for him only, but he would not discuss that.

"Will you take the nomination?" he was asked.

"I should hardly think it right to take anything before it was offered me," he replied. "The nomination cannot be foreclosed so early. I think we had better wait a little and let the delegates decide that question."

No Change For German Diet.

BERLIN, June 7.—The Conservative members of the diet have given their usual annual refusal to the proposal to reapportion representation in the diet upon the basis of the present population of Germany. Dr. Barth, the leader of the Freisinnige party and the author of the bill to this end, recalled that the present representation was based upon the census of 1858, since which year the population has increased 60 per cent, and that the rural districts still overwhelmingly dominated in legislation.

Planing Mills and Lumber Burned.

M'DONALD, Ga., June 7.—The saw and planing mills of J. S. Bailey & Co. have been destroyed by fire. Two million feet of lumber and seven freight cars also were burned. The loss will be approximately $150,000. Three hundred men are thrown out of employment. The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in the lumber yard. There was only a small amount of insurance.

King Edward's Court.

LONDON, June 7.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra held the fourth court of the season at Buckingham palace last night. Unfortunately, as upon the three previous occasions when court was held, rain and a cold wind again marred the spectacle for the crowd which had assembled outside the palace gates. The scene within, however, was unusually brilliant.

A Panic at Yokohama.

YOKOHAMA, June 7.—The sudden action of the Japanese government in increasing the minimum of capitalization and imposing other salutary restrictions upon the stock exchanges of the country has caused a panic on the Stock Exchange here. Stocks have dropped heavily, and all securities shared in the decline.

Don't Lose Your Grip

Gray hairs often stand in the way of advancement for men and women, socially and in business. Many men are failing to secure good positions just because they look "too old," and no one knows how many women have been disappointed in life because they have failed to preserve that attractiveness which largely depends on the hair.

HANNA ENDS SPEECH

Presents Strong Arguments For Panama Canal.

NO POLITICS INVOLVED, HE SAYS

Dangers From Earthquakes Great on Nicaragua Route — House Closes Debate on Antianarchy Bill. The President Blamed.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—After transacting some routine business yesterday the senate resumed consideration of the isthmian canal bill. Mr. Hanna (O.) continuing his argument in support of the Panama canal. The Ohio senator declared that no political considerations were involved in the canal problem. He presented the opinions of eighty-three shipmasters and pilots in favor of the Panama route against the Nicaragua route for many reasons which they cited.

He urged that the construction of the Nicaragua canal was beset with unknown difficulties, while the construction of the Panama canal was "an open book." He laid particular stress on the danger to the Nicaragua route from volcanoes and urged that it was not good business policy to ignore those dangers in a project involving an expenditure of $200,000,000. In conclusion Mr. Hanna appealed to the senate to consider the matter as a business proposition and, with some feeling, repudiated the suggestion that those favoring the Panama route were not in favor of any canal.

General debate on the antianarchy bill closed in the house. The incident of the day was a speech by Mr. Richardson (Dem., Ala.) condemning the president in severe terms for the references in his Memorial day oration at Arlington to the epithets applied to Lincoln and Grant during the civil war and for his allusions to lynchings. He declared that the president's remarks violated the proprieties of the occasion.

Rothschilds Must Take Back Bonds.

BERLIN, June 7.—In a suit which was brought against the house of Rothschilds at Frankfort by holders of bonds of the Central of Georgia railroad to recover on these bonds, for which the Frankfort Rothschilds took subscriptions in behalf of the London Rothschilds, and which was tried before the highest provincial court of Frankfort, the court decided that the Frankfort Rothschilds must take back the bonds in question at the price at which they were issued because the prospectus sent out by the Frankfort house misled the purchasers of the bonds. The Frankfort Rothschilds, who have been the legal successors of the Disconto Gesellschaft since the death of Wilhelm Rothschild, alleged in defense that they had acted merely as subscription agents. The total issue of Central of Georgia railroad bonds by the house in question amounted to $4,000,000.

The Tobacco Combine Fighters.

LONDON, June 7.—The Imperial Tobacco company has received a report from the agents it sent to the United States for the purpose of organizing a fight against the American tobacco combine. This report says that a large number of additional agents, buyers and experts have already been engaged and that architects have been commissioned to design a number of large leaf factories. The Imperial Tobacco company intends to start in the tobacco business at Greenville, Kinston and Danville and at other points throughout Virginia and North and South Carolina.

Shipping Combine In Doubt.

LONDON, June 7.—The statements which have recently appeared in the English press and which forecasted the formation of an all British shipping combination seem to be open to grave doubts. Judging from careful inquiries made in the most influential quarters of London, almost all of what has so far been printed is not only premature but inspired, and its purpose is to assist toward the realization of the shipping project, which is almost as visionary today as it was a month ago.

A Lynching In Virginia.

ROANOKE, Va., June 7.—A special from Bristol, Tenn., says meager details of a lynching at Tom's Creek, Wise county, Va., have just reached there. Wiley Guann, a negro who attempted to outrage the twelve-year-old daughter of Franklin Green, made an effort to get away, but was surrounded by a crowd of men, who quickly riddled him with bullets and left his dead body on the spot.

Crank at the White House.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A colored man who gave his name as R. B. Allen of Hicksville, O., was taken into custody at the White House. He claimed to be a human battery and to be the only means of communication with the army of the United States, which he said he brought along with him in balloons. He will be held pending an investigation as to his sanity.

The Dixie Returns.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Dixie, which sailed from this port May 14 with supplies for sufferers by the volcanic eruptions at St. Pierre, Martinique, and St. Vincent, British West Indies, has returned, having discharged her mission. The Dixie left Fort de France homeward bound May 31.

Estate For Prince Henry's Children.

BERLIN, June 7.—The children of Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia have inherited the larger part of revenues amounting to 2,000,000 marks from the estate of the late Prince George of Prussia. The palace of the late prince in Berlin, which is situated on Wilhelmstrasse, reverts to the crown.

HOPE CHAPEL'S WORK.

Through the courtesy of the New ark Evening News, we are enabled to publish pictures today of Hope chapel's original home and its new house of worship, also its present pastor. Following these pictures will be found a sketch of the chapel and the remarkable work it is doing in the West End.

Those who have seen the great change which has come over that section of the city since the chapel was first started are able to appreciate fairly the remarkable work that has been done in the West End. The conditions there differ materially from those of other parts of the city and the chapel workers have introduced different methods than are in vogue in other churches. The result is to be seen today and it must be a subject for much general satisfaction for those who were instrumental in it to know that their efforts have been by no means in vain.

Hope chapel is today one of the most flourishing of the local churches. There is an earnest enthusiasm in the chapel and its work of which few such institutions can boast. The result is that while the members have not the means to give very liberally, yet their hard work has really accomplished more than has the generous offerings of far more wealthy churches.

There is no doubt that the progressiveness of the Young Men's Association, connected with the chapel, has done much to bring the chapel into popular notice. The chapel has done its good work quietly but effectively and only occasionally has come to the front in public attention. The Y. M. A. is unique, however, and has managed in more ways than one to figure prominently before the public eye. It has, however, had a wonderful influence with the young men of that association and, by its unusual methods, attracted many to its membership and work who would never think of joining with the chapel but for this auxiliary band which has gradually drawn them in.

Some, who do not believe in the more modern methods, have frowned upon the more novel plans that have been advocated at the chapel. Experience has shown, however, that they are wonderfully successful and that Hope chapel is accomplishing a great and a good work among the people of the West End.

This afternoon's baseball games are likely to completely upset the calculations of the cranks. There is no telling what anybody will do.

FORGOT IT.

Then Tommie Timbo Thought Some One Had Stolen His Wheel.

Thomas Timbo reported the supposed theft of his chainless wheel to the police, yesterday. Tommie was sure it had been taken from in front of his place of business and furnished a complete description of the bike together with sevreal persons he thought might have been the purloiners. At 4 o'clock Patrolman Overbaugh found the machine standing against the curb at Park and North avenues. After an hour's rumination Tommie remembered he had left it there at 10 o'clock and walked off without it.

Miss Kennedy, of Boehm's dry goods store, has recovered from a recent severe illness and is at her post of duty again.

TALKED OF HOME MISSIONS

MISSIONARIES ADDRESSED QUARTERLY MEETING OF W. H. M. S.

At Chapel of Crescent Ave. Church Yesterday—Told Interesting Facts About Missions.

The quarterly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church was held in the chapel of the church yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A short business session was held when the new constitution was presented and adopted entire. The reports of the officers for the past quarter all showed improvement in every department.

Miss Harriet Daley, a missionary to the mountain of Tennessee, was present and she made a few remarks concerning her work. She said that the people among whom she is laboring have become attached very much to the missionaries from the Presbyterian church. She also stated that her work is very encouraging and is constantly showing good results.

Miss Daley was followed by Miss Neilson, a teacher in the Presbyterian school at Mt. Pleasant, Utah. Miss Neilson was born in Utah and for a number of years has been working for the education and conversion of the people in that State. She is now located one hundred miles south of Salt Lake City and she gave an interesting account of the successful work in the school.

The speaker said that the Mormons are constantly getting a strong hold in the various towns and cities of Utah and they do this by organizing a State form of government in every place with a president who has the people under complete control. She said that since the Mormons have secured Statehood, for which they worked fifty years, they have been gaining ground. Under the leadership of their new prophet, Joseph F. Smith, all the forces are being reorganized and the work is being carried on among the children.

Despite these discouraging features, Miss Neilson said that the work being carried on by the Presbyterian schools is decidedly encouraging and many are being converetd from Mormonism to Christianity. Miss Neilson spoke of the work being done by Miss Stanley, who is supported by the Crescent Avenue church, and she hoped that the support of the church would not be lessened. She urged all to follow their gifts with their prayers, and thus assist in the work among the Mormons.

HOPE'S ANNUAL FESTIVAL

WAS AS GREAT A SUCCESS AS EVER IT HAS BEEN, LAST EVENING.

Strawberries and Sociability Divided the Honors for the Evening's Attractions.

Strawberries, cake and cream and sociability reigned supreme at Hope chapel, last evening, when the Ladies' Aid Society gave its annual festival. The chapel was very prettily decorated and the affair proved to be one of the most successful held in several years.

While they were being served the following programme was rendered: Piano and violin duett, Miss Florence Symons and Hugh Gray; recitations, Miss Josie Murphy; soprano solos, Miss Ethel Reynolds, accompanied by Walter Foster; the mirth provoking sketch, "Unappreciated Talent," in which the characters were interpreted by B. C. Firstbrook, M. D. Sweeney and Geo. McComb.

The following members of the society had charge of the various tables: Ice cream, Mrs. John Johnson. Mrs F. A. Weber, Mrs. John Rittennouse, Mrs. Alex Martin, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Robert Hangliter, Mrs. Charles Graves, Mrs. Joseph Brown and Mrs. Harry Corliss; strawberries, Mrs. Paul Symons, Mrs. Thomas Chamberlain, Mrs. W. G. Gray and Mrs. David Bodwen; candy, Mrs. George Wallace, Mrs. Fred Wharton and Mrs. George Radford; flowers, Mrs. J. B. Higgins, Mrs. Robert Gow, Mrs. John Thompson, Miss Johnson. The general committee supervising consisted of Mrs. L. R. Howard, Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, Mrs. John Henry, Mrs. W. G. Gray, Mrs. Oscar Pearson and Mrs. Fred Mowinkle.

Only One Dog Case.

One lone violator of the dog ordinance faced City Judge Runyon, this morning. She was Mrs. Edward Cline, of Plainfield avenue, who pleaded guilty to allowing her canine to run at large. Sentence was suspended with a warning.

Will be Given at Park Golf Clubhouse Next Week With Varied Attractions.

Among the women, at least, last season was by far the most popular at the Park Golf Club. The weekly competitions for the Hooley cup were hotly contested and furnished no end of interest. After the close of the season's activity, the women of the club gave a tea and entertained their friends with golf and other attractions. This event was such a success that they have decided to hold one at the practical opening of the season.

A general invitation has been issued to the members of the Park Golf Club for this informal tea which is to be held at the club house Wednesday afternoon. According to the invitation, which has been posted at the clubhouse, the attractions will be "An opportunity for general play, Ad. lib. An approaching and putting contest. Refreshment. Such as it is." A number of invitations have been sent out to people outside of the club and a pleasant afternoon will undoubtedly be spent. If the weather is not suitable, the event will be postponed a day.

Owing to rainy Tuesdays, the women of the club have only had two opportunities to play for the Hooley cup, which is again offered by E. S. Hooley. It was announced at the beginning of the season that the trophy would have to be won two seasons in succession to become the personal property of the winner. The golf committee has decided, however, to change the terms and conduct the contest on the old lines. It will, therefore, become the property of the player who scores the most points for it during the season.

Admitted to Minneapolis Bar.

Irving L. Brady, formerly a practicing lawyer in this city, has just been admitted to practice at the Bar in Minnesota. Mr. Brady and his family are located at Minneapolis, where they are enjoying good health and like the city very much.

A young son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Long, of Greenbrook road, last evening.

—Neuman Brothers will have another shipment of berries this afternoon. Low prices will prevail.

PIANO RECITAL.

Given by the Pupils of Miss Marsh at Her Home Yesterday.

The annual piano recital by the pupils of Miss Anna O. Marsh was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Marsh, 915 Madison avenue. There was a large attendance of friends and patrons to enjoy the excellent programme presented by the following: Miss Edna Sebring, Miss MacIntosh, Miss Thompson, Miss Phillips, Miss Moore, Mrs. Fred. Stack, Mrs. Drake and Eddie Krausse, George M. Rittenhouse, Jr., Fred M. Smith, Wm. A. Kenyon.

All of the pupils showed ease and expression in their work and were highly complimented, as was also the teacher.

Remarkable Display.

One of the largest displays of strawberries ever seen in the city is now to be witnessed at Neuman Brothers' Watchung avenue grocery. It comprises 1,200 quarts of the best Jersey fruit, large and small, which were delivered at the store this morning. The quality is the best to be obtained. Another large shipment is expected this afternoon for this evening's trade.

Had Obeyed it Before.

In the city court, this morning, John Kennedy and Edward Korman pleaded guilty to violating the hack ordinance. Sentence was suspended on account of their previous regard for its terms.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Dunellen will be represented on the diamond by several teams this afternoon. On the home grounds the athletic club will play the strong Raritan team. The locals will present a strong lineup and are confident of wiping out last year's defeat. A team from the Y. M. C. will play the New Market team at the latter place. The battery for the Y. M. C. will be Jack McMann and Abbot. Abbot is in good condition and is prepared to do things to the New Markets. This morning the juniors played the Park A. C., of Plainfield.

Tomorrow will be Children's Day and will be celebrated in the local churches with appropriate exercises. The exercises will be held in the evening in the Presbyterian church and at the same time in the Methodist church. Practice was held last evening for the exercises.

C. D. Boice, Jr., has secured a responsible position with the American Auditing Company and will start for Cleveland to enter upon his new duties Monday.

Rev. Father Dumphry, of East Millstone, has been assigned temporarily to St. John's church until a new pastor is appointed by the bishop.

Efforts are being made to raise the $2,500 required in the will of Mrs. Alice Newton from the Methodist church to secure $500.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, is preparing to celebrate the Fourth of July in an appropriate manner.

The Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club will be entertained this evening by Mrs. J. Fesmeir, of Clinton avenue.

M. N. Beekman, of Plainfield, has rented the VanMiddlesworth house and will take possession June 15.

The music at commencement this year will be furnished by the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club.

Miss Ethel Jamison, of Raritan, has been spending several days with friends in town.

Thorpe's cash butcher shop has been closed out because of a lack of patronage.

The checker club held its final meeting of the season last evening.

Daniel Richardson, of Plainfield, visited friends in town yesterday.

The story addition to W. H. Cole's house has been finally completed.

John Seward, of Newark, spent Thursday with friends in town.

NEW MARKET.

The graduating classes of the public schools throughout Piscataway held a meeting yesterday afternoon and almost perfected arrangements for commencement which will be held June 18 in the First Baptist church at New Market. The annual testing throughout the county has been completed and the results are quite satisfactory.

The baseball team has been practicing hard and is confident of beating the Dunellen Y. M. A. team today.

FIXED DATE FOR A VOTE

willing to vote for the resolution if assurances were received that a report would be made at the July meeting. Mr. Clark responded that but for a severe illness he, as chairman of the committee, would have reported last evening, and he promised the report would be ready for July, if he continued to improve. The resolution was carried unanimously.

At this juncture Mayor Smalley asked Mr. Northrop, president of the Council, to occupy the chair while he addressed the board. The Mayor briefly explained that he spoke from the chair at the previous May meeting because the president of the Council was absent. He deemed his action in taking an active part in the proceedings at that time justified by the need of intelligent public discussion of the measures of annexation and consolidation before any hasty move should be made on that most important question.

Thus ended a consideration of these two questions, that could hardly be more harmonious if discussed by a conclave of angels.

Mrs. Thomas Bowser, of East Third street, is entertaining her daughter, Miss Addie Trueman, of Baltimore.

Miss Lizzie Cullen, of High Bridge, who has been spending some time with Plainfield friends, has returned home.

SCHOOL CLOSED FOR SUMMER

EXERCISES HELD AT THE RANDOLPH-COOLEY COLLEGIATE SCHOOL.

Held at the School Yesterday Afternoon—Excellent Programme of Music and Drills.

Pupils of the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School held their annual closing exercises yesterday afternoon. By 3:30 o'clock the assembly room was crowded with relatives and friends of the children.

In opening the proceedings Miss Randolph in a short address said the close of the school year brought as much sorrow as pleasure, it enforced the severing of many pleasant ties. The past year was a most successful one, but much of school work was so intangable that it cannot fairly be represented. At the Randolph-Cooley institution nothing was done for mere show—the display was the good, the bad, the indifferent, not a collection of the best.

The programme rendered was as follows: Songs, "Wandering," "Hedge Roses," Schubert, by the academic classes, six, seven, four and five; action poem, "Echo, Jean," Ingelow, by the girls of grades two, three, four and five; song, "A Summer Shower," by grades one, two and three; wand drill by the boys of grades two, three, four and five; songs, "Bendemere's Stream," "Four Leaf Clover," by academic classes six and seven; calesthenic drill by girls of academic class six and seven; song, "Rollicking Robin," by the school.

The singing was under the direction of Miss Julia J. Ketcham, while Miss M. A. Luckey supervised the drills. The choruses were all sung with vim and cleverness and each drill was executed with the utmost precision. At frequent intervals the performance of the pupils elicited well deserved applause.

After the programme had been concluded the visitors were shown through the various departments of the school. On exhibition in the different rooms was the work of the pupils. The art display and the kindergarten exposition were highly creditable, and drew many flattering remarks from those who examined the work.

FUNERAL OF W. I. F. RANDOLPH.

Impressive Service Held From the Parents' Home Yesterday.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. F. Randolph, of Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, funeral services were held over the remains of their son, Willard I. F. Randolph. Rev. Dr. William R. Richards was in charge, assisted by Rev. Bergen D. Stelle, pastor of the Alleghany Avenue Baptist church, Philadelphia.

A quartette from the Lotus Glee Club, composed of George C. Lenox, John Young, Charles L. Lewis and Edward B. Martindell, rendered "The Strife Is O'er" and "Crossing the Bar." The floral tributes were so numerous as to almost hide the casket from view. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

LEAGUE OFFICERS.

Chosen at Annual Meeting of Epworth League of the First M. E.

The annual meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church was held last evening, when officers were elected as follows: President, George A. Horne; first vice president, R. F. Fenno; second vice president, Miss Mabel Jenkins; third vice president, Mrs. James A. Stafford; fourth vice president, Harry Gee; secretary, William Pike; treasurer, Dr. F. W. French.

The monthly reports of the league showed improvement. After the business an informal reception was tendered to the retiring president, Harry Gee, who with Mrs. Gee, has just returned from a trip abroad.

Wheel Run Down.

Augustus Hoagland, of Hill & Shupp's store, met with an accident yesterday afternoon while riding his wheel on Front street, near the store. Mr. Hoagland fell off his wheel just in time to have a wagon run over the front wheel, smashing it completely. The man who did the damage did not stop and Mr. Hoagland did not ascertain his name.

John Rowland, of East Second street, has been visiting friends at Glen Gardner.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Topic For the Week Beginning June 8. "How the Weak Become Strong"—Text. II Cor. ix. 10; Isa. xli, 10; lviii, 11.

"The Lord shall guide thee continually."

Weakness is often the result of undue strength in some faculty or organ. Overdevelopment in any part destroys the harmonious balance of all parts and hence makes weakness or inefficiency in the whole combination. Strength lies in proportionate development of all parts into a unity, as in "The One Hoss Shay:"

For, says the deacon, "'tis mighty plain
The weakest part must stand the strain."

A will accustomed to act in the direction of what gives most pleasure rather than as what is most reasonable makes one selfish and willful and weak to resist the calls of bodily desires.

A sensitive regard for honor and strong self consciousness may make one quick in resenting an injury or a slight and lead to a strong, quick temper and lack of self poise. Anger becomes strong and a ruling characteristic, and self control grows weak.

Cultivation of taste for articles of comfort and the material advantages of life weakens the force of imagination and spiritual faculties until one finds more satisfaction in eating, personal adornment, recreations of society, press of business, than in soul piety, helpfulness of others, conversation with God and men or righteousness and truth.

How shall we cultivate strength, which lies in well rounded and harmonious development of all powers?

It can best be done by recognition of the worth and relation of all faculties. To starve any part of our nature to nourish more fully some other is a serious error.

We need first of all to obtain a deep seated confidence in God as our Father. In this we recognize gladly His place as our Ruler and yield Him quick and joyful obedience in all things. Our first impulse becomes an inquiry as to what He would have us do and be. This trustfulness never doubts that His will concerning us is always what is best and in the end the most joy giving course possible for us. It also believes unquestioningly that He is able to keep us unharmed in any path He calls us to tread, and so we are not afraid. We have no doubts and no fears to weaken us and spend neither time nor strength in fighting them. We overcome all these in one pitched battle when we devote all of self to God and believe Him to be our Father God.

We grow strong in the second place when we come to look upon our brother man not as a rival in anything or any sense. Whatever he may be to us, we are not to have any sense of rivalry toward him. We are to be his friend and helper. We study his needs as we study our own. We scan his peculiarities so as to find the best line of approach. We learn his opinions and desires that we may put ourselves in position to help him. When we see any chance, we do for him as we would like some one to do toward us. If we know a good thing we should like some one to try upon us, we don't wait for him to do it, but just go and do it to some one else. We in this way keep selfishness under and develop strong love to God and man.

Chaplains In the Navy.

The Rev. E. G. Strobridge of Stamford, Conn., made the following statements concerning the treatment of chaplains in the United States navy at the recent meeting of the New York Methodist preachers:

"The neglect of the chaplains in the United States navy and the wrongs practiced on them have continued with monotonous uniformity for well nigh half a century. In their interest there has been no legislation since 1842. With the passage of the personnel bill all other seagoing corps were advanced in rank, with a considerable increase in pay. In this distribution of favors the chaplains were passed by. The only recognition given to them was that the seven lowest on the list were classified as lieutenants. Not only in their support, but also in their dress, the chaplains are oppressed by an odious distinction. Their coat and the mess jacket of the naval cadets are identically the same, and to add yet a keener edge to the humiliation the white service coat for the chaplains and the jacket of the mess attendants—i. e., the waiters—are so nearly alike that only an expert can distinguish them.

"No captain in the service would allow a chaplain as at present attired to go ashore and march as part of his official staff, though he is entitled to do so by every other consideration, and his presence would be appreciated by the bluejackets themselves. At one time a captain was going off his ship to return some calls at a foreign port, and his chaplain was detailed along with other officers to accompany him, but when the chaplain presented himself dressed in his uncouth uniform the captain told him as politely as he could to remain behind, while the captain of the marines was selected to go in his place. It is the all but unanimous sentiment of the chaplains that they should be permitted to wear the full uniform of their rank as commissioned officers, complete in all its details, with the single exception of the sword. This is both just and reasonable, for if their commissions fix a grade their attire should indicate it. Either allow the chaplains to dress as they choose, or if a certain style is prescribed let it be in keeping with their rank. Otherwise it is not a uniform, but, as at present, a ridiculous nondescript."

Always.

God is no nearer when an hour of gloom
Fills thy weak heart with question and with fear
Or grief sits shrouded in thy narrow room
Than in thy joy, but He is just as near.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning June 8. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How the weak may become strong.—II Cor. xii, 9, 10; Isa. xli, 10; lviii, 11.

It is usually the ambition of the weak to become strong. The physically weak resort to medicine and health resorts and to exercise that their weakness may give way to strength. The ignorant, who may be classed as the intellectually weak, read and study or pursue courses of study in educational institutions that their defect in this particular may be overcome. But men are also morally and spiritually weak. Sin has made terrible havoc in the world. The ideals of men have been debased, their powers of resistance weakened and their susceptibility to the temptations of life increased. And when men realize their weakness they are ofttimes led by the spirit of God to desire and to attempt to overcome weakness and to cultivate strength. Every person who has been converted, every true child of God, is anxious to grow in strength and in power, and such an aim is Scriptural and praiseworthy.

The method of converting weakness into strength is an important one. If there are ways by which it may be done, we should want to know them, and it should be a matter of comfort and inspiration to us that it can be done. In spite of the power of Satan and of sin, they are not all powerful. Their plans and purposes may be overthrown, and, regardless of all they can do, weakness may be turned into strength.

Before the weak can become strong they must realize their weakness. "When I am weak," says the apostle, "then I am strong." What he means is that when he realizes his personal weakness he is strong, because then he trusts in God rather than in himself. The man who is ignorant of his weakness and the one who in his presumption and pride thinks he is strong when he is not have little hope of improvement in spiritual graces. Ignorance and pride result in weakness rather than in strength. We need, then, to divest ourselves of all pride and presumption and to see ourselves as we are, weak and frail and sinful. Then we will be in a fair way to change weakness for strength by trusting in God rather than in ourselves.

Trust in God is absolutely necessary to improvement in moral and spiritual power. We are weak and helpless in ourselves, but if we will trust in Him His grace will be sufficient for us, for He says: "I am with thee. Be not dismayed, for I am thy God. I will strengthen thee—yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of My righteousness." Trusting in God for strength, we should hold constant communion with Him in prayer, in meditation and through His word, and thus by waiting upon Him increase our strength, for "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. xl, 28-31; xlii, 1-4; lxii, 1-4; Mic. iii, 8; Zech. iv, 6; Luke v, 17; Acts i, 8; Rom. xv, 17-19; Phil. iv, 4-13; Eph. i, 15-23; Rev. ii, 26.

Cheap Religion.

I entreat you, do not covet a cheap religion. What costs nothing is absolutely worth nothing. To become a new man and a better man and a strong man and an heir of glory means more than signing a card or "rising for prayer" or to go into an inquiry meeting. It means the thorough uprooting of old sins and the implanting in you of a new nature. The whole question of your salvation must be settled between you and your Saviour. The inquiry meeting you need most is an honest hour with the loving Jesus. No book, no sermon, no friend, no pastor, can save you; Jesus can. Whatever He bids you, as He speaks through your conscience, do it. The loving Saviour, who has waited for you too long already, says to you, "Follow Me." Start at once, and you will find the path of obedience is the one straight road to heaven.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

The Better Way.

To walk when we intended to run, to work when we intended to play, to give out when we intended to take in, to labor when we intended to rest, to postpone when we expected to achieve and to do these things gladly and willingly for God and love's sake—this is to meet the requirements of the Christ life.—Forward.

His Approval.

That which is often asked of God is not so much His will and way as His approval of our way.—S. F. Smiley.

Sing Stronger, Heart.

Sing blither, heart, along the shortening way;
Since thou must sing,
Attune thy lute strings to some lighter lay,
Some air of spring;
Shut out the minor of the autumn rain,
The crooning of the east wind, from thy strain.
Sing blither, heart!

Sing gladder, heart; the world is full of woe,
And thou canst sing;
For such a gracious gift what thou dost woe,
Remembering,
Weave gladness in thy song, and it may bring
New strength to some bruised heart or wounded wing.
Sing gladder, heart!

Sing stronger, heart, and clearer be thy tones
Of hope and trust,
Yet higher keyed thy psalm, thy altar stones
Raised past the dust!
The shortened hand may fall, but ne'er forget
The Lord is in His holy temple, yet.
Sing stonger, heart!

NEW DRESS TRIMMINGS.

Russian Galloon and Flower Applique.

The new trimmings are very beautiful, and, although the keynote is embroidery, yet the designs are so varied that there is very little similarity. Russian galloon is shown in curved and straight designs, and the colorings are beautiful. A galloon in three shades of blue, relieved with gold thread, is worked on white canvas, and some slight touches of this on a blue, fawn or brown gown would be charming. Both tailors and dressmakers use these galloons between stitched strappings of cloth or taffeta, and with a few curves or scrolls at the corners they make attractive trimmings for the short boleros.

The new black braids are very effective. They have medallion arrangements of latticework which are slightly transparent. The embroidered passementerie for smart gowns is of the floral order, combined with lace and arranged so that it is easily detached in sprays or groups for applique designs. The borders of lace and embroidery are very handsome also when the pattern contains medallions of tucked lisse, surrounded by lace.

An effective evening toilet is the one here shown. It is made of white net, embroidered in silver and appliqued with a pattern of chrysanthemums done in white silk. Around the decolletage there is a garniture of these flowers. There is an empire sash effect of white tulle tied between the shoulders and allowed to hang in full ends to the bottom of the skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

Long Coats of Tussore and Taffeta Silks Are Useful.

The highwayman coats are very attractive in alpaca or tussore silk to use as dust or coaching garments, with just a suspicion of lace at the throat or wrist, and for trimming some tabs of taffeta with handsome buttons. Such a coat is indispensable to the smart woman, for it covers and yet does not crush the daintiest summer gown, which emerges immaculate after a long ride in a carriage or motor.

The fashion of trimming this summer will not appeal to the woman of simple tastes who detests little tassels and pendent ornaments strewn without reason over her gowns. Lace is everywhere, and just now the demand is for heavier makes, such as Russian and Irish crochet.

The fichu will be much worn this summer. It is shown with long boa ends for outdoor wear, when it is even prettier than the more formal boa.

The cut shows a waist of tucked china silk. The tucking extends down the front in a panel, which is banded by two wide strips of insertion and which give the effect of a yoke. The sleeves have a wide cluster of tucks down the center and a full puff at the wrists. The waist can either button down the back or a little to one side of the front under the insertion.

THE STURGIS WAGER

A DETECTIVE STORY.

By EDGAR MORETTE.

Copyright, 1899, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.

"Thank you; I am very glad to have it. Did you succeed in extracting the bullet?"

"I have not tried yet. I had to develop the photograph first."

"Of course. When do you expect the red-haired young man to return?"

"He promised to come back yesterday, but he failed to do so," replied Dr. Thurston. Then, suddenly:

"But who said anything about his being young or red-haired?"

"Not you, certainly, old man," replied Sturgis, smiling. "Don't worry; you have not voluntarily betrayed any professional secret. But, for all that, your patient is wanted by the police. He was bound to fall into their hands before long. The only effect of this discovery will be to hasten the denouement. I had traced him to your house, and I knew how he was wounded; so that I recognized him as soon as you mentioned his case."

"Who is he?" asked Thurston. "I am sure I have seen him somewhere before, but I cannot remember where."

Whereupon the reporter related the story of Chatham's connection with the Knickerbocker bank case.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE QUARRY.

Half an hour later Sturgis was walking briskly down Broadway, with his usual air of absent-minded concentration. Presently he turned into a side street and at once slackened his pace. He now sauntered along like a lounger at a loss how to kill a long, idle day. The show window of a bric-a-brac shop arrested his attention. He stopped to examine its contents.

A little farther up the street was a liquor saloon, outside of which stood a group of boisterous young rowdies. An older man, evidently in his cups, was seated on an adjoining stoop, where, with maudlin gravity, he seemed to be communing with himself.

On the opposite side of the way stood a low, dilapidated brick house. A painted sign over the windows of the ground floor bore the name: "MANHATTAN CHEMICAL CO."

The drunken man rose unsteadily to his feet and approached Sturgis with outstretched hand.

"Say, Jimmy, get on ter his nibs strikin' de bloke fur a nickel ter git med'cine fur his sick mudder!" exclaimed one of the young ruffians.

The wretched-looking individual thus designated seemed hardly able to stand as he steadied himself against an iron railing; but the eyes he turned upon Sturgis were bright with intelligence and the words he spoke were uttered in a low, firm voice:

"He's been here—been here twice."

"Twice?" echoed Sturgis, surprised. "Where is he now?"

"I don't know—"

"You don't know?"

"No, sir; but I guess Conklin does. This is how it was: It was my watch yesterday afternoon, when Chatham came the first time. He went into the Manhattan company's place through the basement at a quarter after five. So I just settled myself out here and waited. Well, I waited and waited, but there wasn't any sign of Chatham, and when Flagler came along to relieve me at ten o'clock Chatham hadn't come out yet. Flagler he spotted the place until six this morning, and then Conklin took his turn again until two o'clock, when I came on for my watch. Just as Conklin was telling me how things stood, who should come down the street but Chatham himself, large as life."

"Down the street?" exclaimed Sturgis.

"Yes, sir. And up he goes, as if nothing had happened, and into the Manhattan Chemical company's place again."

"He had put up the back-door game on you," said the reporter.

"Yes, sir; just what I said to Conklin. So, quick as a wink, I sent him around the block to keep his eye peeled on the next street, and I waited here. And here I've been ever since. If Conklin isn't on the block above, it must be because Chatham has made tracks again, and he after him."

"I'll go and find out," said Sturgis. "Has anyone else called at the Manhattan Chemical company's office since you have been on watch?"

"No, sir; but a couple of hours ago an express wagon came along and delivered a long wooden box; might have been chemicals for the wholesale department, for it was lowered to the cellar by the hoist in the areaway. The blond young man receipted for the box."

"Very well, Shrady. Hang on a little while longer, and I shall have you relieved just as soon as I possibly can."

So saying, the reporter, who had been pretending to look through his pockets for a coin, ostentatiously slipped a nickel into the outstretched palm before him. The light seemed to die out of the sharp eyes of the detective, and it was the miserable drunkard who staggered back to his place on the stoop next to the station, unmindful of the gibes of the young rowdies congregated there.

Sturgis walked up to the next street, where he found a second detective on duty.

"Anything new, Conklin?" he asked.

"No, sir; he's been lying low; looks like he knew he was spotted this time."

"Good. Stay here until I can notify the police that we have run down the quarry. It will be necessary to obtain a search warrant for the Manhattan Chemical company's place. In the meantime, if Chatham should attempt to make tracks, hang on to him like his shadow and send back word here as soon as you can."

"All right, sir."

Sturgis, after leaving Conklin, walked along the street which the detective was watching and carefully inspected every house on the block. Almost all were huge office buildings; but here and there an old-fashioned brownstone front stood out conspicuously against the broad expanse of brick walls and iron columns. Half-way down the street one of these old houses stood well back from the street line behind a small garden. The reporter stood near this and read the numbers on the adjoining buildings.

"This is directly back of the Manhattan Chemical company's office," he mused. "I wonder who lives here. It looks like a respectable place enough. One could obtain a good view of the rear of the Manhattan Chemical company's office from the back windows. H'm—"

He stood thoughtfully considering what pretext he could use to gain admission to the house, when suddenly he became aware of the presence of a man who had approached with noiseless steps.

"Ah, is that you, Mr. Sturgis?" said the calm, sardonical voice of Dr. Murdock.

The reporter started inwardly, but gave no outward sign of surprise.

"Were you about to do me the honor of calling?" continued the chmeist.

"Yes," said Sturgis, deliberately; "I was about to seek an interview with you. Can you spare a few minutes?"

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Peace Improves the Outlook—Decline in Price of Farm Products.

NEW YORK, June 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Peace in South Africa has greatly improved the outlook. Foreign industrial markets will quickly benefit by the development of that country, while a return to active gold mining will have a helpful influence in monetary circles. Owing to the present exceptional home consumption producers in this country may not be able to take advantage of the opportunity immediately, but even the indirect effects must be beneficial. Domestic conditions still have but the one drawback of labor disputes, which have reduced the earning power of a large force. Additional profit sharing and numerous advances of wages are reported, but new controversies have broken out elsewhere.

Satisfactory weather in the leading producing regions had a depressing influence on grain quotations, and last week's advance was lost. Wheat was marketed more freely than in recent preceding weeks, but western receipts of 2,444,205 bushels fell short of the 3,468,842 bushels in the same week last year. Winter receipts of corn were 3,475,403 bushels against 4,713,010 last year, but the comparison as to Atlantic exports was 68,887 bushels against 2,149,697 in 1901.

Cotton was weaker owing to the very high figures of condition issued by the department and the indicated acreage of almost 28,000,000.

The larger supply of vegetables, fruits and dairy products brought a decline of 7.3 per cent in that class, while breadstuffs fell about 3 per cent, but the effect on the aggregate was partially neutralized by the firmness of meats and metals.

Commercial failures, excluding all banking and similar fiduciary defaults, numbered 1,080 during the month of May, involving liabilities of $9,109,840. In the corresponding month last year there were 873 defaults for $7,990,423, showing a considerable increase this year, both in number and amount of liabilities.

Big Naval Assemblage.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The navy department has made public the orders for the assembling next winter of the vessels of the north Atlantic, south Atlantic and European stations to participate in the most extensive fleet maneuvers ever attempted by the navy in the West Indies. The orders recite that about Nov. 15 next the department will assemble all available vessels of the stations named, and about Jan. 1, 1903, these vessels will be gathered at Culebra, Porto Rico, or Guantanamo, Cuba, and organized and drilled for two months as a fleet. The commanders in chief of the three stations are given special orders to govern their respective commands.

May Tie Up Great Northern.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 7.—A strike that may extend from the Mississippi river to the Pacific ocean is imminent unless concessions are made within the next twenty-four hours to the Great Northern railway boiler makers at Hillyard, a suburb of Spokane, who have made a demand for an increase in wages. The machinists at Hillyard are understood to be in sympathy with the boiler makers and may back them if necessary. It is said the demand extends throughout the entire system of the Great Northern railway.

Noted Battlefield Sold.

BALLSTON, N. Y., June 7.—The battlefield of Freeman's Farm, where Sept. 19, 1777, the Revolutionary forces whipped Burgoyne and paved the way for forcing his surrender in the following October, has been sold for $4,200.

HAS LOTS OF NERVE.

Boy Sociologist Investigates the Cities of the Country.

Traveled from Jersey City to California and Back Without Contributing a Cent to the Treasuries of Railway Companies.

A 14-year-old boy who leaves his home and his school to travel through this country so that he may get material for a lecture, and who finds in Chicago enough material for a complete lecture, which he will deliver to the exclusion of what he learned about other cities in the United States, is more or less an unusual boy. But when at his ripe age of 14 he descants on the institutions he has found to be good and those he considers bad and writes in poor English, but undeniable earnestness, poems about his home and his parents, he has certainly proved his right to be judged as the only member of his class and as neither a boy tramp nor a hired boy courier.

The young man who has come into Chicago, and having studied the town for three days, has left to write his address about it is, according to the Chicago Tribune, one Abraham Levy, and he lives at 275 West Kinney street, New Jersey. He has never had money enough to spare at one time to have his photograph taken, but once he is seen he is like the falls of Niagara or the pyramids of the desert—impossible to forget. He is undersized even for 14, and his hair and eyes, and his hands for that matter, are as black as the best stove polish. He talks as rapidly as a phonograph at full speed. His father and mother live in Newark, and up to July 18 last he went to school in that town. Then he left without a word of warning and was next heard from in Troy, N. Y. He had come up along the Hudson under a freight train on the New York Central road, which is notoriously one of the most difficult roads in the country to beat for fare.

ABRAHAM LEVY.
(Boy Sociologist Who Investigated the Great West.)

He went across New York to the lakes, and then by quick jumps he made San Francisco and the other cities along the coast. Back again he came and the other day he arrived in Chicago. He was returning to New Jersey.

From the time he left Newark he had not spent one cent for car fare or food. Neither had he stolen as much as a penny's worth of anything. Against the habit of begging he had no scruples. He outlined his position on that question thus:

"As an American boy, I have a right to see my country and so learn to love it more. I do not think that when I ask a man or a woman for money to help me on my way I am imposing upon them. No person that I have asked has refused me. In Chicago I found they were very kind."

Levy intends to do something in the lecture field that no one has done so far. He has made a feature of the propaganda of truth about Chicago and a few other towns, about which he thinks the truth is yet to be told, and it is to spread this propaganda that he wants to get on a platform with a pitcher of water in front of him and with some dignified chairman to introduce him to the attention of his hearers.

His travels have taken from him all touch of the parochial and the provincial. He is a cosmopolitan, and next year he intends to go abroad so that he will have a chance of comparing Chicago with Rome, Paris and London. He does not think he will find any town where there are more people on the street than there are here, and he likes to see big crowds.

The 14-year-old traveler and lecturer is much cast down because he lost the manuscript of one lecture he had completed. This address treated of conditions as they exist in California, in which state he found Los Angeles to be the best town he met in the

GOLF.

The weekly competition for the President's cup will be held at the Park Golf Club course this afternoon. That course is in the best of condition, true and fast, and all the players are showing a marked improvement in their game so it is to be expected that some of the scores will be considerably lower than heretofore this afternoon.

The golfers of the Middlebrook Country Club, at Bound Brook, are turning out every Saturday afternoon with much regularity. Their course is in better condition than ever before and a larger number of people have taken an interest in the game. Every day sees a number of players out but the Saturday afternoons are the most popular times.

TENNIS.

The Westfield Club has challenged the Park Club to a series of tennis matches and arrangements for the contest are being made. The Westfield Club boasts of some of the strongest players in this section and is likely to make things lively for the cracks at the Park Club.

Further work on the tennis courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has been stopped on account of the extreme dry weather. The ground is hard and baked and practically impossible to pack in any kind of shape until it is thoroughly soaked. In is expected that there will be a decided boom in the game as soon as the courts are in condition for play.

The continued drought has made it exceedingly difficult for the grounds committee of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club to keep its court in any kind of condition for play. Every afternooon sees a goodly attendance at the courts but a thorough wetting would improve them wonderfully. The tennis committee is planning for a tournament to start as soon as the courts are in good condition again.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Both Montross and Hewitt will pitch for the Hopes in today's game. The Y. M. C. A's will use Burt and have Dupee hold down third.

The Bound Brook baseball team boasts of one of the swiftest nines in the business. They would like to arrange dates, either with the league teams or any other club that would like to try conclusions. Eugene Brokaw is the secretary of the club.

Captain Overbaugh, of the local policemen's nine, has his men out for practice daily. The bluecoats are chasing the leather in much better fashion than last season and all are confident of taking at least one game from the Elizabeth municial team. The first contest will take place in this city in two weeks.

The Plainfield High School team will play Pingry School at Elizabeth Tuesday. Tuesday is commencement day at Pingry and, besides the army of rooters, they have engaged two or three brass bands to toot them to victory. VanAuken is putting witch hazel on his arm, and if Pingry wants to win they will have to do some tall stunts.

It is up to the managers to see that League baseball games begin on schedule time. Nothing is more aggravating than to hurry away to the diamond by 3:30, because the game is announced to commence at that time, only to sit and watch the players practice until after 4. This has often been the case with local nines and the managers should see that it is discontinued.

DEATH OF MRS. BRISTOL.

She Was Related to Several People Living in This City.

The death of Mrs. Phineas Bristol, aged sixty-six years, occurred at Milford, Conn., Wednesday morning, following a long illness, and the burial took place at Milford yesterday. Mrs. Bristol was a sitser to S. C. Peck, of West Front street, and was a devoted Christian woman. She was also a step-mother to the late Rev. Cornelius Bristol, who married Miss Carrie Lowrie, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lowrie, of Park avenue. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck and Mrs. Lowrie went to Milford to attend the funeral

PERSONAL.

Miss Annie Martin, of this city, has been visiting her brother at Somerville.

Miss Annie Durling, of Plainfield, has been visiting her parents at Harlingen.

New Bridge.

A new bridge has been placed over the gangway in Compton's alley by M. Weinberger, who owns the west property. It was put down for the accommodation of Dan Roberts, the veteran liveryman, who has commenced business at his old stand. He recently purchased a number of handsome new turnouts from Ballantyne & VanFleet, of Somerville, through Charles Geer, of this city.

Told of Her Work.

Many young people gathered at the Crescent Avenue church last evening to hear an address by Miss Elizabeth Goodwin, well-known member of the Y. W. C. T. U. The meeting was arranged under the auspices of the temperance committee of the Christian Endeavor Society. During the meeting Miss Marie Newman sang a solo.

New Dwelling.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has issued a permit to J. D. Loizeaux for the erection of a two-story dwelling on West Third street near Clinton avenue. Mundy Brothers are the carpenters and the masonry work will be done by Wm. Day.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

MRS. FROST'S TEA.

Served to Introduce Miss Scribner, Fiance of Her Son.

A charming tea was given by Mrs. George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, in honor of Mrs. Stauffer and Miss Scribner, of Yonkers. Miss Scribner is the fiance of Edwin H. Frost.

The house was prettily decorated with flowers and in the dining room pink was the prevailing color. Mrs. Frost, Mrs. Stauffer and Miss Scribner received the guests in the parlor. In the dining room Mrs. Howard Wade Beebe and Mrs. Clayton, of Canada, presided at the table and were assisted by the Misses Mabel Pierson and Marion Bowen.

Died While They Waited for Her.

While Mrs. Henry Heidloff, of West Front street, was seated in the office of a Newark lawyer yesterday afternoon awaiting the arrival of her sister, Mrs. Henry Schierman, of Basking Ridge, who was expected to be present at the settlement of an estate, a telegram was received announcing the sudden death of Mrs. Schierman. A brother of Mrs. Schierman's, Jacob F. Long, lives in North Plainfield.

James Leonard, of Perth Amboy, is spending a few days with relatives in Plainfield.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

T. S. Armstrong, the Park avenue druggist, keeps a large stock of drugs, medicines, perfumery and toilet soap at prices that will attract the patronage of the people.

Love's livery stable on East Second street, that's the place where you should go to hire a horse and carriage if you want to thoroughly enjoy your drive. Nattiest rigs in town at Love's.

The bicycles at VanWinkle's on North avenue are all of the latest model, strong and durable. If you think of investing in a bike you should see the array of wheels at Van Winkle's.

Don't pass by Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building if you are heated. His cooling ice cream soda is an enemy to parched mouths and thirst. Nothing but pure fruit juices used in his syrups.

Charles Conover & Company, painters, are just completing the work of painting William Nevius's house on Elmwood place and it has been pronounced a fine job. The combination of colors is attractive and well put on.

A good place to purchase the best kinds of hardware, garden and farming implements is at the Gayle Hardware Company's store, corner of Front street and Park avenue. Only the best goods at the most reasonable prices sold.

Fresh meat, rich and juicy, is the kind always found at Fred Endress's West Front street market. It is delivered in wagons containing the most improved cooling apparatus. Orders 'phoned will be given careful attention.

There is nothing more dressy than one of the stylish suits for men or boys such as M. Weinberger sells at his up-to-date store on West Front street. He carries one of the largest stocks in the State and his prices are always the lowest.

Before you go on your vacation it is quite necessary that your watch be properly attended to, and there is no better place than at J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store. He does first-class repair work and sells the best grade of watches and silverware.

In his successful effort to cater to the adult shoe trade, VanArsdale, the East Front street shoe man, hasn't forgotten the children. He has several fine styles of shoes and oxfords that they like. Walking shoes for comfort and school shoes for wear are some of them.

Mrs. F. H. Martin, of the borough, is visiting her brother, Former Chief F. A. Leggett, of the Asbury Park fire department.

Even a Stoic Groans under the torment of neuralgia, when every nerve in face or limb throbs and jumps. Philosophy cannot endure this agony but Perry Davis' Painkiller relieves it. Bathe the affected parts freely, keep them warm and do not expose yourself to cold and dampness. Medical science marches right along, but it has not found the equal of Painkiller in the treatment of neuralgia.

HOPES DOWNED, ST. MARYS WON

Second Day of Play in City Baseball League Resulted in Two Close Games.

Y. M. C. A. IS COMING UP.

Defeated Hope Y. M. A. After a Hot Game—Hopes Lacked Regular Catcher—St. Marys and Safe Works Played Five Innings, When Game Was Called on Account of Rain.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAMES.
Hope Y. M. A. vs. St. Mary's on Hope Common.
Safe Works vs. Y. M. C. A. on Pittis' Field.

Flushed with their double victory of Memorial Day, the Hope Y. M. A. boys were given a big surprise, Saturday afternoon, when the Y. M. C. A. team, which had opened the league so unauspiciously, developed strength enough to outplay the Hopes by a score of 7 to 6. The afternoon's shower put a temporary stop to proceedings but play was resumed and the Y. M. C. A. aggregation came out victorious. This victory, unexpected by many, has served to give more interest than even to the happenings in the Plainfield Amateur League.

By winning from the Safe Works nine, St. Marys came to the fore and now ties the Hope team for first place. The latter game was a pretty one although it lasted but five innings when it was called on account of rain.

First honors in the league are now divided between the old rivals Hopes and St. Marys which will meet again next Saturday. The Y. M. C. A. and Safe Works teams will also have an opportunity of deciding which is to step into last place Saturday.

Y. M. C. A. DOWNED HOPE

The Hope Y. M. A. team, which took the lead in the League on Decoration Day, dropped back Saturday afternoon when it was defeated by the Y. M. C. A.'s, who have been holding down the rear end of the percentage column. It was a splendid game as the winners took it by the close margin of one run, the score being 7 to 6. Hope attributes its loss to the absence of Hartfelder, the regular catcher.

Hewitt and Dupee were in the box and both pitched in good form, although the latter was touched up pretty well. Some long drives were made by the Hope boys but good fielding on the part of the opposing team kept down the base hits. Errors were scarce in the fore part of the game but a wet ball and slow field after the shower had passed was responsible for some being made toward the end.

Munro, of the Hopes, made a beautiful catch, taking a red hot fly right from the bat and by a quick throw to second made a double play. George Schoonmaker, on third for Y. M. C. A., caught a similar fly and tagged Feiring who was about to run for home.

Part of the game was played in a drizzling rain and, but for opposition on the part of most of the large crowd of spectators as well as some of the players, it would have been called in the fifth inning.

Following is the summary and lineup:

CIRCUS COMING.

The Lowery Brothers New Olympia Shows Appear Here This Week.

Lowery Brothers New Olympia shows have made arrangements to exhibit in this city Thursday and Friday. The shows have been on the road for many seasons but this year it is larger and better than ever. A distinctive fearture is the fact that it has but one ring, making it possible for the patrons to see everything that is going on. Two performances will be given each day and proceeding them Professor David McDade will make one of his daring balloon ascensions on the lot at Fillmore and North avenues.

APPEAL FOR BABIES' CAMP

NEEDS OF WORTHY CHARITY OF KING'S DAUGHTERS CITY UNION.

Opening of the Camp Tomorrow—What Plans Are Being Made for the Season.

As the time approaches for the opening of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain, it is the desire of the members of the City Union that the camp be enlarged so that sick babies can be kept at this delightfully healthy place until fully restored to health. This they have not been able to do before. In attempting this effort the members feel that there are many beside the giver of a generous check, a few weeks ago for the general work, who, if they realize the need of funds to carrry on this work during the summer, will gladly give of their abundance and thus make the work an unqualified success.

At a meeting of the camp committee with the executive board of the City Union of King's Daughters, held Thursday morning, it was decided to spend tomorrow at the babies' camp on Johnson's Drive for the purpose of making it ready for use during the summer. On the following Tuesday, June 17, the nurse, together with the babies and their mothers, will be at the camp. The committee extends a hearty invitation to the public to be present at that time. On account of the poor success in conveying people back and forth from the trolley terminus to the camp last year, this effort will not be made this year. The committee feel that those interested in the work can easily and readily find means for visiting the camp if they know what day they will find the nurse and babies there.

Persons desiring to contribute to the support and comfort of the camp may send their gifts to any of the following King's Daughters: Mrs. T. Frank Budlong, chairman camp committee, 823 Madison avenue; Mrs. W. A. Hoyt, treasurer, 120 Crescent avenue; Mrs. E. E. Runyon, 608 Madison avenue; Miss Lillian A. Force, 82 Duer street, or to The Daily Press office.

THE TRUE KNIGHT.

Special Sermon Preached to Knights of the Golden Eagle at Trinity Reformed Church Last Night.

"The True Knight," was the subject of a special sermon preached at Trinity Reformed church last evening by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, it being the occasion for the presence of the members of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle. Mr. Schenck spoke of the elements of the true knight of today as well of the old days, as being valor, loyalty, courtesy and benevolence and upon each of these characteristic elements he spoke briefly, showing what the true knight of old was and applying it to the knight of the present day. Mr. Schenck said those possessing these elements are true knights.

There were nearly forty members of Freedom Castle present in a body and all thoroughly enjoyed the interesting and helpful remarks of Pastor Schenck.

First Official Visit.

The first official visit of the department president, Mrs. Vickery, of New Brunswick, was made to the Woman's Relief Corps Friday evening. There was a large attendance of members to welcome the new officer and Mrs. Vickery was much pleased with the work of the corps. After the transaction of business there was a social hour and refreshments were served.

Death of D. L. Kirby.

David L. Kirby, aged fifty-four years, died at Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday, following a long illness. He had been a resident of Plainfield about a year, having moved here from New York, where he was engaged in business as an insurance broker. He was an uncle to Mrs. J. O. McKelvey and Miss Adele Kirby, of Grandview avenue.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT CHURCHES

The Special Exercises and the Elaborate Floral Decorations Marked the Day Here.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

Most of the Evangelical Churches Observed Children's Day With Fine Programmes of Music, Recitations and Addresses, While Flowers Were Used in Profusion—Details.

Children's Day in Plainfield dawned bright and clear, yesterday. While threatening clouds did sweep over the mountain as the morning advanced, the rain never came and the day passed away very pleasantly. In the afternoon, the chilly north west wind made the numerous white gowns seem out of place. Exercises, at which pretty music and flowers predominated, were held at most of the evangelical churches and, at each of them, the children filled the principal roles. Many turned out for these special services, all of which passed off in successful fashion.

FIRST BAPTIST CHUBCH.

Children's Day exercises were appropriately observed at the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon. There were recitations by the Misses Ouida Hetfield, Emeline Manning, Mabel Douglass, Elsie Moore, Marie Moffett, Beulah VanWinkle, and a cradle roll song at which time several little tots were received. The exercises were under the auspices of Mrs. J. S. Powlison, superintendent of the primary department. The decoration of flowers was very pretty.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

At Grace M. E. church the services were held in the morning and more than two hundred children took part. The decorations were very attractive, consisting of native flowers, ferns and potted plants.

Hymns and songs were rendered by the primary and advanced department of the school. There were recitations by Ella Lippencott, Lilly Titus, Helen Adams, Dorothy Lunger, Howard Titus, Arthur Stuart, Emma Ryno, Myra Lippincott; a solo by Margaret Darby; dialogues in which took part Emma Coddington, Edna Beeching, Edna Stuart, Marie Winans, Helen Adams, Lena Mobus, Edith Lippincott, Clara Bodenheimer, Blanche Stout, Gladys Brokaw and Mildred Harden; a matron song by Ella Force, Marian Miller, Helen Hummel, Ida Hummel, Edna Beeching, Belle Tunison, Emma Coddington, Edna Stuart, Florence Titus, Dorothy Lunger, Mabel Winans, Ella Lippincott, Myra Lippincott, Emma Rynó, Lily Titus, Bessie Taft, and Margaret Darby.

A feature of the services was the presentation of a small potted plant to each child. This is done each year and the children are supposed to cultivate the plant and take pride in its growth. The committee in charge of the programme was the Misses Belle Lunger, Alice Carroll, Mary Steiner, and Mrs. Anna Most. Andrew Wison looked after the music.

HOPE CHAPEL.

At Hope chapel, the Children's Day exercises yesterday afternoon were exceptionally pretty. The primary department occupied seats on a special platform, topped by flower decked arches, while roses, peonies and honeysuckles were lavishly distributed about.

In addition to songs and responsive readings by the school, the recitations and dialogues were given by Ella Cundy, James Kenney, William Stevenson, Gertrude Nelson, Carrie Baker, Eula Eckert, Anna Warnock, Harold Leach, Charles Kregar, Mildred Cundy, Ida Lowden, Elmer De Hart and Ella Cundy. Other recitations were given in unison by smaller members of the primary department. An address was made by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church.

MONROE AVE. CHRUCH.

The exercises at the Monroe Avenue church Sunday-school yesterday afternoon were very simple, the time being occupied by singing and responsive readings. A pretty story, "A Boy's Fresh Beginning," was read by Superintendent Walter M. McGee. Daisy Gilbert, of the main school, and Louie Praed, of the primary department, gave recitations. The singing was made very effective by the cornet accompaniment of John Groendyke. In conclusion Pastor John McMurray gave an address.

CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH.

Responsive readings and the singing of hymns formed the greater part of the children's exercises at the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday morning. The usual large floral display was in evidence. William D. Murray was in charge. The pupils listened to an excellent address appropriate to the occasion made by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards. In the afternoon the primary department held separate exercises which were also composed of recitations and singing.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Children to the number of 250 besides a great many visitors were present at the services in the First Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Vincent chapel, where the services were held, was profusely decorated with wild smilax, roses, ferns and potted plants.

The programme consisted of songs by the school, recitations by Anna Robly, Katherine Bingaman, Lulu Brown, Ruth Lister, Arthur Slade, Marion Linn, Allen Heely, Archibald Smith, Lawrence Heely, Ruth Lynn, Ruth Schupp, Hazel Rose, Frances Rittenhouse, W. Kennedy, Madge Geier, Margaret Robly, Hannah Bingaman, Helen Lister and Ernestine Waldron.

Miss Luela Derby read a short paper explanatory of the origin and purpose of Children's Day, and L. V. Wilson read letters from students in the Methodist schools. Short addresses were delivered by Dr. J. R. Bryan, former pastor of the church, and by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, the present incumbent. Some special music had been prepared for the occasion under the direction of Nelson A. Miller, with Miss Gertrude Sharp at the piano and Wilson Derby, violin.

The committee in charge of the day's programme were Misses Persis Snodgrass, Edna French, Bessie Valiant, and Mrs. Thos. McDonald.

ALL SOULS CHURCH.

Special Children's Day exercises were held at All Souls' church yesterday noon, when the Sunday-school sang carols and recitations were given by Agnes and Charlotte McCarthy, Theodore Sperry, Hope Sperry, William McCarthy, Jeanette Smith and Kathryn Brown. There was an excellent address by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Nickerson. Harold Brownell read a report of the work of the boys' class for the past year.

Two prizes, books, were awarded for best attendance to Harold Brownell and Miss Mildred Brown.

WARREN CHAPEL.

Warren chapel held a successful Children's Day exercises yesterday afternoon. Included in the programme were several songs by the school, recitations by John Brokaw Richards, Anna Jones, Eleanor Golberg, Mattie Smith, Olive Metler, and a solo by Miss Carroll, contralto of the Crescent Avenue church choir. Short addresses were made by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, L. N. Lovell and F. H. Andrews.

The children were drilled for the occasion under the direction of Miss Benton. Miss Horton was chairman of the committee in charge of the proceedings.

BETHEL CHAPEL.

At Bethel chapel Children's Day was observed by exercises suitable to the occasion. A programme consisting of songs, recitations and the singing of hymns was well carried out. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Tildon, and a short address was delivered by Stephen Ginna, superintendent of the Sunday-school.

TRINITY REFORMED.

One of the most enjoyable Children's Day exercises ever held at Trinity Reformed church was that of yesterday morning. The church was prettily decorated, features being a floral cross and harp. The music was under the direction of A. L. Titsworth, organist, assisted by Mrs. G. W. Saums, violin; Miss Lillian A. Force, piano; Elmer Wheeler, flute; and the regular quartette choir. A special service, "Nature's Praise," was rendered.

During the service, Rev. Cornelius Schenck baptized twelve infants. The part taken by the children in the programme was well rendered under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department. H. J. Martin, Sr., conducted the singing. The children marched into the church singing.

Recitations were given by the following children: May Porter, Edson Day, Anna Vail, Elsie Bodine, Evelyn Fritz, Helen Woolley, Elsie Tier,

DR. RICHARDS WILL ACCEPT

Announced His Decision to His Congregation at Last Evening's Service.

WERE NOT SURPRISED.

General Feeling Was That His Decision Would be to That Effect—Said That He Had Given the Subject Careful Consideration—Made Short Announcement.

The fact that Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards stated at the morning service at the Crescent Avenue church yesterday that he would make an important announcement at the evening service, attracted an unusually large number of members of the church and congregation, filling nearly every seat in the edifice. The announcement to be made was rightly guessed to be in reference to the recent call extended to Dr. Richards to become the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York.

Just prior to the evening sermon, Dr. Richards referred to the announcement and said that if the members had believed it was in regard to the call they had guessed correctly. He then said:

"I wanted to make this announcement to you first from my own lips. If this call is placed in my hands properly by the Presbytery I think I shall have to ask you to release me from this church. I have prayed a long time that it might not come to his, feeling it might be my duty to remain and labor here longer. The need is urgent and if God calls I cannot say nay. We may yet be together several weeks or months I hope, and if so let us make the best of the time."

While Dr. Richards was speaking there was the utmost silence. It seemed to be the general opinion of everyone present that Dr. Richards' decision was just as they expected.

COMPANY K WON.

In Match Shoot With Team From Independent Gun Club.

An interesting shooting match was witnessed on Company K's rifle range Saturday afternoon when a team from the company met a team from the Independent Gun Club. The militiamen won the match by nearly 100 points. Company K scored 375 points and the corps 275. Capt. Browning, A. I. Littell, W. Phillips, John Turner, Walter Sampson and Frederick Pope represented Company K, while the other team was made up of Krausse, Berry, Jensen, Lloyd, Menzenbach and Gavin.

UPSET MILK WAGON.

Young Colt Exercising on Street Caused Thrilling Runaway.

While Charlie Campbell, colored, was exercising a young colt belonging to Herman Klinsman on Somerset street, yesterday morning, a wheel of his sulky struck a passing milk wagon, causing it to upset and the horse to run away. Campbell was thrown heavily to the ground and received some bad bruises about the head and face. The horse broke away from the sulky and was subsequently captured on Somerset street.

Annual Lawn Fete.

Several novel features have been arranged for the annual lawn fete of of the Park Avenue Baptist church, which is to be held on the church lawn, Saturday afternoon. The committees are now completing arrangements, and if the day proves stormy the affair will take place in the church.

Going to Get It.

Mrs. Sapho Ferrio, a late arrival from Athens, was arrested Saturday by Patrolman McCarthy for peddling without a license. In the city court, this morning, she agreed to take out the necessary permit and sentence was suspended.

Honorably Discharged.

Michael Heffernan, a former well known resident of this city, has returned after spending three years as a private in the Fourth U. S. cavalry. He was honorably discharged from the Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, last week.

TALKED TO ODD FELLOWS.

Rev. W. C. Nelson Spoke at Y. M. C. A. Hall Yesterday Afternoon.

Odd Fellows from Plainfield, Rahway and Westfield attended the regular meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday afternoon. Rev. W. C. Nelson delivered an address taking for his text, "Lovest thou Me?", words spoken by Christ to St. Peter. Mr. Nelson spoke on the necessity of love for God, and the duty of men to love one another. In addition to the usual music Miss Clara J. Mears sang a number of solos.

Geo. M. Rittenhouse presided over the meeting and F. H. Martin led in prayer.

SOLD HIM OUT; THEN SHE LEFT

HENRY FRAZEE SAYS THAT HIS WIFE WIFE DESERTED HIM LAST MONTH.

Declares She Sold Household Goods and Departed With Her Daughter and a Married Man.

Henry Frazee, of East Fifth street, was seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter regarding the disappearance of his wife and his stepdaughter, Miss May Frazee. Mr. Frazee says that his step-daughter left Plainfield on Tuesday evening, May 13, on the 8 o'clock train and that she was met by her friend at the Netherwood station. She took two trunks with her.

The following day, Wednesday, May 14, Mr. Frazee says, while he was away, his wife sold all of his household goods and on Thursday, May 15, she left Plainfield on the 4 o'clock train for New York with her trunk. He says she was seen later at Liberty street, New York.

Mr. Frazee says that the man who went away with his step-daughter is a married man with a respectable family in this city. He also says that the wife and daughter are in Brooklyn or New York and not in Buffalo, where they said they were going. Mr. Frazee has received a letter from his wife's brother at Buffalo stating that the wife and daughter have not been there. Mr. Frazee has not definitely decided upon his plans for the future.

DOG CAMPAIGN.

Two Called to Answer This Morning—One Was Found Guilty, and One Not.

Two more dog cases helped take up this morning's session of the city court. William Day drove in from Westfield with a canine beneath his wagon and was spotted by Officer Lunger. Day promised to leave the animal home in the future.

A complaint was made against W. W. Warnock by Patrolman Lunger that he was harboring a dog which ran around without a muzzle. The defendant had several witnesses in court to prove that the animal was not his and was kept by his next door neighbor. The complaint was dismissed and the patrolman was instructed to apprehend the right person.

MUSICALE GIVEN.

At All Souls Church Under Direction of Organist Haff.

A pleasing entertainment was given at the Unitarian church Friday evening under the direction of Stephen Haff, organist of the church. There were several selections on the organ by Mr. Haff, vocal selections by Alex. VanOss. Mrs. W. L. Brown gave two vocal selections, while Mrs. Phillip V. R. VanWyck gave a recitation, with organ and violin accompaniment. Fullerton L. Waldo gave a viola-concerto and Scotch airs on the violin. There were also piano solos by Miss Florence Nicholl and recitations by Mrs. Charles Sperry.

Mrs. Brown and Miss Huges sang a duet and Miss Brown gave a piano solo. The programme throughout was highly enjoyable and appreciated by all present. A social time followed the entertainment.

Died at Trenton.

Dionysius Hargraves, aged eighty years, father of Mrs. W. W. Coriell, formerly of West Front street, died Friday at Trenton, after a long illness. The funeral services will be held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. B. Thines, in Trenton, tomorrow afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Coriell have gone to Trenton to attend the funeral.

Say She Must Appear.

Miss Dora Parsons did not appear in the city court Friday morning for violating the dog ordinance as was stated in The Daily Press of that day. She was ordered to do so but failed to comply with the summons. The police say a warrant will be served upon her if she does not appear at once.

GOLFERS OUT DESPITE RAIN

Good Playing at Local Golf Clubs Was Not Halted When the Shower Appeared.

SOME FINE SCORES MADE.

Hillside's Second Team Handily Defeated Baltusrol's Second—The Honors in Weekly Competition to Glenney and Abbott—S. S. J. McCutchen Won at Park Club.

A brisk young shower interrupted the local golfiacs in their sport, Saturday afternoon. Many preferred to relinquish their chances of winning in the day's events rather than take the possibilities of pneumonia so there was a general scurrying for shelter. A number, however, braved the rain and turned in their scores making a good showing in the various events at the two clubs. The second team of the Hillside Club won a decisive victory over the second team from the Baltusrol Club, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards doing particularly well. Honors for the day at that club went to W. T. Glenney and Robert Abbott. S. St. J. McCutchen was low man for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club and now leads for that trophy by half a point.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

Although the finish was made in the rain, Saturday afternoon's play for the Presiden's cup on the links of the Park Golf Club showed a general improvment in the play of many of the members. S. St. John McCutchen came to the fore with a good score and captured first honors, thereby giving him first place in the contest for the cup. Charles W. McCutchen, by being second, advanced to third place for the trophy. Charles B. Morse, who was in the lead last week, was third for the day and stands second for the cup half a point behind.

The usual social features marked the afternoon at the club house. Mrs. B. J. Shreve presided at the tea table, assisted by Miss May S. Shreve.

The scores, better than 100 net, were:

	G	H	N
S. St. John McCutchen	104	23	81
Charles W. McCutchen	111	24	87
Charles B. Morse	107	19	88

THEATRICAL.

Klaw & Erlanger have broken ground for their theatre, the New Amsterdam, which they are to build on Forty-second street near Broadway, New York. This will be one of the finest theatre structures in the world. The building and lot will cost over $1,200,000. The seating capacity will be about 2,000. In the construction of the auditorium, special care will be taken to provide in every detail for the comfort of the audience. In magnificence of decorations it will surpass any theatre in America and compares more than favorably with the best decorative art of Europe displayed in the famous theatres of the great continential cities. The stage will be constructed for the presentation of performances with large numbers of people. It will be 100 feet wide and adequately deep, equipped with all the latest appliances; and also many novel ideas never before utilized. During the past three months Klaw & Erlanger have had the greatest expert in America visiting all the noted theatres in Europe studying their stages. His report indicates that Americans have nothing to learn of Europeans in this direction. There will be dressing-room accommodations for 700 people, with elevators running from the stage to the dressing-room floors, eliminating stair-climbing, which is a trying ordeal actors and actresses now experience, especially where quick changes of dress have to be made. The New Amsterdam Theatre will be opened next December. The first attraction will be Klaw & Erlanger's production of the last Drury Lane spectacle, "Blue Beard," which was presented in London last Christmas.

NEW BOOKS.

Not County's Share.

The $61,000, decided upon by the Board of School Estimate as the amount necessary to maintain the Plainfield public schools for the coming year, is exclusive of the amount apportioned to Plainfield by the county superintendent of schools. The latter will not be known until after the reports are received from the county as to the assessable property, etc.

Arthur Fritts, of West Fifth street, has been visiting friends at Elizabeth.

Ignatz H. Boehm, the dry goods merchant, who has been detained at home by a severe illness, is much improved and he expects to be out within another week.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. A Boulevard of 150 Miles Will be the Result—Will Reach Down as Far as Atlantic City—Building Last Links Needed.

When the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county, N. J., last Wednesday authorized the issue of $150,000 worth of bonds for the construction of a bridge across the Raritan river, between Perth Amboy and South Amboy, says the New York Herald, they made certain the completion of a long distance roadway which will shorten the distance between New York and Long Branch about twenty-four miles, and establish a well built road through the country skirting the Jersey coast from Jersey City to Atlantic City. This road will become a boulevard of something like one hundred and fifty miles, which will be in years to come a popular automobile route.

Perth Amboy and South Amboy are located opposite each other on the Raritan river. There is no bridge at that point except that of the New York and Long Branch Railroad, and in order to cross the river all vehicles are obliged to go to New Brunswick, about twelve miles up the river, making it necessary to traverse about twenty-four miles of road to go from Perth Amboy to South Amboy, a distance of half a mile, or the width of the Raritan at that point. The new bridge will be constructed with a wide draw and will accommodate pedestrians and have ample room for vehicles and trolley cars. Senator Kean and Representative Howell have assured the Board of Freeholders that the War Department will approve the plans for the bridge, and it is expected that the structure will be well under way within a few months.

Aside from the lack of a bridge at Perth Amboy the pleasure of driving over the road has been marred by two stretches of imperfect roadbed between New York and Lakewood. The first break was a stretch of six miles between South Amboy and Keyport, and the second a stretch of twelve miles between Point Pleasant and Lakewood. Last winter the taxpayers of Middlesex and Monmouth counties voted to rebuild the first bad stretch of six miles, and through the generosity of George J. Gould the twelve mile strip will be made as good as any part of the road along the coast. Mr. Gould a few years ago purchased four hundred acres of pine forest land at Lakewood, where he has built his country home, Georgian Court. He is interested in that section, and this spring when the taxpayers of the two counties were agitating the question of repairing the twelve mile strip from Point Pleasant to Lakewood Mr. Gould came forward with the offer to bear one half the expense, and the contracts for the work were immediately signed. The work in both places will be completed early this summer.

From Perth Amboy through Keyport and Red Bank the road from Jersey City to Atlantic City reveals a group of valuable farms, and along the Rumson road for five miles between Red Bank and Seabright passes a group of attractive country houses. From Seabright the road follows the coast for a long distance, with glimpses of the ocean almost always in view. It touches Monmouth Beach, Long Branch, Elberon, Deal, Allenhurst, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Belmar, Como, Spring Lake, Sea Girt, Manasquan, and at Point Pleasant strikes inland ten miles to Lakewood. From Lakewood it leads to Toms River and then again turns toward the coast with Barnegat Bay in sight, and on to Atlantic City.

SERGE SUITS for SUMMER

The properly dressed man seldom gets overheated. A good closely twisted pure worsted serge lets the cool air in and the body heat out. It is light in weight, but always neat in appearance.

Every man who appreciates comfort owns a serge suit. Be wise and get the right kind. We guarantee every suit we sell, whatever its price.

There are times when some particular goods get to be stylish, "just because." Its that way with Fancy Flannel Suits, and they deserve popularity. Cool and neat describes them exactly. Ten different patterns.

We sacrifice the price, but never the quality.

SETTLED IN LONDON.

Special Envoy Reid Is Welcomed Cordially on His Arrival.

LONDON, June 9.—Whitelaw Reid, the special envoy of the United States to the coronation of King Edward, is now comfortably settled in the capacious Brook house here.

Mr. Reid's first day in England was a busy one. It was nearly 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon before he arrived at Euston station, where the royal carriages which had been sent to convey Mr. Reid to Brook house were in waiting. In spite of the hour J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr.; Edmund Lincoln Baylies of New York and William Wetmore, son of Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island, who are secretaries to the special embassy to the coronation of the king, were on the platform at the station to greet their chief.

Early in the day Lieutenant Colonel Sir Fleetwood Edwards and Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Collins, C. B., equerries assigned by King Edward to the special embassy, called informally upon Mr. Reid to pay their respects. The equerries placed their services at the disposal of the envoy of the United States and conveyed to him their congratulations upon his arrival in London.

These calls were particularly pleasing, as officially the duties of the equerries are not supposed to begin until later in the month, when Mr. Reid will formally commence his work.

Mr. Reid said to a press representative last night:

"There is really nothing to say except that I had a most comfortable trip over and am looking forward to fulfilling my duties here with considerable pleasure."

Mr. Reid's plans have hardly yet been determined. Tomorrow he will present his credentials to Lord Lansdowne, the foreign secretary, and next Wednesday he will dine with Mr. and Mrs. Choate upon the occasion of their dinner to King Edward and Queen Alexandra. A number of formal dinners have been arranged in Mr. Reid's honor, while Brook house itself will be the scene of many brilliant gatherings before the special embassy to the coronation of King Edward returns to the United States.

Presiding at a concert which was held on board the Umbria last Friday night in aid of the Liverpool Seamen's orphanage, Mr. Reid said that King Edward was following in the footsteps of his worthy mother, who in the United States they always referred to not as Queen Victoria, but simply as "the queen." Mr. Reid said also upon this occasion that the eyes of the whole world were turned to King Edward's coronation and that he hoped his majesty would live long to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious mother.

Jockey Booker Dead.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Jockey Arthur Booker, who was thrown Memorial day at the Gravesend track, died yesterday. He was nineteen years old. At the time of the accident Booker was astride of the two-year-old colt Red Knight, when the youngster stumbled, and the boy was thrown with great force on the ground. While prostrate another colt fell over him, and his skull was fractured. He never regained consciousness from the moment he was injured to the time of his death, nearly eight days. The surgeons performed an operation on him, but gave out only faint hopes for his recovery.

Commencement Opens at Vassar.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 9.—The baccalaureate sermon was preached at Vassar college yesterday by President Taylor. His subject was the deadening effect of pleasure seeking on all the higher activities of life. He said that the teaching of Jesus did not inculcate asceticism among his disciples, but demanded, rather, steadfastness of purpose, a stern sense of duty and the best use of their energies in the relations of life. It was President Taylor's opinion that all that is good in our lives is threatened by the pleasure seeking spirit of the present age.

Received by the Kaiser.

BERLIN, June 9.—Judge F. W. Holls of New York, who was formerly secretary to the American delegation to the peace conference at The Hague, was received by Emperor William yesterday at the old palace. The audience lasted three-quarters of an hour, and Emperor William discussed American affairs and international problems with Judge Holls. His majesty showed great cordiality toward his visitor and manifested a feeling of keen interest in everything appertaining to the United States as well as a most accurate knowledge of the details of American affairs.

ILL FATED EXCURSION

Sunday Pleasure Seekers In a Railway Wreck.

ONE KILLED AND FIFTY INJURED.

Three Coaches of a Detroit and Mackinaw Train, Carrying Five Hundred Passengers, Piled Up In a Struggling Heap.

ALPENA, Mich., June 9.—A Sunday excursion train on the Detroit and Mackinaw railroad which left here for Saginaw, consisting of an engine and twelve coaches and carrying over 500 people, was wrecked at Black river while running forty miles an hour. One man was instantly killed, three were probably fatally injured, and nearly fifty others received injuries of various degrees of severity, ranging from bruises and cuts to broken limbs.

The excursion was under the auspices of the German Aid society of Alpena. When the train reached Black river, the tender jumped the track. Engineer Hopper instantly set the air brakes and reversed his engine. The sudden stop threw the first three coaches of the train off the track and into the ditch. The first car was thrown half around, and the next two coaches plowed through it and cut it in two. August Grosinski, the only person who was killed, was seated in this coach with forty other excursionists. His body was terribly crushed, and death was instantaneous. The escape of the others in the car was well nigh miraculous. Grosinski's little son occupied the same seat with him, but the lad was uninjured.

The three wrecked coaches were piled up in a heap, and 200 feet of the track was torn up. As soon as the occupants of the uninjured coaches recovered from the shock and surprise they rushed to the wrecked cars and began aiding the injured. They were extricated from the wreck with frantic haste and given all possible relief pending the arrival of the relief train.

The Feast of Roses Kept.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 9.—The annual Feast of Roses was celebrated at Manheim yesterday, when Zion Evangelical Lutheran congregation of that place paid to the heirs of Baron Henry Stiegel their yearly rental of one red rose. A crowd of nearly 10,000 persons poured into the little town to witness the quaint and beautiful ceremony. The church in which the exercises were held was wholly inadequate to accommodate such a throng. Baron Stiegel was an eccentric German nobleman who founded the town of Manheim about 1765. There he built the first glass factory in America and in that vicinity operated one of the first iron furnaces in the country. In 1770 he deeded to the Zion Lutheran congregation ground for their church, stipulating that they should in return pay to him or his heirs forever in the month of June of each year one red rose.

American Goods In Spain.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Spain holds no prejudice against United States goods, according to an extract from the annual volume entitle "Commercial Relations of the United States," just made public at the state department by Mr. Frederic Emery, chief of the bureau of foreign commerce. This extract gives the information contained in the annual reports of United States consular officers in Spain and Italy. Our trade with Spain, it says, could be greatly enlarged if a favorable commercial treaty were negotiated. United States Minister Storer, who is about to return to Madrid, will endeavor to negotiate such a treaty.

Unruly Prisoner Shot.

CHICAGO, June 9.—"Dad" Cain, a prisoner at Fort Sheridan, attempted to make his escape and was shot and mortally wounded by the sentry placed over him. The man who did the shooting was Lawrence Dunn, a private in the Twentieth infantry, now stationed at the post. Dunn had ordered Cain and another prisoner to return to the guardhouse. Cain's companion obeyed, but Cain went in the opposite direction. Dunn could not go after him, as he had another prisoner in charge. Six times he called on Cain to halt, and when the latter finally started to run Dunn shot him down. Cain died within an hour after being shot.

All Cut and Dried.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Governor Odell will be renominated, and the lieutenant governorship will go to some one at this end of the state. Erie county can name one candidate on the state ticket other than governor. H. H. Bender of Albany, superintendent of public buildings, will be fiscal supervisor, an office created under the new charities law. The above points were decided upon at a conference at the Fifth Avenue hotel in which Senator Thomas C. Platt, Governor Odell and Colonel George W. Dunn, chairman of the Republican state committee, were the chief participants.

Mob's Attack Repulsed.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., June 9.—An attempt was made by a mob late at night to attack the county jail here, in which is confined Walter Blankhead, a negro, charged with having attempted to assault Mrs. Garner, a white woman, living near Hattiesburg. A company of military ordered out by Governor Longino, however, repulsed the mob, which afterward dispersed. Further trouble is feared, and additional troops have been dispatched to relieve the military on duty.

Kruger Will Not Return.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 9.—Mr. Kruger declares that he will end his days in Holland.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Services In London and All Through British Empire.

KING EDWARD ATTENDS ST. PAUL'S.

In Addition to the Royal Family Members of the Cabinet and Parliament, With Famous Military Men, Were Present.

LONDON, June 9.—The noisy jubilation with which London has resounded for the last week was succeeded yesterday by more subdued although less impressive public demonstrations of thankfulness for the return of peace in South Africa.

The thanksgiving services held in London were typical of the services held throughout the empire, but the presence of King Edward and other members of the royal family at the principal devotional service in London and the progress of the royal personages to and from St. Paul's cathedral through cheering thousands of British subjects and visitors in London gave thanksgiving day in the metropolis the added nature of a notable historic occasion. The programme of the morning was not intended to be accompanied by special ostentation. King Edward and Queen Alexandra did not pass through the streets even in semi-state, but rode to St. Paul's in an ordinary landau drawn by four horses, accompanied by postilions and outriders clad in scarlet tunics. Only those members of the royal family who reside in Buckingham palace accompanied their majesties. The Prince and Princess of Wales and others proceeded to St. Paul's separately, but by the same route as did their majesties. The king and the queen were joined at the cathedral by the Prince and Princess of Wales and many other distinguished personages.

Although the weather was chilly and dubious, the streets for the entire distance from the palace to the cathedral were thickly lined with people, who bared their heads and cheered as the members of the royal family and other notabilities passed. King Edward, who wore the uniform of a field marshal, was greeted with enthusiasm, and his majesty the Prince of Wales and the other princes were busily engaged in acknowledging salutations from the crowd. Lord Roberts, who drove with his wife and daughter, was one of the figures most conspicuously greeted with cheers. The royal personages were driven down the Mall to Trafalgar square and through the Strand and Fleet street. At Temple Bar officials of the city of London for the first time since the jubilee of the late Queen Victoria awaited the sovereign in state. The king's carriage paused when it reached the city officials, and the lord mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, presented the sword of the city to his majesty and uttered a formal and loyal welcome. The king returned the sword, smiled, bowed and simply remarked, "Thank you very much."

The streets leading to St. Paul's cathedral were densely crowded with people, and a number of persons fainted in the crush outside the barriers which had been erected. The seats in the choir stalls were occupied by the members of the present cabinet and by members of former cabinets. Members of the house of lords and members of the house of commons were seated on opposite sides of the dome.

In addition to the presence of many army, judiciary officials the military services of the empire was represented by detachments of the Royal fusileers, the Horse and Foot guards and other regiments.

A notable feature of the musical service was the rendition of a Te Deum composed by the late Sir Arthur Sullivan for a thanksgiving peace service.

Strong Wine Ends Disastrously.

DENVER, June 9.—A special from Morrison, Colo., seventeen miles southwest of Denver, says that by the overturning of a wagon on which thirteen students of the Denver High school were riding one was killed, three seriously injured and all the others more or less bruised. A number of students of the Denver High school had gone to Morrison for a "hayrick party." They were driving along Turkey Creek canyon on their way home when one of the wagon wheels ran off the end of a small bridge, overturning the vehicle. The hayrick on which they were riding fell upon the children with the above result.

Notable Sunday School Men Coming.

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—W. J. Semelroth, editor of the International Evangel, received a cablegram from London Saturday announcing that Hon. F. F. Belsey, J. P., president of the world's Sunday school convention in 1889, and the Rev. Frank Johnson, editor of the London Sunday School Chronicle, are both coming to attend the international Sunday school convention, which meets at Denver June 26-30.

Well Known Journalist Dead.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 9.—Edward A. Niven, one of the best known journalists of northeastern Pennsylvania, is dead at his home in this city of pneumonia, aged sixty-one. He was one of the founders of the Wilkesbarre Daily Leader and in early life was employed on newspapers in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

Oklahoma Floods Recede.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 9.—The high water in the Canadian river at this point has begun to recede for the first time in four weeks. The St. Louis and San Francisco passenger trains which were prevented from entering the city over its tracks on account of soft tracks have resumed traffic through the city.

A PLOT REVEALED.

Attempt by Boers to Blow Up Kitchener and Government Buildings.

LONDON, June 9.—In a letter from Pretoria dated May 18 the correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the previous Thursday sixty arrests were made there as the result of the discovery of an extensive plot to blow up the government buildings and Lord Kitchener's residence and to spike the guns of the artillery barracks. The parties concerned in this plot, according to the correspondent, were lawyers, chemists and Boer and Dutch prisoners on parole.

The war office has received the following message from Lord Kitchener:

"The disarmament of the Boers is proceeding satisfactorily, and good spirit is displayed everywhere. Up to and including yesterday 4,342 rifles had been surrendered."

Dispatches received by the Associated Press from Pretoria confirm the statements made in Lord Kitchener's communication to the war office and say that the whole staff of the late Transvaal government, with a bodyguard of 50 men, surrendered last Saturday.

The following formalities are observed when General Botha, General De Wet or any of the Boer commandants accompany the British officer who has been detailed to receive surrenders: The Boer leader goes out to meet a commando and returns at its head. The Boers who come in are generally dressed in dilapidated clothing, but have a smart and soldierly bearing. The Boers who are to surrender are assembled, and the Boer leader delivers an address to his men urging them to listen to the British officer who has been detailed on this work. The British officer then makes a speech to the men of the commando, in which he informs them of the admiration of King Edward and the British nation for the gallant struggle and the bravery of their people and promises that the British authorities will do their utmost to help them resettle on their farms. A meal is then provided for the Boers, after which the formal surrenders occur.

In many such instances the Boers have cheered King Edward, and they have sometimes expressed surprise that no army was sent out to receive their surrender. The Boers are allowed to retain their horses and saddles, and the majority of them appear to be glad that the war is at an end and that they will now be able to rejoin their families.

An Offer of Settlement.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Edward S. Campbell, receiver of the Middlesex County bank at Perth Amboy, N. J., has given notice to depositors and others that June 15 he will apply to Vice Chancellor Pitney for an order authorizing him to accept the offer of settlement made by the directors of the bank. In settlement of the judgment for $219,533 which was secured against them the directors have offered to pay over $30,000 and to relinquish all claims for dividends which are due them or may become due from the bank.

Rainsford and Potter Scored.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 9.—A vigorous attack upon the published statements of the Rev. William S. Rainsford, rector of St. George's church of New York, concerning temperance reform and upon those of Bishop Henry C. Potter concerning the excise question were the features of the baccalaureate sermon delivered before the graduating class of Syracuse university by Chancellor James R. Day. His text was II. Corinthians ii, 14, "For what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness, and what communion hath light with darkness?"

Japanese Financier In Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 9. — Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, one of the foremost financiers and bankers of Japan, has arrived here from the west on his way to London, where he will represent the Tokyo chamber of commerce at the coronation of King Edward. The baron and his party will remain in Chicago several days before resuming their journey east. Before he returns to Japan it is his intention to make an extended tour of this country, Great Britain, France and Germany.

Naval Cadets Off For a Cruise.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 9.—The first, second and third classes of naval cadets aboard the battleship Indiana and the practice ship Chesapeake left Annapolis roads this morning for their summer cruise along the New England coast. Commander C. E. Colahan is in command of the Indiana, and the Chesapeake is commanded by Commander H. Osterhaus. The cadets will return to Annapolis on Aug. 28.

ARMY PROMOTIONS.

President and War Secretary Hold Important Conference.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Secretary Root has had a conference with the president at the White House at which many important army nominations were decided upon.

Among these was a surgeon general of the army to succeed General George M. Sternberg, who retires on account of age, and two major generals to fill the vacancies which will be occasioned by the retirements of Major General Loyd Wheaton July 15 and Major General John R. Brooke July 21, and also two brigadier generals to succeed officers of that rank promoted.

Secretary Root declined to give any information concerning the personality of the men selected in advance of the nominations being sent to the senate, which probably will be done within a day or two. He did say, however, that the main factors governing the selection of the officers for promotion were previous record, ability for future military service as demonstrated by past service, date of retirement and seniority. All other things being equal, the secretary said, the selections were governed by seniority.

HELP FOR THE BOERS.

Outlook For a Favorable Settlement Very Bright.

PRETORIA, June 9.—The arrangements for the disposal of the surrendered burghers are almost complete. No large concentration will be allowed in the outlying districts owing to the difficulty which might arise in feeding the people.

Those burghers who can subsist upon their farms will be given ten days' rations and allowed to begin their new life immediately. Those who are unable to subsist upon their farms will be permitted to join their families in the camps and remain there until their homes are once more made habitable, and all others will be divided among the various camps.

The outlook for a final satisfactory settlement without friction grows brighter the more one sees of the surrendered burghers and talks with them.

Negro Uprising Frustrated.

MERIDIAN, Miss., June 9.—A threatened uprising of the negroes which alarmed the people north of Meridian has been frustrated by the determined stand of the whites, who armed themselves and placed the leaders of the gang, Green Johnson and Nate Moore, under arrest. A call for the negroes to band themselves against the whites was addressed to Nate Moore and was signed by a negro Baptist preacher named Buffin. The letter said that a mob of fifty negroes would form at Rio, Kemper county, twenty-five miles northeast of Meridian, and march to Green Johnson's house and from there through the county and kill all the whites, destroy their farms and burn their houses. As soon as the whites learned of the purpose of the negroes, who outnumbered the whites two to one, they armed themselves with Winchester rifles and in a short time had so intimidated the negroes that it is now thought the uprising is at an end.

Vote on Canals Not In Sight.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The greater part of the time of the senate the present week will be given to the interoceanic canal bill. An effort probably will be made by the supporters of the Nicaragua route to secure an agreement to vote on the bill next Saturday, but the probabilities are all against success. Senator Harris (Kan.) opened the debate today in support of the Nicaragua route, and he will be followed by various other senators for and against the measure. Senator Fairbanks has given formal notice of a speech on Wednesday. He will support the Spooner bill.

Omaha Church Dedicated.

OMAHA, Neb., June 9.—With solemn ceremonies the new constructed Church of the Sacred Heart was dedicated yesterday by Bishop Scannell of this diocese, assisted by Bishop Glennon of Kansas City, Bishop Spalding of Peoria and a great number of the clergy of the Nebraska churches. Pope Leo XIII. sent a special message granting his blessing on the new structure, which was read during the ceremony. The ceremonies were very imposing, and the admission of a thousand people was by card. Bishop Spalding delivered the dedicatory sermon.

Fatal Quarrel of Friends.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—During a quarrel Julius Miller shot and killed Gustavus Reim after the latter had stabbed him repeatedly with a pocket-knife. Miller's condition is said to be critical. Reim boarded with Miller, and the pair were on terms of friendship until yesterday. They had been drinking together and, becoming quarrelsome, engaged in the fatal encounter.

Government Troops Go to Panama.

COLON, Colombia, June 9.—All the government troops stationed here, numbering over 1,200 men, have left for Panama. At Panama they will join forces with the government troops at that port, which number several thousand, and the combined army will start immediately to attack the Colombian insurgents by land and sea.

Naphtha Reservoirs Burned.

BAKU, Russia, June 9. — Two full naphtha reservoirs and twenty-four boring shafts have been destroyed by fire at Romany.

Seven People Drowned.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The deaths by drowning of seven people in this immediate vicinity were reported yesterday.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; rising temperature; fresh north winds.

NO SIGNS OF THE END

Mining Trouble Enters Upon Its Fifth Week.

MITCHELL REPORTS GOOD PROGRESS.

Mine Superintendents Will Not Talk For Publication, but One Admits That Engineers and Pumpmen Are Very Scarce.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 9.—Today begins the fifth week of the suspension of anthracite coal mining, and a settlement of the dispute between the miners and operators seems to be no nearer than when the trouble began.

Although President Mitchell is leading a great struggle for a shorter workday, he is not limiting himself to any prescribed hours of labor. He works late every night, and he is busy all day in his office. Most of his time is given up to receiving reports by messenger or by wire from his men in the field. He stated last night that he had nothing of any importance to make public, his information, he added, being of a satisfactory nature.

Among the reports sent in were several to the effect that addjtional engineers had stopped work and that several fire bosses who had taken the places of strikers had also quit. At a meeting of engineers at Pittston thirty engineers who had not obeyed the strike order decided not to go to work today. The few union men who are still at work, Mr. Mitchell says, will be out during this week. Most of the general superintendents of the big coal companies when seen had nothing to say concerning the strike. One superintendent admitted that a good many companies are scratching pretty hard for competent men to run their engines and pumps. Any number of volunteers have come forward, but the men desired are not so plentiful.

The house to house canvass of miners' committees in an endeavor to bring out those who have refused to strike and also those who have taken the places of strikers is still being vigorously prosecuted. Many of the men who are still working complain that their houses are stoned almost nightly. These assaults are made usually between 9 p. m. and midnight. The method is to gather a small body of men and boys and at a signal send a storm of stones against the dwellings, breaking window panes and frightening the inmates.

SETTLEMENT RUMORS.

Labor Commissioner Wright In New York at President's Request.

NEW YORK, June 9. — Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, is in this city. It is rumored he comes with some proposition looking to a settlement of the miners' strike.

Just what business Mr. Wright has which will consume his time in New York for several days is not known here, but the impression prevails that he may undertake to look somewhat into the matter of the differences existing between the operators and the miners as a possible basis for any further consideration of the matter by President Roosevelt.

The president talked with Wright for some time regarding the situation in the anthracite coal region. Mr. Wright went to Washington at the request of the president to get his views on the question.

Under the act creating the department of labor the commissioner is empowered to investigate the causes of labor disputes that tend to interfere with the welfare of the people of different states and report the same to congress or to the president.

Railway Employees Rebel.

HAZLETON, Pa., June 9.—At their meeting at Freeland yesterday afternoon the employees of the Delaware, Susquehanna and Schuylkill railroad refused to handle any trains carrying special officers, deputies or nonunionists. A resolution addressed to Luther C. Smith, superintendent of the road, was adopted. It is understood that the company will not ask the men to continue doing this work, but will depend on the Lehigh Valley railroad in the future to take these special trains from one colliery to the other. The Lehigh Valley trainmen held a secret meeting here and decided that they will not handle any coal mined at the collieries or any soft coal sent over the Hazleton division to displace anthracite during the continuance of the [illegible]

Nonunionists Burned In Effigy.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 9.—Effigies of Charles Albert, Robert Thomas and William Rodin, no[illegible] employes of the Mineral Railroad and Mining company here, were [illegible] by a crowd of strikers, and effigies of the trio were burned on bonfires. Women furnished the effigies. Rodin, tiring of the demonstration, faced the mob and threatened to shoot if any one ventured on his premises, whereupon the crowd dispersed.

Strikers Must Vacate.

NORTH FORK, W. Va., June 9.—The coal operators here have given notice that all strikers must vacate company houses today. Several hundred nonunion men are at work here. The strikers met yesterday, and, it is believed, violence will be resorted to if the nonunion men continue to enter the mines. The operators say they will protect all the nonunion men who desire to work.

Fatal Storm In Georgia.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 9.—A heavy wind and thunder storm which passed over this city yesterday caused the death of two people, perhaps fatally injured a third and did considerable damage to buildings.

HOW TO VOTE.

In order that the Greater Plainfield scheme may be brought to a sucessful realization, it is first necessary to annex North Plainfield to Union county. Then can come the consolidation. Each question, however, has to be voted on separately. It is perfectly just and proper that the question of the change of county line should come up first. Consolidation without the change of county line would be most unsatisfactory if not impractical. If the annexation question is endorsed by the people of the borough, the consolidation of city and borough is bound to come without further delay.

At its meeting Friday evening, the Borough Council fixed a date for the special election to vote on the question of annexation. The date set was September 16. That will give the people of North Plainfield a chance to think long and carefully over the question at issue. But first let every fair minded person eliminate the personal part of the question. It is simply to decide whether or not the best interests of North Plainfield would be furthered by its annexation to Union county with the inevitable consolidation with Plainfield that would follow. These bitter personalities must be forgotten and people must come down to hard, plain facts.

There is two sides to every question and this one is no exception. But the arguments in favor of Greater Plainfield, are we believe far stronger than those against it. It is the duty of every citizen of the borough to carefully consider the arguments of both sides. No one should be so bigoted that he will not listen to what the other side has to say. When the arguments have been fairly weighed, then let the verdict at the ballot box be according to the evidence.

After all the unkind things some of the people of the borough have said about our sewage disposal system, it is a decided relief to hear remarks like those made by the chairman of the State Sewage Commission. He happens to be an authority on that subject and when he declares that the beds are working very satisfactorily and that they are a success, it is encouraging. Although their eye sight may be without defect, some people seem unable to see that which they do not care to see.

It seems a great pity when a public drinking fountain has to go abegging. Here is such a fountain in the best of condition and yet property owners are complaining about it and do not desire it in their neighborhood. The fountain was a gift to the city and it is the duty of the city officials to see that it is placed where it will be of use. Plainfield has seriously felt the absence of any such fountain, both by man and beast, and the city should see that this one is put where it will be of use.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the members of the Common Council will be able to prevail upon the street railway company to make some change at the Watchung avenue transfer station. Under the existing conditions, it is one of the seven wonders that somebody is not killed there every day at least. Some time a fractious horse is going to carry death and injury to many as they are changing from one car to another.

It is no more possible to relax in advertising without actual loss than it is to permit the character and discipline of a business establishment to be lowered for a season, comments the Philadelphia Record. An advertiser saved $25,000 one year by cutting down his newspaper space one-half. According to his own statement it took $100,000 the next year to bring his business up to its former standard.

A recognized authority notes, according to the Philadelphia Record, that it depends a great deal on the character of the wares whether an advertisement will bring quick returns. "Some of the most successful of advertisers," he adds, "had to wait some time for recognition. Perseverance is a needed quality in advertising."

If people would only realize that the object in keeping all the dogs muzzled is to protect the public, there might be a more general observation of the city ordinance on that subject. One mad dog can carry trouble into many homes. It is far better to act before that visit comes rather than wait until several lives have been endangered.

It is very unusual in Plainfield at least for the two highest honors in the graduating class of the High School to go to young men. Such is the case this year, however. In past years, the young women have taken the large share and such an exception is remarkable.

While the "white fence" at the North Avenue station is no longer as white as it was painted, it is still very easy to see and the coat of paint has answered the purpose for which it was intended.

The foolishness of one community with two governments can be easily appreciated in a glimpse from some point of observation on the Watchung Mountains.

An event of great interest in the afternoon was the team match between the class B teams of the Hillside and Baltusrol Clubs. The home team won a glorious victory by defeating the visitors by a score of 19 to 6. If it had not been for the excellent playing of Rev. Dr. Richards, who made thirteen out of the nineteen points scored, the visitors might have won the math. Dr. Richards, Walter Peterson and Dr. F. Ard were the only three of the Hilside team to score.

The score of the match is as follows:

HILLSIDE.
Dr. W. R. Richards	13
D. H. Rowland	0
H. F. Baker	0
T. R. VanBoskerck	0
Walter Peterson	3

In the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup there were a number of good scores. Robert Abbott, who won first honors, made the second best gross score, 77, of the season. Last week F. O. Reinhart made a 74. H. F. Baker is still in the lead for the cup with 8½ points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Robert Abbott	77	2	75
Dr. W. R. Richards	95	18	77
Evarts Tracy	106	25	81
Charles A. Stover	103	22	81

B. T. Newkirk	101	18	83
H. O. Tracy	104	20	84
D. H. Rowland	97	10	87

There was a very large entry list for the Golf Committee cup, but the shower which put in a sudden appearance brought many players in before they could finish the eighteen holes.

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

PERSONAL.

Miss Etta Johnson, of East Third street, who has been visiting Philadelphia friends, has returned home.

Samuel Boss, of Craig place, returned home yesterday after a two months' trip through the southern States.

Miss Jennie D. Smith, of Grandview avenue, is visiting her uncle, Joseph Atkinson, proprietor of the Monmouth House, Freehold, N. J.

Henry J. Talford, formerly of Plainfield, but who has lately been stopping at Stamford, N. Y., is now visiting friends in this city for a time.

Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard, of West Fifth street, will leave Wednesday for northern New York State, where they will make a visit of several weeks with the latter's parents.

DEATH OF MRS. CADMUS.

Passed Away at Newport News—Remains Brought Home.

The death of Mrs. C. V. Cadmus occurred at Newport News from heart failure at an early hour yesterday morning. Mrs. Cadmus was a sister of Mrs. Andrew Johnson, of Duer street. The remains were brought to this city this morning in charge of a son, A. V. Cadmus. The funeral services will be held at the residence of Andrew Johnson at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TRIED TO STEAL CHAIR.

Thieves Have Been Operating at Home of James E. Martine.

Several nights ago thieves stole a large porch chair from the home of James E. Martine and last evening about 9 o'clock thieves again visited the house and attempted to take another chair. The family was attracted by a noise and they went to the porch just in time to save the chair. The thieves dropped it on the lawn and made their escape.

Rehearsing for Class Night.

The seniors of the North Plainfield High School, Saturday morning, held a rehearsal of "The School for Scandal," which they will present on class night, June 13.

—Neuman Brothers will have a shipment of 1,000 quarts of fresh strawberries on sale tomorrow.

DEATH OF ANDREW ZEISZ.

Death Came Slowly After Four Score Years of Life.

After a gradual failing for the past three years, Andrew Zeisz, of New street, passed away at his home, Saturday afternoon. A complication of troubles which he was unable to withstand owing to his weakened state was the immediate cause of death.

He was eighty years old and had lived in this city since 1840. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Andrew Lang, of Newark; Mrs. John Bremmer and Mrs. Charles Glaentzer, of this city and one son, George Zeisz, with whom he lived.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Invitations for Marriage.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Keneena McKay, of West Second street, to Frank Sheppard, of West Fifth street. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, at the residence of the groom's parents Wednesday evening.

Bishop's Visit.

Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of the diocese, will visit St. Stephen's Church, Netherwood, next Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock, to administer the rite of Confirmation.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The baseball game Saturday between Dunellen and Raritan was stopped in the fourth inning because of rain. At the time the score was 5 to 1 in favor of Dunellen and there was every likelihood that they would eventually have won out. The locals were putting up a snappy article of ball and Raritans' only run was made on a passed ball. The features were a home run by Boyle, of Dunellen, and a running catch by Herlich.

Yesterday was Children's Day and it was celebrated in the Presbyterian church with approprite exercises. In the evening the children of the Sunday-school were present and participated in the exercises by speaking pieces and singing. Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the First Baptist church, of New Market, was present and gave an excellent address. An unusually large congregation was present.

An appeal has been issued by Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of the Methodist church, to his parishoners to assist in the work of securing $2,500 to clear of the church debt. On June 15 the amount will be divided into $5 blocks and each one is asked to take as many blocks as possible.

Children's Day exercises in the Methodist church, yesterday, consisted of singing and recitations by the children, singing by the choir and an address by the pastor.

The Silver Leaves defeated the Clinton Avenue team on the home grounds Saturday morning in a close game by a score of 16 to 15.

The members of the Friday Afternoon Card Club will spend tomorrow at Midland Beach. They will go by trolley.

Regular services were held in St. John's Catholic church yesterday. Rev. Father Dumphrey was in charge.

The Dunellen Juniors will play the Park A. C., of Plainfield, on the home grounds Saturday.

Miss Margaret VanArsdale entertained out of town friends yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop entertained out of town friends yesterday.

The court of the Dunellen Tennis Club was in active use Saturday.

Mrs. John Kenney is entertaining Miss Ethel Jamison, of Raritan.

The young child by Mr. and Mrs. Merwin, of Front street, is ill.

Joseph Apgar's house is being treated to a coat of paint.

NEW MARKET.

The New Market baseball team met the team from the Y. M. C., of Dunellen, on Saturday. The game was stopped after four innings had been played on account of the rain. The score at that time was 4 to 3 in favor of Dunellen and both sides were putting up a strong game. The battery for New Market was Line and Nelson and for Dunellen, Fisher and McMann.

Children's Day exercises in the First Baptist church, yesterday, consisted of the usual songs and recitations. In addition an interesting address was given by Rev. N. J. Sproul, of the Dunellen Presbyterian church.

Paul Utter, of Newark, visited friends in the township yesterday.

Paul Meyers entertained out of town friends yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Johnston of the local ball team is still on the hunt for some one to cover third base which has been covered by substitute since Mallay left the team. Several have been tried in the position but there was but one man for that position in the eyes of the fans and that was Mallay.

A lively game of baseball was played at Springfield Saturday afternoon between the local team and the Springfield nine. The local boys won the game by the score of 15 to 3. After the first innings the home team never made a run.

A pleasing programme was presented at the Children's Day exercises at the M. E. church last evening, when the children took part and there was an address by the pastor.

Appropriate Children's Day exercises were held in the First Baptist church yesterday morning with an interesting programme by the children.

No teachers' meeting of the Baptist Sunday-school was held last week. The meetings will be resumed again Thursday evening of this week.

There was no meeting of the Epworth League in the M. E. church last evening on account of the Children's Day exercises.

Dr. Shott exchanged pulpits last evening with Dr. Vassar, of the Baptist church, Elizabeth.

Miss Hazel Marsh and Miss Sadie Lee spent Sunday with Miss Evelyn Buckley, of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dunn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Banks, at Plainfield.

Mrs. Wm. S. Terry, of Plainfield, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. James Buckley.

Mrs. George L. Dunn is able to be around again after an illness of several weeks.

The high winds destroyed many beautiful shade trees yesterday.

Miss Mattie Hull, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with her parents.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley will attend the commencement exercises of Peddie Institute at Hightstown tomorrow.

Mrs. Lucy Schenck has recovered from the effects of injuries received by being thrown out of a carriage.

PERSONAL.

Alfred Lacey, of LaGrande avenue, was the guest of friends at Dover yesterday.

A young son arrived at the home of James Nerrie, of Duer street, last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jocob Voehl, of Netherwood avenue, spent Sunday in Jersey City visiting their son.

Stephen Canoone and family, of Watchung avenue, left yesterday for their summer home in Jamestown, R. I.

Ben Evans, of Grant avenue, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past five weeks, has almost entirely recovered and will be discharged Wednesday.

Ethel Neuman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Neuman, of LaGrande avenue, who was recently operated upon for appendicitis, is getting along nicely at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Williams, of West Seventh street, are among those enjoying the annual pilgrimage of the Mystic Shriners to California. They left a week ago and will be absent three weeks in all.

—Miss Laura Dean, of East Front street, has accepted a position as bookkeeper for Currin & Conover, of Somerset street.

—Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck are in attendance at the session of the Particular Synod, at Asbury Park. They will return home Wednesday.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

John P. Powers, the Somerset street pharmacist, has the most attractively dressed window in the city. A large display is made of Grape Juice, the most popular drink of the season.

McDonough Brothers will supply you with ice this summer at a figure that will not make that commodity a luxury. They sell the pure article and prompt attention is given to orders.

Beautify the appearance of your porch or lawn by the addition of some flower vases or garden pots. Gavett, the West Front street crockeryman, has them in many styles and many prices.

In W. W. Wilson's there is a large stock of Jersey veal and spring lamb, home dressed poultry, heavy prime beef, bolognas and frankfurters. A visit to Wilson's is good for the pocket.

At C. L. Stanley's, the North avenue florist, there is a beautiful floral display of geraniums, cannas, salvias, and an abundance of cut flowers. Floral design work is a specialty at Stanley's.

Putnam & DeGraw keep such a variety of dry goods that a customer can always get what they want. They keep a complete stock of goods for women and a well-equipped men's furnishing department.

Oftentimes people have considerable trouble in the summer with their feet, but if you purchase you shoes of Willett & Son on Park avenue, you will have less trouble. Shoes that fit and are comfortable are sold at this store.

Have you noticed how the people take advantage of the specials offered by Callahan & Son, for cash? It's because they save money by doing so at the same time getting the best of goods. Consult the columns of The Daily Press for their weekly list of good things.

At this season of the year a first-class drug store is much sought after and often strangers being in the city do not know where to find such a place. L. W. Randolph, of West Front street, keeps such a place and you will make no mistake in trading there. He also sells delicious soda water of all kinds, including ping-pong frappe, the latest.

W. W. Warnock, the West Front street baker and confectioner, had an almost unprecedented call for his famous cream, Saturday and yesterday. This delicious hot weather necessity is daily growing in popularity—that is, if it comes from Warnock's. He has had years of experience in the business and knows how to make it.

PERSONAL.

Miss Ada B. Chaplin, of Chicago, is a guest of Miss May McLoughlin, of Somerset street.

Miss Kizzie Neagle, of this city, has returned from a visit with friends at Bound Brook.

Louis McGann, who has been visiting borough relatives, has returned to Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Bresslmair, of the borough, is spending a few days with friends at Richmond Hill, L. I.

Miss Amy Cain, of Raritan, spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street.

Mrs. A. L. Sutphen, of High Bridge, has returned home after a visit with Plainfield friends.

Stephen Cahoone and family, of Watchung avenue, are spending the summer at Jamestown, R. I.

Thomas Parkinson, formerly of this city but now of Ravenswood, L. I., has been visiting friends in town.

Miss Ethel Smalley, of Bound Brook, was among those graduated from the Seminary on West Seventh street, last week.

Arthur N. Pangborn, of North Plainfield, presided at the organ in the Presbyterian church at Bound Brook, yesterday.

Frank McIntyre, of North avenue, has left Seton Hall College and is now taking a commercial course at Coleman's Newark Business College.

—Colburn's high grade berries are always to be found fresh at Neuman Brothers.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

FILIAL RESPECT.

Lesson Drawn From Fifth Commandment by Rev. Mr. McMurray.

Considering it to be very appropriate to Children's Day, which was observed by the local Sunday-schools, yesterday, Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, preached on the fifth commandment, last evening continuing in his series of special sermons.

Sometime ago Mr. McMurray rendered a discourse based on the fourth commandment and he deemed it advisable not to dwell on it again. His sermon of last evening was aimed at the young people and was intended to imbue them with proper filial respect. It was heard by a large congregation.

OUTING AT KELLAR'S GROVE.

Members of Gesang and Turn Verein Had a Pleasant Time.

The local Turn Verein had an outing at Kellar's grove yesterday. More than fifty members of the pyramid section of the National organization came over from Newark in the morning. They were met at Scotch Plains by a delegation from Plainfield and the distance to Kellar's grove was made on foot over Johnston's drive.

A most pleasant day was spent at the grove in baseball, quoits, and other games. An elaborate dinner was spread at 12 o'clock and the gathering did not break up till after six.

FUNERAL OF MRS. TEN EYCK.

Services Were Held From Home of C. B. TenEyck Saturday Night.

Funeral services over Mrs. Margaret M. TenEyck were held at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the residence of her step-son, Cornelius B. TenEyck, Franklin avenue. Rev. Dr. Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, was the officiating clergyman. Misses Jennie and Alice DeMott sang "Saved by Grace," and "Christian's Goodnight."

Interment was at North Branch at 12:30 yesterday. Rev. Mr. Doolittle of that place officiated at the grave.

—Peter C. Saums, of Manning avenue, has secured a position as conductor with the Pullman Car Company, and entered upon his duties this morning. His run will be on the Erie Railroad.

GREAT DANGER LINE

Central America and Lesser Antilles Full of Volcanoes.

Gigantic Craters Along the Line of the Proposed Nicaragua Canal —Once Fiery Now Are Emerald Gems.

[Special Costa Rica Letter.]

FROM where the eighty-second degree of west longitude touches the Pacific coast of Colombia, 2,300 miles due south from the city of Cleveland, draw a line straight northwestward 2,300 miles to where the twenty-fifth degree of north latitude crosses the Pacific shore of Mexico, 2,200 miles from New York city, and count the once fiery, now emerald, gems, which jewel that belt.

Near the beginning of that line is Mont Blanco. Its head rises 9,560 feet above the Caribbean sea, which seems to one who looks down from its crest to be scarcely more than a stone-throw away. A mere step, say 15 or 20 miles farther, along our line another mountain lifts its head a hundred feet higher than that of Blanco. Then come many mountains of little less height, before Turrialba rises, a majestic sentinel at the southern extremity of that broad and fertile plain which stretches 325 miles to the northern shore of Honduras, and forms the larger part of three republics.

Across this plain flows the Rio San Juan, draining northeastern Costa Rica and all the basins of the great lakes of Nicaragua. It is along this river and through the larger of the two lakes that the proposed ship canal would be made; should that route be accepted by the United States.

Turrialba is 11,000 feet in height, and standing shoulder to shoulder with it is Irazu, 11,480 feet high. At its foot sits the beautiful city of San Jose, clean and provided with electric lights, tram cars and telephone and telegraph lines, ice plants and water supply, hotels and cafes, blooming parks and a magnificent theater, with other conveniences, comforts and luxuries. A thousand feet higher, on the flank of Irazu, is the solid old city of Cartago, long the capital of the republic. If

GENERAL VIEW OF MOMOTOMBO, A FAMOUS FIRE SPITTER.

Irazu should burst its bounds, as did Pelee and La Soufriere, the destruction of life would appal the world.

Within sight of the 32,00 people who dwell in San Jose are the peaks of the volcanoes of Barba, 9,290 feet, and of Poas, 8,680 feet in altitude. Poas carries in its crater a little lake, such as was in Pelee until, perhaps, some seam in the rock opened to let the water to the fires raging beneath, and thus in an instant made of a pretty and peaceful pond the means of the most awful destruction man has known since the fatal day of Atlantis.

Tenorio and Miravalles, La Vieja and Orosil are near the line, before it touches Lake Nicaragua. There it passes closes to the volcanic island of Solentiname, near the head of the Rio San Juan and the line of the proposed CATHEDRAL AT MANAGUA.

(Famous Central American Church Cracked by Earthquake.)

canal; passes through the volcano of Madera and the perfect cone of the volcano of Ometepe, then through El Zapatero and that vast ruin which, in a sudden rage, hurled its entire roof nearly or quite ten miles, to fall in fragments and make in the lake a reef of islets, some of which afford farms for those who dwell in contentment on those proofs of the power of the most prodigious and destructive force this world has known.

Following the line one sees to the left the south wall of another volcano, a vast low crater, burnt, desolate, lying south of the ancient Indian town of Masaya, which dreams away its hot and dusty days at the edge of another crater, in which is a lake of pure water some 200 feet below the level of the town. A dozen miles westward is the capital city of Managua, nestling like a hen in a hot and dusty roadway, at the edge of Lake Managua, and at the foot of the tiny volcano of Tiscapa. Behind the wall of the crater, only 200 or 300 feet high, is a deep pool of strongly akaline waters, in which the dirty linen of the town is washed.

The steamer which carries one from Managua to Momotombo, 30 miles along our line, skirts the point of Chiltepe, which has in its crater a lake of sweet, cool water. Rounding the point one has in full view the cone of the great Momotombo, its snowy plume forever streaming far out over the perfect curve of its southwestern slope. Between the lake and the Pacific, and plainly seen from both, is La Loma del Tigre; but it is insignificant in size—only 1,020 feet in height—compared with the immense, symmetrical bulk of the smoking giant, bearing its white banner 5,700 feet above the lake which laps three sides of its base.

History says that in days before Columbus a large town was on the shore where now a small village is at the edge of the lake. But the mountain labored, and brought forth such evident signs of distress or of rage that the people fled, with goods and household gods, to where Leon now stands, none too securely, in the broad valley, not so far away that the bulk of the huge smoker cannot be plainly seen from the streets. They might have gone much farther and still have kept in sight their one-time idol; for one may stand on the crest of Cerro de Hule, in Honduras, and look across a valley 18 miles to Tegucigalpa, the capital city, gleaming white in the afternoon sun; then turn his back to the city and see in Salvador, a little west of south, and 75 miles distant, the smoke rising from San Miguel. Then almost due south he will see Coseuina, full 85 miles away; and 120 miles to the south-southeast he can see the steam rising from the crest of Momotombo.

Many a time Momotombo threatened the people; and they have been afraid. On one occasion a multitude took their way up the slope of the mountain until the edge of the ashes was reached. There they knelt in earnest prayer, while two devoted priests bore up the steep the cross they would plant at the brink of the crater, to repel whatever flow of lava might threaten. No one ever again saw cross, nor priests. Nor did the crater overoflw. If human foot has ever reached the edge of that pit no word of it has come to other men.

Strung closely along the line are a score or more of dead little volcanoes, Telica, Viejo and Coreovado, pushing their shoulders high above the others. Then comes Coseguina, standing on or forming the promontory which in part shuts in the great bay of Fonseca. Coseguina has been a most quiet mountain ever since, in 1836, it burst and startled by its noise even the City of Mexico, nearly a thousand miles away. Through three days the hammering of its explosions terrified four republics, and in that time the volcano covered three republics with a pall of ashes that, over much of Honduras at least, was inches in depth. Old people of that country have told of the death of thousands of animals, caused by the cloak that hid all green things, stopped the flow of water in the streams, and suffocated the beasts. That was probably the most terrific outburst ever known by civilized man before the Krakatoa mantled the sea with pumice and minute dust, and for many weeks tinted the skies of all the world by the dust into which it had burst its rocks. So Coseguiana also threw its dust so high into the sky that it hid from the sunshine all the region within 350 miles, and even fell upon Jamaica, 800 miles to windward.

It would be tedious, and useless, to attempt to count all the volcanoes which dot the line between Coseguina in Nicaragua and Colima in Mexico, for they are too many, and the once savagely fiery hearts of most of them are dead and cold. But from Colima, now threatening violence, eastward to the shore of the bay of Campeche is a short arm of the mighty Andean cross, the only east and west range of volcanoes in all America. In that arm are set seven great volcanoes, the grandest being Popocatepetl, 17,300 feet in altitude.

Of especial interest just now is that part of the great American volcanic system which lies in the sunken valley in which are the lakes of Nicaragua and their outlet, for there is the line along which will be the Nicaragua ship canal, if it shall be made. Within the last century a dozen of those volcanoes have belched lava and steam and dust, and earthquakes have been of almost monthly occurrence.

Little injury has been done by earthquakes in that region. It is true that Leon, in Nicaragua, has been badly shaken several times; and no longer than two years ago the massive ornaments were tumbled from the towers of her churches, and wide gaps were opened in their walls, as like seams were opened in those of the queer, black sandstone church of Managua, 40 miles distant.

SILK STILL THE CHOICE.

There Is a Wide Range—Gray Silk Tailored Suit.

In the ever recurring delight of seeing the dainty new cotton and linen fabrics we are apt to forget that silk is still the choice of all things for women, whether for the funny little Monte Carlo jackets or for handsome summer attire. There is a wide choice just now, and among the silks for the season are new ones of great beauty. There are some few thick and rich silks intended for regularly made tailor suits, but the majority are in the light and glossy weaves intended for dressy occasions. These are often decorated with applications of lace, black or white, lavishly applied. Few of the silks are in solid colors, but there are taffeta, peau de cygne and grys de londres and some grosgrain, all plain, and these are suitable for outdoor dresses in tailor style.

Peau de levant has a soft and closely twilled surface very rich in appearance, with a regular crepe de chine finish, and this silk may be laundered as often as a calico. Peau de cygne comes twenty-seven inches wide in black and colors. It is very handsome and lustrous in black and makes up elegantly. The skirt is not to be lined, and the bottom is made to flare and be comfortable for warm days. In black, all silk pongees are also among the fashionable silks for summer, and they are so light as to be delightful for the coming warm days. This is thirty-one inches wide and therefore cuts to better advantage than the narrower goods.

Some of the liberty silks have jacquard weaves, and until the shopper examines this particular fabric she has not seen one of the most attractive of all. This is light, like all liberty silk, and has all the luster peculiar to the fabric, with the addition of the woven figures.

Louisine is another new favorite, and for summer wear it is now produced in tiny checks. Some have blue and white checks in different sizes from pinhead to half an inch square. There are red and white, brown and white and black and white. The smallest sizes are the most refined, and a gown made of this style of silk is decidedly French. And there is something extremely neat about this design. One dress was made of the fine blue and white check, with all the accessories—cuffs, revers, collar and fan shaped slashes—at the bottom of the skirt of blue solid color in taffeta. White lace was used to trim the dress, and it was particularly neat and pleasing.

Crisp and often iridescent taffeta is seen among the silks for summer wear, and there are said to be over a hundred colors and tints. This makes an economical dress, for it does not require laundry work. It will not hold dust, and much of the taffeta silk is now made waterproof. White corded taffeta is employed mostly for the shirt waists, as are the shantungs and habutais. These are washable.

Some of the taffetas are striped in different colors, and others of a better quality. Those mostly for evening wear are warp printed, which gives them a delicately vague effect. Some of the louisines are also printed in tiny white polka dots on a dark ground, like navy, garnet, cadet gray, dark blue and black.

One lady told me that when she saw the dainty muslins she felt that she never wanted anything else, but when she saw the silks muslins suddenly seemed so cheap to her that she fairly hated the pretty thin dresses she had thought so beautiful a short time ago. What we have is never so desirable as the things unattainable.

I had intended to describe a tailored suit of peau de cygne in a rich dark gray. The skirt is cut so that heavy folds form fans at the bottom, and these are backed by fans of finely plaited crimson chiffon, each fan having a braid zigzagged across it. On the outside are curiously wrought designs of black silk castle braid. The basque is in the form of a postilion at the back and has a vest front made like the fans at the bottom. A more striking costume could scarcely be imagined.

Thus we may see that silk is not forgotten, for parasols and ribbons for hats are also of it. We owe a debt of gratitude to the industrious little worms for providing us with the fibers to make such lovely things.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

THE BUSINESS WOMAN

"SHE is a bore." Mrs. Bentley made this announcement in a tone which admitted of no discussion.

"She talks shop all the time," put in well bred Mrs. Adams.

Little Miss Smith joined the group. "What are you talking about?" she ventured. "The business woman? Umph!" with a shrug of her pretty shoulders. "She is a frump. She does not know how to dress."

"Perhaps she hasn't the money," Mrs. Adams put in charitably.

"Oh, it isn't that kind of dressing I mean," retorted Miss Smith, rearranging her dainty linen turnover collar.

"I think I see what Miss Smith means," here remarked old Stockandbonds, turning around in his comfortable easy chair. "Why, in my office I have actually had to make a rule that no trained skirts are to be worn. I wish you could see the length of skirts my stenographers began to wear when the style came in. Fit for a reception! They trailed over the dirty floors, getting into every one's way. I wish you could have seen how filthy they looked after a few days' wear!"

"But I have met a good many business women who didn't care for dress at all who were almost mannish in their attire," objected Mrs. Bentley.

"Yes, after they have been in business awhile they get so they don't care what they have on," answered Miss Smith, "but at first everything they earn goes on their backs, and it's all worn down to the office or dragged around the streets regardless of the fitness of time or occasion. Go into any business woman's restaurant, and you will see for yourself. There are dragged out ostrich plumes on soiled picture hats, spotted silk waists and wilted chiffon ties. Now, why on earth doesn't the business woman appreciate the beauty of a smart gray or navy blue tailor made and a swagger rough straw hat trimmed with a veil to match her suit; the beauty, too, of a cotton shirt waist that can be washed and which has a neatly fitted collar around the neck instead of a slouchy ribbon thing that cost too much to be thrown away after it was soiled? The style of dressing I suggest costs one-half that of the other, and it makes a girl look like a lady even though she isn't one by breeding."

"What I want to know," put in Mrs. Bentley, "is why, when you invite a business woman for the evening, she almost invariably begins to bring the subject around to the office? Now, that would be considered very bad taste in a man; why not in a woman?"

"The business woman is all right," said Mrs. Adams, "and we all admire her pluck and brains until she begins to be eccentric and odd and to put herself in a different class from the rest of her sex; when she begins to feel her independence, to get bohemian, to do things no well bred woman should do. I am not surprised that the tendency of the woman who is thrown on her own resources is to become mannish, but she ought to struggle against it. She may go short skirted and shirt waisted from morning till night, but she needn't cultivate a short skirt voice (which almost sounds as if it might go with a pair of trousers), and she needn't learn to throw her legs and arms around like a man and to boast of how much money she can earn and of what a great thing it is that she doesn't have to render an account of herself to anybody, etc. If she didn't do these things, she would get along just as well in business, and she would keep her circle of friends, which is something every woman needs—even an independent and self supporting woman."

MAUD ROBINSON.

The Girl and the Home.

Rev. Minot J. Savage says: "I believe that every girl ought to be educated in the highest, noblest sense and trained to do something by which she can earn her own living. I do not believe this is going to stand in the way of the home. It is only going to set women free, so that they shall be able to choose the home and not be driven into it merely for self support."

THE STURGIS WAGER

A DETECTIVE STORY.

By EDGAR MORETTE.

Copyright, 1899, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.

"Who is it that asks for the interview?" inquired Murdock, with quiet sarcasm. "Is it Mr. Sturgis, gentleman; Mr. Sturgis, reporter, or ——"

Sturgis met a cold gleam from Murdock's inscrutable eyes.

"Or Mr. Sturgis, the famous detective?" continued the chemist with an imperceptible sneer.

"I represent the Tempest," replied the reporter quietly.

Murdock glanced carelessly up and down the street. There was no one in sight.

"Oh! very well," he said, taking out his latchkey and leading the way to the house; "come into my study and let me hear what I can do for the Tempest."

On entering the house Murdock motioned Sturgis to the door leading from the hall into the drawing-room.

"If you will step into the parlor for a few minutes, I shall be with you directly," said he.

Sturgis nodded acquiescence, and while Murdock walked toward his study, which was at the extreme rear of the hall, the reporter opened the drawing-room door. He did not open it very wide, however, neither did he enter; for although the room was rather dark, his quick eye caught a passing glimpse of a feminine head cozily nestled upon a distinctly masculine shoulder, the owner of which had his back turned to him. Bachelor cynic though he was, Sturgis had not the heart to interrupt so interesting a situation; and, as the couple were so absorbed that they had not noticed the intrusion upon their tete-a-tete, he discreetly retreated and softly closed the door.

By this time Murdock had passed into his study, so that Sturgis found himself alone in the hall. He was glad of a short respite during which he might collect his thoughts; for, having been taken by surprise, he had not had time to select a plausible topic for the interview which he had solicited from Murdock. Not knowing that the house was that of the chemist, his sole object had been to gain admittance, so that he might be able to observe the Manhattan Chemical company's offices from the rear, and if possible to ascertain how Chatham had managed to give the detectives the slip the first time he appeared to them.

Now that he was in the house the reporter was confronted with the necessity of explaining his presence there without betraying his true purpose. This would not have been a difficult matter had the inmates of the house been total strangers; but he felt that it would be by no means so easy to offer an explanation which would be satisfactory to a man of Murdock's keen perception. And Murdock was the last person to whom he would have confided the true reason of his visit; not only because the chemist, as his opponent in the wager concerning the Knickerbocker bank mystery, was interested in thwarting rather than in aiding his investigation, but chiefly because he felt a strong instinctive distrust of the man.

As these thoughts were passing through the reporter's mind, he slowly paced the long hall, back and forth, with his hands behind his back. In so doing, he passed a door which was slightly ajar and caught a glimpse of long rows of bookshelves loaded with beautifully bound editions. The place was evidently the library. It occurred to him that a library is a public room and that he would be more comfortable in there than in the hall.

He pushed open the door and looked in. The room was empty. He entered.

The library occupied a space between the parlor and the rear room into which Murdock had entered, and it was separated from each of these rooms by folding-doors over which hung heavy portieres.

Sturgis was a lover of books; his interest was at once aroused in the collection before him. It was admirably selected from the standpoint of a philosopher and a man of science. Every department of history, of philosophy and of science had its section in which the volumes were classified and arranged with intelligent care. But curiously enough, poetry and art were but meagerly represented.

One section specially attracted Sturgis' attention. It was devoted entirely to the history of crime in all its phases and in all ages. Criminal statistics, criminal jurisprudence and the psychology of crime, as well as the biographies of all the noted criminals of ancient and modern times, were completely represented. Almost the only works of fiction in the collection were in this section, and included every book imaginable concerning criminals and their deeds. Many rare and curious volumes were there—some of them so rare that they could be found in only a few of the great libraries of the world.

Here Sturgis was in his element. He had himself collected a valuable library on the subjects kindred to his profession; but here were books many of which none but a Croesus could ever hope to own. He was soon absorbed in an examination of some rare volumes which he had often longed to possess.

While thus engaged he became aware of the murmur of voices from the rear room. As the words spoken could not be distinguished, he paid no special attention to them; but, instinctively, he noted that one of the voices flowed in the calm, even tones so characteristic of Murdock's speech, while the other, whose timbre and modulations were unknown to him, betrayed the repressed excitement of the speaker.

It soon became evident that Murdock's interlocutor was fast losing control of himself; for he gradually pitched his voice in a higher key, until occasional words began to reach Sturgis' ears. The reporter was not the man to wantonly play the part of eavesdropper; therefore, although the isolated words which reached him brought no connected sense, he judged that it was time to move out of earshot of the conversation to which he was becoming an involuntary listener. Replacing upon its shelf the book which he had been examining, he started toward the hall door. As he did so, he heard the now thoroughly excited individual exclaim in loud tones:

"I don't care a damn for the money. I only went into the scheme because you promised she'd have me; and, by God, if I don't get her, I'll give the whole cursed thing away."

Sturgis, who had reached the hall door, pricked up his detective's ears at these words. But in another second he heard the knobs of the folding doors rattle, as though some one had placed his hands upon them.

Quick as thought he opened the door and glided out into the hallway. He had not time to pull the door quite to behind him when the folding doors opened and he heard Murdock say in his calm, frigid tones:

"Perhaps you have done that already with your dulcet voice."

Had Murdock seen him? The reporter asked himself the question. Probably not; for he heard the folding doors close once more.

ENGAGED GIRLS BARRED.

London Doctors Say They Should Not Be Allowed to Serve as Trained Nurses.

"No engaged girls need apply" is the latest phase of the nursing profession. Doctors and matrons have, it appears, been discussing the subject, and have come to the conclusion that damsels who are engaged to be married should not be admitted as probationers to training schools because, in the opinion of those staid, matter-of-fact persons, they only dally with nursing until the time comes to trip lightly into marriage, and thus stand in the way of those who intend to devote themselves whole-heartedly to their profession, says the London Telegraph.

Moreover, doctors and matrons entertain a strong suspicion that not a few of these giddy candidates seek the privilege of wearing a nurse's uniform, with all the attraction it possesses, for the purpose primarily of working havoc among the hearts of medical students and others with the view of speedy marriage. An argument used on the other side is that even young women who are engaged to be married would derive inestimable advantage from passing a year or two among nurses and learning something about how to treat simple maladies such as occur frequently in households. That may be so, but nursing is now a recognized profession, and those engaged in it do not look favorably on those whom they regard as matrimonial interlopers. So the engaged girl probationer is to be shelved.

LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

The New Government Printing Office at Washington Will Excel All Others.

If the shade of Herr Guttenberg could come back to earth when the new government printing office is completed and roam through that establishment he would note a few changes in the art of which he is the father. The biggest printing shop in the world will be established under the roof of the mammoth building now nearing completion on North Capitol street, reports the Washington Star.

The printing bills of Uncle Sam are enormous. He is a great promoter of publicity. He drives thousands of men day and night to turn out millions of copies of every kind of document from a single leaflet to a 50-volume set of 600-page books. He publishes a daily journal during a portion of the year. He loads entire cars with bulky documents and ships them thousands of miles to ultimately gladden the heart of the ragman. He runs a bindery and turns out marvels of leather and satin coverings. He has an illustrating department and makes maps and beautiful half-tone pictures.

And all this work has been done heretofore in a ramshackle old shop, so shaky that every workman has kept one eye on his case and the other on the nearest exit. But there will be no excuse for criticism in the new building. It will be a marvel of convenience, safety and equipment.

THE LOTTERY IN ITALY.

An Institution Under Control of the Government That Works Injury to the People.

One of the curses of modern Italy is the lottery. An English traveler, according to the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post, thus describes the hold that this institution has on the people:

"Saturday in all the principal towns of Italy is a lottery-day. The lotteries are instituted by the government, which draws a considerable revenue from them. All Italians without exception, take part in them, and their greatest anxiety is to choose a lucky number. In southern Italy the lottery has practically become a necessity. People talk of it all the week, consult monks, priests and certain individuals who have the reputation of being able to forecast the winning numbers. In Naples if a man has no money for a ticket he will even sell his bed to get one. Not content with all kinds of other expeditions, Neapolitan women of a certain rank on the eve of the lottery go in crowds to the cemetery. There the spectacle is most weird. Disheveled women throng the avenues of the cemetery, calling on the dead to tell them lucky numbers. They light candles and place other offerings on the tombs of those whom they think could bring them good luck."

Bullet Found at Last.

The recent cremation of the body of the late Dr. Robert Grimes, of Cheyenne, Wyo., has revealed the bullet received by him at the Meeker massacre, where he distinguished himself, as in many other Indian engagements, as "Fighting Bob, the Doctor," says a report from that town. Then it was thought the wound would be fatal, but Dr. Grimes recovered, and for 20 years carried the missile which the surgeons were unable to locate.

For a Texas State Park.

Texans are again urging that the battlefield of San Jacinto be made a state park. The state bought the land some time ago, but little has yet been done to improve and beautify it for park purposes; and the neighboring farmers pasture their cows there.

Strange Arctic Find.

Petrified tropical fruits have been found in coal from Spitzbergen, the island group in the arctic ocean, midway between Greenland and Nova Zembia.

HUNTING THE EAGLE

The Most Perilous of Many Dangerous Alpine Sports.

Sometimes the Hunter Must Hang Suspended in Midair for Hours at a Time—Other Perils of the Chase.

Everybody knows what a dangerous occupation the chamois hunters of the Alps have to endure to make a livelihood, but few know that these "chasseurs de chamois" have a side line that is still more venturesome.

It is that of capturing young eagles.

Only the more daring of the chamois hunters undertake it, despite the fact that the financial rewards are much greater than come to those who devote themselves entirely to shooting the nimble-footed animals whose soft skin is always in such demand.

The eagle of the Alps is a royal bird who builds his nest far above the rest of the earth's inhabitants. The most inaccessible cliffs, guarding deep lying gorges and crowned with snow capped peaks, are his favorite spot for home-making and it is to these places that the eagle hunter has to go.

In just the same proportion that the Alpine eaglets are so hard to reach is their marketable value fixed in the animal booths of Berne and Geneva.

It is a remarkable fact that the most intrepid and venturesome of all the chamois hunters who also seek the young eaglets is a university man, Herr Wilhelm Amrhein, of Munich. He knows the high Alps as well as a schoolboy does his alphabet. There is scarcely a cliff on the range of the Unterwalden that he has not scaled.

Even the monks of St. Benedictine do not know the eagles of the Engelberg as well as does he. His invariable assistant in the eagle chase is a hardy old Swiss forester called Karl Hess.

The method of the hunt, says the Philadelphia Press, is not only dangerous, but it is excessively tedious as well. It necessitates, sometimes, the searchers hanging in midair for hours at a time. The circling of the eagles is carefully watched and the cliff noted on which the nest is probably located. This can only be determined after long and careful study of the birds' habits. The center of the diameter of their circular flight is sure to be near the nest and the young eagles.

YOUNG ALPINE EAGLES.
(Hunting Them Is the Most Dangerous Sport Known.)

The next thing is to get to the top of the cliff and rig up a double set of pulleys. The hauling pulley is fastened on a sturdy standing tree firmly rooted in the intricacies of the mountain top. A cable is veered through this and then through a drop pulley fastened to some stout fallen tree trunk, braced to reach over the brink so that the line will fall clear of the rocks.

A complicated knot, known as a boatsman's seat, in which a man can rest at comparative ease, is formed in this line. Into this the eaglet hunter slips his legs and is lowered away over the precipice. With a man above at the pulley to lower and one below at the guide rope to pull in or out, the eagle hunter can get at the crevices in the rock and search carefully for the nests.

In a recent hunt Herr Amrhein was 210 meters up in the air. Snow-shrouded peaks and glaciers were his neighbors. A weak strand in the rope meant certain death. But death also threatened him in other ways. It might come from a moment's giddiness on his part; from a foot slip by the man above who held the pulley rope, or from bad judgment by the man who held the guiding rope below, who might swing him so forcibly into the cleft that he would be dashed to pieces.

After the nest is found and the eaglets secured there are the old eagles to be reckoned with. They do not take kindly to having their young kidnaped and if they are in the immediate neighborhood there is sure to be a lively half-hour for the eaglet hunter up in the clouds.

Sometimes a hunter is lowered to the foot of the cliff without seeing a nest. Then comes the tedious and laborious process of hauling him up again. This frequently takes an hour.

If a single nest is found in a week's hunt the hunters feel amply repaid.

How Did They Get There?

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

A meeting of the League executive committee is scheduled for this evening. Several matters of a routine nature are to be considered.

"Teddy" Shortman, who has been playing on the Clinton Avenue team, has signed with the Hopes. He is a good all round player and will be a valuable acquisition to the Hope team. He will play his first game a week from next Saturday.

Plainfield High School lined up against Lincoln High, of Westfield, on Pittis field Saturday morning. The visitors were not in the same class as the Plainfielders, and after four innings of play the game was given up with the score standing 25 to 1 in favor of the home team. With three men on bases an excusable error in the field gave Lincoln their lone tally in the second.

The Orange Field Club, of this city, defeated the Echo A. C., of Cranford, for the second time, Saturday. The score was 11 to 4. George Whitly, of the O. F. C., pitched an excellent game, striking out eight men and letting but one walk. In the beginning of the ninth inning, Catcher George Herman dislocated a knee in making a slide and Morris Brokaw broke a finger catching a swift ball. Both belong to the Plainfield team.

GOLF.

On the Westfield Golf Club course Saturday F. P. Condit beat A. D. Tuttle 4 up and 3 to play in the finals for the second eight in the competition for the Handicap committee cup. E. Halstead and H. A. Knobbs play off a postpone game next week and E. D. Floyd will play the winner for the Greens committee cup.

TENNIS.

In the final play at tennis for the Mellick cup on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club this morning, Miss Sarah Schuyler defeated Miss Mary Whiton, 6-1, 6-4.

WOULND'T STAND TRIAL.

Woman Objected to Appearing in Court—Case Was Finally Settled.

Bordering on hysterics at having to undergo the experience, Mrs. John Kavanaugh faced City Judge Runyon, this morning on a charge of being helplessly drunk on Grant avenue, Saturday afternoon. She at first flatly refused to leave her cell to stand trial and it was only after the court officers used a half hour's persuasive talk and part force that she was gotten to the court room.

It proved to be an unfortunate family affair, as she and her husband have broken up their home, and she took to drinking through despondency. Her husband promised to arrange matters between them and the charge was dismissed.

To Wed Soon.

Howard Burges, of Littleton, N. C., announces the approaching marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Sally Burges, to William Burton, of this city. The ceremony will take place this summer. The couple will reside in this city.

—A number of young people from this city enjoyed a straw ride to Westfield Thursday evening.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

ST. MARYS WON GAME.

In a sharp five inning contest St. Marys defeated Safe Works on the former's grounds Saturday afternoon by the close margin of 3 to 1. Only in the first inning did Safe Works score, and St. Marys had their tallying confined to the second, when they peppered Burns over the lot for a pretty bunch of base hits.

"Doc" Doyle in the box had a wonderfully effective delivery and good control of the ball, striking out five men and not allowing a single hit. Burns, too, had excellent control of the sphere, but the leather he handled out was too easily swatted.

Cooney, third for Safe Works, made a beautiful backward catch of a high fly. Keene, in the same position for St. Marys', misjudged a pop fly, but made a one-hand grab for the ball and captured it in the nick of time. Lederer, after a forty yard run, gathered in a difficult one out at deep centre, and caught the applause of the fans.

At the end of the fifth the game was called on account of rain.

HE EXPLAINS ABOUT NEW FIRE APPARATUS

Letter From Councilman Lee, Chairman of Fire and Building Committee.

WHY IT WAS BOUGHT.

EXCELLENT REASONS WHY IT WAS NEEDED BY CITY DEPARTMENT.

New Apparatus Answers a Double Purpose, Gives West End Better Protection and Improves Service for Rest of City.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Several articles have appeared in the newspapers within the last few days regarding the new combination chemical engine and hose wagon which the Common Council gave the fire and building committee authority to purchase, and while some of these statements have been correct, others were not; and for this reason I wish to have the taxpayers of the city fully understand, through your paper, some of the reasons which the committee considered before finally adopting this class of apparatus.

In the first place the wagon, with the exception of the wheels, is made entirely of metal, those metals being steel for the wagon and copper for the acid tanks, therefore it is practically indestructible, the expense of repairs being practically nothing.

The idea of combining a hose wagon and chemical engine in the one apparatus is that of economy and efficiency at the same time. While the cost of the combined wagon is more than that of a single hose wagon or a single chemical engine, still that extra cost is lost sight of in the extra cost of running two separate wagons, which would necessitate the cost of another team of horses, their feed, shoeing, etc., three new firemen to man the extra apparatus, to which would be added the cost of harness and wear and tear on wagons. So much on the score of economy in operation.

Now as to the increased efficiency of an apparatus of this kind over that of an ordinary hose wagon. It is pretty well understood that in some cases the water used to put out a fire will do more damage than the fire itself. This is almost always true in the case of a small fire. Now suppose a fire was to start in the west end of the city. Granting that the alarm was given without any delay, under the conditions now prevalent the hose wagon in house No. 3, situated on West Fourth street near Grant avenue, would be the first upon the scene, there would be nothing for them to do but put on a stream of water from a 2½ inch hose and either put the fire out with that or hold it in check until another hose wagon arrived upon the scene. This would be necessary in all cases where the fire was too much for a hand extinguisher.

Now suppose the new combination wagon was in service, if the fire could be handled by a stream from the chemical tanks such a stream can be put on the fire in less than thirty seconds after the arrival of the apparatus, and the chemicals would not damage the finest materials of any kind with which it came in contact, nor would it flood the building. Should it so happen that the fire was too large to be handled by these chemical tanks, then there is a supply of 2½ inch hose, 1,000 feet in length, on the wagon for just such emergencies. The less use you have for this 2½ inch hose at a fire the longer it will last and the less it will cost the city to buy new hose to replace it when worn out. This is a considerable item in the course of a year.

Again, in equipping No. 3 Hose Company with this apparatus it will not be necessary for the straight chemical engine to leave headquarters in East Second street on any alarm which the combination wagon answers, thus protecting the central and eastern portions of the city better. The straight chemical engine now answers every alarm, and if not needed is immediately sent back to its house. This will therefore save the extra wear and tear on that apparatus by not being used so much.

All fire departments in this vicinity, such as Newark, Orange, East Orange, Rahway, Atlantic City, Camden, and in fact all progressive cities where the buildings are more or less frame, are purchasing nothing, in the shape of a hose wagon, but combination chemical and hose wagons. The city of Newark has nine of them in service and have not bought a straight hose wagon since the first combination wagon was purchased.

The committee has feared for some time that the wheels and running gear of the present hose wagon, which this combination wagon is to replace, would give out in a time when most needed and that a serious accident might be caused by such breaking down.

When the new wagon arrives and is put in commission, the present wagon in that hose will be kept loaded with dry hose for an emergency, and that company will be ready at all times, no matter what should happen, to answer an alarm with 1,000 feet of hose and a reserve supply already loaded of 1,000 feet additional.

Anna Lee, Elsie Debele, Lulu Trewin, Mildred Premer, Jennie Thompson, Hattie Nitschwitz, Ethel Vail, Rosmon Rogers, Gertrude Schleif, Helen Roberts, Bessie Randall, Edna Oliver, Harold Schenck, Earl Huff, Harold Storr, Russell Abbott, Clifford Cole, Edna Cole, Helen Smith, Elizabeth Metler, Marion Norris, George Cole, Rowland Reighton, Thomas Lindsay, Howard Debele. As an offertory, Miss Ethel May Derby sang a pleasing solo.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Exercises appropriate to Children's Day were held yesterday morning in the First Presbyterian church in charge of Superintendent E. M. Cave.

After short programme of singing and reading, eighteen pupils from the primary department were presented with diplomas advancing them to the main school. Pastor U. E. Herring afterward made an address and a letter referring to the day was read from Dr. Warden, superintendent of the Sunday-school department of the Presbyterian Board of Missions. At the close of the Sunday-school session, the pupils marched in a body to the church and were seated in front of the congregation.

AT CONGREGATIONAL.

A very attractive Children's Day service was held at the Congregational church, at the usual hour of morning service. The floral decorations were elaborate and tasteful, and consisted chiefly of roses, daisies and wild grasses. The musical programme included a quartette by the choir, a bass solo by F. S. Cutter, and a viola solo by Fullerton Waldo. There was also a pretty little motion song, sung by the children of the Sunday-school primary department. The order of exercises was much the same as that of the usual Sunday morning service, but the main part of the church auditorium was reserved for the members of the Sunday-school, who were seated by classes, with the primary children in the extreme front. The sermon was especially to the boys and girls; the subject was "Frogs."

AT WILSON MEMORIAL.

The Children's Day exercises at the Wilson Memorial chapel yesterday afternoon attracted a large number of poeple. There were recitations by Carrie Demler, Theresa Schmidt, Lilly Ralph, an exercise by the primary department, singing by seven girls of the junior grade, an illustraated talk by Rev. C. E. Herring, and distribution of potted plants to the primary and junior departments. The offering was for the Plainfield Baby Camp. In the evening Rev. George B. Shaw preached a special sermon.

Next Door Neighbors Aired Their Troubles in City Court.

James Street, of Pond place, was placed on trial in the city court, this morning, on a charge of using profane and indecent language preferred against him by Mrs. Patrick O'Flaherty, his next door neighbor. From the evidence brought out it was discerned both were to blame and they were so informed by the court. The complaint was dismissed with a few words of advice in regard to controlling tempers.

Boys' Camp Committees.

The boys whose applications have been accepted for the Y. M. C. A. camp, met Friday evening. The following committees of the boys were appointed: Entertainment committee, Carl Steiner, Robert S. Hamilton, E. J. Perrin, Jr.; camp yell committee, George M. Rittenhouse, Jr., Leo E. Kenney, Jerry L. Manning; committee of camp psalm, William L. Heath, Arthur VanArsdale and Fred Emmons.

WRIGHT GETS ONE YEAR

FRIDAY WAS A BUSY DAY AT SOMERSET COUNTY COURTS.

Wm. Fuer Finally Obtained License at Bound Brook—Other Legal Business.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 9—Judge Schenck had a busy day in the Somerset courts Friday. Thomas Wright, of Millstone, who was indicted by the Grand Jury, of September, 1900, and made his escape, was sentenced to one year in State prison. Assault and battery and resisting an officer were the charges.

The saloon license of Wm. Fuer, of Bound Brook, which has been hanging fire since the April term began, was granted.

An application of Frank Kalbeck for a transfer of his saloon from Gateville to Main street, Bound Brook, was laid over for two weeks. John A. Frech is his counsel.

In the Orphans' Court exceptions were filed to the accounts of Emanuel Eckel, of Westfield, executor of the estate of the late Jacob Finger, of Warrenville. The exceptant is W. Howard Toms, of Warren township, and Horace Codington is his counsel. The matter was postponed for two weeks, when a hearing will be given.

HUNTING FOR PLACE FOR PUBLIC FOUNTAIN

Councilmanic Street Committee Looking for Place Where There will be No Kicking.

MANY COMPLAINTS NOW

BUSINESS MEN OBJECT TO ITS PRESENT LOCATION ON NORTH AVENUE.

Several Sites Under Consideration, But None Have Been Adopted—Was the Gift of Loyal Temperance Legion and W. C. T. U.

The question of changing the location of the public drinking fountain on North avenue from its present position is agitating the minds of the Councilmanic street committee which has the matter in charge. The business merchants on North avenue in the vicinity of the fountain have declared the fountain in its present location to be a nuisance and it is now up to the committee to find another location, where it will not be a nuisance, but a benefit to man as well as beast.

The members of the street committee have thought that it might be wise to place a smaller fountain where the big one is now located, and place the large one at some point where it will not interfere with anyone and yet be a benefit. One place mentioned as desirable is at the point of the triangle on Watchung avenue. It has been thought that at that point the fountain would be a great benefit as many horses travel along that thoroughfare constantly.

It is settled in the minds of the committee that there is no vantage point on North avenue for the fountain, that is there is no place along that street where the fountain would not be a detriment one way or the other.

When the Loyal Temperance Legion, with the assistance of the W. C. T. U., raised the funds and purchased the fountain, G. W. Rockfellow, who was then mayor, and several other city officials, designed the spot for its erection. This was done at the request of the temperance societies so that the responsibility in the matter would rest with the city. For this reason the city officials are naturally the ones to transfer it to some suitable location.

YOUNG WOMAN INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE UPSET

Gasolene Machine, Driven by Frank H. Merrell, of This City, in Accident Sunday.

WHILE AT SPRINGFIELD:

MISS JENNIE MEEKER, WHO HAD BEEN VISITING HERE, WAS BADLY HURT.

Was a Relative of the Plainfielder, and He and His Wife and Daughter Were Taking Her Home to Orange—How it Happened.

An accident to an automobile, which resulted in severe injuries to one woman, occurred late Sunday afternoon on Morris avenue, Springfield. A gasoline moto-machine, owned by Frank H. Merrell, of 901 West Front street, in which, besides the owner, were his wife, a seven-year-old daughter and Miss Jennie Meeker, of Orange, collided with a horse owned by James Stiles, of Springfield, and upset against the curb on the north side of the street. Miss Meeker was pinned down by the upturned auto and received a severe concussion of the chest and internal injuries. Merrell was cut slightly on the right hand, while the others were unhurt.

Miss Meeker was carried in an unconscious condition into the residence of Dr. J. A. Stites, just across the street from where the upset took place. The doctor administered restoratives, but it was half an hour before she was removed to her home. The physician said complications might develop.

Miss Meeker is a relative of the Merrells, and had been visiting them at Plainfield. Sunday afternoon it was suggested that Mr. Merrell convey her to Orange in the automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Merrell occupied the front seat, while Miss Meeker and the little girl were in back. The party reached Springfield about 2 o'clock, and as they rounded Westfield avenue into Morris avenue, they noticed a truck filled with Sunday pleasure seekers a short distance in front of them, occupying the centre of the road, and traveling in the same direction. Merrell rang his bell, but the truck driver refused to turn out, compelling the Plainfield automobilist to swing close to one side to go around.

Different accounts are told of what followed. Stiles was returning home with his horse, which had got out from a pasture lot on Westfield avenue. There was neither halter nor bridle on the animal to control it, and the owner was on its back. Stites says that when he saw the Merrell party approaching he alighted from the horse's back grasped it by the forelock and attempted to guide it to the side of the road, at the same time shouting to the automobilist to stop. Stiles says that Merrell disregarded his warning. Seeing that a collision was imminent, he released the horse and jumped to save himself.

The front wheel of the "auto" struck the horse in the hind quarters. The force swung the gearing half way round, and the machine overturned.

Merrell asserts that he had brought his machine to a standstill, and that the horse kicked at the machine, upsetting it; while J. R. Philhower, of Springfield, who was a witness of the affair, asserts that the driver of the truck struck Stiles's horse with a whip, and that the animal jumped directly in front of the machine.

Miss Meeker was doubled up with her face against the flagstone walk. The wheels of the overturned vehicle were twisted somewhat, and the machine had been completely turned around. The horse was cut about the legs and was caught in a nearby lot. Later Merrell and his daughter returned to Plainfield with the "auto," while his wife accompanied Miss Meeker to her home. Mr. Merrell is a mechanical engineer employed at Bound Brook.

Dinner at Golf Club.

An informal dinner was given at the Park Golf Club house last evening in honor of Miss Anna H. Prescott, who is soon to leave Plainfield. The affair was given by Wallace M. Brown and Charles B. Morse. Covers were laid for nine.

Wind Demolished Awning.

The boisterous zephyrs which frisked about the streets, Sunday afternoon, temporarily terminated the usefulness of the large front awning at the Park Golf Clubhouse. The telephone was also put out of business for a day.

—Neuman Brothers have delicious peaches, cherries, huckleberries and blackberries, received fresh daily.

FOR THE FARMERS.

Somerset County Board of Agriculture Meets on Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 10—The regular quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture will be held in the Court House here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Hon. Edward E. Cooper, of Warren, will preside. Alva T. Jordan, of the State Experiment Stations, will deliver an address on "Horticulture at the College Farm." B. C. Mitchell, of Brandaenon, Pa., will have for his theme, "Manures and Their Proper Application." After his address he will give an exhibition in the rear of the Court House.

BATHING HOUSES TO OPEN

ASBURY PARK WILL HAVE BATHING AFTER JUNE 15.

Personnel of Beach Staff This Season—The Baby Parade to be Held August 13.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, June 10—Mayor Bradley has said that, the weather permitting, he would open the Asbury avenue group of bathing houses on June 15. The Fourth avenue group will be ready for business a week later.

There will be little change in the beach personel this season. William Wells has been appointed superintendent of the boardwalk and bath houses, in place of P. J. Snedeker, who retired last fall on account of ill health. Practically the same bathing masters will man the ropes as last year. They are veterans in the service, all of them, and are known to every Asbury Park summer visitor.

Dr. Marren will again be in charge of the emergency hospital, which has been fitted up with additional facilities for the recovery of human derelicts taken from the ocean. The doctor will have two assistants in the main hospital at Asbury avenue. A sub-hospital will also be established midway between Asbury and Eighth avenues.

Arrangements for the baby parade are being perfected. The new commission was appointed by council this week, and organized later by the selection of Harold B. Ayres as chairman. The parade will probably be held on August 13, although the date is subject to change.

TORN BY PICKET.

But Ten-Year-Old Russell Miller Remained to Play After He Had Been Seriously Injured.

Russell Miller, the ten-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, of Orchard place, sustained a very painful injury yesterday afternoon while playing baseball in the field near Sycamore avenue.

One of the boys had batted the ball over the high picket fence which encloses Woodhull & Martin's property, which is close by, and young Miller started after the ball. He was climbing over the fence, when he slipped and the sharp point of a picket caught him in the upper part of right leg, just below the groin.

The flesh was considerably torn and the wound bled profusely. The boy was plucky, however, and instead of going right home he remained and continued the game, making two runs before he quit. He then went home, where proper treatment was given. The injury has made the leg very sore and it will probably be several days before the lad recovers from its effects.

Lyman R. Allen Married.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Lyman R. Allen, formerly science instructor at the City High School, which occurred at Nashua, N. H., recently, to Miss Catharine Wiley Parker, of that place. Mr. Allen left this city several years ago and is pleasantly remembered by many former High School students. Mr. Allen will be located at North Adams, Mass., next September, where he is to teach at the High School.

Free From Debt.

At a meeting of the General Synod of the Asbury Park Reformed church, held yesterday, the Board of Foreign Missions reported that the board was entirely free from debt for the first time in twenty years. This was due to the benefaction of an unknown donor, who was thanked by the board.

DEMOCRATIC VIEW OF FOWLER'S NEW FIELD

Correspondent Bacon, of The Record, Says That He is Going to Have His Troubles.

UNION COUNTY DIVIDED

SAYS DEMOCRATS HAVE EXCELLENT CHANCE TO CARRY DISTRICT.

Veteran Writer for the Democratic Daily at Philadelphia Paints the Congressman's Chances as Very Slim Ones.

While to the ordinary eye, there is no sign of any opposition to Congressman Fowler in the Republican ranks of the new Fifth district, there is no telling what is going on behind the scenes. Prominent Republicans of this city and the Republican papers of Union county have all agreed that there will be no fight over the nomination. The Democratic view, however, is a different one.

Those who are interested to keep in touch with both sides may find interesting reading in the predictions of Charles R. Bacon, the veteran Trenton correspondent of the Philadelhia Record, one of the very few newspaper men at the State capital who writes over his own signature. He is a Democrat and naturally fails to see anything harmonious in the Republican circles. Of Congressman Fowler's chances in the new Fifth Congressional district, he says:

"The first move toward the coming Congressional campaign will be the Republican convention for the new Fifth district, which will be held in Belvidere, on June 21. As this this is said to be the earliest date on which a convention has ever been held in that section of the State, it is surmised that the friends of Congressman Fowler, who expects to win the nomination, are afraid to allow the date to go any farther along. It is said that the Congressman has nearly as much trouble ahead as Congressman Loudenslager, and he has served the same number of years.

"There is said to be a decided opposition to Fowler in his own county of Union. That is not surprising, in view of the bitter factional fights which have been going on for several years between the wing of Republicans led by Fowler and former Governor Voorhees and the wing of which United States Senator Kean is acknowledged to be the head. It is declared that if Fowler cannot get a large part of the delegates from Warren and Morris counties, which form the rest of the district, he cannot hope to win in the convention, because of the strong probability that his own county will be divided against him, and that he will stand a poor chance of securing the majority of the delegates.

"The Republicans of Morris and Warren are very much put out over the way the convention delegates have been apportioned. Under the rule Union county will be in control of the convention for at least ten years, or until a new Congressional apportionment shall have been made. Neither of the two smaller counties can thus hope to get a candidate.

"The Democrats are not worrying over this situation, however, and there need be no surprise if the Fifth elected a Democrat to Congress this fall. Indeed, the coming election of DeWitt C. Flanagan for the unexpired term of the late Congressman Salmon in the old Fourth would seem to be the entering wedge for such a consummation. He will represent the old Fourth for a few months and then come up for the nomination at the hands of the Democrats in the Fifth. As Warren is good for from 1,300 to 1,500 Democratic plurality and as Morris is rather inclined to be doubtful and Union is so faction torn the calculation would seem to be not as far askew. In the last Gubernatorial election the three counties gave only 1,500 Republican majority, and the Democrats declare they are in better shape now than they were then."

Debate on Trusts.

Just previous to dismissal yesterday a debate was held in Plainfield High School on the much-mooted question as to whether or not trusts should be prohibited. E. D. Murphy and N. C. Hill upheld the affirmative; A. F. Conant and Harold Brown supported the negative. The judges were L. W. Bridgman, H. Cubberley and H. A. Nomer. A decision was given favoring the partial restriction of trusts.

FRESH AIR CAMP AT NETHERWOOD

Prominent Plainfielders Agree to Assist in Its Support as Well as That of the Babies.

A CONFERENCE HELD.

Miss Sara Curry Will be in Charge—She Has Not Been Invited to Return to Westfield Camp This Season—Will Not Conflict With the Camp on Mountain—The Plans.

J. Wesley Johnson, Chas. J. Fisk and Lucius H. Biglow, Jr., called a conference for last evening at the Casino when matters pertaining to the question of maintaining Miss Sara Curry and her little ones from New York at Netherwood this summer, was discussed. In addition to the names of those mentioned there were present at the conference Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. David M. Runyon, Miss Sara Curry and George A. Chapman and D. M. Torrey.

Mr. Biglow took the initiative, he being asked to do so by Mr. Torrey in behalf of the work. He made a short statement regarding the proposed work at Netherwood, and said that Mrs. Rolston, of New York, had pledged the rent for the house for a year, and Alexander C. Morgan, of New York, has given a check for $100 for the work. Other amounts had also been contributed by New York people.

Mrs. Fisk at once raised the question about this work interfering with the work of the City Union of King's Daughters in maintaining the baby camp on the mountain. She said that the home work should not suffer at the expense of the fresh air work. Mrs. Mead also expressed the same opinion and she felt it to be the duty of the Plainfield people to stand by home charity first, yet her heart was in the work of Miss Curry. These remarks lead to an explanation regarding the withdrawal of Miss Curry from the Westfield Fresh Air Camp.

Mr. Torrey expalined this by stating that Miss Curry was not invited to return to the Westfield camp this year for some reason unknown to her or himself. However, it is proposed to continue the camp at Westfield. In view of the fact that Miss Curry was not invited to return, she felt it quite necessary to have some place where she could bring the little ones from the tenement districts of New York. The Netherwood house was brought to her attention and it was considered an ideal place for this work. Miss Curry said that she still loved the Westfield camp and that work and she would do nothing to interfere with that work.

Mr. Fisk stated that the house at Netherwood is being put in readiness for the reception of the children from New York and the workers. Bath tubs and other necessary fixtures have been put in the house. Regarding the furniture for the house, such as cribs for the children, beds, bedding, etc., Mr. Fisk ascertained that these can be purchased quite reasonably. The question of food and necessary supplies was discussed. It was estimated that the total expense for the year would be about $1,000, and of this amount there is nearly $600 in sight. There seemed to be no question that the necessary balance could be secured quite easily and without interfering with the camp work in Plainfield.

Mrs. Mead stated that with several hundred dollars more the work of the baby camp on the mountain could be carried on successfully this year. The salary of the King's Daughters nurse is $12 a week and this comes from all of the King's Daughters Circles. The other expenses each day for the two months the camp is maintained amount to about $3 a day, including that of taking the sick babies and their mothers to the camp and providing the necessities for them. This year it is proposed to enlarge the camp and make possible to keep the babies at the camp over night if necessary instead of bringing them home every day.

Mr. Chapman agreed with Mrs. Mead about the Plainfield camp receiving the first support. He thought the people of this city are burdened to death with charities and he believed that New York should largely look after the fresh air work to be established at Netherwood. He expressed his approval of Miss Curry's work and said he would do what he could for LENGTHY TRIP FOR UNION COUNTY G. O. P.

How to Get to Scene of Next Fifth Congressional District Convention June 21.

MEETS AT BELVIDERE.

ELIZABETH JOURNAL GIVES AVAILABLE ROUTES AND COST OF TRIP.

About Time to Begin to Plan—Union County, if Delegation is Complete, Will Have Two More Votes Than the Others Combined.

It is going to be quite a pilgrimage for the Republicans of Union county to get to Belvidere where the Fifth Congressional district convention will be held June 21. As the time of meeting is less than two weeks off, it is already time to begin looking up the route to the county seat of Warren.

The Elizabeth Journal publishes some interesting facts concerning the convention and how to get there which will undoubtedly be of interest to Plainfield Republicans, particularly those who are chosen to attend the convention.

The Journal of Saturday says:

"The Republican convention of the new Fifth congressional district will be held at Belvidere, in Warren county, on Saturday, June 21, two weeks from today. Belvidere is a considerable distance from some parts of Union county, and it is time to begin to plan to get there. Union county should send a complete delegation, on that day, for Union county holds the balance over the two other counties, having 126 delegates to 124 in Morris and Warren combined.

"The route to Belvidere will be—for most of the Union county delegates—from the city of Elizabeth to Phillipsburg on the Central Railroad, and thence by branch to Belvidere. It is a trip clean across the State, for the city of Elizabeth is washed by the Staten Island Sound, and Belvidere is on the Delaware river. Some delegates—those at Summit and New Providence, for example—may go by the D. L. and W. road, but by either way it is a nice long trip and will require some preparations in advance.

"Union county should make a strong showing, at the first meeting with the other counties in the new Congressional district, and doubtless arrangements will be made in good season. Going to and coming from the convention will take the whole day. There is some talk of a special train for the Union county delegates, but as yet no such arrangement has been made.

"The regular Central Railroad train which leaves here at 9:30 a. m. reaches Phillipsburg at 11:10. A train on the Belvidere and Delaware branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad leaves Phillipsburg at 11:26, arriving at Belvidere at 11:50, just in time for the convention which is called to meet at noon. Another, but much longer way of going is to take a train to Trenton on the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Belvidere and Delaware branch to Belvidere. The round-trip by this latter route costs $5.49. The fare to Phillipsburg and return on the Central Railroad is $2.80."

TOBACCO SCATTERED.

Unusual Accident Nearly Caused a Horse to Run Away.

While one of Patterson Brothers' delivery wagons was standing in front of the store on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, the front axle suddenly snapped and allowed the forward part to drop on the horse's heels. The animal plunged and attempted to bolt but was tied securely and was seized before it could do any damage. The major part of the load of tobacco was strewn about the gutter.

Somerville H. S. Alumni Elects.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 10—Saturday the Graduates' Association of the Somerville High School held their annual meeting. The following officers were elected: President, Moses Weill; vice president, Miss Evelyn Lindquist; secretary, Miss Minnie Brokaw; treasurer, A. C. Nevius. Arrangements were made to hold the annual reunion in Germania Hall, June 27.

Work Resumed on Bridge.

The differences between the American Bridge Company and its workers have been settled and the work on the Middlebrook bridge is now being rapidly pushed toward completion. This bridge is a new one being built near Bound Brook.

MORE BUILDING.

New House to Go Up on West Fourth Street, Near Spooner Avenue.

J. A. McNally, on behalf of Mrs. C. Lynch, Elizabeth strete, has filed plans with Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a dwelling, two story and attic, 22 feet front by 34 feet deep, on West Fourth street, near Spooner avenue. F. L. Lancaster is the architect and Theodore Grey will do the masonry.

A permit has been granted to T. H. Clark, on behalf of Wm. E. Bartlett, for the erection of a one story extension to the former's barn on his property at the corner of Church and East Second streets. D. Arthur will do the carpenter work.

PREPARING FOR COUNTY FAIR

SOME OF THE ATTRACTIONS HAVE ALREADY BEEN ARRANGED.

Big Time Which Hope Y. M. A. Will Hold on the Fourth of July—The Attractions.

The Y. M. A., of Hope chapel, held a special meeting last evening, for the purpose of hearing reports from the various committees having in charge the preliminaries for the Independence Day "County Fair."

Every member has been working vigorously to make the affair a success and matters are now progressing most favorably. From the reports furnished amusement will be furnished for the entire day. As now arranged some of the features will be two baseball games, between the Hopes and Decatur A. C., of Brooklyn, a battalion drill and sham battle by Company K and an opposing military organization, athletic contests, concerts by a brass band, a vaudeville show and many others of the "fakir" variety.

Accommodations will be made so that visitors can stay the entire day and hear the high class concert which is to take place in the evening.

SURROGATE'S WILL.

Admitted to Probate by Judge Schenck—Leaves Estate to the Widow and Children.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 10.—The will of the late Surrogate Henry Newton Spencer, of North Plainfield, was admitted to probate last week by Judge Schenck in the Orphans' Court here.

A. Gibby Spencer, the son who has succeeded his father as surrogate, could not probate the will or grant letters testamentary because he is one of the executors. The widow, Mary J. Spencer, and the other two children, Harry L. Spencer and Mrs. Frances I. Force, of Plainfield.

The widow is well provided for and the balance of the estate goes to the children equally.

TWO MORE PHYSICIANS.

Two City High School Graduates Are to Receive Their Degree.

Two more Plainfield High School students enter the ranks of the medical profession this year. William B. VanAlstyne, a graduate of the High School, will receive his degree of M. D. from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York, tomorrow. After a few weeks of chemical work in New York, he will enter upon his duties in St. Joseph's Hospital, Yonkers, where he has been appointed house physician and surgeon. Stephen Rushmore, son of Dr. Edward Rushmore, receives his degree of M. D. today from the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. Dr. Rushmore has not yet fully decided as to his future course, but he will no doubt remain in Plainfield during the vacation season.

Missionary Service.

A missionary service will be held in the upper room of the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, when Rev. C. A. Janvier, a returned missionary from India, will be present and tell of his work. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church.

One of the Features.

An exhilarating ride in an automobile is one of the features promised by the committee in charge of the Park Avenue Baptist lawn fete to be held Saturday afternoon. For a nominal sum, the attendant can enjoy a long ride in this machine of the day. Other features are in preparation to take place on the grounds.

Graduated at Swarthmore.

Miss Edith H. Cooley, daughter of Dr. J. H. Cooley, of Westervelt avenue, graduated this morning at 11 o'clock from Swarthmore College. Miss Eleanor Cooley, her sister, went to attend the graduation.

SUPREME COURT SET ASIDE THE SENTENCE

Decision Given in Case of the Colored Boy, Edw. Marcellus, Jr.—Sentence Not Valid.

COSTS NOT INCLUDED.

THE COURT DISCOVERED POINT OF ILLEGAL IMPRISONMENT.

It Was Taken Into Consideration, Although Not Brought Out in Argument—Decision Made on That Point—Admitted to Court.

The case of the colored boy, Edward Marcellus, Jr., against the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield was decided by the Supreme Court yesterday. The sentence of the City Judge was held to be for a longer term than the Charter authorizes and for that reason, the sentence is set aside, but without costs.

After the boy was sentenced and the case was taken to the Supreme Court, the Corporation Counsel's opinion was asked as to the validity of the judgment. He advised that the limit of imprisonment in case of a fine with imprisonment as an alternative, was twenty days, but as the other side had made no such point in applying for the certiorari and the case was regarded as an attack on one of the policemen of the city, it was decided that the city ought to contest the case.

After the argument in the Supreme Court, the court discovered the point of the illegal term of imprisonment and inquired of the Corporation Counsel whether there was any authority for such a term of imprisonment when defendant had the option of paying a fine. The Corporation Counsel frankly admitted that there was no authority, but urged that as the opposing counsel had not raised the question, the point was not up for decision. The court, however, has given Mercellus the same benefit of the objection as if it had been raised on his behalf but, because of the failure to raise it, has not allowed him any costs.

The claim made that the City Judge could grant a new trial finds no support in the opinion of the court, neither does the court pass on the weight of evidence. The conviction is set aside on the sole ground that the penalty imposed was illegal. Allusion is made to the fact that the boy was only fourteen years of age and was arrested without warrant and tried in the absence of counsel for either side and it was these considerations that led the court to give him the benefit of the point on which the case was actually decided.

Counsel for Marcellus were Hetfield & Hetfield.

DROVE INTO POLE.

Runaway Horse Deposited Passengers and Driver in the Gutter, But Without Injury to Them.

A lively runaway was witnessed on Richmond street Sunday morning about 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Charles Sternhein and her niece, were on their way from Fanwood to Plainfield in a depot wagon to take a train from the Plainfield station. The coachman was driving.

When near the Richmond street railroad bridge the horse became frightened at a trolley car and ran with much speed toward Putnam avenue. When between Putnam and La Grande avenues, the coachman ran the horse into a telephone pole and brought him to a sudden halt. The wagon was completely wrecked and the occupants dumped out. They were not injured, neither was the horse.

THREW OUT CASE.

Neighborhood Conflict Did Not Please City Judge Runyon.

Mrs. Sophie Lyons and Miss Betsy Brown, the latter colored, aired a neighborly quarrel in the city court, this morning, at the former's instigation. City Judge Runyon listened to a volley of expletives which were said to have been used on West Third street, by the two contestants, Saturday night, and then gave both a scoring. He dismissed the case with the observation that it was another instance of "the two to blame" quarrel with the advantage going to the one that swore out the complaint.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Perth Amboy people, who have been denouncing the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders, will now have to take back all their harsh words, for the board has decided to build a bridge over the Raritan river between the Amboys, and the plans already adopted will be submitted at once to the War Department for approval. The construction of this bridge will be an act of justice to a considerable proportion of the people of the county, who have heretofore been denied their righteous demands. In the Amboy histories, the present freeholders will go down to posterity as the bridge-builders.—Newark Call.

The Democratic party in Union county is beginning to look about with a view to naming candidates for the county ticket. Of course their congressional candidate will be Mr. Flannagan, of Morris county, and they will therefore try to have a ticket that will suit the Congressman from the old district. It is hinted that John L. Crowell has been out of office for a considerable time, and that he would like the nomination for surrogate or sheriff, preferably the former. As to who will be named for senator there is as yet no telling, but Mr. Sulzer would like to make a try for that dignified office, even though Mr. Martine has prior claims up the nomination. Mr. Sulzer may be content to try for the Assembly again, or it may be that he will be nominated for sheriff unless Plainfield thinks to weaken Mr. McCardell's chances on the Republican ticket, by naming a man from that city.—Elizabeth Journal.

The presentment made by the Union County Grand Jury against the reckless driving of automobiles on the public highways, which has resulted in "the frequent infringment of the rights of the people," is in the nature of a warning to the persons responsible for these conditions that it is the intention of the Grand Jury "to protect and preserve the highways of the county for the safe use and enjoyment of the general public." This is a move in the right direction, and the Grand Jury should have the hearty co-operation in abating the evil of all the police officials of the county. The many abuses which have grown up since the introduction of automobiles are recounted in the presentment, and are so stated as to make the necessity for reform self evident.

Owing to the lack of a State law regulating the use of automobiles, the municipalities are taking up the matter vigorously, but there is no reason why they should not have the assistance of the police authorities of the counties have it in their power to proceed against automobiles. There are enough laws on the statute books to make it most uncomfortable for the reckless drivers of these machines. "The Grand Jury feels that the highways are maintained for the use and enjoyment of the general public and not for the convenience and pleasure of a few, and that anything which renders them less commodious to the public and causes them to be dangerous is an obstruction of the highways." The authorities of the other counties of the State would do well to copy the action taken in Union.—Newark News.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Sunday was the one hundred and twenty-second anniversary of the battle of Elizabethtown, the centennial of which was celebrated at Elizabeth with great display on June 8, 1880.

On June 8, 1780, Gen. Knyphausen, in charge of the British forces, made an attempt to drive the Continental army out of New Jersey. With a force of 5,000 men he landed at Elizabetntown Point.

When Colonel Dayton of the Jersey Brigade learned that the British were at the Point he stationed a guard of twelve men at Union Square. This handful of patriots were ordered to arrest the advances of the foe as long as practicable and then retire. As the enemy came marching forward Gen. Stirling, at the head of the first division, and the guards, at the fork of the road, allowed them to approach within musket shot, then fired and fled to town. One of the balls unhorsed Stirling and fractured his thigh. Knyphausen moved on. Continentals retreated, harassing the British. At Springfield the enemy was attacked and repulsed, and at night returned to Staten Island. During the retreat Mrs. Caldwell, the wife of Rev. James Caldwell, who was pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at Elizabeth, was killed by a cowardly British ruffian in her house at Connecticut Farms.

THEATRICAL.

Manager Proctor will keep his theatres in the field for summer patronage, presenting the Proctor Stock Company as the main feature of the entertainments. The best comedies will be presented with carefully selected casts, staged with special scenic effects and costumed in an elaborate manner. The favorites will all be retained. Adelaide Kelm, Beatrice Morgan, Florence Leslie, Adelina Roattino, Bessie Barriscale, Mrs. Ada Levick, Bessie Lea Lestina, Sol Aiken, Chas. M. Seay, Frederic Truesdell, Wallace Erskine and many other popular members of the big organization will be seen at the Fifth Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres, in New York.

Summer vaudeville at summer prices prevail at Proctor's, Newark, and at the Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York. The Proctor Stock Company will have possession of the Proctor theatres in Albany and Montreal, presenting the latest metropolitan successes. Vaudeville will be introduced between the acts at all of the Proctor theatres where the stock company is presented. The entertainments will at all times conform to Manager Proctor's ideas of refinement in tone and correctness in presentation. Special arrangements have been made to attract and please the women and children, and the summer bids fair to be a lively period at the Proctor theatres. The comfort of patrons will be considered and the theatres will be cooled by artificial means. fans will be provided for all seat-holders and cooling drinks of ice water will be plentifully distributed. Proctor's theatres are invariably cooler than the temperature of the street.

AMNESTY BILL SIGNED.

All Americans In Cuban Jails to Be Set Free.

HAVANA, June 10.—President Palma has signed the bill granting amnesty to all Americans under sentence or awaiting trial in Cuba, and proceedings have been began by the courts to quash the complaints against such Americans and liberate those who are in jail.

Senor Acosta, the cashier in the custom house, who is under suspension pending an investigation of his accounts, is now reported to be insane.

President Palma has offered General Maximo Gomez the position of general in chief of the Cuban rural guard, and it is said that General Gomez is inclined to accept this post.

West Point Centennial Begun.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 10.—The centennial anniversary exercises of the establishment of the United States Military academy began yesterday and will continue until Thursday, when the present first class of cadets, fifty-four members, will be graduated. The committee of officers to receive the visiting graduates is kept busy. The first and second classes of cadets demonstrated to the board of visitors the manner of pontoon and spar bridge building.

Would Remove Presidents' Remains.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Representative Thompson of Alabama has introduced a bill appropriating $100,000 for the removal of all the deceased presidents of the United States except George Washington to the National cemetery at Arlington. The president and the governors of the states are designated as a commission to make all the necessary arrangements for the removal.

Queen's Physicians Decorated.

THE HAGUE, June 10.—The physicians who attended Queen Wilhelmina during her recent illness have been decorated. Professor Roosenstein, the pathologist of Leyden university, has been promoted to the rank of commander of the Order of the Lion of the Netherlands, and Drs. Konwer, Roessingh and Pot have been appointed knights of the same order.

Tongue's Gift to Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Representative Tongue, at the request of constituents of Albany, Ore., and elsewhere, has presented the president three mounted specimens of the Mongolian pheasant, which is found in large numbers in Oregon. He coupled the presentation with an invitation to the president to visit Oregon and hunt this bird.

Haggling For German Ore.

BERLIN, June 10.—The United States Steel corporation is negotiating for 20,000 tons of spiegeleisen at Siegen. A recent sale of 6,000 tons of spiegeleisen having resulted in heavy loss to the sellers, the latter are now trying for better terms, and the negotiations to this end are delaying the sale to the steel corporation.

Weather Probabilities.

Showers and cooler; fresh south winds.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The centennial exercises at West Point Military academy were begun by a reception to visiting alumni.

Three American scientists made another ascent of La Soufriere, St. Vincent, but fog impeded the view.

The pope formally bestowed red hats on three cardinals, including Mgr. Martinelli, and appointed two American bishops.

In the second game for the polo championship at Hurlingham the English team defeated the Americans, 6 goals to 1.

LEADER UNDER FIRE

President Mitchell Summoned to New York.

MEETS LABOR COMMISSIONER WRIGHT

A Night Conference at Request of President Roosevelt, Who Desires Facts Relative to the Great Mining Dispute.

NEW YORK, June 10.—To state the miners' side of the strike situation President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America last night met with Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, who was directed by President Roosevelt to gather all the information possible on the subject. Shortly after Mr. Wright entered his rooms at the Manhattan hotel he was joined by President Mitchell, who went there unaccompanied, having reached the city from Wilkesbarre at 7 o'clock p. m. The conference lasted several hours.

When Mr. Mitchell reached the hotel, he refused to discuss the strike situation, saying he had come to New York at the request of Mr. Wright and that he was prepared to give him such information as he might desire. It was said that Mr. Mitchell's statement would be dictated to a stenographer and that it would be submitted to President Roosevelt just as spoken.

Commissioner Wright, after conferences with several of his men in the afternoon, said that he had summoned Mr. Mitchell for the purpose of getting at the facts. They were to talk over matters, he said, and it will depend on the interview between them whether he will see the operators.

Mr. Wright said he has known Mr. Mitchell for several years and considers him to be an able and upright man. He said: "I must go about this matter diplocatically, because if negotiations looking toward the settlement of the strike are in progress by my investigation I might do more harm than good.

"President Roosevelt," he continued, "is anxious to know the inside facts connected with the strike because the boards of trade in different parts of the country have appealed to him to take some action in regard to the industrial contest now going on. The president therefore decided to get the information by means of this investigation."

Quiet In West Virginia.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 10.—Quiet reigns in all coalfields in the southern portion of the state. No violence has been reported from any quarter. The operators, however, fear trouble before the strike is over, and Winchesters are being received daily by express. Officials of the United Mine Workers are hopeful that the operators will meet them in conference at Bramwell tomorrw. The operators say they will not be present. Guards well armed were on duty last night at almost every mine on the line of the Norfolk and Western. Probably 25,000 miners were idle in West Virginia.

A Rumor Denied.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 10.—Emphatic denial is made by the operators' local representatives of the story that companies will this week pool their available forces and open up a colliery or two. Vice President Loomis, who is at the head of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western coal department, said that the companies would not open a colliery now if they could because the time was not ripe. Others made similar assertions. All agree that there is little use in starting up a colliery until there is a sign of wavering in the ranks of the strikers.

Arkansas Democrats Meet.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 10.—Leading Democrats from all parts of the state are here for the Democratic state convention which meets today. A full state ticket will be nominated in accordance with the vote in the primary elections held on March 29. Congressman T. M. McRae is permanent chairman of the convention. All indications are that the Kansas City platform will be indorsed.

Convicts Kill Their Guards.

SALEM, Ore., June 10.—Two desperate prisoners, Harry Tracy, sentenced to twenty years, and David Merrill, a thirteen year man, serving sentences for assault and robbery committed in Multnomah county, escaped from the penitentiary after killing three guards, Frank Farrell, shop guard; S. R. Jones and Ben Tiffany, fencemen.

Mme. Bernhardt In London.

LONDON, June 10.—Sarah Bernhardt was given an enthusiastic reception upon her reappearance in London at the Garrick theater last night. She appeared in Marcel Schwab's translation of F. Marion Crawford's drama, "Francesca da Rimini," which provided the actress with splendid dramatic moments.

MANY FIRE VICTIMS.

Thirteen Perish In Chicago and Five In Saratoga.

LIST OF INJURED NUMBERS THIRTY

Burning of a Sanitarium In Which Were Scores of Helpless Patients Causes a Pitiful Spectacle In Middle West Metropolis.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Twelve men and one woman were killed and about thirty persons were injured in a fire which late yesterday destroyed the sanitarium conducted by the St. Luke society at the corner of Wabash avenue and Twenty-first street. The society occupied the building which was long known as the Hotel Woodruff and for a brief period as the Hotel Lancaster. By far the greater portion of the patients received in the institution were those seeking cure from the drink habit and those who were addicted to the use of drugs.

When the fire broke out, there was on the fifth floor a number of patients suffering from delirium tremens and some who were deranged by drugs. Several of these were strapped to their beds, and it was found impossible to save them, so rapidly did the fire spread through the building.

The fire originated in the basement of the building and spread rapidly to the upper stories through the elevator shaft. The blaze was discovered by James Newell, a grocer, who was driving through the alley in the rear of the building. He noticed smoke coming from one of the basement windows and ran into the engine room to discover its cause. Behind the boilers in the center of the cellar and within a few feet of the elevator shaft he saw a small flame. The next instant the flames were caught by the draft in the elevator shaft and carried up with a roar.

Newell shouted to several men in the alley to give the alarm and to alarm the inmates of the building. Several hurried to do this, but by the time they reached the first floor of the building the flames had been carried to the roof, had eaten through it, and were leaping high in the air.

As the cry of fire rang through the building patients sprang from their beds, and before they could be prevented several had jumped from the windows to the pavement. The fire department was on the scene within a few minutes, and as the windows were filled with people shrieking for help the firemen devoted their first efforts to save lives and allowed the fire to burn. While this was the means of saving a large number of people, who were carried down the ladders by the firemen, it gave the fire such a headway that there was almost no chance for those on the upper floors of the building to make their escape, and such of them as were not suffocated were killed or badly injured by leaping from the windows.

FIVE PERISHED.

The Disastrous Fire at Saratoga of Incendiary Origin.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 10.—Fire early yesterday destroyed the Arcade and the [illegible] National bank block and the Hackelford building and caused a loss of five lives. The dead are:

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Mabee, suffocated and [illegible] by firemen; Mrs. Sa[illegible] burned to death, body recovered; [illegible] Howland, burned to death, body recovered; David Howland, burned to death, body recovered; [illegible] Farrington, burned to death, [illegible] in the ruins.

[illegible] Engineer Elias J. Shadwick was [illegible] injured while rescuing people from the building, and his condition is critical.

The property loss is estimated at $[illegible], with insurance of $225,000. The Arcade property was to have been sold at partition sale June 12. It is owned by the Shoemaker estate of Cincinnati and Benjamin J. Goldsmith of this place. The exact origin of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

Fatal London Fire.

LONDON, June 10.—The inadequacy of the fire equipment of London has again been demonstrated by the fatalities which attended a comparatively small blaze in the center of the city at a late hour yesterday. The fire occurred in the upper portion of a five story building adjoining the Mansion House station, in the busiest section of London. It was several hours before the casualties were ascertained. It was then found that nine young girls had been burned to death and that fifteen persons had been injured, one probably fatally. The bodies of the dead were all badly burned, and two could not be recognized.

Captain King Pleads Guilty.

MOBILE, Ala., June 10. — Captain Cyril W. King, former quartermaster at Fort Morgan, who was convicted in the United States court in Mobile last year on the charge of accepting a bribe of $3,000 in connection with work done at the forts, was arraigned yesterday on two counts. He entered a plea of guilty as charged in the first count and was sentenced to thirteen months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $3,000. The second count was nolle prossed.

A June Snowstorm.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., June 10.—Word was brought from White Creek, six miles from here, that there was a fall of snow there and on the mountains are also covered. Black frost was seen in exposed places, causing some loss to [illegible] growth. The Green [illegible] and Mount Greylock, in the Hoosick valley, were visited by a [illegible] snow.

PATTON RESIGNS.

Princeton University Treated to a Genuine Surprise.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 10.—The chief event in connection with Princeton's one hundred and fifty-fifth annual commencement, as it was the great surprise, came yesterday in the annual meeting of the board of trustees when President Francis L. Patton resigned the presidency and Professor Woodrow Wilson, McCormick professor of jurisprudence and politics, was elected to succeed him.

There was a full attendance of the trustees, and after the meeting had been called to order President Patton handed in his resignation and also at the same time suggested that Professor Wilson be elected to succeed him. A prominent member of the board of trustees said that President Patton so strongly urged his own resignation that the board could not do otherwise than accept it. He also said that it was one of the most harmonious meetings ever held by the board and that President Patton's suggestion that Woodrow Wilson be nominated to succeed him was acted upon, and the selection was made unanimous on the first ballot. When seen afterward, President Patton made the following statement:

"I have resigned my office as president of the university because I desire to carry on my literary plans on a larger scale than I could do by retaining the presidency. This is really all there is to say. I trust the students will be as loyal to my successor, President Wilson, as they have been to me.

"I shall retain my professorship in the university in the chair of ethics and the philosophy of religion. I have been president of the university for fourteen years."

Dinner With President.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The president had as his guests at dinner last night Senators Allison, Platt of Connecticut, Spooner and Foraker, Secretary Root and General Leonard Wood. After dinner the guests remained until nearly 11 o'clock, and there was a full discussion of the legislative status of various important measures. Messrs. Platt and Spooner are members of the Cuban committee, and the reciprocity plan with Cuba was considered quite thoroughly. When the senators left the White House, they appeared to be in the best of humor, but declined to make any statement bearing on the matters under discussion except the general one that a number of things were talked about. Secretary Root was very noncommunicative. So far as any of those at the dinner would speak, the impression was conveyed that the president's attitude on the Cuban reciprocity plan is about what it has been all along.

Sensation In Plummer Bribery Case.

PORTLAND, Me., June 10.—The climax in the Plummer alleged bribery hearing was reached yesterday afternoon, when in addition to holding Deputy Sheriff Plummer to the grand jury on probable cause Frank D. Ford and Michael J. Callahan, the two principal witnesses for the prosecution, who were in the courtroom as spectators, were placed under arrest on a charge of conspiracy. Callahan submitted peaceably, but Ford insisted upon giving bail upon the spot, and a scrimmage in the crowded courtroom resulted. He was removed to a corridor by several deputies and there bailed. Later William Farrell, another government witness, was arrested on a similar warrant. John J. Feeney, against whom another warrant has been issued, cannot be found.

Judge Finch Honored.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 10.—The celebration of the seventy-fifth birthday of Judge Francis Miles Finch, dean of the Cornell College of Law, was held in Boardman hall yesterday. A new portrait of Judge Finch was presented to the college by the university trustees, S. D. Halliday, chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees, President J. G. Schurman and Professor E. W. Huffcut, secretary of the faculty of the College of Law, paid tribute to the character and life work of Judge Finch. Letters of respect and regret were read from several prominent judges.

Swarthmore Freshmen Suspended.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—For the kidnaping of August Wilbur of New York, a member of the sophomore class of Swarthmore college, near this city, to prevent his attendance at the annual dinner of his class on Saturday night last ten members of the freshman class were suspended by the college faculty. Wilbur was bound hand and foot, carried to the hayloft of a stable in the neighborhood of the college and kept confined until the upper class men had finished their banquet.

Some Postal Receipts.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The May statistics of gross receipts at the fifty largest postoffices of the United States show a net increase of 11 per cent over the receipts for May, 1901. The largest was Columbus, O., 44 per cent. Buffalo showed a decrease of almost 11 per cent as compared with May of last year. New York's receipts show an increase of 15 per cent and Chicago 8 per cent.

One Morgan Story Untrue.

BRINDISI, Italy, June 10.—There is no ground for the report that J. Pierpont Morgan has suffered a breakdown in health. Mr. Morgan appeared to be in excellent health at the railroad station here when he took the train on his way to London.

Minister Hart to Return.

WASHINGTON, June 10. — United States Minister Hart made a farewell call on Secretary Hay. He is returning to his post at Bogota, having satisfactorily met the complaints that had been made against him.

PENNSYLVANIA POLITICS.

Republican Gubernatorial Contest In Doubt—Both Sides Confident.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 10.—With the chances apparently about even between Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker of Philadelphia and Attorney General John P. Elkins of Indiana and the managers of ex-Lieutenant Governor Louis A. Waters of Scranton claiming he holds the balance of power, the result of the contest for the Republican nomination for governor remains very uncertain. United States Senator Quay, who is directing the Pennypacker forces, with the assistance of United States Senator Penrose and Insurance Commissioner Durham, said last night that he was confident the judge will be nominated and that he saw no reason to change his statement that he will have 225 of the 358 delegates in the state convention.

General Elkins said that the result was more positive and that his friends were standing up at every point and would control the convention. "Everything is coming our way," he added. "I have heard from several counties which were supposed to be doubtful, and they are all favorable."

Ex-Senator William M. Brown of Lawrence county is regarded as the most likely nominee for lieutenant governor.

Legal Commission Appointed.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 10.—Governor Odell has named the commission which was authorized by the last legislature to examine into the existing laws and statutes and to recommend such legislation as will do away with delays in judicial proceedings. This commission is to report such bill or bills as in its judgment is deemed necessary to relieve the congested condition of court calendars throughout the state. It is as follows: Alton B. Parker, Kingston; Charles Andrews, Syracuse; Robert Earl, Herkimer; Celora E. Martin, Binghamton; Frank Hiscock, Syracuse; William H. Adams, Canandaigua; Samuel T. Maddox, Brooklyn; John C. Davies, Camden; Abraham Gruber, New York; J. Newton Fiero, Albany; Judson S. Landon, Schenectady; John G. Milburn, Buffalo; Frank H. Platt, New York; William B. Hornblower, New York, and Alonzo Wheeler, Haverstraw.

Colombian Troops Ready to Fight.

COLON, Colombia, June 10.—The government gunboat General Pinzon has landed 500 government troops here from Bocas del Toro, leaving but a few soldiers at that place. The insurgents are now reported to be in the vicinity of Agua Dulce, and the large contingents of troops which left Panama Saturday and Monday by land and sea will attack them without loss of time. This aggressive policy was entered upon after a conference of government generals recently held in Panama. News of decisive fighting between the insurgents and government forces is expected within the next few days.

King Albert's Great Vitality.

BERLIN, June 10.—King Albert of Saxony, who has been ill for some time, was unconscious for a part of Sunday night. His majesty was surrounded by his family, who momentarily expected the end, and he had received the last sacraments. Yesterday morning, however, his majesty sat up and had breakfast, smoked a light cigar and insisted upon disposing of some state business. This exhibition of vitality on the part of the king has quite startled his physicians, who, however, entertain the gravest fears for the next relapse.

A Grant of Land Under Water.

ANTIANARCHIST BILL

House Passes the Measure to Protect the President.

APPLIES TO OTHER PUBLIC OFFICIALS

The Bill Is a Substitute For One Passed by the Senate—Some of Its Provisions—Senate Continues the Canal Debate.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The house yesterday passed the bill to protect the president, vice president, members of the cabinet and foreign ministers and embassadors and to suppress the teaching of anarchy by a vote of 175 to 38. A motion to recommit the measure, with instructions to strike out certain sections, was defeated, 71 to 123. The remainder of the day was devoted to the bill to transfer certain forest reserves from the interior to the agricultural department and to authorize the creation in such reserves of game and fish preserves.

The bill passed by the house for the protection of the president is a substitute for the senate measure, which contained no antianarchy provisions, but which did contain a provision omitted from the substitute for a bodyguard for the president.

The substitute consists of thirteen sections. It provides that any persons who shall unlawfully, purposely and knowingly kill the president or vice president or any officer entitled by law to succeed to the presidency, any foreign embassador or minister accredited to this country "while engaged in the performance of his official duties or because of his official character or because of any of his acts or omissions" shall suffer death. Any person who attempts to commit any of the above offenses shall be imprisoned not less than ten years.

Any person while engaged in an unlawful attempt to inflict grievous bodily harm upon the president or any person entitled to succeed him if he inflicts injuries which cause death shall be imprisoned for life. If such injuries do not cause death, such offender shall be imprisoned not less than five years.

Any person who aids, abets or conspires with another to commit any of the above offenses shall be deemed a principal. Any person who knowingly harbors, conceals or aids with intent that he may avoid arrest or punishment any person who has committed one of the above offenses shall be imprisoned from one to twenty-five years. Any person who advocates the unlawful killing of an officer of the government or of the government of any civilized nation because of his official character or who openly justifies such killing with intent to secure the commission of any of the above offenses shall be fined from $500 to $5,000 and imprisoned from one to twenty years. Any person who conspires or advises any person to assault or kill, within or without the United States, the chief magistrate of a foreign country because of his official character shall be punished as follows: If the attempt is made and death results, such offender shall suffer death. If such attempt does not result in death, the punishment shall be a fine of $500 to $5,000 and imprisonment from five to twenty-five years.

An interesting contribution to the discussion of the isthmian canal project was made in the senate by Mr. Harris (Kan.), a member of the committee on interoceanic canals, who is also an engineer of recognized ability. His discussion of the technical details of canal construction was listened to with profound attention. He strongly advocated the selection of the Nicaragua route.

Deadlock Over Guard Commander.

TRENTON, N. J., June 10.—Another ineffectual effort was made last night to select a commander of the Second brigade of the New Jersey national guard. Seventeen ballots were had by the field officers of the Second and Third regiments, with the result on each ballot of five votes for Colonel Gillmore of Trenton and five votes for Colonel Chambers, also of Trenton. This vote is the same as that cast on each of the 107 ballots cast a week ago. These two elections proving futile, it is the common belief that Governor Murphy, by virtue of an act passed last winter, will appoint a successor to General Cooper, the former brigade commander. It is also the opinion that Governor Murphy will favor Colonel Gillmore, because of the latter's military experience.

Hobart's Remains Removed.

PATERSON, N. J., June 10.—The remains of the late Vice President Garret A. Hobart were yesterday removed from the vault in which they were placed on the day of the funeral to the new tomb of the Hobart family. At the same time the bodies of Miss Jennie Hobart, his daughter, who died in Italy seven years ago, and those of two infant children were placed in the vault. About twenty persons were present. Among them were Mrs. Hobart and her son, Garret A. Hobart.

Aeronaut Falls Into the Sea.

TOULON, France, June 10.—Lieutenant Baudic ascended from here in a balloon belonging to the Naval Aerostatic park. The balloon went to the eastward to sea and was followed by two torpedo boats. The latter signaled that the balloon had fallen into the water and that Lieutenant Baudic had disappeared.

Killed by a Live Wire.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 10.—John Jaliski, aged twelve years, was killed here by coming in contact with an electric wire which was charged with 8,000 volts.

A VALUABLE MAN.

Never before has the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club been in such a flourishing condition as it is today. The limit of the active membership, 275, has been reached and it will now be necessary to amend the constitution before any more active members can be added. Then, too, the course is in better condition than ever before.

For the splendid condition of the fair green today and the new tennis courts, which promise to be the equal of any in the State when fully completed, the most credit is due to Former Councilman E. T. Barrows, who has been the chairman of the greens committee and the committee in charge of the building of the courts. He has devoted much valuable time to the work and his efforts have been singularly successful.

Those who have known Mr. Barrows while he served the city as a member of the Common Council well remember the energy he has always devoted to the work at hand. No matter what he has tried to do, he always puts his whole heart into the work and the result is an assured success. He has been successful in business, as a public official and now at the head of one of the most important committees of one of the most prominent country clubs of the Metropolitan district, he has rendered that organization invaluable service. It is not often that clubs are as fortunate as the Hillside and the members of that club should fully appreciate the fact.

COMMENCEMENT TIME.

While the local High Schools come to the public view occasionally through the year on account of athletic prowess or public entertainment, it is not until the commencement season that the public gets any idea of the real work of the year. At that time, the steady efforts toward a higher scholarship are rewarded. The honors conferred are for standing in the work of the school.

Those prominent in educational work have often complained that the really good work done in the High Schools is not recognized by the public at large and that the High Schools only obtain notoriety through athletics, entertainments or a scandal of some kind. There may be more or less truth in this claim except at commencement time. Then, those who have been laboring at their studies for the past four years, are rewarded and the public knows who are the hard and successful workers.

There was a new turn of affairs in the City Baseball League when the Y. M. C. A. team defeated the Hope Y. M. A. nine. Judging from the games of Decoration Day, one was led to believe that the Hopes had started on a victorious path while the Y. M. C. A.'s appeared to have falled way down. But the unexpected happened. The last team in the league defeated the leaders. Of course, the Y. M. C. A. boys can easily explain their defeats on Memorial Day and the Hope shouters know just why it was that victory did not come their way Saturday. But, after all, baseball is an uncertain quantity and it is that fact, more than anything else, that gives it such universal popularity. A sure thing would excite no general interest, no matter how well it was played.

It is a very worthy charity that the City Union of King's Daughters is planning to support this summer. There is nothing new in the idea of a camp on the mountain where sick babies, whose mothers cannot find time or opportunity to take them to the seashore or mountains, can obtain health and recreation. The camp has been under the supervision of the King's Daughters for several years and has done a grand good work. The only difference is that it is planned to keep the children there for several days instead of bringing them back to town every night. This will require funds and the King's Daughters have made an appeal to the people of Plainfield which is deserving of an answer.

As was predicted in The Daily Press, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards has decided to accept the call of the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York City. It was to be expected. New York is a larger and a broader field than Plainfield and no one can blame Dr. Richards for taking the step that he did. Such an event was bound to come in the natural course of events. The only wonder is that it did not come long before.

All through this section of the State are heard kind words for the new management of the Jersey Central Railroad and the hospitable way in which it entertained the newspaper men of this section. When the present methods are compared with those in vogue a few months ago, one can hardly believe that it is the same railroad.

Any one of those golfiacs, who played Saturday afternoon during the shower, would feel badly used, indeed, if compelled to stand out in a rain like that of Saturday. But playing golf in the rain—that is a different story.

The Daily Press was glad of the opportunity to give Councilman Lee's own reasons, as head of the Councilmanic fire and buildings committee, for the purchase of the new combination chemical engine and hose wagon.

DUNELLEN.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Sorensen, of Greenbrook road, held the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. A large number of friends were present from Perth Amboy and Plainfield. The evening was spent pleasantly with music and dancing. The host and hostess were heartily congratulated and received a number of useful and beautiful presents.

A strawberry and ice cream sociable will be held in the borough park June 19, under the auspices fo the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church. The Dunellen Band will be a leading attraction.

The members of the Friday Afternoon Card Club left this morning by trolley for Midland Beach where they will spend the day.

The graduates of Whittier school are practicing on the essays they will read at commencement Thursday night.

Several interesting sets of tennis were played on the court of the Dunellen Tennis Club last evening.

The Dunellen Juniors will play the strong Park A. C., of Plainfield, on the home grounds tomorrow.

The Dunellen A. C. will play the Cuban Giants, of Plainfield, on the home grounds Saturday.

Charles Harding, of Newark, spent yesterday with J. S. Brown.

Alvah Gray's porch is receiving a coat of paint.

NEW MARKET.

The New Market baseball team will play a team from New Brunswick on the home grounds Saturday afternoon. The lineup will probably be the same as last Saturday.

Children's Day exercises were held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Sabbath evening.

Andrew Harlan, of New York, is stopping a few days with friends in Piscataway.

Friendship Social Circle will hold its regular weekly meeting tomorrow.

Abram Nelson's new house is nearly ready for a coat of paint.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The game on Saturday at Springfield proved that the local ball team is playing better and faster ball this year than they were last season, when the two teams met and each won a game. Saturday the Springfield's were not in the game, with the local team it as a game of play ball all the time. The batting, which has always been considered a weak point with the members of the team, has improved and all are hitting the ball like old League players. Saturday made the eighth straight victory.

Fanwood Council, R. A., holds its semi-monthly meeting in the library rooms tonight. Fanwood is making a bid for new members. Prizes have been offered by the council as an incentive for the members to hustle for new blood. This, together with the reduced rate of initiation, is expected to bring Fanwood's membership up near the 100 mark.

The house committee of the Public Library Association is arranging for a cake and ice cream sale for the benefit of the library, on Friday, June 27, from 4 to 10 o'clock.

Miss Nina Seeber, a former member of the corps of teachers in the public school, but now of New York, has been visiting Miss Sadie Reger.

"Upheld-Sustained" was the subject of an interesting Baptist Young People's Union meeting held in the Baptist church parlors last night.

Harry Messler, who has been visiting relatives and friends in town, has returned to his home at Rahway.

Harry Lyons, of New York, has been visiting at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Billings, of Park avenue.

Curtis Smith, of Seaborad, L. I., has been visiting at the home of friends in town

Hervey Marsh is improving from a short illness of several days.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The highest honor of the graduating classes of the Piscataway township grammar schools has been awarded this year to Miss Fannie Ayres, of the local school, who succeeded in passing the county examinations with the highest average. Miss Ayres is valedictorian of the graduating class. Miss Lillian Gage, also of the local school, has been selected as class prophet.

The road along the lake has been improved by the filling up of a number of holes which were made by the undermining of the water.

Angling in the lake here is a popular pastime. Many large catches are being secured by those who are more skilled in the art.

Floral design work is a specialty with Wm. H. Brower's Sons, the New York florists. Orders may be left in Plainfield at the residence of John L. Brower, of East Fifth street.

If you have not seen those pianos at Kenyon's on West Front street, you do not know what advancement has been made in the art of piano making. They are warranted for durability and the price is reasonable.

Before placing your orders for groceries, stop in at R. W. Barnes', the Park avenue grocer, and have a look at the finest assortment in the city. Now on hand a large stock of vegetables and fruits, and new fresh seeds.

This is the month of weddings and in planning for these important events you will surely want attractive decorations. Mrs. L. J. Denton, of West Front street, can do this work in a way that will both please the eye and the pocketbook.

Have you secured one of those useful premiums which the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company is giving the patrons of the local store at 137 West Front street? They are ornamental as well and are considered to be the best ever given out by this company.

During the summer months one is often perplexed regarding diet. This problem can be solved quite easily if you trade with S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, for they keep a large stock of fresh goods in the grocery and meat departments.

Receiver's sale of the entire stock of the Rockfellow Grocery Company, corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, is now going on and will be continued until all is sold. This is an opportunity to get first-class groceries way below cost. G. M. Macintyre is receiver and U. G. Force salesman.

"Health is wealth" says R. J. Shaw and the populace with one accord agrees with him. Therefore when Dr. Shaw says he has the remedy to bring health and wealth to the ailing individual, his friends should see that he gets it. Shaw's goods are standards in this city where they have been sold for years.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. WESTFIELD'S MEET.

Fair Acres Driving Club Has Arranged a Good Programme for the Fourth of July.

Arrangements for the second grand race meet to be held at the pretty half-mile track of the Fair Acres Driving Club, near Westfield, on the afternoon of July 4, are progressing nicely, and the programme for the afternoon promises to be one of great amusement.

Entry blanks are now being sent out by Secretary Condit, and many horses have already been entered. The National Association rules will govern the races, and all particulars can be obtained of the secretary, who will receive entries until June 20.

The Aeolian brass band will furnish music for the day, and there will be a refreshment stand on the grounds under the care of Arthur S. Flagg. One of the principal features will be Neil Alcyoner, who has a record for going a half mile without harness or driver in 2.08.

The programme of races will include three purse races for $200. Horses will go in the 2.25, 2.30 and 2.40 class. The races will be the best three in five heats. There will be four divisions of money—50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent. of purse. Stages will convey the people to the grounds and track. There will be no baseball game at Westfield in the afternoon on July 4.

Fell Out Window.

Edward Nolan, young son of Andrew Nolan, of East Front street, fell out of the second story window at his home yesterday morning and sustained a number of bruises. The little lad was chasing flies and in attempting to kill one on the window lost his balance and fell to the ground. His injuries are not serious.

Miss Mary Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, of Rockview avenue, has returned from Washington, D. C., where she has been teaching for the past year.

ARE HARD DRINKERS

Many Congressmen Indulge Too Freely in Wet Goods.

Total Abstainers Are Few and Far Between—Interesting Talk with an Old Washington Hotel Clerk.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"THAT man is one of our most valuable guests, although he only pays $40 per month," said a hotel clerk, pointing to one of the older members of the house of representatives, continuing he said:

"The proprietor was very angry with me when I told him the low rate I had made, and insisted that I should change it to $75 per month. I told him that I knew my business as a room clerk better than he did. That man spends upwards of $100 each month at our bar, buying drinks for himself and for his friends.

"He is a strange sort of man, and I knew exactly how to take him when he came asking for rates last November. I had entertained him at another hotel. He is stingy about his room and board, and stingy about his clothing, always having a cheap tailor or buying ready-made clothes but he is a spendthrift when it comes to gratifying his appetite for whisky. Moreover, he wants jolly drinking fellows around him, and he treats the crowds, no matter how big they may be." Then, swelling himself with pride and conceit, the clerk said:

"There are very few hotel clerks who have the sense to think of the bar room and billiard room in making rates for their guests. I'd rather take in a drinking man at a low rate, than a temperance man at a high rate. There is more profit in liquor than in food and hence it's better for the house to have guests of that sort. The boss realizes that now, and he lets me make rates to suit myself for the guests, because I know all of the congressmen, and nearly all other public men, and I know their appetites."

The member of congress who has the distinction of being pointed out as a statesman who spends money enough for whisky every month to support a small family in luxury has been sent to the national house of representatives again and again by his constituents, until he is now regarded as one of the foremost men of his party, and his whisky-soaked brain has had much to do with the legislation of this republic.

The speaker of the house of representatives wields more power, in some respects, than any other man in our republic. And yet the writer has seldom seen that power conferred upon any man whose brain is entirely and absolutely free from alcoholic contamination. The growth of the temperance spirit in our land will continue until public sentiment will make ineligible to high office any man whose thinking machinery is made abnormal by alcohol.

For a little more than a quarter of a century the writer has watched national legislation, and in all of that time there has been but one chairman of the committee on ways and means who was absolutely free from alcoholic influence, and that was Nelson Dingley, of Maine. And yet the chairman of that committee is the man upon whom primarily depends all legislation concerning the raising of revenue for the expenses of our great and growing government. Speaking out of experience, and out of the recollections of those who have been here for half a century, it may be added that Nelson Dingley was the only absolutely non-alcoholic chairman during half of the years of the existence of our government.

Of course it would not be right for the reader to infer that all the other chairmen were drunkards. On the contrary, only one of them was given to excessive use of liquor. But all of the others used liquor to some degree. One of them, a man in whom the people had great confidence and for whom they developed great affection, never took anything stronger than wine, and very little of that. So, while it would not be right for one to infer that they were all drunkards or extremists, it is true that all of them have at times been somewhat influenced by at least a trace of alcohol.

There are causes for all effects. here is a reason for the use of whisky by statesmen, although there is no necessity for it. One of the causes of this condition rests with the people. They send to congress the same men too many times. After four or five years of public service the representatives begin to think that they have life mortgages on their positions. They first become indifferent, and then independent. After awhile they form groups of favored sons. They pat each other on the back, and walk to the bar together. The man from Massachusetts meets the man from California, and they regard each other as special favorites and great men of their sections. Mutual admiration societies are formed. Then they join or establish clubs. Thus they have meeting places for all-night drinking bouts, playing cards for money like professional gamblers, and repeating the performances ad nauseam when all other places are closed by law.

Now that it is time for the people to choose their candidates for congress it might be well for them to inquire concerning the moral lives of their representatives. Good and upright men ought to be kept in congress as long as they live, because the longer they remain the more capable they become. But the great and good men are very few. The immoral are many. They should be weeded out.

Taste of power increases appetite for position. Members of the house of representatives all aspire to the senate. Therein the people make many mistakes, by sending representatives to the senate after they have been sent to Washington long enough to contract luxurious habits, as well as acquaintance with the leading lobbyists for trusts and corporations. Rotation in office is a good thing. Men who hold office long become shamefully indifferent to the rights of their people.

The personnel of the senate should be changed oftener. One term of six years is enough for an ordinary statesman. They who are elected for two successive terms, making a total of 12 years, are too far removed from the plain people. Of course, it may be said of them, as it has been said of the representatives, the exceptionally able and good men ought to be kept in position as long as they live, but the people should be very sure that their public servants are wholly worthy before bestowing upon them such honors.

It would be useless to suggest that presidents should not be elected to succeed themselves except in time of war or in the case of an exceptionally great and good man, such as Washington or Lincoln. It would be useless to make such a suggestion, because the common people of the country have substantially nothing to do with the selection of their presidents—but little more than the people of England have in selecting their chief executive. The men who are named by national conventions are not so named because of the love of the people for them, but because political managers with plenty of money at their disposal select the delegates; and sometimes select them two years in advance of the holding of the convention. And, once in the white house, with all of the power of patronage at his disposal, the quest of a second nomination is not so hard as the quest of the first nomination.

Returning to congress, it is appropriate and timely to say that while the committee on ways and means provides legislation for raising the revenues for the support of the government, the committee on appropriations has the great responsibility of directing how the revenues shall be expended; and there has not been a total abstainer as chairman of that committee for more than a quarter of a century, if ever.

What is said of the house of representatives may also be said of the senate. There is not a member of that body who is reputed to be a total abstainer. Nor is there a member there who has the reputation of being a lost victim of the demon of the still. So far as temperance is concerned the senate has greatly improved during the past 20 years.

The hotels here are run during the sessions of the congress for the purpose of making as much money as possible, just as seaside and mountain resorts are managed during the summer season, and high prices are charged—exorbitant prices. But the better the spender at the bar, the better the prices for room and board.

The man who was pointed out as one who spends upwards of $100 per month at the bar is not lonely. There are others. Every hotel has its coterie of liberal statesmen who drink or buy that amount every month. To give their names would shock the communities at their homes, where they lead exemplary lives. But it must be remembered that, as the whole country improves, the representatives of the people improve. We are going forward instead of backward, after all.

Coronation of Alexandra, Queen Consort

THE pageant of the crowning of kings and queens is one that may not henceforth often be repeated. It is worth while, therefore, to note what the coronation of Edward and Alexandra is like. For forty years the role of Alexandra has been to walk, a graceful puppet, through ceremonial British shows and will be to the end. Whatever the part, she plays it to perfection.

This is her part in the coronation:

Picture to yourself Westminster abbey, gray with coal smoke and weather stain on the outside, dingy with dust and cobwebs on the inside; but this very smouchiness itself is regarded with holy awe by the British nation. Up the central aisle is a platform walk, slightly raised lest the feet of royalty tread where those of common folk step. The walk is covered first with mats, then with crimson cloth. Immediately underneath the central tower of the abbey is an open square, called for this occasion only the "theater." A platform five steps high has been raised upon this square. All about here is gorgeous red or purple cloth bordered with gold, except the top of the platform and the top step leading to it, and these are covered with the richest and costliest cloth of gold that man can devise. If there could be devised anything more expensive than cloth of gold—say cloth of diamonds—the platform would be covered with that.

At 10 o'clock in the morning of the great day Queen Consort Alexandra enters the state coach at Buckingham palace and sits beside King Edward and is driven through the streets of London to Westminster abbey. She does not wear her coronation mantle in the coach, but just ordinary robes of state, in which she stands beside the king on such occasions as the opening of parliament. After she enters Westminster abbey the mantle of state is removed by her ladies, and the gorgeous coronation robe of purple velvet turned up with ermine and having a court train four yards long is put upon her. The court train falls from the shoulders. We may be very sure that this ceremony of undressing and dressing before all the folk in Westminster abbey will be undergone with consummate grace, like every other role in which the beautiful Dane appears.

Alexandra, automatic accompanier of Edward, walks up the crimson covered aisle with him. Edward, not Alexandra, is "it" on this occasion. Two chairs apiece are necessary for the crowning of the king and queen. The first two are upon the cloth of gold covered platform, and in them the royal couple sit while the archbishop of Canterbury tells the people that this man sitting in that chair upon the cloth of gold platform is their king and asks them if they are willing to serve him; whereupon they all do as they have been told to beforehand and shout aloud, "God save King Edward!"

It is now 11 o'clock. The queen has nothing to do but sit still and look pretty during the next two or three hours while the ancient pageant of making a dead sure king of her august husband proceeds. It is a most exhausting ceremony. After it is over Alexandra goes through her part, which is not much and does not take her long. No oath is required of her, since she has no part in the government of England. She has, however, a crown and throne chair of her own. Their majesties do not take their places in the throne chairs till the crowning. The throne chair in which Queen Alexandra will sit after leaving the one upon the platform was made for the coronation of William and Mary in 1689. Mary was crowned sovereign jointly with William, and this chair was for her. It was not used again till 1831, when Queen Adelaide, wife of William IV., sat in it when she was crowned.

The queen's crown is historic, too, though alterations have been made in it for her use. For one thing, it will contain the great Kohinoor diamond, which never before has shone at a British coronation. Until the queen is anointed she will wear only her diadem, a simple decorated gold band or fillet, and she will be crowned not by the archbishop of Canterbury, like her husband, but by the archbishop of York. Her special crown was made originally for Mary of Modena, wife of the hapless King James II. It was named, however, the crown of St. Editha, for Queen Edith, wife of Edward the Confessor.

The ceremony in the abbey lasts about six hours. After it is over the king and queen, wearing their heavy crowns and state robes, must ride in state through London streets again, showing themselves to their people. And when all is done and the royal pair are back home at Buckingham palace and have a chance to snatch a cold bite we can well imagine the beautiful queen throwing off the monstrous weight of cloth and metal and stone, stretching up her lovely arms and even yawning in the king's face and exclaiming:

"Thank goodness, it's over!"

CHINA DECORATIONS.

Walls Are Hung With Plates, and China Pictures Are a Fad.

China plates are being much used for decorative purposes. Not only is this true of antique ware, but of the ordinary modern specimens. For this the coloring must be strong and the pattern effective. For this reason blue and white is a particular favorite, and squares of blue and white china are even framed in black oak and used as pictures. A new variety of Wedgwood ware is now being sold very cheap to satisfy this demand. The plates each represent a scene from one of Scott's or Dickens' novels, and there is a quaint title in old English lettering.

The illustration shows a hall with white paneling which is entirely decorated with china. The ceiling is tinted a delicate white and gold; the frieze is blue and white. At the base of this is placed a plate rack, on which stand specimens of old blue china. At intervals along the walls similar bits of china are placed. The furniture is colonial, including a tall grandfather's clock, a fiddle backed chair and a round mahogany table. There is also an antique chest bearing a few choice pieces of blue china. The arches of white woodwork are particularly graceful and go well with this style of decoration. A few water color pictures hung here and there add touches of color. Any woman for a small sum could furnish her hall after this fashion.

A Dress For Summer.

A summer dress for walking and visiting is of delicate pale blue in a sort of crash made of coarse linen and cotton. It looks more like momie cloth really than what we have always called crash, but it makes up into really handsome gowns. This particular one was made in regular tailor style, with an arrangement of braid around the bottom in a darker shade of blue with white satin dots over the surface. The waist was in the form of a postilion at the back, while in front it was a kind of pointed jacket trimmed with the same braid and having notched edges, each held by rounded mother of pearl buttons. Straps are put around the sleeves, carrying the same general style of trimming, and lace finishes the whole. The sleeves are like nearly all the sleeves now—wide and gathered at the wrist and close at the top.

Silks For the Season.

Crepe de chine is among the silks for the season, and it is offered in every color and tint. Liberty silks are shown in an overwhelming variety, but among the designs the dark blue and white scroll patterns seem to be rather the best liked. There is no end to the number of designs, all different, and she who has any difficulty in choosing something to her taste will find it in the immense number, each pattern being prettier than the last seen. The polka dot still retains its favor with womankind.

Look on the Bright Side.

When anything goes wrong, don't froth over like a fizz drink, then sink down flat and dead, also like a fizz drink. Train yourself to good temper and patience. Any woman can do it. Also train yourself to look on the bright side of things. You can do that, too, and when you do it there will never be any side but the bright one come your way.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE EXTENSION.

A few minutes later Sturgis, apparently absorbed in the contemplation of the paintings which hung in the hall, heard the door of Murdock's study open softly. Although the reporter did not turn his head, he at once became conscious that the chemist's piercing eyes were fixed upon him. The observation lasted so long that Sturgis, self-possessed as was his wont, was beginning to feel a trifle nervous, when at last Dr. Murdock broke the silence:

"I have to apologize for leaving you standing in the hall, Mr. Sturgis. I was under the impression that I had invited you to step into the parlor."

The words, courteous in themselves, conveyed to the hearer an impression of biting sarcasm.

"I found the parlor already occupied; I hesitated to disturb a tete-a-tete," replied Sturgis, quietly.

Murdock eyed him narrowly for a moment, and then invited him into the study.

The chemist's study was a spacious room, plainly but luxuriously furnished, and containing every convenience and comfort calculated to lighten the labor of a busy man. The table, littered with books and papers, stood near a small safe and almost directly opposite the hall door. Speaking-tubes and electric call buttons were within reach of the occupant of the easy chair, and probably placed him in communication with the various portions of the household; while a telephone on one side and a typewriter on the other showed that the chemist kept in touch also with the outside world.

Murdock's interlocutor, whoever he had been, had disappeared. But how? The question interested Sturgis, and his mind at once began to seek an answer to it.

There were three doors leading from the study. One of these was the one by which Murdock and Sturgis had just entered from the hall. No one could have passed out that way without meeting them.

Then there were the folding doors leading into the library; but, as the door leading from the library to the hall had remained slightly ajar, Sturgis felt sure that he would have heard the man had he gone out by that way.

The third door led to a small extension.

"He must have gone into the extension," thought Sturgis.

The only alternative was an exit through the windows. This in itself would not have presented any special difficulty; for the distance to the flagging below was hardly more than 12 or 13 feet. But the yard, which was of diminutive size on account of the space allotted to the garden on the street, was inclosed by an unusually high fence, protected by a row of sharp and closely set spikes. These looked so formidable that the thought of anyone attempting to scale the fence instantly suggested visions of impaled wretches writhing in oriental tortures. The only possible exit from the yard, therefore, seemed to be through the basement; that is to say, past the kitchen and the servants' department.

All these thoughts flashed through the reporter's brain in a small fraction of the time which is required to record them. They occurred to him unbidden, while his conscious efforts were centered upon discovering how Chatham had managed to escape from the rear of the Manhattan Chemical company's building.

This Sturgis recognized without much difficulty. It was directly in line with the house in which he now was, and its yard did not differ from the neighboring ones, the fences of which could be scaled without much trouble. Chatham evidently might have passed into any one of several buildings which lacked the protection of the formidable spikes that so effectually guarded the approach to Murdock's house from the rear.

One point, however, was puzzling. Why should Chatham take the trouble and the risk of scaling fences in broad daylight, only to return a few hours later by the street door under the very noses of the detectives from whom he had presumably wished to escape? There seemed to be no plausible answer to this question.

But Sturgis was not given much time in which to consider it; for Murdock, who had waited for him to broach the subject of his interview, now coldly remarked:

"Perhaps, Mr. Sturgis, you will be good enough to inform me to what I owe the honor of this visit?"

Sturgis took as a pretext the first subject which came into his mind.

"Doctor," said he, "I have been told that you were engaged in a series of brilliant chemical researches; that you had proved, or were on the point of proving, that several, at least, of the so-called elementary metals are compounds; thus ushering in the realization of the dream of the alchemists—the transmutation of metals—"

"You have not come here to interview me on the subject of my chemical researches?" laughed Murdock.

"Why not?"

"Because I gave you credit for possessing the scientific spirit. A man spends years in making a series of exhaustive experiments, and refrains from advancing any theory until he has built up an elaborate monument of cold facts; and you ask him to make a premature report, to be spread broadcast in a sensational sheet, with all the embellishments which an unbridled reportorial imagination can add to it. No, sir, my report, when it is ready, will be made through the proper channels. I am surprised that one who passes for a man of science should be willing to make such a request."

If Murdock intended to gall the reporter, he succeeded; for, modest as he was, Sturgis prided himself above all things upon the scientific value of his work in all its aspects. He manifested no external sign of annoyance, however, as he answered, with a smile:

"I am not a man of science now, but only a reporter."

"In that case," replied Murdock, "let us talk of something else. I should be pleased to discuss my chemical researches with Mr. Sturgis, the scientist; but with Mr. Sturgis, the reporter, I should prefer to talk about something in his line of knowledge; let me see, shall we say the Knickerbocker bank mystery, for instance?"

The reporter's ear detected the venomous sarcasm to which he was now accustomed from this strange man. He raised his eyes to those of the chemist, and for the space of a few seconds the two men looked steadily into each other's souls.

Then a sudden light flashed across Sturgis' brain, and he started perceptibly. At the same time he thought he saw a shadow cross Murdock's impassive features; but in this he might have been mistaken, for when he looked again the chemist was regarding him with an air of mild curiosity.

"Is anything the matter, Mr. Sturgis?" he asked.

"Only a sudden thought," carelessly replied Sturgis, who to all appearances had completely recovered from the momentary shock produced by the suddenness of the suspicion which had crossed his mind. "Your mention of the Knickerbocker bank mystery reminded me of something, that is all."

QUEEREST OF ALL THEFTS.

A Not Very Particular Thief Carries Off Seventy-Five Skunks Without Leaving Any Trace.

Francis Woll, a Montour county farmer, would like to know who stole his skunks. Woll lately had 75 fine skunks. One night they were all taken away in a bunch, and Woll has been nosing around the neighborhood ever since trying to strike the trail of the thief, says a Hazleton (Pa.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"It's dummed strange," he said last night, after a weary day's hunt, "that I can't strike nary a trail. Now it stands to reason somebody stole them skunks, and it's equally sure it must 'a' been somebody what knows skunks pretty well, or the beasts would 'a' left a trail I could follow."

Woll established a skunk farm about six weeks ago in a remote part of Montour county and stocked it with 75 skunks and 300 bull frogs, from both of which he expected to realize considerable revenue, especially from the skunks, which are becoming scarcer hereabouts every year, and consequently more valuable for commercial purposes.

The industry thrived from the start, and Woll found that so long as the skunks were well fed they would not lose their temper unless roughly handled. Just about the time Woll began to congratulate himself on his business sagacity some thief carried off his entire stock. The skunks were confined in an inclosure fenced in with woven wire. One morning last week when Woll went to the farm to feed his stock he found that the fence inclosing the pound had been torn down and every skunk was missing.

Proposals for Schoolhouse.

GET DOWN TO FACTS.

Read What Plainfield Citizens Say.

Get down to the facts of the matter. Don't take a stranger's word. It is easier to prove the truthfulness of statements made by citizens of Plainfield than endorsement coming from some far away place. Read the following:

Mr. Jepp Zensen, of 728 West Front street, pattern-maker by trade, says: "For a year I had a sort of grinding pain across my back at times extending up to my shoulders and there was a lameness over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills I cannot do otherwise than endorse them."

SPORTSMEN PHOTOGRAPHERS.

Quite a Number Who Have Relinquished the Gun and Taken Up the Camera.

In a recent book a hunter tell how he spent many weary months in the attempt to shoot an elegie, and at last ambushed so successfully that he actually touched the bird with his fingers. Having got so far he was content and let the eagle go free. It may be a hunter's tale; but there are at present a very considerable number of sportsmen who are a great deal keener to see their game at close quarters than to kill it, says the London Globe. Instead of the old phrase: "Let us go and kill something," the hunter now says: "Let us go and focus something." The camera has supplanted the gun. There are now made all manner of devices, more ingenious and intricate even than the older trappers devised, for getting the camera to bear on unsuspecting animals. A boat, resembling a little the duck snooting boats used on the Irish coast, has been devised, which is propelled without oars or sails, and has a beautiful photographic apparatus rigged up in the bows. There are other not less clever means for approaching and photographing deer in their native haunts and they have been used with altogether remarkable success. Humanitarians are already pointing out that this sport with the camera gives all the excitement of the chase without any of the cruelty; and at least this much may be conceded, that the difficulties of photographing, say, a weasel are considerably greater and therefore more attractive than those of shooting it.

THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE.

Civil War Soldier States That He Saw a Steam Carriage in Chicago in 1864.

A contributor to the Chicago Inter Ocean recently stated that the first automobile used in America was constructed by a chicago man in 1884. He writes:

Allow me to say a steam vehicle was constructed by somebody and used in Chicago 20 years earlier than this. The writer, while in camp at Camp Fry in 1864, which was located west of Clark street, about opposite what is now the northern portion of Lincoln park, had the pleasure of seeing this machine in operation. It came from the city and stopped long enough at the camp to give interested ones opportunity to examine it. After the lapse of 38 years I cannot describe it minutely, but I remember this: It was a four-wheeled vehicle, the motive power was steam, the boiler was of the upright plan and fixed near the rear axle. The seat was in front. The machine very much resembled the Inter Ocean's picture of Mr. Brown's second vehicle, with the exception the seat was reversed. The seat was occupied by two men. The vehicle started up Clark street at a ten-mile-an-hour gait and left about a score of soldiers discussing it. They did not call it automobile then, as that word was unknown to the public, but after mentioning several curious names, the majority agreed that it should be called a "son of a gun on wheels."

DIDN'T RECLAIM THE COIN.

Although She Had the Opportunity to Do So, Mrs. Stanford Did Not Repent.

Those who "pass the plate" in country churches are not often regaled with the glitter of gold among the contributions. It is related that about ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stanford were traveling through the middle west incognito. They happened to be in Bloomington, Ind., one Sunday and pursuant to their usual custom went to church. They attended the Christian church of Bloomington, then largely in the hands of Amzi Atwater, says the Chicago Chronicle.

When the plate was passed for the collection Mrs. Stanford dropped in a ten-dollar gold piece. Mr. Atwater was the deacon in charge of the collection-taking. It was noticed that the ushers held a hurried conference with him when the money was taken forward. At its conclusion Mr. Atwater said: "Ladies and gentlemen, there has evidently been a mistake. Some one has dropped a ten-dollar gold piece into the collection. If he will pass up after the services we will be glad to allow him to exchange it for the amount he intended to give." It is, of course, needless to say that Mrs. Stanford did not take advantage of the opportunity.

Death Valley Sand-Pillars.

Travelers in the celebrated Death Valley of California have described the wonderful contortions of the sand-pillars that small whirlwinds sometimes send spinning across the hot plain. Even more remarkable are the "dust devils" seen by Mr. H. F. Witherby, the English explorer, in the valley of the White Nile. Sometimes two of these whirling columns, gyrating in opposite directions, meet, "and if they be well matched the collision stops them and a struggle ensues as to which way they shall twist. Gradually one gains the mastery and the two combined begin to gyrate alike and then rush on together." Some of these whirls will strip the clothes from an Arab's back, or twist a goat round and round like a top.

A City of Marble.

Modern Athens is a city of marble. Many of the dwellings and business houses and nearly all of the public edifices are of that material, and even the sidewalks on some of the streets are paved with it.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Underwood Atheletic Association defeated the Park Field Club on Hope Common yesterday afternoon by a score of 12 to 11.

Manager Muir thinks he has a great find in Franklin, one of his lately acquired men. He can play any position in the field and is one of the heaviest hitters in the Safe Works ranks.

In the future, the Hope outfield will remain as it was in Saturday's game, Roseberry in left, Overton in centre and Gordon in right. Gordon's place on third will continue to be covered by Munro who has been putting up a good game right along.

The Hope team was unfortunate in not having Hartfelder Saturday, else the result might have been different. Mague could not begin to hold Hewitt, who is rated as being one of the swiftest pitchers in the League. Matters have been now arranged so that "Dutch" will be with the team right along.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team will practice at 6:30 this evening on Hope common. Thursday evening the team will practice on St. Mary's grounds. An arrangement has been effected whereby the Y. M. C. A. will have the use of Hope common and St. Mary's grounds alternately for baseball practice.

The Plainfield High School boys left this afternoon for Elizabeth where they play Pingry school at 3:30 today. A special car had been chartered for the accommodation of the team and the rooters, and more than forty of the latter accompanied the players with plenty of good yells in store to cheer their favorites to victory.

"Cooney" still continues to be the grand-stand favorite of the Safe Works contingent. Hardly a game takes place but what he makes a phenomenal stop or catch that wins the plaudits of the crowd. But for all that he takes it modestly, as he is too much of a player to let a little matter like that disturb him.

The team work of the St. Mary nine Saturday was the best it has ever done. A continuance of this style of playing will abrogate all possibility of the orgauization dropping to the rear end. Manager Monahan announces that the men are now placed where they can do the most good and he will not alter a position unless he is forced to.

STARTED TO MOVE.

But the Other Partner in the Watchung Knitting Company Was Not for the Arrangement.

The Watchung Knitting Company, on account of disagreement between the partners, has suspended operations for the present. The members of the firm are Leo J. Studley and Henry B. Drosin.

It appears that in the original agreement Studley contracted to furnish a certain amount of money to carry on the business, which agreement, it is stated, he never fulfilled. Studley, however, took upon himself to close up the mill, and yesterday attempted to sell out. A number of vans were loaded with the furnishings last evening and were well on their way to an unknown destination when they were held up by virtue of an execution obtained in a justices' court.

This morning Codington & Swackhamer of this city, made application for an injunction before Vice Chancellor Stephens. An order was granted restraining either side, or any of their servants, from disposing of any of the property until the court should grant a further order.

Says They Beat Him.

Peter Uhdal and Frank Drake were arrested by Patrolman McCarthy, yesterday, on a charge of assault preferred against them by Osborne Harris, of Scotch Plains. He alleges that without provocation on his part they and a third young man not yet apprehended, knocked him down on Park avenue Saturday night. They will be tried before City Judge Runyon tomorrow morning.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

DEGREES OF MASONRY WHICH ARE POSSIBLE

Scottish and York Rites Are Two Paths Upward From the "Blue Lodge."

LIST OF THE DEGREES.

YORK RITE IS BEST KNOWN AMONG MASONS OF THIS SECTION.

It Includes the Royal Arch Masons Who Recently Held Their Annual State Convocation at Trenton —Plainfielders Honored.

At the forty-fifth annual convocation of the grand chapter of New Jersey, Royal Arch Masons, recently held at Trenton, Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, was elected grand high priest and Dr. D. C. Adams, of this city, was elected grand principal sojourner, while Jacob Kirkner, also of Plainfield, was chosen grand master of the third veil.

A chapter of the Royal Arch Masons confers four degrees, mark master, past master, most excellent master and royal arch mason.

There are thirty-eight chapters in New Jersey, having a total of 8,800 members.

The degrees of the regular "blue lodge," which is the foundation of all Masonic bodies, are called entered apprentice, fellowcraft and master mason. From this point a Mason has the choice of either going higher by way of the Scottish Rite, as follows: A lodge of perfection will confer these degrees: 4 d., secret master; 5 d., perfect master; 6 d., intimate secretary; 7 d., provost and judge; 8 d., intendent of the building; 9 d., elect of nine; 10 d., elect of fifteen; 11 d., sublime knight-elect; 12 d., grand master architect; 13 d., knight of the ninth arch; 14 d., grand elect perfect and sublime Mason.

Then come the degrees worked in councils of the Princes of Jerusalem: Fifteenth d., Knight of the East or Sword, and 16 d., Prince of Jerusalem. Chapters of the Rose Croix confer the 17 d., Knight of the East and West, and 18 d., Knight of the Rose Croix. Consistories of Sublime Princes of the Royal Secret will carry the candidate up to the thirty-third degree, as follows: Nineteenth d., Grand Pontiff; 20 d., Master ad vitam; 21 d., Patriarch Noaclute; 22 d., Prince of Libanus; 23 d., Chief of the Tabernacle; 24 d., Prince of the Tabernacle; 25 d., Knight of the Brazen Serpent; 26 d., Prince of Mercy; 27 d., Commander of the Temple; 28 d., Knight of the Sun; 29 d., Knight of St. Andrew; 30 d., Grand Elect Knight Kadosch; 31 d., Grand Inspector and Inquisitor Commander, and 32 d., Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret. This degree entitles the holder to a seat as a visitor to the supreme council of the thirty-third degree. Membership in this last degree is limited. The degree is called Sovereign Grand Inspector-General.

If the candidate for higher Masonic honors than those bestowed by the blue lodge prefers a simpler method he may join a chapter of the Royal Arch; then a council of Royal and Select Masters, taking degrees called royal master and select master, and, if desired, that of super-excellent master. A council of the Red Cross will make him a companion of the red cross; a Commandery of Knights Templar will give him that degree, and any of the legally instituted priories will raise him to the sublime rank of Knight of Malta. This latter upward course from the "blue lodge" is known as the "York Rite." For those who desire to go beyond the thirty-second dgeree of the Scottish Rite and the rank of Knights Templar, York Rite, there is a side degree memership in the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Found Canary in Church.

Yesterday morning when A. E. Hoagland, the expressman, went to Trinity Reformed church to remove a piano from the main part of the church to the Sunday-school room, he found a canary in the church. The fact that the Eagles had been in the edifice the night before was thought by some to have a special significance

Finishing Front Street.

Under the direction of the street commissioner, West Front street, between Clinton avenue and the city line, is being repaired and resurfaced. This work was started last summer, but for goop reasons was not finished then. Unless something important should come the work will be continued until finished.

Awning Does Good Work.

The protection afforded to Woodhull & Martin's store as well as the postoffice by the wooden awning erected over the sidewalk is much appreciated. Besides making the store and office cooler, it effectually keeps the sun's hot rays from pouring into those places as previously.

it. He argued that the King's Daughters camp should receive first attention and then, if possible, help the other camp.

After an executive conference it was finally decided that each camp can be supported and arrangements were made whereby the baby camp on the mountain will receive every consideration and the fresh air camp at Netherwood will not suffer. It should be distinctly understood that these two camps do not conflict, neither is one the rival of the other. The people of Plainfield will be asked to take good care of the King's Daughters work and at the same time the other camp will receive support. It was agreed at the meeting that both camps will be in far better shape this summer and that instead of their being antagonistic, one will help the other. It is proposed to open both camps about July 1.

BOROUGH GETS BUSY.

Two Offenders Were Gathered in by the Police Yesterday.

In the borough police court last evening Charles Harris, on a charge of drunkenness, was reprimanded and let off with a suspended sentence.

John Burke was up last evening on a charge of being drunk, disorderly, and resisting arrest. He was fined $15 and given seven days in jail The man happened to be bankrupt and Chief Campbell took him to Somerville this morning for a twenty-two days rest.

No Settlement Reached.

A conference of the striking journeymen plumbers and the bosses was held, last evening, but it resulted in nothing being accomplished in the way of a settlement. The strikers claim, however, that two of the bosses, George Leland and Arthur Giles, have acceded to the demands and are now taking back men at the union rate.

Big Shoot on the Fourth.

The Independent Gun Club met at the Arlington Hotel last evening. The committee reported that $85 had been realized on the ball held in Saengerbund Hall May 5. Three new members were admitted to the club, and it was decided to hold a grand shooting tournament on the Maple avenue range July 4.

Walked Off Roof.

Lewis Scott, a carpenter working for Chas. E. Pope on a barn being erected for Hughes Fawcett, North Plainfield slipped and fell from the roof of the building yesterday afternoon. He was slightly shaken up, but suffered no further inconvenience than being forced to discontinue work for the day.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

Of Lower Grades at Plainfield Seminary This Morning.

The closing exercises of the lower grades in the Plainfield Seminary were held this morning. Many visitors were present and spent considerable time in viewing the exhibit of pupils' work which was tastefully displayed about the rooms. For the most part it was composed of drawings in charcoal and India ink from the advanced grades and sewing and class work from the primary department.

Under the direction of Miss Edith L. Burt and Miss Anna Ellis, a programme of recitations, songs and piano selections was rendered by the following pupils: The Misses Millard, Duncan, Tillotson, Millar, Marsh, Curtis, Hatch, VanVliet, Hooley, Hoar, Perkins, Pidcock, Hall and others.

HAD A LICENSE.

But It Came From Asbury Park and Didn't Hold Good Here.

Loaded down with toy balloons and fancy whistles and whips of the Coney Island variety, Damarosso Salvatore was arrested by Roundsman Mattox for peddling without a license, this morning. In the city court he exhibited a license to peddle taken out at Asbury Park and he ventured the opinion he could use it anywhere in the State. He was advised to retrace his steps to the shore resort.

DAMAGED GULICK.

Now He Wants Damages for Those, He Says, Caused by Horse.

William Newcorn has been retained by Daniel J. Gulick in his suit against Stonewall Jackson for $5,000 for injuries received in a runaway September 25.

The plaintiff claims that he was induced to take a ride on that day with Arthur Giles and that the horse driven was represented as a gentle and docile animal. While out riding the horse ran away and threw him out of the wagon, resulting in a fracture of the skull, the loss of the sight of one eye and sundry bruises which have prevented him from attending to his business. The accident happened in Middlesex county and the suit has been started there. It will be tried in the Supreme Court.

HORSE THIEVES IN SOMERSET.

This Time They Operate in the Vicinity of Warrenville.

Horse thieves invaded the quiet precincts of Warrenville at an early hour this morning and decamped with a rig belonging to Israel P. Mundy. His barn was entered and a horse, harness and side-bar road wagon were taken.

The animal is described as a dark bay, fifteen hands high, with heavy main and tail, one white leg and a star on right front foot. The harness was new and nickel mounted but the wagon has been well used. The local police are making an effort to find the rig.

A HARD BED.

Youthful Wanderer Was Found in a Printing Office and Was Arrested.

John Remppies, a twelve-year-old boy, was found in a printing office on North avenue, last midnight, by Patrolman McCarthy. He had evidently gone into the place to sleep as his home surroundings are uncongenial. He was taken to police headquarters on a technical charge of breaking and entering and will be arraigned before City Judge Runyon tomorrow. The police will take steps to have him placed in some institution.

TO CONSOLIDATE THE PLAINFIELD MILK TRADE

Probable That Plan Will Be Carried Out in the Near Future.

PURE MILK A FEATURE.

THIS PLAN IS SAID TO BE IN SUCCESSFUL OPERATION IN OTHER CITIES.

It Will be Possible, it is Claimed, to Handle Pure Milk and Other Similar Products at a Reduced Cost.

If the plans of the American Pure Milk Company, of New York, do not go awry, that company will soon establish a milk depot in this city which will aim to consolidate the milk trade in Plainfield under one head to the general advantage of the milkmen and the customers. Representatives of this company have been looking over the field and interviewing city officials until they are quite confident that their plans can be carried to a realization in the near future.

Notice has already been given in these columns of the appearance of M. J. Briggs, one of the representatives of that company, before the City Board of Health in an informal way to explain the proposed methods of this company. The plan is to establish a milk depot here with all the modern sanitary appliances. Butter and other dairy products, as well as ice cream, are also to be made there. To this place the milk dealers will bring their daily supply. It is said by representatives of the company that they will be able to actually pay the milk dealers more than their net price of today and still dispose of the milk themselves without raising the price and yet make a fair profit. This will be made possible, they say, by consolidating the work of delivery, one wagon covering the ground that half a dozen do now.

This "milk trust," as it is sometimes called, is no new idea but is in successful operation in many cities through the United States and has, in most cases, worked to the general benefit of the customers. The consolidation of the business makes it possible to handle the milk and its bi-products at a greatly reduced cost when done in such wholesale fashion.

One of the chief claims made for this concern, which is considering the location of a branch in Plainfield, is that it makes a special feature of pure milk. Those who supply the company with milk are required to keep their dairies in particularly fine condition and the strictest sanitary regulations are made for the handling of all the milk. It is said that the milk depot will be particularly high class.

In regard to the location of the American Pure Milk Company in this city, nothing has yet really been done. The company is anxious to start here as it deems Plainfield an excellent field for the extension of its operations. Since the plan was first suggested, much interest has been taken in it, especially by those who are now interested in the milk business. The location of such a depot here would undoubtedly revolutionize the milk business here and make many changes. There are now a number of milkmen who purchase their daily supply of milk from some of the large dairies and simply deliver it to their customers. Those who have dairies of their own would not be so greatly affected.

FUNERAL OF ANDREW ZEISZ.

Held From the Late Home on New Street Yesterday Afternoon.

Relatives and friends completely filled the late home of Andrew Zeisz, on New street yesterday afternoon, when funeral services were held over his remains. They were in charge of Rev. Theodore Duensing, pastor of St. Peter's German Lutheran church.

There were numerous beautiful floral tributes from loving friends and from the Saengerbund Society of which he was a charter member. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery. The casket was borne to the grave by six members of the family, Charles and Edward Lang, of Newark, Charles VanMiddlesworth, of Brooklyn, George Mehl, Jr., George Schlereth and William Trembath, of this city.

BLAZING BARN GAVE FIREMEN HARD RUN

Heavy Roads of Sand Prevented Part of the Apparatus From Reaching Fire.

IN ANOTHER COUNTY.

BARN OF HOTELKEEPER LAWRENCE KERWIN WAS BURNED TO GROUND.

Was Located in Middlesex County—Alarm Turned in at 11 o'Clock by Roundsman Flynn Who Saw the Blaze—Loss About $1,000.

An alarm, turned in at 11 o'clock, last night, from box No. 47 by Roundsman Flynn, for a fire over the line in Midlesex county, led the local department a merry chase and scattered the apparatus in all corners of Evona.

The barn of Lawrence Kerwin, the hotel keeper near Rock avenue, furnished the blaze and the flames mounting high in the air led to the belief that it was a city fire. With one exception the entire department started for the scene and when Clinton avenue was reached, six pieces of apparatus were distributed in as many parts of that sandy section of the city. The tired horses were barely able to proceed on the dirt roads after the long run and it was a case of which had the most endurance that got the nearest to the conflagration.

Chief Doane, No. 3 hose wagon and the chemical engine reached the scene but finding it was out of jurisdiction the former returned for his trucks.

The hook and ladder truck and a hose wagon were unable to proceed past Clinton avenue and Second street and No. 1 engine was nowhere to be seen.

It was afterward learned that the steamer had passed all the others and was well on toward Kerwin's when Driver William Yaegar lost his bearings. He stopped to reconnoiter in one of the worst spots of Evona avenue and that settled the forward journey of the machine. His team of big grays pulled and tugged but the wheels only shifted a little and then slowly settled to the hubs in the grasping sand. Giving up the idea of getting out alone the firemen started to corral re-enforcements and kidnapped everybody that came along. Twenty men were collected and these with the horses finally extricated the machine and by dint of pushing and pulling got it back to the more stable macadam of Clinton avenue. It was housed nearly an hour after the rest of the apparatus had been put up.

The barn was burned to the ground entailing a loss of $1,000. Mystery surrounds the origin of the blaze as the structure was all aflame before it was discovered. But for the wind being north the hotel would have been consumed also as it was in close proximity to the burned structure.

MEMORIAL TABLETS.

Will be Unveiled at All Souls Church Sunday Morning.

Some months since the trustees of All Souls' church gave an order for some memorial tablets to be placed upon the walls of that church on Park avenue, in loving membrance of departed friends and benefactors.

The persons to be so commemorated are William Phillips Tildon, first pastor of the church; Henry Bartlett Wells, the first president of its board of trustees; Job Male, first mayor of Plainfield and giver of the lot on which the church is built, and Mrs. Sarah Stout, an early benefactor of the parish.

These memorials will be unveiled next Sunday forenoon, with simple but affectionate ceremonies, as a part of the customary services at the church.

ADMITTED HE ROBBED BUT PLEADED INSANITY

Remarkable Trial of John B. McGlinchy, Self Confessed Flat Thief, at Elizabeth.

PLEADED HIS CASE.

DESPITE HIS ELOQUENT APPEAL, HE WAS FOUND GUILTY.

Refused to Have Counsel, But Conduted His Own Case—He Pleaded Guilty With Extenuating Circumstances—Rare Case.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 11—Judge, prosecutor and spectators alike were amazed at the intelligence and familiarity with the law displayed by John B. McGlinchy, the man arrested in Plainfield May 9 for robbing the flat of William Symons, of North avenue, that city, when he was placed on trial here, yesterday.

Counsel was assigned him but before the courtroom was reached they disagreed and McGlinchy announced his intention of conducting his own case. His determination amused the attaches but their derisive remarks gave way to astonishment when he faced the court and in a firm voice pleaded guilty but with entenuating circumstances. He committed the theft, he declared, but an unbalanced mind made him mentally irresponsible.

The case proceeded and McGlinchy examined witnesses, testified and pleaded in a manner which elicited the commendation of the everybody. It was easy to be seen he was possessed of unusual intelligence although his appearance gives anything but that impression.

He sought to quash the indictment on the ground that it stated that the crime had been committed at night whereas he had caused the witnesses to acknowledge that he was in jail at the time, the theft having been committed in the afternoon. The climax came to the sensations of the trial when McGlinchy took the stand to testify in his own behalf:

"I have no recollection, whatever, of committing this crime with which I am charged. I have at times suffered from temporary insanity and my mind has then become a complete blank. For a while I was an inmate of the Louisville insane asylum. During the eight weeks I spent there I once attempted to jump from a third story window, cutting my arm and inflicting a terrible wound upon my head which is still visible. I am thirty-seven years of age but weigh only ninety pounds. A deformed body cannot nourish a healthy mind. I have shown evidence of my irresponsibility under certain conditions and I am confident no one of you would seek to injure the character of one who is not responsible for acts alleged to have been committed. I am in a strange city, far away from home and my relatives who are all people of integrity, and upon whom has never been pointed the finger of shame. I trust you will carefully consider the facts and pass upon my case mercifully, knowing that God above, who seeth all things, is acquainted with the innermost workings of the human mind."

When the defendant had finished his plea, Prosecutor English ejaculated, "This is certainly the most extraordinary case in my experience at this court, in fact, I have never witnessed any proceedings of a more unusual character." He reviewed the case briefly as presented by the State and McGlinchy himself, whereupon the Judge charged the jury to the effect that unless sufficient evidence of insanity had been presented, the verdict must be against the defendant. The jury returned with a verdict of guilty within a few minutes.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Interesting Exercises Were Held at Marconnier Chapel Last Sunday Afternoon.

The Children's Day exercises at Marconnier chapel Sunday afternoon were of a pleasing character and very interesting. There was an orchestra of five pieces assisting in the musical renditions.

Recitations were given by Daisy and Iva Morrison, Willie Robertson, Lillian Stalka, Lottie Campbell, Florence Stalka, Fred Stover, Nettie Stover, Bessie Campbell, Jennie Robertson, Mary Morrison, Frank Brown, Monroe Pyatt, Laura Teeple, Russell Pyatt, May Pyatt, Ettabell Whelpley and Richard Campbell. There were also addresses by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, M. Seymour Purdy and George Watts and several appropriate hymns were sung by the school under the direction of Mrs. George Reighton.

F. S. Cutter drilled the pupils and Miss Quinn presided at the piano. Miss Fanny Stover was in charge of the decorations, assisted by Leo Van Court.

FIGHT FOR KNITTING WORKS

COURT OF CHANCERY IS TO CONSIDER THE CASE AT ONCE.

This Legal Controversy Between Partners Has Secured a Hearing Very Soon.

The case of Henry B. Drosin against Leo J. Studley and Marks N. Rosenthal, which is now pending in the Court of Chancery, will come up before Vice Chancellor Stevens at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Chancery Chambers in Newark for argument. The case is remarkable for the rapidity with which it was brought before the Court of Chancery.

About 6 o'clock Monday evening, the defendants undertook to remove the principal part of the goods in the knitting mills at Watchung on vans of William Hand & Son. Messrs. Codington & Swackhamer, the attorneys of the complainant, Mr. Drosin, were notified at that time and when the vans reached Front street and Watchung avenue, they were taken into custody by an officer of the law and held by him over night.

The next morning Mr. Swackhamer took an early train and appeared before Vice Chancellor Stevens as soon as he came into the court room and presented a bill in Chancery setting up all the facts which were necessary to obtain a restraining order and a rule to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of the partnership property and adjust the affairs of the firm.

The bill, which had been drawn the previous evening, consists of fifteen closely typewritten pages, and upon this bill, the order was granted which effectually secures the rights of Mr. Drosin, the complainant, by preventing the possibility of his partner's getting away with the property and by compelling an accounting.

Mr. Drosin claims that Mr. Studley, his partner, refused to put in the money he had agreed to furnish and countermanded certain orders of their customers, and took the books of account to the city of New York, and afterward came to the mills and pretended to sell out to Mr. Rosenthal and to put him in possession.

They then, it is alleged, ordered Mr. Drosin out of the mills and put pad locks on the doors, and afterward attempted to remove the goods as above stated.

RELIABLE INSTITUTION.

City National Bank Has Made An Enviable Reputation.

The City National Bank, organized in 1875, enjoys an enviable reputation among the banking institutions of this State and other places as a thoroughly reliable and progressive bank. Its officers are all men well-known in financial circles, whose integrity and method of doing business has never been questioned. Through this institution much business has been brought to Plainfield and thus the interests of the city have been increased.

The City National Bank has a capital of $150,000, together with $12,500 in surplus and undivided profits. Besides doing a general banking and collection business, drafts and letters of credit are issued on all parts of the world. This bank will allow interest on current accounts, subject in accordance with its rules, to check at sight, and has also arranged for a savings department. A feature of this bank is the safe deposit vault, where valuables can be kept with absolute safety. This institution also acts as custodian of wills.

POPULAR YOUNG FOLK WEDDED LAST NIGHT

Marriage of Miss Katheryn B. Heycock to Isaac L. Williamson Held at Bride's Home.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

THE BRIDE AND GROOM WILL TAKE UP THEIR RESIDENCE IN PLAINFIELD.

Ceremony Was Performed by Rev. C. E. Herring—Attendants on the Bride and Groom — The Charming House Decorations.

The marriage of Miss Katheryn Belle Heycock to Isaac L. Williamson was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Louisa L. Heycock, at 321 East Third street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white organdie over white silk, entrain, with veil and orange blossoms. Miss Elizabeth A Welch, of German Valley, N. J., a cousin of the bride, was maid-of-honor and wore white silk organdie. The bridemaids were Miss Phebe R. Marshall, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Gertrude A. Wrench, of Bound Brook, who were dressed in white tissue. The bride and attendants each carried bouquets of white roses. William Golden, of Hopewell, was the best man and Edward Golden and Marion Voorhees, also of Hopewell, acted as ushers.

The parlors were made beautiful by waving palms, wildwood, ferns and flowers. Promptly as the hour arrived, the bridal party took its place, Charles M. Suhr, of this city, playing the wedding march from "Lohengrin" by Wagner. The bride entered the parlor escorted by her cousin, John C. Welch, of German Valley. The groom entered the room from an opposite direction. After hearty congratulations were offered a dainty collation was served.

The bridal party was ushered to the cozy dining room which was filled with nature's choicest flowers. The table spread for ten was elaborately decorated with smilax and carnations. After refreshments a flashlight picture was taken of the happy group.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson left amid well wishes of the guests and took the 10:17 o'clock westbound train for an extended trip. Mr. Williamson and his wife expect to reside in Plainfield. They will be "at home" at 321 East Third street after June 24. The groom is valued employe of Woodhull & Martin.

The gifts were both numerous and useful, including a plush lounge, stands, clock, china dinner set, toilet set, a gold watch, table linen and many pieces of solid silver. The bride's gifts to her maids were gold pins.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Joseph Blimm, Mr. and Mrs. William Ulmer, Miss Carrie Weiss, of Plainfield; Senator and Mrs. Welch, of German Valley; Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Robinson, Miss Maria Heycock, of New York; Harry D. Robinson, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George Heycock, of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. Alpaugh and daughter, Miss Elsie Alpaugh, Miss Edith Murphy, of New Germantown, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Williamson, Miss Esther Williamson, Charles Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Williamson, of Hopewell; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Leigh, of Trenton; Dr. and Mr. C. S. Scarborough, of Madison; Mrs. Anna Williamson and Miss Tillie Williamson, of Rocky Hill, N. J.

Funeral of Mrs. Cadmus.

At the residence of her sister, Mrs. Andrew Johnson, of Duer street, yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock the funeral services of the late Mrs. C. V. Cadmus were held. Rev. Dr. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman. Membres of the family acted as pallbearers. The interment was in North Plainfield cemetery.

CITY HIGH DEFEATED IN ITS FINAL GAME

Lost to Pingry's School in a Well-Played Game at Elizabeth Yesterday.

THE SCORE WAS 5 TO 3.

AT CRITICAL MOMENTS THE PINGRY BOYS WERE STEADY AND SURE.

Plainfield High School Did Not Always Do the Same, and Thus is the Story of the Game Told in a Very Few Words.

There was one essential difference between the Plainfield High School nine and the team from Pingry's School, when they met on Pingry Oval, at Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon. At critical moments, the Elizabeth boys developed remarkable steadiness, while the Plainfielders didn't. As a result, the City High School team went down to defeat by a score of 5 to 3 in a well played game. There was enough excitement about it to develop considerable enthusiasm in the crowd which filled the grand stand. It was the concluding game of the season for the High School boys.

The fun began at the very start. Plainfield High came to bat first and Thompson promptly lined one out for two bases. It was poorly fielded and he reached third. Dyer's easy grounder was sent home but Thompson scored. A stolen base, a sacrifice hit and a passed ball enabled Dyer to complete the circuit. Then the deadly Pingry got in its work.

Stout's three-bagger over the fence, aided by Keeney's sacrifice hit, gave Pingry one run in the second. Ulrich opened the third with a single, stole second, gained third on an error and scored on Craig's easy hit. Pingry made one in the fourth with the aid of Thompson's error, two stolen bases and a sacrifice hit. One of those bases wasn't really stolen for the man was fairly caught between the bases but the umpire didn't see it.

All went well until the sixth inning came around and then it looked for a moment as if Plainfield was going up in the air. Thompson dropped an easy throw and then Van Auken fumbled and threw wild. A hit, good for one bag, and some clever base stealing was all that was needed to make the combination complete. It netted Pingry three runs and those runs won the game.

Thrice the visitors sent a man round to third but it didn't do any good. Littell settled down and he had the best of support. So the last game of the season ended with the City High second best but it was, afterall, a good game and well played.

Van Auken was not quite in his usual form although he was never batted hard. In the infield, Dyer had an off day and made two bad errors which did not, however, affect the general result. Littell pitched a pretty game and had the best of support. Keeney, at short, gave the most brilliant exhibition of the day.

The summary was:

JEFFERSONIAN LEAGUE FOR UNION COUNTY

A Democratic Organization for Promoting the Party's Interests.

IS NOW IN FULL SWING.

EXPECTED TO PLAY PROMINENT PART IN THE CAMPAIGNS TO COME.

The League Will Work in Harmony With Other Democratic Clubs—Will Attempt to Interest Young Men in Jeffersonian Principles.

The Jeffersonian League of Union county, the Democratic organization recently formed for the purpose of promoting activity in the party circles, promises to attain a healthy growth before the arrival of fall and subsequent campaigning. Several hundred names have already been enrolled and the organization committee is daily in receipt of applications. Through it, the Democrats of the county will be brought more in contact with each other and will be better enabled to develop a more positive and definite sense of the character and meaning of "true Jeffersonian principles."

It is the intention of the formulators to develop the league as both a practical and an educational force. It is admitted that the party lacks effective organization throughout the county and the gain in followers has been offset by serious losses in the districts not organized. The new league will work in unison with all other Democratic clubs, mainly to interest the younger men who can be of much service to the cause by once getting them imbued with its principles. To aid in demonstrating to the first voters the distinctive difference between Democratic and Republican fundamentals will be in line with the educational work of the Jeffersonian League.

As soon as a sufficient number of members are enrolled it is proposed to divide the county into districts, each one having a local organization. These will carry on the work of the league in their respective districts, but will remain in touch and be aided by the association at large. The practical work will be the systematic circulation of Democratic literature; the educational work among the young voters already mentioned; the holding of frequent mass meeting, under the auspices of the league, in all parts of the county during campaigns and the aiding of local organizations and committees in general campaign and election day work. During the winter and spring season, when political activity is usually less in evidence, the league proposes to institute a series of reunions or meetings in different parts of the county where Democrats can assemble and at which proper entertainment will be provided, including addresses by prominent speakers from all parts of the country.

At a date shortly to be decided upon a meeting will be called when a constitution will be adopted and officers chosen. The organization committee at present consists of James C. Connolly, Peter Egenolf and Charles A. Sulzer, of Elizabeth, James E. Martine, J. H. Hillman and Charles L. Moffett, of this city, John L. Crowell, George B. Cladek and F. V. Dobbins, of Rahway, Alfred J. Lane, of Summit, M. M. Scudder, of Westfield and John Moody, of Cranford. The latter is chairman.

READ FROM SHAKESPEARE.

Prof. Harry C. Franck Gave a Demonstration of His Methods.

A large assemblage in St. Mary's Parochial School hall, last evening, heard Professor Harry C. Franck give a practical demonstration of elocution and voice culture. It is his intention of forming classes for dramatic training and voice culture and he adopted this method of meeting possible pupils.

Professor Franck rendered a number of Shakespearian readings in a masterly way and accompanied them with gesticulations that intensified their delivery. At the close he outlined his plans and many in the audience remained to enter their names in his classes.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Somerville Unionist-Gazette prints an advertisement of a patent medicine which purports to tell "How to avoid trouble." As there is nothing in it regarding a method of securing relief from Senator Reed, the residents of Somerset county are still suffering from annexation colic.—Newark News.

There are some good features about the General School law enacted last winter and one of these is a provision that the school tax shall be two and three-fourths mills on each dollar of the listed ratables each year.

Under the old law the school tax was a variable and unknown quantity. The amount to be levied was ascertained by a census of the children of school age. The total so found was multiplied by five and the result was the gross amount to be raised.

Some of the enumerators were more enterprising than duty warranted and they found children in larger numbers than actually existed. The larger the number of children reported the larger the school tax grew and incidentally the larger the enumerators' compensation.

The new plan will produce as much as the old system should have done if rightly administered, and it will increase the total amount collected for school purposes as the ratables increase without increasing the rate of taxation. That will remain at two- and three-quarter mills.—Jersey City Journal.

THEATRICAL.

When you want people to attend the theatre in the summer time you must offer them some inducement. The management of Keith's New York theatre evidently realize this, for the auditorium of their beautiful theatre, with atmosphere chilled by refrigerating machines, and stirred to a breeze by a multitude of the little electric "buzz fans," is just about the coolest spot in the city during these hot afternoons and evenings. Heading the attractive programme which is offered for the coming week are Clayton White-Marie Stuart & Co., who will appear in their best known and most pronounced success "Dickey." McIntyre & Heath, having made such a pronounced success last week with "On Guard," have been engaged for another week, during which time they will present "The Georgia Minstrels." Ray L. Royce, mimic and impersonator; Fields and Ward, eccentic comedians; the Marvelous Seymours, in their truly wonderful acrobatic feats; Riley and Hughes, blackface comedians and dancers; Armour and Baguley, with their enjoyable singing specialties; the Yale Duo, club jugglers of the first rank; Willard N. Reed, instrumentalist, and half a score of other well known artists help the house to make good its boast. "All the best, always, at Keith's."

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The recent crusade against the dogs in Plainfield has led to lots of fun for some people and plenty of trouble for others. It is not always the canine that associates with the most learned people or persons whose business it is to teach others, that escapes easily from the clutch of the law. This fact is attested to by a resident of the borough who went out for a stroll a few nights ago. Now this peaceful and quiet citizen thought he would like to have company, so he was escorted by a small canine, the property of a widow woman. The two were strolling along East Front street, when a blue coat hailed the citizen, "Hey there, who owns that dog?" "Why, that animal belongs to me!" replied the man. "It does, does it," replied the policeman, at the same time noting that the dog had no muzzle. "Well you can report to the city judge in the morning," were the instructions given by the officer of the law. The man, by the way, formerly lived in Paterson, where no muzzles are required, and he was greatly worried about the affair. The next morning he sought counsel and the representative sought the office of the city judge, where he explained matters. The man appeared before the city magistrate and upon his promise to strictly adhere to the law in the future, was released. He says that in the future he will walk alone and not under any circumstances will he be escorted by a widow's dog again.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

WEST POINT CENTENNIAL.

President Roosevelt and Governor Odell In Attendance.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 11.—President Roosevelt reached here at an early hour this morning by special train, but the formal welcome took place at 10 o'clock. It is now arranged for the president to remain over until tomorrow, graduation day, and he has been designated to deliver the diplomas to the members of the graduating class. The graduation exercises will take place in the open air in front of the library. General Horace Porter will deliver the address.

Governor B. B. Odell has also arrived here to attend the exercises. He will be entertained at the quarters of his son-in-law, Lieutenant Kelly.

The exercises here yesterday were given over entirely to athletic sports. The first event was an exhibition drill of the first class in cavalry tactics. Then followed the field day competitions between the respective classes of cadets, concluding with a baseball game between the academy team and Yale. The Military academy team was defeated by the score of 15 to 4. A most distinguished crowd of people witnessed the game. General Nelson A. Miles was conspicuous in the sectional grand stand erected on the plain, and near him sat General Longstreet.

Convicted of Bribery.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 11.—Attorney Thomas F. McGarry has been convicted by a jury in the Allegan circuit court at Allegan of the charge of bribery in connection with the Lake Michigan water supply scandal. He was granted a change of venue on the ground that he could not secure a fair trial in this city. The trial has been in progress for four weeks, and the conviction was practically on the same testimony that convicted former City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury and H. A. Taylor, the eastern capitalist who furnished the funds. The case was given to the jury yesterday at noon, and the verdict was rendered at 2 o'clock.

THE FACTS SECURED

Wright Interviews Presidents of Coal Roads.

THE LATTER ISSUE LONG STATEMENT

Inside History of Affairs Which Led Up to the Present Dispute From Operators' Standpoint Is Made Public.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor statistics, had a long conference yesterday afternoon with the heads of the big anthracite coal carrying railroads.

Mr. Wright returned to his hotel at 6:30 o'clock. He said he had had a two hours' talk with President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, President Olyphant of the Ontario and Western railroad and President Truesdall of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad. The conference was held in the offices of President Olyphant in Cortland street.

Mr. Wright said that the books had been opened, and he had secured all facts and figures and now had sufficient information about both sides, which would probably not necessitate his going to the coalfields. He declared the investigation was practically over.

The presidents of the coal roads immediately affected by the strike of the anthracite coal miners have just made public letters and telegrams which have passed between the operators and President Mitchell and other representatives of the United Mine Workers.

The operators say they have heretofore hesitated about making public this correspondence. "The president of the United States," they add, "having requested Mr. Wright, the commissioner of labor, to investigate the strike, the presidents of the coal companies have given him such facts as he desired, including this correspondence, and it is now given to the public."

The operators further introduce the correspondence with a preface which gives in brief the history of the unionizing of the anthracite coal miners after the establishment of the United Mine Workers, originally an organization of bituminous coal miners. The agreement to an advance of 10 per cent in wages in 1901 following the strike of 1901, the abolishment of the sliding scale and finally the invitation of Feb. 14, 1902, to the operators to a joint conference to form a wage scale for the ensuing year are recited in this preface.

MITCHELL RETURNS.

Acts of Lawlessness In Coal Regions In Spite of Strike Leaders.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 11.—National President Mitchell of the Mine Workers' union, who went to New York Monday to meet Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, did not return to strike headquarters here until nearly midnight last night. In his absence nothing was given out regarding the anthracite strike in this state or the soft coal suspension in Virginia and West Virginia. There is no change in the situation in this region from either the viewpoint of the miner or the operator. It was a very quiet day.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the strike leaders to keep their men from committing acts of violence there continues to be acts of lawlessness which is rather annoying to the companies. There was stone throwing and firing of revolvers by a crowd which congregated in the vicinity of the William A. colliery of the Lehigh Valley company at Duryea. The crowd dispersed, however, before any one was injured. As a result of the assault upon a night watchman at Nanticoke last Saturday several persons, among them three women, have been arrested and held in bail to keep the peace. More arrests for the same assault are threatened by the company for whom the watchman worked.

Strikers Gain Ground.

THURMOND, W. Va., June 11.—The strikers have succeeded in tying up almost every operation in the New river district. Not 100 miners out of 6,000 were at work on Loup creek, and not a single car of coal has been sent down that branch. All the Chesapeake and Ohio shifting crews in this field have been laid off, and business is at a standstill. The fires are out in the thousands of coke ovens that have heretofore illuminated the New river valley, and from all indications the situation will not be seen improved.

A Button Trust.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 11.—Preliminary papers have been filed in the consolidation of the Newell Bros. Manufacturing company of this city, the Boston Button company of Boston and the Williston & Knight company of East Hampton under the corporation name of the United Button company. The corporation is capitalized at $3,000,000.

The Liberty Bell at Home.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—The Liberty bell, which has been on exhibition at Charleston, has been brought back to this city and replaced in its position in Independence hall. The famous relic was hauled through the streets to its old resting place escorted by troops and bands of music.

New York Sunday School Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 11.—The New York State Sunday School association has begun its forty-seventh annual meeting. The sessions will continue for three days.

Burleigh Renominated.

WATERVILLE, Me., June 11.—The Republicans of the Third congressional district have unanimously renominated Congressman E. C. Burleigh.

SUPPLY BILL PASSED

Naval Appropriation Calls For More Than $78,000,000.

SIX ADDITIONAL WARSHIPS PLANNED

Isthmian Canal Discussion Continued—House Defeats Measure to Transfer Forest Reserves to Agricultural Department.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Another of the big supply bills of the government was disposed of by the senate yesterday, the naval bill, carrying more than $78,000,000, being passed. It includes provisions for two first class battleships, two first class armored cruisers and two gunboats, but strikes out the house provision that one of each shall be built at government yards.

When consideration was resumed of the isthmian canal question, Mr. Turner delivered an extended argument in support of the Nicaragua route. He maintained that the new Panama company could not pass a clear title to the Panama Canal company's rights, franchises and property to the United States and that if this government purchased it it would be with all its incumbrances.

The house defeated the bill to transfer certain forest reserves to the agricultural department and to authorize the president to establish game and fish preserves. Its death was accomplished by striking out the enacting clause. The motion was made by Mr. Cannon and was carried by a vote of 100 to 70. He claimed that the bill would greatly increase the cost of administering forest reserves and declared that the estimated receipts for the next fiscal year already were exceeded by the appropriations up to the present time by over $51,000,000. The house then adopted a special order for the consideration of the Corliss Pacific cable bill by a vote of 108 to 73 and for the remainder of the afternoon listened to the author of the measure argue in favor of its passage.

The Wheat Prospects.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Preliminary reports of the spring wheat acreage indicate a reduction of about 2,511,000 acres, or 12.8 per cent. Of the nineteen states reporting spring wheat thirteen report a reduced acreage, Washington being the only state having 100,000 acres or upward in this product that reports an increase. The average condition of spring wheat on June 1 was 95.4 as compared with 92 at the corresponding date last year, 87.3 on June 1, 1900, and a ten year average of 92.6. The average condition of winter wheat on June 1 was 76 as compared with 87.8 on June 1, 1901, 82.7 on June 1, 1900, and 80.3 the mean average.

French Cod Fishermen in Hard Luck.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., June 11.—Official reports made to the Newfoundland fisheries department show that the French cod fishing on the Grand Banks this season has been an utter failure. On the first trip out from St. Pierre, Miquelon, the French fishing vessels were greatly hampered through want of bait. They tried to procure bait in Newfoundland waters, but were prevented from doing so by the colonial fisheries cruisers. The entire French fishing fleet of more than 100 large vessels has returned to St. Pierre with poor fares, the best catch amounting to only 250 quintals of cod.

To Dedicate Battle Reservation.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Elaborate preparations are being made by the American Scenic and Historic Preservation society for the formal dedication of Stony Point battlefield state reservation, of which it is custodian, on July 1, the anniversary of the storming of Stony Point by "Mad" Anthony Wayne. The society has expended $3,500 in improving the reservation, and for the first time it is connected with the public highway and accessible to the people. It has also built a fine dock capable of accommodating the largest river steamboats.

President's Family Homeward Bound

NEW YORK, June 11.—The government dispatch gunboat Dolphin, with Mrs. Roosevelt and the youngest children of the president on board, came into the harbor last evening from Washington. The Dolphin will stop here to enable Mrs. Roosevelt to do some shopping in the city and thereafter will proceed up the Long Island sound to Oyster Bay, where the president's family will spend the summer at their home.

The Dixie Out of Commission.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Dixie, which recently returned from St. Vincent and Martinique, where she carried a cargo of supplies for the sufferers from the volcanic eruptions on those islands, has sailed from this port, bound to the League Island navy yard at Philadelphia. Upon arrival there she will go out of commission for several months to undergo extensive repairs.

Gifts to Coronation Fund.

LONDON, June 11.—The corporation of London, the Rothschilds, the Morgans and Sir Ernest Cassel, the financier, have each donated $25,000 to the Mansion House fund for a national coronation gift to King Edward, which is to be applied to assist their majesties' hospital fund.

Sam Johnson Defeated by Tom L.

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—The Democratic state central committee has decided that the Democratic state convention shall be held in Sandusky Sept. 2 and 3. Sam E. Johnson was defeated by Tom L. Johnson for the temporary chairmanship of the convention.

DAVIS RENOMINATED.

Jones Turned Down by Arkansas Democrats.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 11.—The feature of the Democratic state convention, which opened at noon, was the ovation to former Governor James P. Clarke, who was declared by a resolution of the convention to be the Democratic nominee for United States senator to succeed James K. Jones. Some of the friends of Senator Jones opposed the resolution, and it was stated that Senator Jones demurred to the jurisdiction of the convention. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 429 to 72. Governor Clarke then addressed the convention and was accorded a great ovation.

When the convention met at noon, Hon. T. H. Humphreys of Fayetteville, speaker of the house, was elected temporary chairman. All but two counties were represented. Congressman Thomas C. McRae was made permanent chairman.

Governor Jefferson Davis, who carried seventy out of the seventy-five counties in the primaries, was renominated unanimously, the name of Colonel E. W. Recter of Hot Springs being withdrawn.

Governor Davis in accepting the nomination sprang a sensation by announcing himself as a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator James H. Berry, whose term expires in 1905.

Pelee's Eruption of June 6.

ST. THOMAS, Danish West Indies, June 11.—In the course of the eruption of Mont Pelee, on the island of Martinique, which occurred June 6 the sea rose about twenty-eight inches at Fort de France and then fell again. The rise of water did not cause any damage. The French cable repair ship Pouyer-Quertier was directly opposite the lower crater of the mountain on June 6 grappling for a cable five miles off shore when dense black clouds shot down from the volcano in the direction of the sea. This phenomenon was similar to that of May 8, but the clouds moved in another direction. The Pouyer-Quertier fled from the spot at full speed, and the clouds followed the steamer about one mile astern. The vessel's decks were covered deep with ashes, mud and stones, which rained from a huge cloud that had shot to a great height from the top of the crater. Ashes from this cloud fell upon the island of St. Lucia.

An Ovation to Patton.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—At the alumni dinner held in University hall yesterday afternoon President Patton was given one of the finest ovations that ever greeted a Princeton man. J. W. Alexander, '60, of New York presided, and when he introduced the retiring president the crowd went wild and cheered Dr. Patton for upward of ten minutes. He thanked the alumni for their cordial support during his fourteen years' administration and said he hoped that they would be fully as loyal to his successor, who would inaugurate a new policy and which ought to be inaugurated by him, who has twenty or twenty-five years of administration service before him.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 11.—A Chicago Great Western passenger train, due here at noon, was wrecked at Dean, a small station about seven miles north of this city. Only one passenger was injured, Henry Vanderbaugh, a traveling man, with headquarters in New York city. The entire train, consisting of seven coaches, left the track and rolled down a twelve foot embankment. The sleeping car was completely demolished, but not a single occupant was hurt.

NO BREAD RIOTS.

Havana Story Without Foundation. Annual Sugar Report.

HAVANA, June 11.—The statement published in the United States that a mob of the poor of this city surrounded the palace crying for bread and that President Palma took $1,000 from his private purse and with it purchased bread for the crowd is without foundation and arose from the fact that Monday President Palma gave $15 to some poor people.

An official report which has just been published shows that 724,000 tons of sugar were manufactured in Cuba between Jan. 1 and June 1. Two hundred and thirty-eight thousand tons of this sugar was shipped away from the island, and the remainder is being held to await the result of the movement to secure reciprocity between this island and the United States.

President Palma has signed the bill fixing the salaries of members of the Cuban senate and house of representatives at $3,500 a year.

BAD WRECK IN GEORGIA.

Two Killed and Twenty Injured on the Southern Railway.

MACON, Ga., June 11.—A southbound passenger train of the Southern railway proceeding out of Juliette, twenty-three miles north of Macon and not under full headway, was struck by a freight train on a sharp curve at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Aboard were many dentists coming to attend the state convention and a number of other well known men. The curve was so sharp that the passengers saw the approaching freight, and a panic developed instantly. The shock of the collision was so great that seats were smashed into splinters and glass into fragments. The engines and tenders were piled on each other.

Engineer Pittman and Fireman Ed West of the passenger train were pinned in their cab and killed. Engineer Galley of the freight escaped by jumping, but he was seriously injured. Galley says his watch was wrong, and he thought he had time to reach the Juliette siding. Twenty people were injured.

Pennypacker Forces Lead.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 11.—Bitterness between the leaders of the Pennypacker and Elkin factions cropped out several times during a meeting of the Republican state committee yesterday afternoon to prepare the roll of delegates and select the temporary officers of today's state convention. Senator Quay, the leader of the Pennypacker forces, and Attorney General Elkin, who was in personal command of his adherents, shook their fingers in each other's face and threatened political reprisals if each was not given fair treatment in the disposition of the contested seats in the convention. State Chairman Reeder accused Senator Quay of making a deliberate misstatement, and the senator instantly replied that this was an insult which he resented. The Pennypacker forces had a decisive majority in the committee, and United States Senator Penrose was named for temporary chairman.

Bulgarian Prince Received by Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria arrived here yesterday. He was received with great ceremony by the Grand Duke Vladimir, Count Lamsdorff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs; other high officials and a guard of honor. Prince Ferdinand drove to the villa of the empress, where he was received by the czar and czarina. Later the czar returned Prince Ferdinand's visit at the Grand palace at Peterhof, where the visitor is staying. The imperial family gave a dinner to Prince Ferdinand at the Grand palace in the evening.

Swarthmore's Fund Completed.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11. — The fund of $400,000 which was required by Swarthmore college to secure the services of Professor Joseph Swain of the Indiana university as president has been completed. Professor Swain signified his willingness to accept the presidency of the institution providing a fund of $400,000 was donated for the purpose of broadening the educational facilities of the college. The amount lacked $15,000 of the required sum, and a meeting of graduates and alumni was held at which the deficit was pledged.

Lawyer Demarest's Troubles.

NYACK, N. Y., June 11.—Frank P. Demarest, former member of the assembly from Rockland county, was arraigned in the Rockland county court yesterday on five indictments for attempted frauds upon the town of Clarkstown in presenting alleged false and fictitious claims to the aggregate amount of about $3,000 for services as counsel to various town officers, which services, it is declared, were not performed nor was Demarest employed to render such services.

Rising Against Castro.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, June 11.—Events are marching with giant strides in the country of Bolivar. President Castro of Venezuela has been forced to recognize that the Matos revolution is not a myth, for his best troops are beaten daily by the revolutionary forces, and at the present hour, from north to south, from east to west, the country is rising as one man against Castro.

BERLIN, June 11.—The German Atlantic Cable company has decided to lay another cable from Germany to the United States.

SING NATIONAL SONG

Boers Unite With British Following Surrender.

ERSTWHILE ENEMIES FRATERNIZE

Royal Troops Hold Up Trains and Offer Coffee and Tobacco to Their Former Foes—Foreign Allies Not Highly Esteemed.

PRETORIA, June 11.—The Boer commandoes that are arriving here bring reports of fresh and striking instances of fraternization between the Boers and the British troops. The surrender of a commando at Balmoral, Transvaal, was followed by a big "singsong" in which the Boers and the "Tommies" joined in singing "Rule Britannia." The British soldiers stationed at the block houses between Balmoral and Pretoria in some instances held up the trains and proffered coffee and tobacco to their late enemies.

Former Secretary Reitz, who was a member of the late Transvaal government, has brought in the only ambulance left in the north and a Cape cart loaded with documents, including a number of bank notes which were printed in the field, and some gold sovereigns which had been obtained by the process of "sweating."

The Boers generally hold unfavorable estimates of their foreign allies, except in the case of the Americans who fought with them, and these they declare to be crafty and great fighters. In the course of a conversation on the foreigners who had fought on the Boer side a prominent commandant said: "All the Germans are fit for is to give horses sore backs."

A proclamation has been issued substituting a tax of 10 per cent net on the profits of mining operations for the 5 per cent tax that was imposed by the late volksraad.

Fastest Mail Service Yet.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The fastest daily mail service ever attempted between New York and eastern cities and St. Louis and western points is provided for in arrangements made by the postoffice department effective next Sunday. The contract calls for a daily schedule of 23½ hours between New York and St. Louis over the Pennsylvania. Beginning Sunday a fast mail train will leave New York at 2:45 a. m. daily and arrive at St. Louis at 2:15 o'clock Monday morning. This shortens the present schedule between New York and St. Louis by about eight hours and practically means a gain of a day for eastern mail bound to far western points and the southwest.

Car Ferry Capsizes.

MACKINAW CITY, Mich., June 11.—The big car ferryboat St. Ignace turned turtle while loading cars at St. Ignace early yesterday and went to the bottom of the slip in twenty-four feet of water. The entire crew escaped without injury. The accident was caused by loading one side of the ferryboat with heavy cars of iron ore, with nothing on the other side to counterbalance the weight. The sinking of the St. Ignace leaves the railroads between the two Michigan peninsulas without means of transferring their trains across the strait of Mackinac.

The Gaulois at Lisbon.

LISBON, Portugal, June 11.—The French battleship Gaulois, which left Boston June 1 with some of the members of the French mission which went to the United States to attend the unveiling in Washington of the statue of the Count de Rochambeau on board, has arrived here. General Brugere, the commander in chief of the French army, called at the American legation here. He spoke enthusiastically about America and the Americans and expressed himself as greatly pleased at the way in which the French mission had been received.

Colombian Rebels Surrender.

PANAMA, Colombia, June 11.—The Colombian minister of war has sent a circular to the departmental governors of the country in which he says that after the recent government victories over the Liberal forces more than 200 officers of the Liberal army, ranking from general down to sublieutenant, and more than 2,000 Liberal soldiers have accepted the conditions imposed by the government and surrendered. The names of all these Liberals have been published.

Subway For Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Former Mayor Hempstead Washburne, William A. Alexander and S. S. Gregory will soon ask the council for permission to build a subway extending to all parts of the city and honeycombing the entire downtown district. An expenditure of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 is contemplated by the projectors, who plan to turn the huge tunnel over to the city at the end of fifteen years.

Gifts to Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 11.—John S. Huyler of New York has given $15,000 to promote the work of the Christian associations of Syracuse university. The trustees of the university have subscribed $22,000 to pay the annual deficiency of the university. The university confers degrees today.

Most Sentence Affirmed.

ALBANY, June 11.—The court of appeals has affirmed the judgment of conviction against John Most for having published in New York city inflammatory literature just prior to the assassination of President McKinley. Most was sentenced to one year in the New York county penitentiary.

Weather Probabilities.

RELEGATE PARTISANSHIP.

Now that the advocates of the Greater Plainfield have set a date for the vote on the annexation of Plainfield to the county of Union, the opponents of the plan cannot claim that there is any attempt being made to delay action on the subject. This is not the time to bring the subject to vote. The feeling is entirely too bitter. By September, the hot blood of some of the more active "antis" ought to be cooled down sufficiently to permit a serious and thoughtful consideration of the question. As soon as the boroughites can carefully consider the subject and become fully posted, the election should be held without delay.

When you come to think about it, it is really remarkable the amount of bitterness this contest has developed. Never has the community been so bitterly divided since the Civil War. There is really no cause for any such state of affairs and it is to be hoped that careful thought will bring all to a realization that everybody has a perfect right to his or her opinion and that to think differently is not a crime. This subject can never be fairly settled as long as this utterly foreign influence remains. Let it be eliminated without delay and let every citizen of the borough agree to give the subject his fair and unprejudiced attention so that it may be decided at the polls by its merits alone and not on personalities.

All this cannot be accomplished in a moment. It will require a little time to calm down the minds of those who have become particularly partisan but that is to be expected. There are now two organizations in the borough, one of which is avowedly in support of the Greater Plainfield movement and the other frankly against it. It is the duty of the officers of both to use their personal influence to bring calm and clear judgment to the fore ground and let bitter partisanship be relegated to the back.

The Philadelphia Record remarks that after interviewing many business men the Buffalo Times affirms that a great and increasing number have decided to spend no more money on theatre programmes, bill boards, handbills, and the like, but will confine their annoucements almost exclusively to the advertising columns of the newspaper.

The Daily Press is ready to receive any subscriptions which may be made for either the babies' camp of the City Union of King's Daughters or the fresh air camp which is to be established at Netherwood. Surely there are enough good people in this city who will extend the aid of their purses for these very worthy charities.

Lots of Ping-Pong.

The new and fascinating game of ping pong will be much in evidence at the lawn fete of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Saturday afternoon and evening. Several sets have been purchased for the purpose and those who care not for other divertisement may try their skill at the present New York and London rage. Other novelties are also being prepared by the committees.

Summer Arrangement.

The First Presbyterian church Sunday-school will begin holding the session in the morning for the summer Sunday.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

John Blimm, of Somerset street, is much improved from his recent illness.

Charles Denny, of Long Island, has returned home after a visit with friends in Plainfield.

George H. Carlton, of South Second street, has gone to Roxbury, Mass., for a visit with relatives.

Frank Emmons, of Prospect avenue, has returned home after a visit to friends in Asbury Park.

Miss Hattie Grant, of Grove street, has returned home after a visit to friends in New York city.

Mrs. William D. Bauer, of Somerville, is spending a short time with her parents on East Front street.

John Y. Barrett, the Green Brook milk dealer, wears a broad smile. It's a little girl, nearly two weeks old.

Mrs. F. W. Barton, of New York, has returned home after a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barton, of Spooner avenue.

Charles W. McCutchen and family, of Rockview avenue, will leave for their summer home in the Adirondacks about the first of July.

Mrs. D. K. Smith and daughter, Miss Emma, of Franklin, N. J., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Seymour G. Smith, of Carlton avenue.

Miss Kitty Muldowney, of this city, has recovered from a successful operation performed by Dr. W. Kempton Browning at the hospital.

Mrs. Martha Richmond and daughter, Miss Jennie Richmond, of New York, are spending a few days with Mrs. Alexander G. Martin, of East Sixth street.

FINAL MUSICALE.

Given by the Pupils of Miss Mabel Maxson Yesterday Afternoon.

The final musicale of Miss Mabel Maxson's pupils was given yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. W. M. Runyon, on East Front street, where the parents and friends of the pupils assembled to enjoy the event. The guests were seated on the piazza and in the music room and the arrangement was pleasing.

Those whose names appeared in the programme were the Misses Margaret Rafferty, Margaret Vail, Marie Rogers, Leah Wightman, Ouida Hetfield, Kathryn Sminck, Winifred Cadwell, Gladys Chase, Jessie Clawson, Annie Rafferty, Gwendolyn Gough and Roland Wightman, Reginald Gough and Frank Schwed. Much credit is due the pupils, as well as the teacher, as it was the first appearance of the former before an audience and the selections were given from memory.

DEATH OF BERNETT COSGROVE.

Passed Away Yesterday Afternoon After a Long Illness.

Bernett Cosgrove, aged seventy-seven years, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 542 East Second street, following a long illness.

Mr. Cosgrove has lived in New Jersey about ten years and has been a resident of Plainfield several years. For some time past he has lived in retirement. He owned considerable property in Plainfield. He was a member of the Asbestos Club and when able frequently visited the club. He is survived by a wife and son, William Cosgrove.

The funeral services will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Coming Here Again.

Mrs. E. A. Gross has leased her attractive home on West Seventh street to Alfred Beiling, a New York merchant. Mr. Beiling spent last summer in Plainfield and he and his family so thoroughly enjoyed the beautiful lawn of Mrs. Gross' property that he has again leased it, and took possession last Wednesday. Mrs. Gross will probably spend the summer at Narragansett Pier.

Has Trial Tonight.

Wm. Packer, of Plainfield, was arrested last night by Chief Campbell and Officer Adelmann, of the borough, on a charge of drunkenness. His trial comes up this evening before Recrder Doud.

Novelty Social.

A novelty festival will be held tomorrow evening at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

H. M. Swartzman, one of the men who is employed in building the new iron factory at West Dunellen, sustained a severe and painful injury while at work yesterday morning. He was using an adze when it slipped and gave him a bad cut in the foot. He was taken to Dr. Brakeley's office where his wound was dressed. He will be unable to work for some time.

The Dunellen Fire Company started out to the fire last night but when the members found it was at Kerwin's and out of the limits they returned sorry they had not had a chance to display their prowess.

The members of the Friday Afternoon Whist Club spent yesterday at Midland Beach. The day was greatly enjoyed with the amusements at the beach.

The local Sunday-schools will send their usual excursions to the seashore this year. Asbury Park will probably be the destination.

C. D. Boice left for Cleveland, Ohio, Monday, to enter upon a position he has taken there.

The Y. M. C. baseball team will play a second team from Raritan on Saturday.

Mrs. M. E. Tunison, of Port Murray, is visiting Lewis Tunison, of the borough.

The Banjo Club practiced Monday evening in preparation for commencement.

The brass band will meet for the usual practice this evening in Apgar's Hall.

Wm. G. Holton Council met last evening and transacted routine business.

Prayer meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 in the local churches.

Work is going on rapidly at the new factory at West Dunellen.

Michael Moynihan visited in Elizabeth yesterday.

W. H. Terry is confined to his home by illness.

NEW MARKET.

The local baseball team has scheduled two games with the Dunellen team, and are confident of giving the boroughites a good rub.

The young son of Harry Hayes, of Randolphville, has about recovered from a severe illness.

Miss Nellie White, of Orange, is spending some time with relatives in the township.

The Friendship Social Circle will hold a regular meeting this evening.

A number from here went to the fire at Kerwin's last evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Johnston, of the baseball team, is trying to arrange a game for Saturday afternoon with the Garwood team which recently beat the Rahway Field Club. If the arrangements are not perfected with this team, there are several other good clubs that are open for a game so the fans can rest assured that there will be a game.

AT THE CIRCUS.

Interesting Features of a Show That Will Appear in Plainfield.

Among the many features to be seen at Lowery Brothers enlarged circus which appears in this city tomorrow and Friday, are Grant Brothers, in their marvellous the thrilling acrobatic feats; Norman in his great twenty-five foot drop; Baby Irene, the most clever contortionist in the world and one of the most clever little performers with any circus; the Cabers, the Australian gymnasts; O'Brien, the clown; the Lewis dogs and many others. The attendants are kind and courteous and nothing is lacking to provide a high class entertainment. Previous to each performance, Professor David McDade will make one of his balloon ascensions and daring parachute leaps.

TRIMMING THE MAPLES.

Work Being Done by Street Commissioner Gavett's Men.

Street Commissioner Gavett has had men trimming the tall maples on West Fourth street below Plainfield avenue, the past week, and the improvement is a much appreciated one. The limbs formerly hung over the walks and street so low that pedestrians and wagons were greatly bothered by them. The work will be continued in other parts of the city.

Reduced Rates to Boston.

The New Jersey Central has on sale at its stations reduced rate tickets to Boston for the meeting of the First church of Christ Scientists, to be held June 12 to 17, tickets good returning to and including June 25. Boston is the Cradle of Liberty and it teems with revoluntionary interests. Its suburbs are delightful and one who takes advantage of this opportunity will be more than repaid.

Snapped Wrist Bone in Fall.

While Irving Mann, of Plainfield avenue, was running on Liberty street yesterday afternoon, he tripped suddenly and fell. He landed on his right arm and the wrist bone was broken. The injury was dressed by Dr. Currie.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

A lady is in attendance this week at Powers' pharmacy giving a grape juice demonstration. Every caller is served free with a glass of this popular drink.

Sebring, the Park avenue tailor, thoroughly understands his business and if you need anything in his line you can save money by purchasing your clothing there.

Of course she'll appreciate a gift of a set of silverware. All June brides do. Collier, of Park avenue, has them in many designs, any one of which would captivate any feminine heart.

I. H. Boehm, West Front street, is making a special sale of silks, wash goods, boys' waists and mattings. His assortment of silks is the largest and best in the city at prices the very lowest.

Beef trusts don't seem to bother Fred Endress, the West Front street butcher. He is making special reductions this week in prime roasts, chops and steak. Jersey spring lamb is a star feature of his stock.

John G. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor, is a master of the tape. If you want to get inside of a neat fitting suit of clothes, at a price that will not lessen the weight of your pocket, negotiate with Bantle.

T. L. Walsh, the North avenue market man, has one of the finest displays of fresh vegetables to be seen in the city. It embraces everything in season and at a price which admits of no hesitancy in buying. All orders are delivered.

The name of Rogers used in connection with seafood is a guarantee for its freshness. The Rogers company is the largest handler of fish, oysters and clams in this city. They make a specialty of selling for cash and at a very low price.

There is never any question about the quality of the goods or the price at Peck's on West Front street. You can always depend on getting the best and as for the price—why you pay no more than they ask in New York for the same quality.

It is to the credit of Plainfield that there is such a store in the city as the one conducted by Woodhull & Martin. This firm carries such a large stock of seasonable goods in every department that it is unnecessary to go to New York any more. Every department is just filled with the best quality of goods and you pay a reasonable price. Every day is bargain day at this store.

SHIRTWAIST DANCE.

Arrangements Made at Meeting of I. C. T. Club Last Evening.

At a business meeting of the I. C. T. Club, held last evening, final arrangements were completed for the "shirtwaist" dance which is to be held on Thursday evening, June 19. A committee to take charge was appointed and consists of George L. Apgar, Hiram Humes, Clarence Bilyeu, Charles Overbaugh and Clare Bickel.

Two candidates were admitted to membership and the club selected a uniform hat to be worn during the summer and also a design for a club pin.

CAUSED SURPRISE.

The Marriage of Miss Edith Welsh and Arthur VanCleef.

There was considerable surprise yesterday when announcement was made of the marriage of Arthur Van Cleef, only son of Freeholder and Mrs. Cornelius G. VanCleef, to Miss Edith Welsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Welsh, which was celebrated quietly at Somerville Tuesday, June 3, by Rev. Alexander Mc William. The bride and groom are both residents of East Millstone, where they are well-known. They also have friends and relatives in this city.

For The Valiant Prize.

The final examinations in mathematics for the Valiant prize were held in the North Plainfield High School yesterday morning. The first prize is $15 in gold, the second $10 in gold. The result of the examination will be announced Commencement day.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. SAVE THE CHILDREN.

That Seems to Be the Object of Modern Philanthropy.

Grand Work Done in the Five Points District of New York by Two Up-to-Date Charitable Organizations.

[Special New York Letter.]

THOUSANDS of bright, clean-faced children are playing in Paradise park to-day. Their clothes are faded, but they are well washed and comfortable, and their eyes are sparkling with happiness. A tinkling of a bell is heard. The boys and girls instantly stop play and hasten into the large, airy school rooms. On the other side of the square, in a tall building, 50 round babies with fat cheeks and fluffy hair are being taken out of tiny iron cribs, and amid much wrestling and considerable noise, are becoming as presentable as water, soap and neat bib and tuckers can make them. A few years ago in this very spot even the policemen did not dare to walk alone in the daytime in the streets, which were practically abandoned to criminals and thugs. Education has wrought the change.

And in no place in the world is the refining influences of education and light over debauchery, crime and poverty more marked than in this same district of New York, known as the Five Points. There, surrounded by the lowest forms of human vice and depravity, have arisen the noble walls of two institutions that every year lead out of darkness and slavery into civilization and good citizenship armies of unprotected, unfed and untutored children of the slums.

These institutions are the Five Points Mission house at 63 Park street and its big neighbor just across the way, the House of Industry, 155 Worth street. They are in the heart of a locality that is still the synonym of all that is vicious and degenerate in the metropolis, although the moral condition of the surroundings has improved vastly over the old state of affairs. So frightful did Dickens think the place that he said of it in his "American Notes:" "Debauchery has made the very houses prematurely old. Where dogs would howl to lie, women, men and boys slink off the street."

Worth, Park and Baxter streets meet here in such a way as to form five corners, and from this topographical peculiarity the name is derived. The little plat of ground made by the crossing of these streets was converted into a pleasure common by the city in 1848, and, as if in mockery to the ragged, miserable dwellers of the shambling tenements, it was called Paradise park.

One day in 1853 the residents of the district stood in open-mouthed wonderment as workmen began to tear down the "Old Brewery," and the word was passed around that the site was to be occupied by a building of the Ladies' Home Missionary society, of the Methodist church, an organization that had been working among them for three years, with headquarters in a small room in one of the rickety buildings in the neighborhood. The "Old Brewery" was one of the landmarks of criminal New York. It was erected as a brewery in 1792, and in 1837 was changed into a tenement house. It became the headquarters of the worst cutthroats of the new and the old world. Many men were murdered there, and the expression, "sudden death of the Old Brewery," became a common one in police circles. The house was called the "Den of Thieves," and the narrow alley which ran around it was known as "Murderers' alley."

Into this building the mission moved, and in commemoration of the event the poet Mercein wrote:

God Knows it's time thy walls were going;
Through every stone life blood as through a heart is flowing.

The new building was completed in 1895, the one erected in 1853 having become inadequate to the wants of the institution. The work of the Five Points mission is carried on in a most practical manner. In addition to a day school, a sewing school, a reading room and fresh air work are a kindergarten, a kitchen garden and a day nursery. All the pupils come from the lowest order of civilized society. The greater per cent. of them are of foreign parentage. They would receive no education whatever were it not for the mission.

The mission does not wholly take care of the children, and it is not a home in the sense of giving them shelter at night. All who attend the day school are given their dinners at noon, and their clothing is furnished to them by voluntary contributions from the outside. The meals are furnished by an organization known as the "Dinner club," the members of which, unlike similarly named associations, do not dine themselves, but each subscribes five dollars annually. For this sum a child can be supplied with dinners for a year.

Another society is called the "Shoe club." It undertakes to keep the children in shoes for a year, and the membership for that time is one dollar. While the chief endeavor is to educate and care for the little ones, relief is also furnished to men and women, many of whom receive clothing. On an average between 1,000 and 1,200 children are taught at the mission during the year. There are twelve teachers in the schools, which are of the primary and first grade of gammar. In addition to their studies the children are given physical culture. The girls are also taught household duties and cooking, and, in order to appreciate what is being done for them, must make themselves useful to others. An instance of this work is shown in the neat scrap books they are preparing for the children of the Harriet Skidmore orphanage in India. The books are made purely for the amusement and instruction of the Indian children, few of whom have ever seen pictures outside of the text-books. Dressmaking is another branch of learning that has been commenced this summer.

IN THE BABIES' DORMITORY.

The boys are likewise taught those things that will be likely to be the most practical to them in their stations in life. Their physical development is attended to in the gymnasium and in order to arouse their spirit of patriotism and instil a love for the country which is now to be theirs a company has been formed, and with Quaker muskets the young soldiers keep step to the beats of the drum every day after school. One point is insisted on by the management; the children must be kept clean. Those who come dirty to school are hurried away to the bath rooms and undergo a thorough course of scrubbing.

Two years ago an acceptable gift was recived by the mission. A beautiful home, surrounded by 22 acres of land, located at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, was given by John Olmsted and his sister, Miss Sarah Olmsted, both of whom have been greatly interested in the mission work and have contributed to it generously. To this place the children are taken during the hot summer months, when their poor homes become heated ovens. They go in groups of 100 at a time for two weeks.

In addition to the children taught at the day school and fed, every day assistance was rendered last year to 600 families and 7,000 individuals. Over $500 was donated for coal and nearly 25,000 articles of new and second-hand clothing were given to needy persons, not including 1,600 pairs of shoes. One hundred and ten thousand meals were served to adults.

Another great work in rescuing children from this locality is being carried on by the House of Industry. It was originally incorporated in 1854 as an industrial school for adults, but is now confined to children entirely. It is a large, well-ventilated brick building and is divided into chapel, class rooms and living apartments. One of the points of most interest to the visitor is the sleeping-room of the babies. They all take naps at noon and, just before going to sleep for the night, kneel down together in their night gowns by the sides of their cribs and pray. The dormitories are large and airy and the beds are spotlessly clean. The little ones are seated in tiny chairs in the chapel during religious service. Their cleanliness and the manner in which they deport themselves would do honor to any fashionable upper West side quarter in the city. They are like white flowers in this oasis of East side [illegible]

THE COMMENCEMENT GOWN

How It Should Be Made For the Sweet Girl Graduate.

A young girl just about to graduate from her school is as perfect a creation as can be found. I believe I would rather see one than a bride with all the pomp and circumstance of church and the other things that go to make wedding a wonderful thing. A woman may be married several times if so she wills, while a girl is never graduated from school but once, and if she were a second time she would never be so sweet again.

This season there are so many dainty commencement gowns that one can do no more than choose a few for description and as a guide for mothers and girls. Silk mull and chiffon, white swiss, white mercerized mull, clairette, organdie, white china silk and some of the dainty zephyrs—all are seen in the graduation gowns. And they are in whatever color best pleases the fair wearer. White, however, is the choice, for with white any kind of color, as ribbon ornamentation or flowers, may be worn, while those in colors can afford no such variety. And a graduation gown of white can be made a very useful affair for many other occasions. I give an illustration of one which is peculiarly girlish and dainty. The entire skirt is tucked all around, the tucks reaching lower in front than in the back, and they end above the knees to let the rest fall out like a flounce. The very bottom has a ruching of the eolienne, bordered at both edges with a narrow lace to match that employed on the waist. The dress is white. The whole waist is made of falls of wide white lace, the two lower ones being gathered to the foundation to form the blouse. At the top a square yoke is formed of the lace, and the sleeves are also made by setting one line above the other. The draped belt is of louisine satin ribbon of the same color as the ribbon to tie the essay. The sleeves are in this instance made to the elbow, but others reach to the wrist.

Crepon is pretty for graduation dresses, and so is delicate organdie. I saw some organdie where the flowers were so faint in tint that they scarcely showed until the material was laid over white. There was a border of the same design to use as flounce or as bands for the blouse and sleeves.

The slippers for these young girls are the prettiest slippers in the world. They are made of black satin kid or of white kid. The black satin or kid seems to be the best choice. The heels are higher than they have been, and there are some with straps, others with fancy jet beadings and others with tiny bows of black ribbon or velvet with minute steel or jet buckles.

Gloves are governed in length by the shape of the sleeves, and they in turn are governed solely by the wish of the wearer. Long sleeves do not have quite so festive an effect as elbow ones, but the long gloves cost more than the long sleeves.

For the hair the most appropriate dressing is to have the arrangement as girlish as possible. A flower may be placed wherever it seems the most becoming, or a Marie Antoinette band of steel covered with twisted ribbon, ending at the sides with small bows of the same ribbon, may be worn. These bands, called snoods, are very pretty and have the merit of being novel, and they may be worn with any costume, while "roses bloom and then they wither."

One of the prettiest of these commencement gowns was made of swiss striped at quite wide intervals, and between the stripes was set a trimming of cream lace motifs in form of butterflies. Around the bottom was a perfect fluff of narrow shaped ruffles, each being edged with cream lace. The blouse was high in the neck, and the sleeves were very wide bishop's, but made narrow at the top by clusters of tucks, with the lace butterflies set along wherever there was room. This plan of having the lace made in designs and different sizes and widths is an excellent one. The wide lines are for the skirts and the narrow ones for waists and sleeves. Nearly all have set pieces where the central figure in the insertion or edging is wrought separate, so that they may be put anywhere. This makes it easy for a lady to trim a costume, even to a parasol, all to match.

Liberty silk is very well liked for commencement dresses, but nothing is quite so dainty as chiffon or silk mull. It is so soft and filmy that it seems to have been made to grace youth and innocence. Next to that in point of suitableness is the soft, mercerized mull.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

ABOUT BLOUSES.

Hints to the Woman Who Makes Hers at Home.

Crepe de chine of the new washable make and oriental satin can be intrusted to the laundress, and on that account they are valuable for the unlined summer silk waists, which are so cool and useful. They really wear better and are cheaper than the cheaper muslins and pongee silks. The successful blouse must be worn over a properly made silk or satin slip. This is infinitely more becoming than the lined blouse and commends itself to practical women on account of the two being far easier to wash or clean when separate.

Another thing which should not be forgotten is that the success of the blouse depends largely upon the adjustment of the same, and as an aid to this the importance of the proper kind of belt cannot be overestimated.

POINT D'ESPRIT RUFFLE.

The long waisted girl should wear a belt which is wide in the back, and her short waisted sister should adopt the merest thread of a girdle. Soft crush belts give an illusion of smallness to a common sense waist line. The tendency of fashion at present is to shorten the waist excessively in the back and make it correspondingly long in the front.

This charming neck ruffle is of tinted point d'esprit, with a lace edge. There are three graduated frills, which form a cape effect. The long ends reach to within a few inches of the bottom of the skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SILK SUITS.

Smart Effects In Taffeta Jackets and Skirts.

Taffeta or moire silk is just now considered very smart when used for suits.

Taffeta is our old friend glace silk, but with a softer finish, which adds to its durability without destroying the bright surface. The most useful form of a taffeta suit is a well trimmed skirt and a sack bolero. The bolero must be extremely smart, with large collar, the new underfronts and undersleeves and many tabs of velvet and tiny steel or paste buttons.

A pretty taffeta skirt is made tucked on the hips, and it has a separate godet flounce which is cut plain for the lining and overlaid with three flounces cut in the same shape and without fullness for the top. Stitched bands of satin decorate the flounces and form a border above, in which is inclosed a black guipure lace insertion over a lining of white satin.

Another skirt model is all trimmed with bands of chantilly lace set in perpendicularly. The silk is cut out under these insertions in order to show glimpses of a white silk lining.

The sketch shows a dainty corset cover made of fine nainsook. The straps are laid in fine tucks and are bordered with tiny beadings; the rest of the corset cover is laid in squares formed by bands of insertion and filled in with tucks and embroidered wreaths.

THE STURGIS WAGER

A DETECTIVE STORY.

By EDGAR MORETTE.

Copyright, 1899, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.

"Ever since Sprague's dinner," said Murdock, "I have been devoting all my spare time to the reading of the Tempest, in the hope of finding there a sensational account, with glaring headlines, of the brilliant work of our 'distinguished reporter, Mr. Sturgis.'"

Sturgis made no reply. His eyes were fixed upon the typewriter which stood near Murdock's desk.

"Up to the present time," continued Murdock, "I have not seen anything to cause me to worry about my stakes."

"I have still 28 days in which to complete my case," said Sturgis.

"True," replied Murdock. "Well, I wish you luck. If I can render you any assistance in your investigations I hope you will call upon me. In the cause of science I would willingly jeopardize my stakes. For instance, if you need to consult any works of reference, my library is at your disposal. I am told that, at least on the subjects in which you are interested, it is quite complete."

He observed the reporter narrowly, as if to mark the effect of his words.

"It is," replied Sturgis, after an almost imperceptible hesitation; "I have already admired it."

"Indeed?" said Murdock, arching his brows in mild surprise.

"Yes; I stepped into the library for a few minutes while I was waiting for you."

"Ah! yes; I see."

Murdock gave the reporter another searching look. Then he leant back in his easy chair with half-closed eyes and silently puffed away at his cigar for a few minutes.

Had Sturgis been able to read the sinister thoughts which were passing through the mind of this impassive man as he sat apparently in lazy enjoyment of his fragrant Havana, it is probable that he might have lost some of the interest which he seemed suddenly to have developed in the typewriter. But he was busy with his own train of thought, and therefore was not paying any particular attention to Murdock.

Presently the chemist spoke again: "On second thoughts, Mr. Sturgis, if you will step into my laboratory I shall be pleased to show you those of the results of my recent researches which are ready for publication."

The reporter was surprised at this sudden change of front, and perhaps a trifle suspicious, for he was beginning to weld together many hitherto isolated facts into a strong chain which was leading him from the Knickerbocker bank and Chatham, through the Manhattan Chemical company, to the emotionless man in whose presence he now stood. Some important links were missing, however, and Sturgis could not afford to lose any chance of making the chain complete.

He therefore accepted Murdock's invitation, in the hope of making some discovery which would throw positive light upon the somewhat hazy situation.

SHOVED THE REPORTER INTO THE EXTENSION.

"Very well," said Murdock; "wait for me just one minute while I open the ventilators of the laboratory. It becomes pretty close in there when the place has been shut up for some time."

So saying, Murdock turned a crank which projected from the wall. A grating sound was heard, as of the rasping of metal upon metal. Then he returned to his desk, where he busied himself for a few minutes under pretext of looking for some notes of his experiments. When apparently he had found what he was seeking he went toward the door of the extension. This was of massive hard wood. Before turning the knob, the chemist stooped as though to examine the lower hinge. Sturgis was not consciously following Murdock's movements. His mind was bent upon accomplishing a certain object; and, with that end in view, he was gradually drawing nearer to the typewriter. But so accustomed was he to receiving detailed impressions of all that occurred before his eyes, that the chemist's actions, unimportant as they seemed at the time, were unconsciously recorded upon the reporter's brain.

Murdock opened the door of the extension and passed out of the room. Sturgis, watching his chance, snatched up a sheet of paper from the table, inserted it in the typewriter and rattled off something as fast as he could. Looking up when he had finished he saw that Murdock had returned and was observing him with a sardonic grin.

"More happy thoughts?" he inquired.

"Yes," answered Sturgis, calmly folding the paper and slipping it into the pocket of his coat.

Murdock chuckled to himself, as if enjoying a quiet joke.

"Well," said he, "if you will do me the honor, we can step down into the laboratory."

Sturgis nodded and went toward the door which Murdock held open. As he passed the chemist the reporter caught his eye and, in a flash, read there some sinister purpose, which caused him to hesitate, on his guard.

At that moment there came a knock upon the hall door.

"Pshaw!" exclaimed Murdock, "here comes an interruption, I suppose. Please step downstairs; I shall be with you directly."

With these words he quietly but firmly shoved the reporter into the extension and, with a rapid motion, pushed forward the door.

Sturgis almost lost his balance, but instinctively put out his foot between the door and the jamb. He felt a strong pressure from the outside, but he knew he was master of the situation and patiently bided his time. Presently the pressure ceased and he was able to open the door.

Murdock wore an air of pained surprise.

"What is it?" he inquired.

"I have just remembered an important engagement," said Sturgis, unruffled. "I fear, after all, that I shall be unable to visit your laboratory at present. I hope, however, that the pleasure is only postponed for a short time."

"I hope so," replied Murdock, calmly meeting his steady gaze.

All this had happened in the space of a few seconds. Meanwhile the knocking at the door was renewed.

"Come in," said Murdock, moving toward his easy-chair.

The door opened and a servant appeared.

"Plaze, sur, Miss Agnes wud loike ter know kin yer resarve her sum toime this afthernoon?"

"Yes, Mary; tell Miss Agnes I shall be in all the rest of the afternoon, and that I shall be at her disposal at any time."

Sturgis, picking up his hat and coat, hurried from the house.

"Why did he want to shut me in the extension?" he asked himself over and over, and he could find no satisfactory answer to the question.

Then he took from his pocket the lines he had written on Murdock's typewriter and compared them carefully with those on the sheet which he had laboriously pieced together in the Knickerbocker bank on the previous day.

The result of the examination was apparently satisfactorily; for, when Sturgis returned the papers to his pocket, his face wore an expression of calm but unmistakable triumph.

TROOPS TO WAR ON RATS.

General Chaffee Takes Steps to Prevent Spreading of the Plague in the Philippines.

The rat problem in the Philippines has now become so important that for a time the American soldier will turn his attention to fighting them instead of insurgents. In Manila 1% per cent of the rats captured were found infected by plague, and it is to remove this menace to health and safety of the American troops that orders have been issued by Gen. Chaffee to exterminate the rats, says a Washington report.

So far the plague has been kept down by rigid sanitary rules, and a constant warfare against the rats, but Gen. Chaffee, to guard against an epidemic of the disease, has issued an order, in which he calls the attention of commanding officers and all others responsible for the care of troops to the absolute necessity for the extermination of rats in barracks, quarters and other buildings occupied by officers and enlisted men and civilian employes, and for the immediate disinfection of such buildings, if plague rats are discovered therein.

He advises that they be killed by the use of poison, the principal component of which is arsenic, and gives minute directions for carrying on a campaign, and for the disinfection of dead rats by immersion in a solution of carbolic acid.

ENGLISH RAILWAY SERVICE.

Noted Traveler Calls It Poor as Compared with American, German and French.

In every respect the United States is superior to England—comparing like with like—but what is more notable, in Germany and France railway travel is cleaner, more speedy, and cheaper. No week passes that I do not run out from London for country air, and wherever I find a train that reaches its destination on time I make a note of it as a strange thing, writes Poultney Bigelow, in New York Independent. There are one or two trains that run fairly fast, according to British notions, and are tolerably good, owing to a faint degree of competition, but in the majority of cases the Englishman is satisfied to travel 25 miles an hour in dirty carriages which are not heated in winter and which are habitually late in starting and arriving. And as to overcrowding, I have frequently found myself in railway carriages wherein passengers have had to stand up all the way after having paid their fares. So far as my experience goes, I can travel with more speed and comfort in a German third-class carriage from Berlin to any big town like Hamburg, Frankfort or Cologne than in a first-class carriage in England, and it will cost me about one-fifth of the English price.

ONE OYSTER FEEDS 75 MEN.

A most remarkable oyster has recently been taken from Niagara river by two Buffalo fishermen.

The shell alone, without the meat, weighs 212 pounds, and is two feet eight inches across and 19 inches broad. It contained 50 genuine pearls, says a report from that city.

That it might be proven that his wonderful tale was no "fish story" the oyster was placed on exhibition for a week at a Buffalo saloon, where the public was bidden to come and see it.

The meat was cooked and made into a stew, which filled to the brim two eight-quart pails. Seventy-five men partook of the repast it furnished.

The fishermen made the find when their net caught on a snag of some sort and was held fast. As the water was shallow, not more than waist deep, one of them jumped from the boat to investigate and found the net attached to what seemed a big rock.

It was covered with a white substance resembling lime, and its peculiar appearance induced the fishermen to take it ashore with them. There, when it was washed off, they discovered, to their amazement, that they had a mammoth oyster.

One Mystery Solved.

"I have in my hallway," said a householder, "one of those Japanese curtains made of long strings of bamboo and colored beads that are so pleasant in the summer time and so artistic always. Recently I found that the beads on this curtain were disappearing at a great rate. I would examine them in the evening, and in the morning I would find that a dozen or two were gone. One night I saw a mouse leap up at the curtain, bite a bead off and run away with it. 'What,' I asked myself, 'does a mouse want with a glass bead?' and I made a close investigation that proved that, while some of the globules were glass, many were rice grains, which are, I suppose, cheaper than glass in the orient. In nearly all Japanese curtains you'll find, if you examine them, that the pale beads are rice."

A Monster Hog.

Down in Vladosta, Ga., recently, a hog was killed whose gross weight was 1,260 pounds; his net weight was 955. Each ham weighed 102 pounds. This fat monster produced 510 pounds of lard, or nearly 1½ tierces—enough to last a small family about four years. Besides the lard, there was nearly a wagonload of sausage from this one pig, to say nothing of big dishpans full of hogshead cheese, liver pudding and other products.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

C. S. Tapscott is about to organize a baseball club and would like to hear from first-class players who are desirous of joining a good team. Mr. Tapscott's address is 212 West Front street.

Whitly, the Orange Field Club pitcher, is proving a puzzler to batsmen of minor teams this season. He is rapidly developing into a crackerjack twirler and League managers would do well to watch him.

Next Saturday the North Plainfield High School team will don their uniforms once more and play the Port Richmond, S. I. team at that place. The Port Richmondites were dissatisfied with the result of the last game and have asked for a return match.

"Volunteer" Ward, second baseman for the Safe Works, has not been playing in his usual form of late. He was formerly rated as a sure catch and safe hitter but his work in the League games has been below standard. For the present, however, Manager Muir will not shift him.

At Monday evening's League meeting, two new names were presented as players: Shortman, by Manager Cose and Smith by Manager Heywood. Umpires Brown and Townley were assigned to the Hope-St. Mary game and Young and Townley to the Safe Works-Y. M. C. A.

Manager Peters Symons, of the local Cuban Giants, has arranged a game with the Dunellen A. C., to take place Saturday. It will be played at Dunellen. Manager Symons has also arranged a number of other good games which about completes his schedule for the summer.

Captain McCarthy, of the local policemen's team, has assigned Fred Winn to take the box against the Elizabeth municipal team, in the first game to be played next week. Winn has been a special for some time and his introduction to the team will be no infringement upon the rules as agreed.

The Boss and Journeymen horse shoers, who met on the diamond, Decoration Day, will again cross bats, Saturday. The game will take place on the Netherwood grounds. Jerry O'Connor will deliver the leather for the Bosses and Jimmy Kane and Dick Birmingham will constitute the Journeymen battery.

Snyder Was Not Convicted.

Emory J. Snyder, formerly of Plainfield, now of Westfield, who was indicted by the Grand Jury on three counts of running a gambling place, keeping slot machines and allowing minors to frequent his establishment, came up for trial at Elizabeth yesterday and was adjudged not guilty by the jury. Wm. G. DeMeza put a strong plea for Snyder and conducted a vigorous defence.

Huff Didn't Go on Trial.

Several previous cases prevented the trial of John Huff for assault on Arthur Upson taking place at Elizabeth, yesterday. The witnesses have been informed to be in readiness tomorrow.

PRISONERS ARRAIGNED.

A Number Haled Before Court of Quarter Sessions and Dates Fixed for Trial.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 11—In the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday morning several persons were arraigned.

Charles Cosgrove, breaking, entering and stealing; not guilty; trial June 10.

Charles Halleck, larceny of brass valves; not guilty, trial June 17.

William Weidenhoefer, larceny of a bicycle; non vult; sentence June 18.

Thomas Brown, assault and battery; non vult; senence June 18.

Harry Pastor retracted his former plea of not guilty to assault and battery, and pleaded non vult; sentence June 18.

George Middlebrook, of Rahway, recently convicted of assault on his wife, was discharged under a suspension of sentence.

John C. Brennan, charged with keeping a disorderly house, retracted his former plea of not guilty, pleaded non vult and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs.

Arthur Vanness, ten years old, of Plainfield; larceny; non vult; sentence today.

William Livingston and George Recht, pleaded non vult to indecent assault; sentence will be imposed June 18.

MRS. ROGERS QUALIFIES.

In First Sixteen for Women's Metropolitan Golf Championship on Essex County Links.

The third annual championship of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association is attracting a large number of enthusiasts to the links of the Essex County Country Club at Orange.

The preliminary round yesterday brought Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers safely in the first set with a score of 101. An unfortunate feature of the match play which started today is that four of the strongest players are in the lower half which will bring them together before the final round. Mrs. Rogers is one of these four.

Miss Lida vanHerwerden scored 110 yesterday and Miss Maude VanBoskerck made a score of 118, placing them in the second sixteen.

The draw for today's round at match play brings Miss Charles and Mrs. Rogers together in the first sixteen. Miss vanHerwerden and Miss Travers and Miss VanBoskerck and Miss Richmond are paired together in the second sixteen.

Received His Degree.

Stephen Rushmore, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and of Amherst College, received yesterday his degree as doctor of medicine from Johns Hopkins University medical school in Baltimore. He has been appointed to a term of service in the Johns Hopkins Hospital as assistant to Dr. Kelly, the renowned gynecologist.

Laid Up for Repairs.

A colored man, riding a wheel along West Front street about noon today, ran plunk into a team coming the opposite direction. The rider of the bike escaped uninjured, but the machine is laid up for repairs.

Missionary to Talk.

Rev. C. A. Janvier, a returned missionary from India, will deliver an address this evening at the Crescent Avenue church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

PLUMBERS' STRIKE TO END

COMPROMISE AGREEMENT IS TO BE SIGNED THIS EVENING.

Increase of Twenty-Five Cents to be Given—Non-Union Men to be Given Chance to Join Union.

Indications are that the plumbers of Plainfield, who have been out on strike for the past six weeks, will resume work again tomorrow morning. A compromise agreement has been reached which is apparently satisfactory both to the bosses and the journeymen.

Although the plumbers will not receive their original demand in full, a substantial increase in pay has been granted them. They will hereafter get $3.25 per day as against $3 before the strike. In regard to the non-union men who have been imported from New York and other places and who are now at work in this city, an attempt will be made to bring them into the plumbers' organization. If within ten days time this attempt should prove unsuccessful, it is probable the union plumbers will again quit work.

The agreement by which the strike will be ended, will receive the signatures of both the contending parties at a conference to be held this evening.

The plumbers went out on strike May 1, the date on which many strikes began throughout the country. Their quitting work was the result of a refusal of the bosses to grant an increase of fifty cents a day in wages. They were offered an increase of twenty-five cents to begin June 1 but rejected it.

Since that time plumbing work throughout the city has been tied up to a large extent, causing much dissatisfaction among people who had jobs to be performed, and much annoyance to members of the building and other trades of the city. There was frequently talk of a sympathetic strike, but it never developed into anything of greater magnitude than the quitting work of a few carpenters on jobs where non-union plumbers were at work.

Apprehensions of violence, which were expressed at times, were happily without ground, and no collision occurred between the union and non-union men, except in the way of parley.

SPECIAL TRAIN.

Will Carry Union County Delegates to Fourth Congressional District Convention, June 21.

The county Republican executive committee met last evening at Elizabeth and set Monday evening as the time for holding the primaries throughout the county to elect delegates to the Congressional convention. Charles N. Codding, of Westfield; J. Smyle Tucker, of Elizabeth, and Corra Williams of Summit, were appointed a committee on transportation. They will arrange for a special train.

After the meeting the clambake committee met and reported progress. An invitation was received from Dr. Galvin offering his park as a place for holding the outing. This offer with several others will be considered. The affair will probably be held August 9.

DESERVED PROMOTION.

Rev. P. E. Smyth Will be Raised to the Rank of Monsignor.

It is rumored in Jersey City that when the Papal Senate meets on Friday, June 27, Rev. P. E. Smyth, pastor of St. Joseph's R. C. church, of that city, will be promoted to the rank of monsignor as a reward for his forty years of brilliant church work. He is a close friend of Bishop O'Connor, of the Newark Diocese, and succeeded Rev. Mr. Seton to the irremovable pastorate of St. Joseph's church. Father Smyth was formerly rector of St. Mary's church, of this city.

"Harry" Sold.

"Harry," the disabled West End fire horse, has been sold by the department to H. D. Thompson, of West Fourth street. He has almost entirely recovered from his lame foot, but it would be impossible to keep him in the service.

At Unity's Meeting.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will meet tomorrow evening for the purpose of nominating officers and to take final action on the new by-laws and constitution. A full attendance of members is desired.

For Equipping Camp.

The contract for furnishing the cribs and beds for the new fresh air camp at Netherwood has been given to Woodhull & Martin.

The Summer Season

is full of dangers particularly for the children, who not knowing the result of eating unripe fruit, indulge themselves, with the usual griping pains in the stomach as a consequence; mothers should have on hand at all times a bottle of Painkiller (Perry Davis) which will at once relieve the sufferer; it is a safe, simple remedy and it should be kept in every house. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

HOW THEY WON.

Hetfield & Hetfield Have Something to Say About That Famous Marcellus Case.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—In an article in last evening's issue concerning the Marcellus case, which article we clearly recognize as the handwriting of our esteemed opponent, the Corporation Counsel, and also as the article was identically the same in both evening papers, except that your paper mentioned we were counsel for Marcellus, it is made to appear that our opponent won the case and still lost it, as the point on which the case was decided was not raised by us, but he says he knew and admitted that the sentence was illegal, and still persisted in prosecuting it, as he regarded the case as an attack on one of the policemen, but seemed willing that an unlawful and unjust sentence should be meted out to a boy of fourteen years of age. We did not prosecute the case out of any spite toward any police officer, but contended that the conviction, sentence and proceedings were unlawful, erroneous and contrary to law as set forth in the last reason given by us to the court, viz:

6th—Because the said conviction, sentence and proceedings is in divers other respects unlawful, erroneous and contrary to law.

RESIDENTIAL CHANGES.

Strangers Locate in Plainfield by the Mulford Agency.

Through the Mulford real estate agency William Taylor, of Netherwood, has rented 337 Kensington avenue, and takes possession September 1. Ralph Chrystie, manager for the New York Painting and Decorating Company, has rented 89 Fairview avenue, and he and his family from Jersey City will take possession July 1. S. V. H. Vreeland, of Jersey City, has rented 64 Jackson avenue, and takes possession July 1. Dr. William Jarackie, of New York City, has rented David E. Titsworth's house on West Seventh street for the summer and will take possession about June 20. This is the twelfth consecutive summer that Mr. Mulford has located the doctor in Plainfield.

TO ENLARGE CAMP.

Officers of City Union Looked Over Camp and Planned Improvements.

The president of the City Union of King's Daughters, accompanied by several members of the Union, visited the baby camp on the mountain yesterday afternoon and began the prepration for getting the camp in readiness for the opening next week. It has been decided to build the addition to the camp building and Herman Hansen has the contract for the work. The addition will make the building twice as large as at present. The expense for this addition will be about $275, and will be met by popular subscriptions.

Through Pullman Train to Minneapolis.

On the occasion of the teachers' meeting at Minneapolis, the Lehigh Valley Railroad will run a through vestibuled train of dining and sleeping cars, and day coaches, leaving Newark about 10:15 a. m., Saturday, July 5, stopping at South Plainfield, Bound Brook and Phillipsburg, reaching Minneapolis Monday morning. A great many New Jersey teachers, and others interested in educational work have already been booked for this train. Rate for round trip, $31.50; special Yellowstone Park side trip. For complete itineraries, reservations, etc., address any Lehigh Valley agent or J. H. Ambruster, district passenger agent, 792 Broad street, Newark, or apply to State N. E. A. Manager.

Dr. Coles' Gift to Princeton.

It was announced yesterday that Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, has presented to the museum of Princeton University a valuable reproduction of an old Grecian relic. It is an exact copy of a sword discovered by Dr. Schlieman at Athens. Both sides of the blade are plated with gold, one side being ornamented with an incised reproduction of a lion hunt and the other with another hunting scene in which five men are engaged in deadly combat. The sword was on exhibition at the Paris Exposition and was purchased by Dr. Coles from Tiffany & Company.

Two Local Graduates.

At the commencement exercises at Princeton University, this morning, among the graduates who received the degree of B. A. were Irving Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, and Harry Woltmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Woltmann, of West Seventh street. Both prepared for college at Leal's School. They will enter upon a business career after their return to Plainfield.

Complainant Wasn't There.

On account of the complainant being absent, the case of Peter Uhdal and Frank Drake, charged by Osborn Harris with assault, was adjourned in the city court this morning until Monday. The defendants' counsel, John P. Owens, pleaded for dismissal, but as Harris had not been properly notified his request was not granted.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—William H. Sprague has moved from Richmond street to 774 East Second street.

—I. H. Boehm, of Somerset street, is now rapidly regaining his strength after a severe illness.

Canadian Bride and American Groom Prettily Wedded at a West End Home.

FLORAL DECORATIONS.

BOTH YOUNG PEOPLE ARE REGULAR ATTENDANTS AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Miss Cenena McKay Became the Wife of Frank Pierce Sheppard at Latter's Home Last Evening —A Hundred Guests Present.

In the presence of one hundred guests from many places, Miss Cenena McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay, of Inverhuron, Ontario, Canada, was united in marriage, last evening, to Frank Pierce Sheppard. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, of which both young people are members, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Sheppard, of West Fifth street.

Miss McKay was attended by Miss Katherine Cannon, of Glen Gardner, who acted as maid-of-honor. Her gown was of Persian lawn and she carried pink roses. The bride's gown was a white chiffon trimmed with lace. She held a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The groom was attended by Robert D. Eick, of this city.

As the party entered the parlor, which had been lavishly decorated with pink and white roses, the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Sharp. As the words were pronounced which made them man and wife the bride and groom stood beneath a beautiful bower of crimson ramblers.

Following the ceremony the guests were seated in the dining room which had been tastefully trimmed in red and green and an elaborate supper was served. In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard were the recipients of many warm congratulations. They left later in the evening for a ten days' trip in upper New York State after which they will return and make their home in New York city. The groom is connected with a large shoe concern in the metropolis.

Many pretty gifts were extended the young couple consisting of silverware, pictures, furniture and bric-a-brac. The groom's fellow employes presented him with a dining room set and his employer a substantial check.

Among the guests present were many from New York, Brooklyn, Easton, Bethlehem, New Brunswick, Montclair and Glen Gardner.

LEGAL LIGHTS TO MEET.

State Bar Association Will Meet at Atlantic City This Week.

The Bar Association of this State will meet at Atlantic City Friday at Hotel Chelsea. In the afternoon Cortlandt Parker will speak on "Life and Works of David A. Depew." Dinner will follow at 7 o'clock, when addresses will be made by the following: Judge Endicott, Vice Chancellor Pitney, Attorney General McCarter, Senator Johnson, of Bergen county, and A. Wall, of Hudson county, besides others.

The meeting will be held Saturday, when officers will be elected. Retiring President Pancost and Judge Collins will make addresses. It is likely that the wearing of gowns by the Justices of the Supreme Court will be discussed.

W. D. Murray Will Speak.

William D. Murray will give an account of the great student volunteer conference, at Toronto, at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. John Manley will sing, and Martin A. Korff, M. A. Audsley, G. W. V. Moy and Dr. J. F. Berg, who compose the Y. M. C. A. string quartette, will render instrumental selections.

Peddle May Return.

W. H. Peddle, formerly superintendent of the New Jersey Central, who resigned to go with the Southern Railway, has resigned the position as superintendent of transportation of that company and the office has been abolished. It is rumored that Mr. Peddle may return to the New Jersey Central to fill an official position.

Bass Season Opens Sunday.

The bass season opens June 15. As it falls on Sunday many of the local fisherman have an idea they cannot fish on that day. It is stated authoritatively that they need have no apprehensions as it is permissible under the present law.

NEW QUARTERS.

J. A. Smith & Brother Have Signed Ten Year Lease for Cutter Block.

J. A. Smith & Brother, grocers, yesterday signed a ten-year lease with F. S. Cutter, executor of his mother's estate, for the entire property corner of West Front street and Exchange alley. They will put a new front into the property and throw both stores into one, besides adding the building in the rear to the store. They will take possession April 1, 1903. No expense will be spared to make it a model store.

STRIKE WAS NOT SETTLED

MASTER AND JOURNEYMEN PLUMBERS STRUCK SNAG AT LAST MOMENT.

Hitch is Over the Non-Union Plumbers Now Employed by the Local Masters.

Contrary to expectations, no definite agreement was reached at the conference between the bosses and the journeymen plumbers last evening. It seems that a slight hitch occurred over the non-union men who have remained at work while the strike is in progress.

The union plumbers wish to impose a fine of $5 on three men who are employed at A. M. Griffen's and who refused to join the strikers. The usual fine in such a case is $25, but the remaining twenty was made payable within two months, with no intention, state the journeymen plumbers, of enforcing its payment. One man said that its payment was not even suggested.

In regard to the non-union men who have been brought here from other places, no satisfactory terms were reached. The unionists wish to hand the non-unionists cards and get a guarantee from them that they would make application to join the organization within ten days. The union reserves to itself the privilege of blackballing these men, even if they do apply for admission. Such an event would necessitate their dismissal.

The bosses will hold a conference this evening and it is probable, as the differences existing are so slight, that a basis will be formulated on which the plumbers may return to work.

MET AN AUTO.

Horse Ran Away, Threw Out Youthful Driver and Broke His Arm.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 12—Frank Gutlick, a twelve-year-old lad living at Berkeley Heights, now carries his arm in a sling as the result of a meeting with an automobile near Berkeley Heights, Saturday afternoon. He was driving his father's horse at the time and the animal became frightened at the passing auto. A runaway was the result and young Gutlick was thrown out and his arm broken. Dr. Westcott, of Fanwood, dressed the injured member.

CIRCUS ARRIVED.

Lowery Brothers' Shows Pitched Its Tents Here This Morning.

Lowery Brothers' New Olympia show arrived in town this morning and pitched tents on the lot at North and Fillmore avenues. Its appearance gives promises of a first class programme for the large crowd which is in atendance this afternoon. Previous to the performance tonight Professor McDade will make a daring balloon ascension, going up hundreds of feet. The show will remain here tomorrow also, giving two performances.

Informally Entertained.

Henry Windham, proprietor of the Waldorf Hotel, informally entertained a number of his friends at the hotel last evening, including a number of city officials. An excellent supper was served, after which there were speeches and a social good time. The formal event, which had been arranged for last evening, was postponed until tonight.

Forgot to Appear.

William Packer, arrested in the borough Tuesday for drunkenness, was released yesterday afternoon on his own recognizance to appear for trial last evening. Packer evidently changed his mind about showing up for trial and when court convened he was nowhere to be seen.

Divorce for Mrs. Poillon.

Justice Steckler, of New York, by his decision yesterday grants to Mrs. Frederica Poillon a divorce from her husband, J. J. H. Poillon, a former resident of this city.

Received Degree at Columbia.

W. L. Glenney, of Hillside avenue, received his degree of B. A. yesterday at Columbia University. He prepared for college at Leal's School.

RETURN INTER-CLUB MATCH

PARK CLUB TENNIS PLAYERS WILL VISIT CEDAR BROOK CLUB COURTS.

Match Will be Played Saturday Afternoon—Social Features as Well as Tennis.

The invitation of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club to the Park Club for a return club match on the Cedar Brook Club courts, Saturday afternoon, has been accepted and the players of the two clubs will meet again in doubles and singles. Arrangements have been made to entertain those members of the Park Club and the other friends of the Cedar Brook Club who care to watch the play.

It is expected that each club will be represented by three or possibly four teams of doubles and five of singles. The contest will be conducted on the same lines as the meeting on the Park Club courts when that club was victorious, winning two out of three at doubles and three out of five at singles. This part of the affair will be under the charge of the regular tennis committee of the club.

Light refreshments will be served near the courts and special arrangements will be made to seat all who care to watch the play. A special committee has been appointed to arrange for the entertainment of the guests. It is composed of Charles H. Hall, chairman; Miss Agnes B. Freeman, A. Willis West and Harold Nomer. A meeting of the committee was held last evening when the details were arranged.

PIANO PUPILS GAVE RECITAL

MUSICAL AFFAIR AT HOME OF MISS ADA G. MARSH.

Given by Her Pupils—Those Who Took Part—Soprano Solos by Mrs. LeRoy Mack.

In spite of the heavy rain, the musicale given yesterday afternoon by Miss Ada G. Marsh, of Franklin place, and her piano pupils, was very successful and very enjoyable. Miss Marsh's pleasant home was artistically decorated with flowers, and the large rooms were crowded with the relatives and friends of the young musicians.

The pupils who had a part in the programme were Miss Dorothy Duncan, Miss Ruth VanVliet, Miss Frederica Mead, Walter Scott, Miss Hope Ivins, Miss Annie Fisk, Miss Christina Scott, Miss Margaret Mead, Miss Louise Booth, Miss Anna Richards, Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury and Miss Laura Long. Miss Louise Booth was so heartily applauded that she was obliged to play an encore. All the music was rendered was of a high order, and the students played with sympathy, taste, and ease of execution, showing a careful study of the meaning of music as well as of technique. All played entirely without notes.

The pianists were assisted in their programme by Mrs. LeRoy Mack, whose four soprano solos, well chosen and pleasingly rendered, were much enjoyed. She was accompanied by Mrs. Atterbury.

At the close of the programme, an informal reception was held and teacher and pupils received many congratulations on the success of their year's work.

Mr. Saltzman There.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane is in receipt of a letter from ex-Chief Auguste Saltzman, enclosing a photograph of the Hawley, Pa., fire department. The photo was taken Decoration Day when the department held a celebration in honor of the day, Mr. Saltzman having been a guest of honor. The ex-chief stands well out in the group, looks like his old self, and wears a satisfied expression generally.

After a Safe Company.

A writ of replevin has been issued from the Supreme Court of the State of New York in behalf of E. D. Snedeker, formerly of Plainfield, against the Diebold Safe and Lock Company, of New York, commanding them to turn over goods which they unlawfully retain in their possession.

Entertainment and Debate.

There will be an entertainment at the Filmore Baptist church this evening, and also a debate on the subject "Resolved, That man is not his own free agent."

Commencement at Watchung.

The commencement exercises of the Watchung school will be held Tuesday evening, June 17, at 8 o'clock, in Wilson Memorial chapel.

Mrs. I. P. Allen, of Pearl street, is spending a few days with relatives at Tottenville, S. I.

WEDDED AT HOME.

Miss Hattie H. Otto Became the Wife of Franklin A. Stites on Tuesday Evening.

The marriage of Miss Hattie Helen Otto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Otto, of Lee place, to Franklin Arthur Stites, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stites, of the borough, took place Tuesday evening at the home of the groom on Whitewood avenue, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, officiated.

Miss Viola Stites, a sister of the groom, was the bridemaid while Paul Otto, a brother of the bride, was the best man. Following the wedding there was a reception and supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stites will reside on Whitewood avenue after their return from a honeymoon in New York State. They received many handsome and useful presents.

ARGUED FOR GREATER CITY

EDITOR OF THE AMERICAN FIREMAN MIXED UP CITY AND BOROUCH.

Didn't Know About the Dual Nature of the Community and Unconsciously Argued Against It.

On May 23 there appeared in The Daily Press an article descriptive of the abundance of red tape necessary before a new fire engine house could be secured for the borough.

The article in question fell under the eagle eye of the editor of the American Fireman, published in Philadelphia, and he therefore rises to remark that the "Plainfield" Council must be made of less sterner stuff than the august body which rules the Philadelphia borough of boodle and bludgeon. The editor enjoys a shy fling at the City Council of Plainfield, and shows conclusively that he is unaware of the fact that in this part of the world exists a city of Plainfield and a borough of the same name, attached to an adjective signifying in the direction of the pole star. The editor unconsciously makes an argument in behalf of annexation and consolidation, although it is plain that he is ignorant of the existence of that disturbing problem.

All this occurred in the issue of June 3, and from the last number June 10, the following letter is clipped:

Headquarters, Fire Department,
Plainfield, N. J., June 4, 1902.

Editor of The American Fireman:

Dear Sir: I am just in receipt of The American Fireman of June 3, in which you get the borough of North Plainfield mixed with the city. The borough has a very fine volunteer fire department for a town of its size, and it does excellent work. The department is in need of new and larger quarters, and the authorities are simply living up to the laws in the method pursued, as stated in our article, which law is in my opinion, very poor and unsatisfactory. I believe that the Mayor and Council and people of the borough are in favor of having a new fire engine house built, but there is nothing for the Council to do, but to live up to the law. I am sending you by this mail a paper which will show you how we do things in this city.

Respectfully,
T. O. Doane, Chief.

Y. M. A. CAMP.

Young Men of Hope Chapel Plan to Spend a Week in Camp Life This Summer.

The Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, has in preparation plans to give its members a most enjoyable week's outing this summer. As many of the members as can possibly lay aside all work for that time will be taken on a camping trip at a place yet to be selected. It is probable that Green pond in the northern part of the State will be the destination. It is one of New Jeresy's wildest spots and affords excellent opportunities for fishing, boating and bathing.

At present thirty young men have signified their intention of joining the party and as the plans mature it is thought the number will at least be doubled. As the associations facilities for undertaking such enterprises are but too well known there is no doubt of the ultimate success of the plan.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gunn, of Watchung avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Muriel Gunn, to Edward T. Stram, of Harrison avenue, North Painfield.

Morning Session.

Commencing Sunday and continuing through the summer the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church will meet in the morning instead of the afternoon.

FEW RESIDENCES TO RENT

REAL ESTATE BUSINESS HAS BEEN VERY GOOD OF LATE.

Modernly Equipped Houses Are in Demand—Many New Residents in City and Borough.

E. L. Walz, through the agency of Elston M. French, has sold his residence on LaGrande avenue to Mr. Lounsbury who has recently been living in Somerville. It is Mr. Lounsbury's intention to make extensive repairs to his newly-acquired dwelling and to build a large barn on the premises.

There has been considerable activity in this branch of the real estate business during the present season. Recently the demand for high-class residences has been brisk and there are fewer houses to let in Plainfield today than at any period for a number of years past. Practically no modernly equipped houses are to be rented in this city today and if a few dwellings which are now vacant, were placed in an up-to-date condition they could be rented without the least difficulty.

The number of new-comers has been, in proportion to population, about equally divided between the borough and the city. The great majority of these people intend to take up their residence here permanently, and nearly all are of a class prominently engaged in large business concerns. So far this season the demand for residences for summer occupation has been comparatively light.

GIANT UP AGAINST DWARF

CLAIMED IN COURT THAT THE MIDGET HAD ASSAULTED HIM.

George Liable, the Dunellen Dwarf, Figured in Amusing Case in New York Yesterday.

George Liable, the famous Dunellen dwarf, figured in an amusing case in the West Side police court, New York, yesterday. Liable is well known in these parts, having been born in Washington Valley, and until recently resided off and on for fifteen years at Dunellen. For a time he travelled with the Miniature Opera Company through this section of New Jersey.

Yesterday he was charged before Magistrate Barlow in New York with having assaulted Clark O. Mack, a giant, seven feet, two inches tall and weighing 285 pounds. Liable stands three feet, nine inches, in his stocking feet, and tips the beam at seventy-four pounds. Both midget and giant are employed at the St. Nicholas gardens, N. Y.

There's a woman in the case, hence the trouble. The giant says that the midget used to be in love with the snake charmer when the principals involved were all with Barnum & Bailey's show. Because the giant occasionally talked with the charmer the midget, he claims, grew jealous and bothered him "like a flea," he asserts.

The midget maintains that "the big giraffe" is dreaming and that he was never in love with the hypnotizer of reptiles. The giant, he declares, is the cause of all the trouble. He never punched the giant's face, because he couldn't reach it, but admits he kicked him in the shins and threatens to punch his ribs in, if he is bothered again.

Judge Barlow dismissed the case after warning the midget to desist from his bellicise practices.

MRS. ROGERS WON.

Defeated Her Opponent in the First Round in the Metropolitan Championship Yesterday.

In the first round for the championship cup of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at Orange, yesterday, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, beat Miss Marie Charles, Essex county, 4 up and 3 to play.

In the first round for the consolation cup Miss vanHerwerden, Hillside, beat Miss G. M. Travis, Nassau, 1 up, and Miss Emily Richmond, Dyker Meadow, beat Miss Maude VanBoskerck, Hillside, 1 up.

An interesting match is predicted today between Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Manice. The later made a score of 84 yesterday. She played a steady game. Today's score is sure to be quite close.

Change for Summer.

Beginning with this week, the Sunday-school of the Monroe Avenue church will begin at 9:45 in the morning instead of 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This is in accordance with the regular summer schedule.

ENDEAVOR PLANS.

First Baptist Church Society Has Two Special Meetings Now.

Miss Florence P. Lee, of Connecticut, will address the Christian Endeavor meeting in the First Baptist church tomorrow evening. An invitation to bear Miss Lee will be extended to Endeavorers of the Park Avenue Baptist church. July 1 a union patriotic meeting will be held under the auspices of the First Baptist Society, and members of the other Plainfield branches will probably be invited to take part in the proceedings.

JUNIORS' CLOSING EXERCISES

HELD AT TRIRITY REFORMED CHURCH YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Pleasant Programme Given by These Little Endeavorers at Last Meeting.

The closing exercises of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church were held yesterday afternoon at the church and proved to be an interesting and enjoyable affair. There was a good attendance of members and friends.

After the opening exercises, including the singing of a hymn, "Abide With Me Ever," and a prayer, the programme was presented. The first number was a recitation, "The Alder by the River," by Miss May Porter, followed with another recitation, "A Girl's Essay on Boys," by Miss Elsie Tier.

There was a vocal selection by the Misses Edna Cole, Ida May Tier, Nettie Robinson, Helen Smith and May Force, followed with a recitation, "The Spectacles," by Miss Edna Cole. A pleasing piano solo was given by Miss Nettie Robinson, and Miss Ethel Lorton rendered "The Castle Square" on the piano.

"The Doll's Dinner" was the subject of a recitation by Miss Helen Smith, and Harold Schenck recited "The Crow's Children." This was followed with a piano solo, "Tyroliene," by Fred Smith. After a vocal solo by Miss Anna Randall, Miss Bessie Randall recited "A Summer Day in Church." Another recitation by Miss Adelaide Cole and a piano duet by Miss Lucy Coriell and Miss Hattie Randall brought the programme to a close, and refreshments were served. After playing a few games and enjoying a social time the happy affair terminated.

The society now numbers 120 members, an increase of thirty over last year. Throughout the year there has been a large attendance at the weekly meetings. The very efficient officers are as follows: Superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Tier; president, F. E. Smith, Jr.; secretary, Miss Ida Tier; treasurer, Miss Bessie Randall.

WORK IN INDIA.

Described by Rev. C. A. Janvier, a Missionary, Who Labored In That Country.

Rev. C. H. Janvier, a returned missionary from India, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, gave a very interesting talk on missions in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last evening.

The speaker described the conditions existing in that vast and diversified country with its many languages and dialects, and its various religions, Brakminism, Hindoism, Mohammedanism, Buddhism. He dwelt on the salutary influence exercised by the British government over the native population.

After spiritually what a missonary most requires in India is adaptability. Besides his pastoral avocations he was frequently called upon to perform mechanical duties, and must at all times be willing to assist in any work that might bring him in contact with the natives. The Hindoos were described as a people grossly immoral, with some millions of duties, worshipping everything from a cow to a centipede, and with absolutely no regard for truth.

Owing to the inclement condition of the weather but a small audience was present to meet the lecturer and listen to his very interesting and instructive talk.

Gone Forever.

Patrolman Lunger captured a homeless mongrel yesterday, which has been annoying residents in the vicinity of Grant avenue and South Second street. It was taken to the rear of police headquarters and forthwith started on its journey to Bow-wow land.

Special Attractions.

Cake and ice cream will be served at the meeting in Reform Hall this evening. B. W. Hand will be the leader and an interesting meeting is promised all who attend.

UNION COUNTY SLATE HAS NOT BEEN MADE

Elizabeth Journal Talks With Authority on the Subject of the Republican Candidates.

TO THE SUMMIT RECORD.

STORIES OF REPORTED CONFERENCES WERE FAR FROM THE TRUTH.

Says That a Few Political Friends of the Congressman Met Him and Talked Over Situation—They Simply Favored Those Named.

There has been considerable said about the probable slate which will be nominated at the Republican county convention this fall. A story was generally published by the New York dailies and the newspapers of this section about a recent conference at which the candidates were selected.

The Elizabeth Journal, which is recognized as the Republican organ of the county, has something to say about this conference and the reports which have been printed concerning it. In its editorial column of Tuesday, the Journal says:

"'It is all fixed,' says the Summit Herald. And then it goes on to reassert the New York Tribune tale, that 'a few of the Republican leaders of Elizabeth, Plainfield and Rahway, which places control all of the county offices in the gift of the party, held a secret conference recently, and made up the slate 'tentatively' for Union county next fall; the slate to be as follows: For State senator, Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth; surrogate, George T. Parrot, of Elizabeth; sheriff, Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield. Two of the three assembly nominees, it is said, will be taken from the townships in the county, and one from the city of Summit.' The esteemed Herald is all wrought up over this and concludes as follows:

"'The generosity of this coterie of would-be leaders is only exceeded by their gall, and emanates from the Democratic city of Elizabeth, which demands all of the nominees for the lucrative offices, and asks the Republican cities and townships of the county to elect them.'

"Two or three little comments seem to be called for. In the first place no such conference as the Tribune reported was held. The Journal had a full and correct statement of what was done. Several Plainfield men came down to Elizabeth and had a chat with Congressman Fowler and former Governor Voorhees. Senator Cross was not present; neither was Surrogate Parrot nor Mr. McCardell. Those who were present did, as the Journal stated, favor Messrs. Cross, Parrot and McCardell for the offices named, and they had a perfect right to do so.

There was no gall about it, and it did not emanate from 'the Democratic city of Elizabeth.'

In the next place the Summit Herald has nothing whatever to say, since the last election in Summit, about Democratic cities, Summit then made a clean sweep, electing Democrats to every office. As already stated in the Journal, if Summit has in times past been without public office, it is nobody's fault but its own, for Summit's claims have been admitted more than once, and Summit has withdrawn all claims a few days prior to the date of the county convention. The Summit Herald's utterances are rather too childish to be taken seriously; and a manly course and a pacific temperament would be much more advantageous to Summit."

To Wed Later.

It is reported that the marriage of Miss Carrie Weaver and John V. Beekman, of this city, will take place this month. It did not take place Tuesday evening as reported by another paper.

Unity to Nominate.

RAISING SHED OVER ENTRANCE TO TUNNEL

Final Steps Before Work of Boring the Hudson River Tunnel is Resumed.

AN ACTIVE PLACE NOW.

ELECTRICIANS ARE WIRING NORTHERN TUNNEL FOR ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Experts Preparing the Shields to be Used in Boring the Tunnel—To be Completed in About Two Years Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, June 12—At the tunnel works of the New York and New Jersey Railway Company at the foot of Fifteenth street these days there is a scene of unusual activity. Great progress has been made in clearing away the accumulated debris of years, and things generally are assuming such shape as to indicate that the last and final spurt in the way of completing the first Hudson River tunnel will be actively under way in a very short time.

A force of electricians is making excellent progress in wiring the northern tunnel for electric lighting, and the work of installing the necessary independent power plant is proceeding apace.

The raising of the iron building which is to replace the old wooden shed, and which has covered the tunnel shaft and machinery all these years, has commenced, and the framework at the western end is almost completed. The new building, which contained the exhibit of the Republic of Chili at the Pan-American Exposition, will have a frontage abutting on the river bulkhead of about fifty feet and a depth of about 150 feet.

Expert mechanics are busy piecing the new machinery together, and the supervising engineers are on the ground at all hours advancing the work. Everything about the works in the way of machinery will be brand new and fully tried out for precaution's sake before the work of completing the northern bore is once more actively resumed.

A steel shield the exact diameter of the tunnel, and so devised that it can be moved in and given direction by means of hydraulic jacks, will be used by the men doing the boring work, and once in operation it is expected that communication will be established with the New York side of the river in six months.

So thorough has been the work of the engineers in charge that it is not unlikely that both bores, north and south, will be completed within two years from the present time and that cars will be running through them to and from New York in a very few months thereafter.

The completion of the undertaking will be fraught with great importance to this city as a convenient and comfortable means of access to and from the metropolis will be afforded to homeseekers who might other wise seek places of abode in Brooklyn or the northern end of Manhattan Island. The tunnel cars will be propelled by electric power and each tunnel will be made as light as day by thousands of lights, while a special and fully adequate system of ventilation will be a feature. Auxiliary machinery, so placed as to be made use of instantly in case of mishap to the regular plant, will also be provided.

So far contracts in connection with tunnel work on this side of the North River have been awarded to the Cockburn-Barr Barrow Company, Eleventh street; Andrew J. Corcoran, Jersey avenue and Thirteenth street, and Michael T. Connelly, contractor, Seventeenth street and Jersey avenue, and it is likely that as the work further progresses other local concerns will also receive contracts.

Andrew J. Corcoran has secured another contract in connection with the tunnel work. It calls for the construction of a powerful derrick twenty-six feet high, which will be used in lowering and raising material at the tunnel shaft. The derrick is well under way at Mr. Corcoran's factory. The observation towers on the New York side of the river are practically complete.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing is preparing designs for a new thirteen-cent postage stamp. New borders are to be given all the old stamps, so that when the presses turn them out they will all have the charm of novelty. The special delivery stamp is to bear the picture of a bicycle boy, instead of the messenger running for dear life. The picture of Grant will be on the new four-cent stamp, instead of Lincoln, while the latter will go to the five-cent stamp in place of the former. On the eight-cent lilac stamp, which now bears the likeness of Sherman, will be a picture of Martha Washington. The new thirteen-cent issue will have the picture of General Harrison. The head of Commodore Perry on the one-dollar black stamp will be supplanted by the likeness of Farragut.

THEATRICAL.

One of the greatest sucesses of the year has been scored at Daly's Theatre, New York, by "King Dodo," a merry comedy-opera by Messrs. Pixley and Luders which is now in its fifth week. "King Dodo" was by no manner of means a new entertainment when it was produced at Daly's Theatre. It had been playing all over the country and the unanimous opinion appeared to be that it was one of the best musical entertainments the stage has seen in a long time. Now New York City has endorsed that opinion with the result that Daly's has been practically sold out ever since the opening performance. "King Dodo" has not a dull moment from the time the first curtain goes up until the time the last one falls. The music is bright and catchy, the cast is an exceptionally strong one, the choruses are said by the newspapers of New York to be the best in singing quality that the local stage has seen in years and the production is most elaborate in point of scenery and costumes. The feminine portion of the company is also notable for its beauty. The most popular of the songs is "The Tale of a Bumble Bee." Next comes a topical song, full of local hits which is sung in the first act called, "Look in the Book and See." The cast includes Raymond Hitchcock, Cheridah Simpson, Gertrude Quinlan, Gerta Risley, Margaret McKinney, Arthur Deagon, Robert Lett and James MacDonald.

Going to Build Several Houses.

The Economic Contracting Company, which is represented by C. S. Nicholson, of the First National Bank building, has secured permits for the erection of several houses in this city. All are for patrons of the company who have accrued enough money for the start through its home safe method.

Proposals.

Proposals for regulating, grading and macadamizing Union Avenue from North Avenue to Elizabeth Avenue; Elizabeth Avenue, from Union Avenue to Orange Avenue; and Orange Avenue, from Elizabeth Avenue to South Twelfth Street, all in the Township of Cranford, will be received by the Township Committee of Cranford Township, at the Township rooms, on the Twenty-sixth day of June, Nineteen Hundred and two, at eight o'clock p. m.

At the above named place and hour, the bids will be publicly opened and read, and the award of the contract made to such person or persons, as soon thereafter as practicable, as the Township Committee may elect.

All bids must be made upon the bidding sheet which accompanies the specifications, and all bids must have the prices written in the bids and also stated in figures. The right is expressly reserved by the Township Committee to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the Township.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), with security satisfactory to the Township Committee, with the condition that, in case the Township Committee shall award the work, the successful bidder shall within the time specified by the Township Committee, enter into a contract with the Township Committee for the carrying out and completion of the work.

The work to be done, as nearly as estimated in advance, is as follows:

4440 cubic Yards of Excavation.
2783 square yards of Macadam, Six inches thick.
2300 square yards of Macadam, Four inches thick.
495 square yards of Resurfacing Macadam, Two inches thick.
5 Culverts to be lowered.
8 Manholes and Flushtanks to be lowered.

Plans and Specifications for the work may be seen at the office of the Township Engineer, 25 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

WEST POINT'S BIG DAY

Academy's One Hundredth Anniversary Celebration.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT CHIEF GUEST

He Addresses Cadets—General Horace Porter Orator of the Day—Great Gathering of Alumni Present.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 12.—The celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the West Point Military academy, which nominally began Monday, reached its climax yesterday in what was called "the celebration proper" and included all the chief exercises intended to make the completion of the institution's first century an event of national significance. President Roosevelt was the chief guest, and the brilliant crowd of uniformed army and navy officers, the cabinet officers, the ladies in bright costumes and the handsomely uniformed diplomatic representatives of other nations present all had the distinct impression that the United States government attached particular importance to the commemoration and especially the leading speeches. It was not only a day for the cadets or for the fifty-four young graduates who marched in their last dress parade and listened, with their commander in chief, to the music of "Home, Sweet Home;" it was a day for the nation which supports the institution and develops there the commanders.

In the forenoon gayety possibly predominated, but as the day grew older this phase seemed to recede until at evening all present had the distinct impression that something for the serious attention of all the people had been accomplished. Again and again persons high in the service of the country referred to the speeches of the president,

GENERAL HORACE PORTER.

dent, of General Horace Porter, the orator of the day, and of Secretary Root as especially important. All aroused great applause, and the oration of General Porter elicited the most unqualified praise from every one.

President Roosevelt and his party arrived on a special train about 10 o'clock. It included Secretary Root, Secretary Moody, Postmaster General Payne, Secretary Cortelyou and Miss Carow, the president's sister-in-law. The president was met at the station by Superintendent Mills and his staff and the academy staff of the military school. The party ascended the steep road, and when the president reached the crest a salute of twenty-one guns was fired. He found the cadets drawn up on the parade ground. The president was driven to the home of Colonel Mills, and then he walked across the street to the parade ground and reviewed the cadets.

Grouped about the president were Postmaster General Payne and Secretary Root, General Horace Porter, Secretary Cortelyou and a large number of generals and other officials in full uniform.

In the course of the review Cadet Calvin P. Titus was called from the ranks to face the president, who pinned a medal for bravery on the youth's breast and spoke a few words to him.

While the reception which followed the review was in progress Governor Odell arrived alone and at once paid his respects to the president and joined the official circle of visitors.

Immediately after luncheon the hundreds of visitors sought Memorial hall, a new stone structure on the edge of a bluff, where the exercises were held. The president, escorted by the cadets and leading a notable party of officers, came across the parade ground, and soon after his entrance, the small hall being packed with ladies, diplomats, officers, graduates of all classes back to 1842 and cadets, the speaking began. Colonel Mills made an address of welcome and then introduced President Roosevelt.

The oration of the day was delivered by General Horace Porter, embassador to France. The secretary of war was the last speaker.

The afternoon exercises were brought to a close with the dress parade. It was witnessed by the president and his party and many officers.

The following cablegram was received in the evening from Manila:

"One hundred and ten graduates at alumni banquet send congratulations to our alma mater on her centennial anniversary."

The event of the evening, closing a most memorable day, was the banquet given by the officers of West Point to their distinguished guests. In point of numbers and brilliancy it was the greatest ever given here. It was held in Grant hall, and covers were laid for 500. The banqueting room was lavishly decorated, and it was illuminated with colored lights. The toastmaster was General G. B. Davis.

AMERICAN PLAN WINS

Foreign Ministers Agree to Chinese Indemnity Scale.

QUESTION HAS LONG BEEN DISPUTED

England's Representative at Peking Has Yielded at Last, and Japan's Only Waits Government's Instructions.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A cablegram received by Secretary Hay from United States Minister Conger at Peking confirms the reported acceptance by the resident foreign ministers there of the general proposition of the United States government for a pro rata scaling down of the claims of the various nations for indemnity on account of the Boxer uprising.

Reductions proposed are, after all, not exactly pro rata, for to set a good example and induce the other powers to be generous the United States government undertook voluntarily to reduce its claim of $25,000,000 by $1,000,000, which was one-tenth of the total to be reduced. This left the other nations to divide up the $9,000,000 reduction among themselves, so that in the case of the largest claimants their loss would be sensibly less than that voluntarily assumed by the United States.

It is stated that while the agreement reported by Mr. Conger is gratifying and marks a sensible advance toward a final conclusion of the Chinese indemnity negotiations it does not affect the more serious and difficult issue presented by the demands of a majority of the powers for a settlement of the indemnity on the present exchange value.

England Will Accept.

PEKING, June 12.—At a meeting of the foreign ministers yesterday the British minister, Sir Ernest Satow, announced Great Britain's readiness to participate in a pro rata reduction of the war claims in order to settle the questions in dispute regarding the indemnity. The Japanese minister, Komura Yataro, was unable to agree to the plan pending the receipt of instructions from his government. The ministers have replied to the Chinese argument that the indemnity was payable on a silver basis by insisting on payment on a gold basis, ignoring China's intimation that she will be unable to pay the indemnity if the fall in the price of silver continues.

Canadians Won at Lacrosse.

BALTIMORE, June 12.—The intercollegiate championship of North America was won by the University of Toronto, champions of Canada, who defeated the Johns Hopkins university team, champions of the United States, by a score of 6 to 2. The game was fast and furious from the sound of the whistle until time was called at the finish. The first half was beautifully contested and ended with the score of 2 to 2. The aggressiveness of the Canadians in the second half soon tired out the Hopkins men, and they were unable to prevent the visitors from gaining the victory.

President Mitchell Confident.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 12.—"Well, gentlemen, the anthracite strike is complete, and we are going to win." This emphatic statement was made to the assembled newspaper correspondents by President Mitchell in his office at strike headquarters last evening. Asked what he had to say regarding the correspondence between himself and the presidents of the coal carrying roads, which control more than 80 per cent of the anthracite mines, he said: "I have nothing to say now. We ask no better representation of our case than the operators' statement makes for us."

Coffee Plantations Ruined.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The recent earthquakes in Guatemala visited with awful consequences the prosperous coffee plantations of the republic, according to a report just made public at the state department from United States Consul McNally at Guatemala city. While the coffee trees themselves suffered little damage, he says, dwellings, storehouses and coffee machinery on nearly all the estates were more or less seriously injured. The consul general says the coffee crop will not be one-half what was looked for before the visitation.

Insurance Offices Closed.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—The offices of the Equitable Fire Insurance company, with alleged charters from Delaware and New Jersey, have been closed by direction of the state insurance commissioner, who issued orders to Prosecutor Abbott to make necessary arrests. The charge is that the officers conducted a "wild-cat" concern. The police took into custody the secretary and treasurer, George W. Pleis, and General Manager M. G. Nolan.

May Accept French Decorations.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Favorable action has been taken by the senate committee on foreign relations on resolutions permitting Hon. H. H. D. Pierce, third assistant secretary of state; Colonel Theodore Bingham of the army and Captain T. S. Rodgers of the navy to accept decorations of the Legion of Honor from France.

St. Louis Will Keep Sunday.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—President Francis has been authorized by the exposition directors to sign a contract with Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, in which the world's fair management pledges itself not to operate the fair on Sunday at any time. This action was taken as the result of a letter from Secretary Shaw.

KING DINES WITH CHOATE.

A Special Compliment to the United States Intended.

LONDON, June 12.—The presence of King Edward and Queen Alexandra at the dinner of Joseph H. Choate, the United States embassador, and Mrs. Choate last night was not only an important social event, but was intended as a special compliment to the United States.

A crowd of several hundred persons, including a number of American sightseers, had gathered outside the house of the United States embassador, Joseph H. Choate, on Carlton House terrace when the king and queen arrived there at 8:45 p. m. Their majesties drove to the embassador's residence in what is known as a "town carriage," with outriders in red livery. The front of the embassy was decorated with the customary coronation device, a crystal transparency showing the royal cipher. It was surmounted by the stars and stripes. The crowd uncovered as their majesties passed in. Otherwise there was no demonstration.

The following is the full list of the guests present at the dinner: The king and queen, Princess Victoria, the Duke of Norfolk, the Duke and Duchess of Portland, Lord Rosebery, the bishop of London, Right Rev. Arthur F. Ingram; the Earl and Countess of Pembroke, Earl and Countess Spencer, Sir William and Lady Vernon-Harcourt, A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, and Miss Balfour, the Earl of Derby, Lady Alice Stanley, the Russian embassador, Baron de Staal; J. Pierpont Morgan, Whitelaw Reid, special embassador of the United States to the coronation of King Edward, and Mrs. Reid, Harriet Lane Johnston, a niece of the late President James Buchanan, who was appointed United States minister to Great Britain in 1853; John Sargent, the American painter; Mrs. Douglass Robinson, Mrs. W. S. Cowles, wife of the former United States naval attache here; Lord Kenyon, Sir Stanley Clark, the Countess of Gosford, Mr. Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, and Miss White, Mr. J. Ridgeley Carter, second secretary of the United States embassy, and William Woodward, private secretary of Mr. Choate.

Many other prominent persons were invited to be present after the dinner.

SERGE SUITS for SUMMER

The properly dressed man seldom gets overheated. A good closely twisted pure worsted serge lets the cool air in and the body heat out. It is light in weight, but always neat in appearance.

Every man who appreciates comfort owns a serge suit. Be wise and get the right kind. We guarantee every suit we sell, whatever its price.

There are times when some particular goods get to be stylish, "just because." Its that way with Fancy Flannel Suits, and they deserve popularity. Cool and neat describes them exactly. Ten different patterns.

We sacrifice the price, but never the quality.

BOERS SURRENDERING.

Kitchener Reports Progress of Peace Beginnings.

LONDON, June 12.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, announces that Van Tonder's and Van Heerden's commands, having with them 403 rifles, have surrendered near Ventersdorp camp, in southwestern Transvaal. At a concert subsequently the burghers sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King."

Further surrenders of 619 rifles and 23,000 rounds of ammunition were also announced.

A dispatch from Mafeking, Bechuanaland, says:

Commandant Kemp, General Delarey's trusty lieutenant, has just surrendered here. Kemp looks worn and has aged considerably. He was a clerk in the mining commissioner's office before the war and now intends to take up farming. When interviewed, he said his command, consisting of 1,900 men, surrendered at Doornkop June 6. A few men were still out, but they were coming in at once. He had been averse to yielding, but recognized the opinion of the majority.

"We did our best," continued the commandant, "and must therefore be satisfied."

Boers Given Until July 10.

CAPE TOWN, June 12.—An extraordinary issue of the Official Gazette, just published, fixes July 10 as the limit in which Boers or rebels who surrender will receive the benefit of the peace terms. All rebels surrendering before that date will be merely disfranchised for life and will not be subject to trial or punishment. Exception is made in the case of field cornets and justices of the peace, who may be tried and fined or imprisoned, but they will not be executed. Rebels who hold out after July 10 will be subject to the extreme penalty for high treason.

Dinner For Boer Boys.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 12.—The proprietor of the American House here offered to spread a feast yesterday for all of the 130 Boer boys who have been in the prison camps in the harbor. The boys were entertained in parties of twenty-five each. They had a good time and enjoyed themselves and were much pleased with the kindness shown them. They are rosy faced and appear to be in good health and were well treated in the camps.

TO VOTE JUNE 19.

Senate Fixes Date For Finale In Canal Consideration.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Just before adjournment yesterday the senate agreed to vote finally on the Nicaragua canal bill and all pending amendments on Thursday, June 19, the voting to begin at 2 p. m.

Before consideration of the canal question was resumed the motion of Mr. Wellington (Md.) to discharge the committee on privileges and elections from further consideration of the resolution providing for the submission of an amendment to the constitution for the election of senators by the people was defeated by a vote of 21 to 35 after a sharp debate.

Mr. Fairbanks (Ind.) in a carefully considered speech favored construction of the isthmian canal by the Panama route. Originally, he said, he had favored the Nicaragua route, but an investigation of the subject, coupled with the determination of the isthmian commission, had induced him to change his mind in favor of the Panama route. He argued that that route not only would be cheaper in the first instance, but cheaper in operation after the canal was constructed. He earnestly favored the construction of the canal and resented the intimation that those who favored the Panama route were in the least opposed to a canal.

The house dispatched the Corliss Pacific cable bill by the same method it adopted Tuesday in the case of the forest reserve bill. It struck out the enacting clause of the measure by a vote of 116 to 77, thus giving no opportunity to test the strength of the Dalzell substitute, which authorized the president to contract with a private company for the laying of a cable.

"Pennsy" Crew First on the Ground.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 12.—The University of Pennsylvania oarsmen arrived at Highland yesterday afternoon and established training quarters at Bellevue villa, on the west bank of the river. They are the first contingent of the crews that are to participate in the intercollegiate regatta Saturday, June 21, to reach here. Columbia came today. Cornell and Syracuse are expected tomorrow, Georgetown on Saturday and Wisconsin on Sunday. The Pennsylvania party numbered about thirty people.

Thurber Causes Sensation.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The testimony given before the committee on Cuban relations by F. B. Thurber showing that between $8,000 and $9,000 had been paid out of the Cuban treasury under the direction of Governor General Wood for the promotion of the effort to secure reciprocity between the United States and Cuba caused a sensation in the senate.

Forest Fires Rage In Colorado.

DENVER, June 12.—Considerable anxiety is felt by federal and state and officials over the danger of forest fires in the mountains. At present there are three fires raging in Colorado, and should the dry weather continue it is feared a vast amount of damage will be done.

First Snow In Sixteen Years.

MIDDELBURG, Cape Colony, June 12.—A heavy snow fell here yesterday for the first time in sixteen years. The railroads are blocked, and many telegraph lines are down.

SWEPT BY TORNADO

Many Lives Lost In Central Illinois.

PROPERTY DAMAGE IN THE MILLIONS

Peoria Cut Off From All Communication For Hours—Bloomington and Other Towns Devastated by the Terrible Wind.

PEORIA, Ill., June 12.—Peoria has been swept by the worst storm in years. It struck the city traveling at the rate of eighty miles an hour. At least ten people are dead, and several others will die from their injuries. The property damage will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Every railroad entering the city is crippled. Telegraph communication was cut off for many hours. Telephonic connections with the outside world are completely severed.

Factories throughout the city are completely crippled, as almost every smokestack is down. The entire street railway system was put out of business for several hours.

The storm was most destructive at Kingston Mines, a small mining village four miles from Peoria. The record of the storm there is appalling. An electrical storm swept over the village first, followed by the tornado. The path of the storm was 200 feet wide, and it swept everything before it. Three lives were lost, and several others will die from the injuries received. Sixteen persons were seriously injured. Sixteen homes were completely demolished, as was the Methodist church and the engine house, blacksmith shop and barn of Newsam Bros. at their mine. The total loss to property will exceed $20,000.

At Merna, Ill., three lives were lost and from forty to fifty people injured. Laurel, a little town in Marshall county, Ia., is said to have been wiped out by the fury of the storm.

Bloomington, Ill., was hit severely, and buildings in all parts of the city were seriously damaged and traffic blocked. So far as is known no lives were lost in Bloomington.

The pathway of the cyclone was 100 miles in width, and it devastated a territory fully 200 miles long, extending from Livingston county on the north to McCoupin county on the south and left its mark clear across the face of central Illinois. The property loss will aggregate millions of dollars. The brunt of the storm fell upon McLean and adjoining counties.

The loss through the destruction of fruit trees will also reach large proportions, many orchards being entirely leveled. The cherry crop, which is now ready for picking, will be saved partially, but with apples and other fruits the loss is total. Farmers report that corn will receive a bad setback, but that oats will suffer most heavily. Farmers, with scarcely any exception, lost stock, barns or windmills. Numerous residences were moved from their foundations or wrecked.

At Stanford, ten miles west of Bloomington, a box car on a side track was lifted from its trucks and carried 300 feet. At El Paso, twenty miles north, the town hall, containing all the fire department apparatus, was destroyed, with its contents. The tower on the building, eighty feet high, was blown off and carried a hundred feet.

Schwab to Build College Chapel.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 12.—Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, in the name of his wife and himself, announces that he will build a chapel to cost $65,000 for the Pennsylvania State college. Mr. Schwab's announcement was made at the conclusion of an address to the graduating class and came as a complete surprise to the college authorities. If the cost of the structure exceeds $65,000, Mr. Schwab said he would contribute all money necessary to the completion of the chapel.

Gift For Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania announces a subscription of $100,000 toward the building fund of the new medical laboratories. The subscription has been made as a memorial and will be devoted to the pathological department. This contribution, both in its amount and in its purposes, is one of the most munificent benefactions which the department of medicine of the University of Pennsylvania has ever received.

Neely Set Free.

HAVANA, June 12.—C. F. W. Neely, who March 24 was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $56,701 for complicity in the Cuban postal frauds, has been released under the bill signed by President Palma June 9 granting amnesty to all Americans convicted of crimes in Cuba during the term of the American occupation and those awaiting trial.

Colonel Lynch Arrested.

LONDON, June 12.—Colonel Arthur Lynch, who fought with the Boers in South Africa and who in November last was selected to represent Galway in the house of commons, was arrested on his arrival at Newhaven yesterday from Dieppe, France. Colonel Lynch, who was accompanied by his wife, was brought to London and was afterward taken to the Bow street police station.

Senator Depew Goes to Europe.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Senator Chauncey M. Depew, with his wife and son, has sailed for Europe on the American liner St. Louis. It is the intention of Senator Depew to spend about seven weeks abroad. He will witness the coronation ceremonies and then go to France, where he will put in the remainder of his vacation time.

FLAG DAY.

It is most proper that the anniversary of the day when the Continental Congress adopted the Stars and Stripes as the flag of the new nation should be properly observed throughout the land. It will be an appropriate and patriotic thing for every citizen to fling that banner to the breeze and let it wave on Flag Day, as the anniversary is now called.

It was on June 14, 1777, that Congress sitting in Philadelphia, enacted that "the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

It was an event of no slight importance to the great nation that has sprung up from those sturdy colonies that were established on the shores of the new continent. Of late, its importance has been more generally appreciated and there has been a feeling that the day should be marked by the display of the national colors at least.

To this end the American Flag Association, formed in 1897, by committees from veteran, military, patriotic and historical societies in the United States, and also of patriotic citizens, to promote reverence for and prevent the desecration of the Flag of our Country, has issued a circular letter addressed to the mayor of each American city; to the American press; to officers and members of all American patriotic societies; to all school officers and school teachers, and finally to all our fellow citizens, calling attention to the approach of "Flag Day," June 14, 1902, earnestly soliciting far more general and enthusiastic celebration than any yet witnessed.

With the admission of new states the number of stripes was increased, and then dawned upon our fathers the certain future expansion of our country, and the original thirteen stripes were unchangeably restored on April 4, 1818, when it was enacted by Congress: "That from and after the fourth day of July next, the flag of the United States be thirteen horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be twenty stars, white in a blue field, and that on the admission of a new State into the Union one star be added to the Union of the flag; and that such addition take effect on the fourth day of July next succeeding such admission."

Since 1818 star after star has been added as State after State has been added to the Union, until they now number forty-five in all. Let every Plainfielder see that the flag waves over his home Saturday.

It really looks as if the activity of some of the trolley roads promoters was going to carry the advantages of rapid transit to the natives of Warren and Hunterdon counties. The refusal of those two counties to keep up with the times and build good roads has injured them immeasurably in the eyes of the public at large. Their reputation will be considerably bettered if they permit these trolley roads to be extended through that rural section. The promoters are likely to have thier troubles, however, before all the necessary franchises are granted. The people up there have a great habit of suddenly changing their minds at the last moment and holding up a good thing.

While the whole tendency of the age is toward consolidation and centralization, Plainfield has seen little of that great movement of which the so-called "trusts" are the inevitable result. It will be interesting, therefore, to observe just what reception is given to this project of combining the local milk dealers in one company, the aim of which will be to give the people better milk without an increase in the price and permit the dealers themselves to get the advantage of the reduction in the running of the smaller and most compact plant.

The Philadelphia Record calls attention to the fact that in speaking of the relative importance of newspaper and other advertising the Indianapolis Sentinel notes that "the newspaper goes into the home, where it is read by every member of the family; that the women, especially, need no invitation to scan the advertising columns, although they may pay no attention to posters or circulars."

The season for the baseball nine of the Plainfield High School has closed. It has been a remarkably successful one as the team has been stronger and better than for many years past. It has won some notable victories and met with few defeats. Altogether baseball has found much to encourage it at the City High School.

It may be interesting to note that the Citizens Association, which is the official title of the organization of "antis" in the borough, has refused the invitation of the Union Association to participate in a joint debate. It's too bad.

This year it is south Jersey's turn to entertain the Christian Endeavorers of the State. Bridgeton has been selected as the meeting place, and an elaborate programme for the three days' session has been announced.

There has been a decided improvement in the condition of affairs at the North Avenue station. The hack ordinance has been obeyed much better than in the past.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Brown, the expert, of Watchung avenue, is prepared to repair all watches or clocks that are worth attending to. He guarantees satisfaction or refunds the money.

Call up Smalley Brothers on North avenue and order a chop or a steak—nowhere can you be suited better. Roasting and broiling chickens are a specialty at Smalley's.

Alex. Lusardi, the West Front street fruit dealers, has just received a large invoice of Lucca oil from Italy. He also has a fresh stock of black and red cherries.

Have nothing to do with a "get rich quick" concern; try the penny-saved, penny-earned dodge and buy your groceries and provisions from W. W. Dunn, the park grocer.

Doesn't matter much whether it's going to be the Nicaragua canal or the Panama route. Just now we're interested in those Panama hats on display at J. R. Blair's, Park avenue.

Keenan, the East Fifth street grocer, has caught the popular fancy by his special cash sales. It enables the public to get good articles at a low price and both seller and buyer are benefitted. He delivers all orders.

The Colburn Plainfield strawberries are without doubt the best ever sold in this city. They are large and of an exceptionally fine flavor, which makes them favorites with lovers of this June fruit. They are received daily by Neuman Brothers during the season and this firm guarantees every quart to be stricty fresh.

To Aid a Cripple.

Mrs. J. R. Hill, together with several women of Netherwood, will hold a sale of fancy and useful articles at the home of Mrs. Hill on Woodland avenue, Saturday, June 21, for the benefit of a cripple child at Muhlenberg Hospital. There will also be refreshments for sale and it is hoped that the patronage will be liberal.

Graduates From Seton Hall.

John J. Butscher, of West Fourth street, will graduate from Seton Hall College this year. The exercises will be held Wednesday morning, June 18.

That Sanitary Code.

The members of the Plainfield Board of Health hope to be able to take final action on the new sanitary code at its next regular meeting.

DUNELLEN.

Robert McCloud, of Roselle, an employe of the Central Railroad, met with a painful accident yesterday morning while at work on an engine near the round-house. In some unknown way his foot slipped and he fell to the ground, a considerable distance. Dr. Brakeley was called and found that the man's wrist was broken. The wrist was dressed, and he was sent home.

The Dunellen Juniors were defeated in an interesting game yesterday afternoon on the Madison avenue diamond by a score of 9 to 3, by the crack Park A. C., of Plainfield. The game was stopped in the fifth inning because of rain.

One of the younger boys in town reports that he swallowed a pin a few days ago. He has as yet experienced no ill effects but will probably see the point later.

Everything is ready for the graduation exercises of Whittier School this evening in the Presbyterian church.

A platform has been erected in the Presbyterian church for the commencement exercises this evening.

The usual Wednesday evening prayer meeting was held last evening and a good number was present.

William Giles was out yesterday for the first time since his recent attack of scarlet fever.

A large addition has been nearly completed to the porch on Dr. Brakeley's house.

Some extensive repairs will be made in the public schools during vacation.

The Dunellen Juniors will play the Park A. C. at Plainfield next week.

The W. C. T. U. will hold its regular weekly meeting today.

The cornet band met for the usual weekly practice last evening.

Edward Book, Jr., is recovering from a severe illness.

Jerry Burns, of Plainfield, visited in town yesterday.

G. A. Brakeley is spending today in New York City.

NEW MARKET.

A spur will be run in to the factory at West Dunellen from the Lehigh Valley Railroad at this place.

The cornet band will meet for the usual weekly practice this evening in Recreation Hall.

Prayer meeting was held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening.

C. L. Gordon, of Metuchen, spent yesterday in town.

Charles Norman visited yesterday in New York.

Miss Irene Day visited in Plainfield yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Johnston, of the baseball team, has arranged a game for Saturday with the strong Garwood team which has been defeating some of the best clubs through this section. As the local team is putting up a fast game and has not been defeated yet this season, the lovers of the game are assured a good game.

Wm. Bookowsky and Miss Caroline Rober, both of Westfield, were united in marriage Sunday evening by Judge Clark. The Judge during his term of office has made a number of happy hearts beat as one, and is still waiting for others who are desirous of entering the matrimonial state.

The Township Committee is bound to enforce the automobile and bicycle ordinance in town and to preserve order upon the streets on Sunday. Two special officers were on duty Sunday and will probably go on duty every Sunday for a while.

The annual exhibit of drawing at the public school will be held tomorrow afternoon and Tuesday evening of next week in the class rooms of the school building. The parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to attend the exhibit.

Twilight, Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meets in its rooms this evening. A full attendance of members is desired as business of importance will be transacted.

The annual strawberry and ice cream festival of the Ladies' Society of the Methodist church will be held in Excelsior Hall tonight.

The weekly meeting of the teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school will be held tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Corey.

Mrs. Charles Frentz, of New York, has been spending a few days with relatives and friends in town.

Misses Ivy and Reighnette Marsh have returned from a pleasant visit with friend in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church held its annual strawberry and ice cream festival, last night, in Washington Hall. The affair was a success. A large attendance, considering the weather, was a feature. The women of the Aid Society realized a net little sum of money in return for their labors.

Camp No. 1, P. O. of A., are making preparations for its lawn festival which will be held at the home of Mrs. George Reighton on Park avenue, on the evening of Tuesday, June 17.

Camp No. 41, P. O. S. of A., will meet tonight in Washington Hall.

Miss Nellie Manning has been entertaining friends from out of town.

DEATH OF MISS BELL.

Young Woman, Well-Known Here, Died at Junction.

After an illness of over two years, Miss Agnes T. Bell, died at her home in Junction, Tuesday. Death was caused by lung trouble.

Miss Bell was twenty-three years old and was very well-known in this city, having been employed for some time in a local laundry. She resided with her cousin, Mrs. T. L. Walsh, of East Third street. The funeral will be held from St. Ann's church, Junction, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Warren's New Job.

Charles H. Warren, who resigned the first vice presidency of the Jersey Central Railroad a few weeks ago, has been appointed assistant to President W. B. Leeds, of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, and will have entire charge of the operation of the Rock Island system, with headquarters in Chicago.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

TWO NEW DWELLINGS.

Building Permits Issued for New Houses in the West End.

Jas. C. Manning, of Albert street, has filed plans with Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a two-story dwelling, 42 feet front by 36 feet deep, on Dunellen avenue, near Mariners place. The estimated cost of the building is $7,000. Mr. Manning will be his own carpenter. Townley & Bro., masons; W. H. Clum & Son, architects.

T. G. Hindry, of Stebbins place, has filed plans for the erection of a two-story double dwelling, 37 feet front by 36 feet deep on Fourth street, near Prescott place. Mundy Bros are the carpenters, S. Williams, mason; T. G. Hindry, architect.

DEATH OF MISS GLENNEY.

Had Never Been a Strong Child and Passed Away After Week's Illness.

Miss Marian Glenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, of Stelle avenue, died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, following an illness of a week's duration. Miss Glenney had never been a strong child and her death was not wholly unexpected. She was greatly beloved in the home and had attached herself very much to many friends who will learn with deep regret of her death.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the late home at 1:15 o'clock. Interment will be in Greenwod cemetery, Brooklyn.

Were Properly Wet.

Yesterday afternoon a party of about twenty in a stage coach drove through this city on its way to New Brunswick. Going along West Second street a man with a cornet was playing with great gusto, "Oh! How Dry I Am." Just then a shower came pelting down and he made a rapid transition to "We'll Not Get Home Till Morning." Notwithstanding the change of atmosphere and the change of tune a change of scenery was deemed necessary and the party drew up before a saloon.

To Study Law.

Harry Woltmann, who was graduated yesterday from Princeton University, is not going to engage in business, but will continue his studies in preparation for the law. Mr. Woltmann did not attend Leal's School, but prepared himself for Princeton with Dr. Jocelyn Johnston, formerly of the borough.

Case Not Proven.

Michael McCarthy was placed on trial before Justice Nash, this morning, charged by Harry Williams, of South Second street, with breaking up his home. The complainant failed to substantiate his charges and the case was dismissed. McCarthy was represented by Counsellor Francis J. Blatz.

City National Bank's Surplus.

The surplus and undivided profits at the City National Bank amount to $125,000 and not $12,500 as printed yesterday through an error. Of course, everyone who saw the latter figures in yesterday's Press knows that this bank has a far larger amount in surplus and undivided profits.

New Business Home.

Joseph Harrigan, who conducts a feed and hay business on East Third street, near Richmond, has purchased of the E. C. Mulford estate a lot 50x80 on East Fourth street near Richmond. He will erect a three story building on the lot with flats above and conduct a general feed and hay business.

Held for Grand Jury.

Roy Cuff, a young colored man, was arraigned before Justice Nash, yesterday, charged with the larceny of some bric-a-brac. He was held in $100 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The bonds were not produced and he was taken to Elizabeth today.

Dance at Mt. Bethel.

There will be a dance at Mt. Bethel Saturday evening. A stage will leave the corner of Somerset and West Front streets at 7:30. The music will be supplied by Eugene O'Reilly.

DUTY OF THE PEOPLE

They Should Look Closely Into Records of Congressmen.

In No Other Way Can the Nation Secure an Absolutely Pure and Equitable Administration of Public Affairs.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE people of this government are proud of their government, but they know very little about it. The public schools do not give instructions concerning municipal, county, state and federal governments. As it is, even the school teachers themselves know very little concerning the government; and not more than one-tenth of them could even tell you how a member of the national senate is elected.

Not only are the people in comparative ignorance about their government; but, strange as it may seem, the average member of the house of representatives knows very little about national legislation. The people are careless, and, to be plain about it, they are shamefully careless, about the selection of their congressmen and other office holders. On this account the government for many years has been partly in the hands of politicians who care nothing for the people, but seek only their own glory and enrichment.

In your own congressional district you do not know 20 men who are personally acquainted with your member of congress, unless you happen to mingle with politicians, and the average readers of newspapers will not be found mixing with politicians. In a government of the people, by the people and for the people every citizen ought to know all about his government, and all about the man or men who seek official position. If every citizen would take such an interest in public affairs as he ought to do our government would be purer, and it would be more economical. The people have no idea how many millions of dollars are taken from them in taxation and expended recklessly. It is their own fault when they are over-governed, because they are unmindful of their duty to themselves, by being careless concerning the details of government.

When you hear a man making a fervid stump speech on the questions of the day, just bear in mind that the average public speaker is looking for dupes, and that he wants you to be one of his victims. He is making speeches, not for his health, nor solely for the good of his country. He is doing it for his own benefit, and he expects you to support him on account of his "gift of gab." That will be a new way of looking at it, to some readers; but it is a gospel truth. The writer has been associated with politicians for more than a quarter of a century, and as the years have gone gliding into history his regard for professional politicians has grown less and less; because of increasing acquaintance with their motives and their manner of living.

When you elect a member of congress you give him a position paying $5,000 a year, for two years. Naturally, you expect him to work hard for that big salary, but the average congressman does not work at all. The government gives him a private secretary, with a salary of $100 a month; and the private secretary does all of the necessary work. The congressman signs letters to his constituents which the private secretary has written, and that is the hardest work that the average congressman does for his people.

UNCLE SAM ENJOYS IT.
(Little Shower of Extravagance Does Not Displease Him.)

There are 357 members of the national house of representatives, and not more than 25 or 30 of them have anything to do with legislation. The others are mere followers. Wherever their party leaders tell them to go they go. They do not initiate legislation of any kind. They leave all things to committees appointed by the speaker, and they vote as they are told to vote on the passage of bills. Because of this condition of affairs the government has been growing less worthy during the last quarter of a century, and extravagance has grown until it has become reprehensible. It is not an extravagant statement that hundreds of millions of money have been taken from the people by taxation, and appropriated unwisely. It would not be fair to say that the government has grown corrupt because of its unwise appropriations of the people's money.

Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania, was for many years the leading democratic member of the national house of representatives. He was chairman of the committee on appropriations, and in that position he wielded so much power that he was able to prevent tariff legislation; and he did prevent the party from enacting free trade measures several times, although he was one of a small minority of that party. In order to take from Mr. Randall that power, the committee on appropriations was deprived of control over the appropriations for pensions, the army, the navy, rivers and harbors, public buildings and grounds, and other important government affairs. The bills making appropriations for these various purposes were given to separate committees, and there began the era of extravagance in appropriations.

So long as all appropriations were controlled by one committee the total expenditures of the government were kept down to about $500,000,000 annually, because the committee kept "the total" before them all the time. But when separate committees were given power to make appropriations, each committee looked at its own work as of excessive importance, and immediately the total appropriations began to increase. With this example of extravagance before them the senators divided their great committee on appropriations in like manner only a few years ago, and this, added to the folly of the house of representatives, instead of curtailing the total annual expenditures for the government. The appropriations made for the coming fiscal year are as follows:

TOO MUCH FOR YOUR UNCLE.
(But a Deluge of Wastefulness Disgusts the Old Man.)

Agriculture	$ 5,208,960
Army	92,385,136
Diplomatic affairs	1,957,925
District of Columbia	7,900,000
Fortifications	7,333,865
Indians	9,267,902
Military academy	2,627,224
Legislative and executive expenses	25,396,581
Navy	77,619,933
Pensions	139,842,230
Post offices	128,416,598
Rivers and harbors (including contracts for future)	50,000,000
Sundry civil expenses	56,261,904
Urgent deficiencies	29,584,423
Public buildings	25,000,000
Total	$679,902,881

That is more than double the amount required for the expenses of our government ten or 12 years ago, and the actual requirements of the government have not so increased. The population of the country has not doubled, nor has its wealth. The responsibilities of the government have increased and the wealth of the country has increased during the past few years, but the appropriations which the congress continues to make are manifestly greater than should be made.

The river and harbor bill, which takes an average of $20,000,000 from the treasury every two years, has in the past 20 years taken well-nigh $200,000,000; and everybody in Washington speaks of that bill as "a steal" which cannot be disguised in this city, although the people seem to know nothing about it. Then the habit of voting money from the treasury for public buildings and grounds has so increased that almost every community is clamoring for a public building; and the men who want to be custodians and janitors of the proposed buildings are urging their congressmen to foster this extravagance.

The people who have the right to reward the faithful public servants by re-electing them, and to punish the unfaithful by not re-electing them, are responsible for existing conditions. Uncle Sam is rich and can afford some luxuries, but prodigality and wastefulness are little less than criminal in governments as well as in individuals. Uncle Sam can stand a little summer shower of extravagance while the bank account is in good condition, but a deluge of wastefulness disgusts him, and his wrath arises.

The people must not place the blame for these conditions upon any political party. The writer has seen democrats, republicans, greenbackers, and even populists in congress making frantic grabs at the treasury for a part of the surplus. The first administration of Grover Cleveland was one of the most honorable and commendable that this country has ever had, and the second was regarded as most profligate. The administration of Benjamin Harrison was not altogether blameless, nor was the McKinley administration absolutely free from abuses of power. People are narrow in the extreme who imagine that any one political party can be perfect.

What the people ought to do is to nominate only good men whom they know to be honorable; and to elect only those who will pledge themselves to economy in government expenses, and keep those pledges. The fault lies not with parties, but with the plain people themselves. They cannot shift the blame. It must rest upon their own shoulders. They must look more closely into the political affairs of their country.

OFFICE GIRLS' LUNCHEON.

Cup of Tea and a Lady Finger, or Something Substantial?

The girl beginning her career as a stenographer receives the average pay of the office boy who sweeps and dusts the office in the morning and runs errands—that is to say, $4 to $6 a week. The reasons she is thus poorly paid are two: First, there are now so many stenographers and typewriters; second, eleven out of twelve of them could not write a page grammatically and spell and punctuate it correctly if their lives depended on it. So, though they have paid considerable money to learn their trade, they get almost the poorest wage and cannot afford a substantial noon meal.

Ten cents a day is the average of what they can spend for luncheon. It is a poor lookout for food supply that makes rich blood. When the young woman who works in a city office goes to a restaurant for her luncheon, she looks with her outer eye over the menu and with her inner eye at that 10 cents. She orders either a cup of tea and a piece of cake or a glass of milk and a slab of baker's pie. Tomorrow perhaps she will have pie and tea and next day a glass of milk and a lady finger. With this trash in her stomach—trash except the glass of milk—she returns to work. Her corset is laced tight, her skirt is heavy and trailing, catching up every microbe of contagion that can be conceived, and in this kind of fighting trim she goes into an office to compete with man in a business way. Heaven have mercy on her misguided soul!

She is a proper object for charitable consideration, and philanthropic ladies in the large cities are now doing their utmost to alleviate her troubles, at least so far as luncheon is concerned. The foolish dress can only be remedied when the Almighty shall send her better light and knowledge.

The philanthropic ladies are establishing office women's lunchrooms in the heart of city business centers. The model plan thus far is perhaps that in operation in Chicago. It is the woman's club idea devoted to something useful. A floor is found large enough to contain kitchen, dining room, reading and rest room. By close buying and shrewd management it has been found that for 11 cents it is possible to provide a hot meat and vegetable meal of the best quality. Delicious bread rolls are a cent apiece, meat sandwiches two for 5; milk, tea, coffee or cocoa, 4 cents; potatoes and rice, 3 cents each, and other dishes in proportion. Such low prices are possible because each luncher is her own waitress. All the food, kept steaming hot and already divided into portions, is ranged around upon a three sided counter in a large, light, clean aired room. Each girl selects her own fare, takes plate and napkin from a pile near by, pays the cashier for what she gets, then goes into the dining room, sits down and eats it.

For the privilege of dining room, rest room and reading room each member of the lunch club pays 25 cents a month. So popular are these business women's lunch and rest clubs that at one of them 1,200 girls take their noon meal, at another 1,000. A month after the first one was opened it had 600 members. The feeling of very ownness, where they can neither be ogled nor jostled, snubbed by waiters nor yet subjected to the torture of being forced to see crowds of hungry men feeding like dumb brutes, is infinitely comforting.

The ladies of the Woman's Exchange in Cincinnati maintain a general restaurant which more than holds its own against the moderate priced luncheon places in the city. It is well patronized not only by business women of small means, but by men well financed. New York moves slowly compared to the west, but there also a beginning has been made. One young lady conducts on her own account a midday restaurant for young women downtown and makes it pay her. She gives a table d'hote for 20 cents, or a luncher can choose any article and pay for it separately. The table d'hote includes one meat and two vegetables, dessert, with tea, coffee or milk. The New York Business Woman's association, among its other enterprises, conducts a noon restaurant, where a meal may be had for 25 cents, or a customer can buy what she likes and pay a la carte.

ESTHER ZANE.

SUMMER FANCY WORK

OF course every woman wants a bit of fancy work to take away with her in the summer. It may lie on her lap idle half the time, but it serves as an excuse for sitting on the piazza and joining the circle of gossipers.

Embroidery has ceased to be unpractical. This year many of the newest specimens of fancy work are to be used on dresses or shirt waists. So much embroidery is now being utilized on fashionable costumes and it costs so much that the clever girl with a small income is learning to do these little things for herself. For example, take the embroidered medallions with a lace border. Pale tinted mousseline de sole is cut out in an odd shape and basted in the center of a design for renaissance lace; then the lace is made all around this and joined daintily to it. The center of the mousseline disk is sometimes ornamented with a tiny embroidered conventional figure or flower done in white or colored silk. Two or three of these medallions make a handsome trimming for a silk or chiffon waist. They are not much trouble to make, but cost a pretty penny if bought in the shops.

SHIRT WAIST SET.

Then there are the new colored linen shirt waist sets. These comprise a dainty turnover collar, two cuffs and a long strip for the front of the waist. The set in the illustration is for a yachting costume. The material is blue linen, embroidered in heavy white silk. The edges are scalloped with a heavy buttonhole edge.

This year collars of colored linen are considered smarter than those of lace. These collars come already stamped on pink, pale blue, green and ecru linen, and all one has to do is work out the design. They only cost from 10 to 15 cents apiece. The stitches used are buttonhole for the edges and satin and outline stitch for the figures. French knots are very dainty and popular just now. Sometimes the whole pattern is made of these.

To make a French knot the needle is brought up through the cloth, then the thread is wound three times around it, and lastly the point of the needle is passed through directly under the place where it first came up. The thread meanwhile must be held down gently but firmly with the other hand.

RENAISSANCE HAIR ORNAMENTS.

Satin stitch is used to work in the more solid parts of a design. It is a straight, simple stitch brought across from side to side of the figure so that it gives a smooth satinlike surface, whence its name.

Renaissance lace is now being made into charming hair ornaments. The butterfly and the coronation are the latest ones. The butterfly is made with a linen braid having a fancy edge. When the butterfly is completed, it is wired with fine silk hat wire. Sometimes the lace is sewed with tiny spangles.

The coronation hair ornament consists of three upright pieces simulating plumes and four more clustered at the base to form a rosette. These pieces are all wired.

Irish crochet braid is taking the place of the smoother renaissance, and charming effects may be contrived by combining this lace with heavy embroidery in white silk. The Marie Antoinette lace is supposed to be really the latest thing. It is a fanciful application of ecru satin braid on yellow net. This makes charming blouse waists, toilet table scarfs and lace panels for windows.

MAUD ROBINSON.

Fichus and Fancy Collars.

Boas naturally are for street wear, but fashion has graciously provided for home wear the loveliest of fichus and fancy collars to take their places. One style has a scarf two yards long and ten inches wide, the whole made of white net, and the ends are appliqued with Irish point. This is brought around the neck twice and tied in a bow in front. Another has a flat sailor collar of black net, with white appliqué on it, and at the joining there is a white net scarf two yards long tied in one bow, the ends reaching the knees, where they finish with a ruffle of the net, with a lace ruffle at the bottom of this. Still another is a ten inch scarf of dotted white net, with narrow valenciennes at each edge and crossing the ends several times. This is still longer than the others and goes twice around the neck and ties, the ends falling below the knees.

THE STURGIS WAGER

A DETECTIVE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE UNDERGROUND PASSAGE.

As he reached the corner Sturgis came upon Sprague, who was waiting for a car.

"Oh! I say, old man," exclaimed the artist, hardly able to conceal his elation, "I am glad to see you. I have news to tell you."

"So have I. But I am in a hurry now. Come along with me; we can exchange confidences on the way."

"Very well; whither are you bound?"

"I am on the track of big game. Can you spare a couple of hours? I think I can promise you an interesting afternoon."

"What is it? The Knickerbocker bank case?"

"Yes."

Sprague readily consented to accompany his friend.

"By the way," inquired Sturgis, "have you any weapons?"

"Any quantity of them among the properties of the studio," replied Sprague, surprised; "but I do not go about armed in broad daylight."

"You would better have a revolver," said the reporter. "You will probably have no occasion to use it," he added, in answer to his friend's glance, "but it is best to be on the safe side."

"Very well; I shall go home for one. Where am I to meet you?"

"At police headquarters in about half an hour. Let me see; it is now nearly five o'clock. Say at half-past five. It will be necessary to obtain a couple of warrants and the help of the police before we start."

After Sprague had left him Sturgis approached Detective Conklin, who was still at his post.

"Did Chatham show up while I was in there?" he asked, indicating Murdock's house.

"No, sir."

"Did you notice the man with whom I went in?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, let Chatham go for the present and stick close to that man if he stirs from the house. I shall be back in less than an hour."

"All right, sir."

When Sprague reached police headquarters he found the reporter ready to start with four detectives. He had not, therefore, any opportunity for conversation with his friend until the party reached its destination. There two of the detectives relieved the men previously on duty, while the others accompanied Sturgis and Sprague to the office of the Manhattan Chemical company.

It was after six o'clock. The place was closed for the night and seemed quite deserted. One of the men rang the bell. The tinkling echoes died away, but no sign of life manifested itself from within. Then he seized the pull and plied it again repeatedly and vigorously.

"That will do," observed Sturgis, presently; "the old woman is coming as fast as she can."

"What old woman?" asked the detective.

"I don't know. Perhaps I ought to have said an old woman. I hear her hobbling on the stairs."

The detective placed his ear to the keyhole. After listening attentively, he turned to the reporter with an incredulous smile.

"Well, Mr. Sturgis," said he, "if you can hear anything in there, your ears are sharper than mine. That's all I can say."

"She is on the second flight," replied the reporter, quietly. "Now she is in the second-story hall—and now you can surely hear her coming down the last flight."

By this time, sure enough, the sound of footsteps began to be audible to the other three men; and presently the door opened and disclosed the scared face of an old Irish woman.

"And phwat might yez be wantin,' gintlemin, to be after scarin' an ould woman most to death wid yer ringin'?" she asked, somewhat aggressively.

"We want to see Mr. Chatham," replied one of the detectives.

"Mister who, is it?"

"Thomas Chatham. Show me the way to his room. I'll go right up, and my friends will wait for me here."

"Mister Thomuz Chathum, is it?" said the old woman; "well, ye've come to the wrong house to see him, I do be thinkin', fer he don't live here."

"Come, that won't do," said the detective, sharply; "we belong to the police, and we saw Chatham enter this house."

At the mention of the police, the old hag's parchment face became a shade yellower and her eyes glistened.

"Sure, thin, if he do be hidin' here, it's mesilf as 'ud know it," she said, after a short interval; "but yez can foind 'um, if yez loike; yez can foind 'um."

Whereupon she turned and hobbled off, leaving the intruders to their own resources.

They found themselves in a narrow hallway. On the right was a rickety staircase leading to business offices in the upper part of the building; on the left, a door opening into the office of the Manhattan Chemical company, and at the end of the hall another door, marked:

PRIVATE OFFICE.
NO ADMITTANCE.

One of the detectives tried this door and found it locked. Whereupon he placed his shoulder to it and prepared to force it in.

"Wait a minute," said Sturgis; "let me see if I cannot open it."

The detective stepped aside with a quizzical expression upon his face.

"I guess you will find it pretty solid for your weight," said he.

The reporter took from his pocket a piece of bent wire, and, with a few dexterous turns of the wrist, he shot the bolt of the lock.

"You would make an expert cracksman," said the detective. "I didn't know you possessed that accomplishment in addition to all your other ones."

The four men entered the private office. The room was quite dark, the shutters being closed and the blinds drawn. As their eyes became accustomed to the obscurity they were able to distinguish the outlines of a desk, a table, and a few chairs.

Sturgis went at once to a door in the corner. With the aid of his skeleton key he had soon thrown this open. After peering for an instant into the darkness, he took from his pocket a candle, which he lighted. Then, beckoning to his companions, he started cautiously to descend. The other men followed him and soon found themselves in the cellar, which they proceeded to search.

On the street side there was a recess extending for a few feet under the area in front of the house. The opening above was covered by an iron grating, over which was a wooden cover securely fastened on the inside by a chain and padlock. A number of carboys were carefully piled along the east wall to within a few feet from the rear of the building. Here, in the northeast corner, rose narrow shelving, on which were arranged a collection of bottles containing a varied assortment of chemicals.

The detectives searched the cellar.

"Our man is not here, at any rate," said the leader, when at last he had returned to the foot of the stairs; "perhaps he'll try to give us the slip by way of the roof. Come along, Jim; let's go upstairs now. Hello! what are you doing there, Mr. Sturgis? Think you'll find him in one of those bottles?"

The reporter appeared to be closely inspecting the chemicals on the narrow shelves.

"Who knows?" he replied, coolly, continuing his examination.

The detective bit his lip and looked the unpleasant things he thought it best not to say.

"Well, Jim and I will take a look upstairs while you are busy here."

GET DOWN TO FACTS.
Read What Plainfield Citizens Say.
Get down to the facts of the matter. Don't take a stranger's word. It is easier to prove the truthfulness of statements made by citizens of Plainfield than endorsement coming from some far away place. Read the following:
Mr. Jepp Zensen, of 728 West Front street, pattern-maker by trade, says: "For a year I had a sort of grinding pain across my back at times extending up to my shoulders and there was a lameness over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills I cannot do otherwise than ndorse them."

PENNYPACKER FOR GOVERNOR.

Pennsylvania Republicans Nominate State Ticket—Quay Forces Control.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 12.—Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker of Philadelphia was nominated for governor over Attorney General John P. Elkin at the Republican state convention by a vote of 206 to 152. Ex-State Senator William M. Brown of Newcastle and Major Isaac B. Brown of Erie were nominated by acclamation for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs respectively. Senator Quay was unanimously chosen chairman of the Republican state committee by a suspension of the rules, requiring the state chairman to be chosen by the nominees and the presiding officers of the convention, and he will conduct the campaign for the state ticket. The platform indorses the administration of President Roosevelt, reaffirms loyalty to the principles of protective tariffs, declares for pure and honest ballot reform, condemns trusts, approves the action of the president and attorney general in proceeding against the beef trust and makes no mention of the state administration.

Pennypacker's nomination is a personal victory for Senator Quay. Elkin was formerly one of Quay's chief lieutenants, and when he became a candidate it was thought he was the senator's choice. After delegates friendly to Elkin were elected in several counties Quay advised against the attorney general's candidacy in the interest of party harmony.

Elkin declined to withdraw. Quay then made a public declaration against his candidacy, and when Pennypacker was suggested for the nomination the senator tacitly indorsed him. Elkin was backed by Governor Stone and other members of the state administration. Quay assumed direction of Pennypacker's campaign and from the start predicted Elkin would not be nominated.

DISMISSED FROM ARMY.

Lieutenant Hagedorn Also to Be Imprisoned at Manila.

MANILA, June 12.—Lieutenant Hagedorn, quartermaster of the Twenty-eighth infantry, who was arrested in March last on the charge of embezzlement, has been dismissed from the army and senteneed to two years' confinement in the prison at Manila.

No news has yet been received of the sergeant, two corporals and four privates of the Fifth cavalry who were captured May 30 at Binangonan, Rizal province, this island, while decorating the graves of American soldiers, and fears are entertained for their safety. Troops are scouring the province in search of the ladrones.

A joint meeting of the Spanish and English chambers of commerce, called to consider the labor situation here, has decided to offer every inducement under the law to encourage the coming to the Philippines of Indians and Japanese. Plenty of work is awaiting them. Many of the strikers are now resuming their usual occupations.

Miss Sigsbee Weds.

WASHINGTON, June 12. — Miss Ethel Sigsbee, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Charles D. Sigsbee, and Samuel Small were married here last night at the New church by the Rev. Frank Sewall. The groom is the son of the Rev. Samuel W. Small, associate editor of the Atlanta Constitution, who came to Washington to attend the wedding.

How a Jas. Boss Watch Case is made

Gold Outside — Stiffening Metal — Gold Inside

The Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Watch Case is made of two layers of Solid Gold with a layer of Stiffening Metal between welded and rolled together into one solid sheet of metal. The Jas. Boss Case is a Solid Gold Case for all practical purposes. The Stiffening Metal simply adds strength and durability. The Boss Case is guaranteed for 25 years by the largest watch case makers in the world, who have been making it for a full half century. Every Boss Case has the Keystone trade-mark stamped inside. Ask any dealer to show you one. Write us for a booklet telling the whole story.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Orange Field Club has an off day Saturday. Its battery Whitley and Herman play with a New Brunswick team for the day.

The Plainfield Junior Athletic Association's uniforms, light grey, black trimmings, will be furnished by E. B. Ryder, of Central avenue. The association met last evening and awarded the contract to Mr. Ryder.

Although the management expects a large crowd, it is thought there will be plenty of seating room for the patrons of the Hope-St. Mary game Saturday. The Y. M. C. A. grandstand will be removed from Pittis' field and will accommodate at least 200 people. This will be placed alongside of the present Hope stand.

Manager Cose has ordered his team out for practice this evening. At his instruction, Captain Martin has been putting the men through a course of batting that has done much to help along their stick work. The improvement in this important point over last season is one of the factors which leads the Hope rooters to believe the team will come out ahead.

A faithful fan recently remarked that the League has been most fortunate in its selection of umpires. Every one has given the utmost satisfaction and each has proved conclusively that he is fitted for the place. There are some inclined to be prejudiced who assert that one was guilty of partiality on Decoration Day but their objection is too absurd to command attention.

Burns, the crack pitcher of the Safe Works nine, may surprise some of the rooters before many moons. He has not yet had an opportunity to get in his best work and has a lot of talent power not yet brought into action. The fact that in one game this season he allowed but four hits, by the way a feat not yet accomplished by any other League pitcher, rates him as an A1 man. Fred Booth, the second member of the Safe Works pitching staff, is also getting down to business. Each succeeding game sees him in better form and with this combination to depend upon the factory men had ought to draw away from the tail end.

TENNIS.

Mr. Otterson, who is having a handsome residence built on Belvidere avenue, is also having a fine tennis court laid out near the house. Thomas McGann, of the borough, is doing the work.

September 27 and October 4 are the dates set for the club championship at tennis on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. This play, men's singles, is for the challenge cup presented by Mrs. Charles E. Ryder in memory of her son, who was club champion until his death.

There will be a continuation of play for the Mellick cup, in the tennis tournament on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, on Saturday, June 28. There will be play for this cup every month until September, when those who have scored one preliminary win will play off the match. Miss Sarah Schuyler is the first to score a win.

GOLF.

Morris J. Dumont, captain of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team, has arranged for a game with the St. Paul School team for Saturday, July 5 on the Hillside course.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team will play a return match with the team from the Hackensack Club on the course of the latter next Saturday. The first match resulted in a victory for the Hillside team.

In addition to the weekly play for the Boys' and Golf Committee cups on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course next Saturday, there will be the second play for the Ackerman cup. Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren is the only one thus far to score a preliminary win.

THOMPSON FOR CONGRESS

SOMERVILLE MAN MAY BE THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE.

Spoken of as Likely One in the New Fourth Congressional District—Mr. Thompson Talks.

Since Moses Taylor Pyne, of Princeton, and ex-Mayor Welling Sickle, of Trenton, have declined to stand for the nomination for Congress in the new Fourth district, consisting of Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer counties, the name of Former Senator Lewis A. Thompson, of Somerville, has, according to the New Brunswick Home News, been suggested.

Mr. Thompson has been before the public for the last seventeen years or nearly, having been sheriff of Somerset county and State senator for three terms, and Clerk in Chancery five years.

The Mercer county people, who have practically the naming of the nominee, are at sea for a candidate and since Mr. Thompson's name has been mentioned the campaign has been given new life.

Because of the pottery interests in Trenton which demand a representative who is a strong protectionist and because of Mr. Thompson being an unusually strong high tariff man, his name has been very acceptable to the Trenton men.

C. K. Cooke, of Trenton, a large pottery manufacturer, is the man who launched the boom of Mr. Thompson.

In speaking about his accepting the nomination, Mr. Thompson said at Trenton yesterday: "I have been urged by many of the leading Republicans of Hunterdon county and assured of united support from my own county if I accept the nomination. In reference to Mercer county I only know what I read in the papers.

"If it is for the good of the party and if the nomination comes to me by a unanimous vote of the district convention, I shall feel that I have been highly honored and if elected I will try to represent the people's interests; but I will not under any circumstances make a fight for the nomination."

It now looks as if Mr. Thompson would be the nominee.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

PRICE OF MEAT.

Inquiry Made by Chief Stainsby of State Bureau of Statistics—The Information He Received.

Wm. Stainsby, chief of the bureau of statistics, has been conducting an inquiry into the price of meat. Returns were made to him from fifty-eight places.

The figures show that the average price of the entire list of meats about February 1 was $2.54, and on May 20, $3.34, an increase of eighty cents on the bill, or 3.15 per cent. The average increase is exactly four cents a pound.

The inquiry also shows that the cheaper grade meats have been advanced relatively more than hsgher grades.

As to the causes for the advances in prices the report says:

"There was, and still is, some disposition to charge the rapid rise in prices of meat to a combination among the packers and wholesale dealers who control the source of supply, for the purpose of increasing the profits by creating an artificial supply. The fact of the action of the Federal Government in taking the matter up and instituting legal proceedings to determine whether the anti-trust laws are being violated has had a tendency to strengthen popular belief in the existence of such a combination."

FOUND TWO FIRES ON SINGLE ALARM

Gasolene Explosion and Fire in Keller's Cleaning Works Found Need of Firemen.

THE DAMAGE WAS $100.

STOVE PACKED WITH PAPER FILLED BUILDING WITH SMOKE.

Department Was Summoned to the Monach Printing Establishment on North Avenue, Where Building Was Filled With Smoke.

Fumes from gasolene saturated clothes, unable to diffuse themselves by reason of tightly closed windows and door, led to an explosion and fire in a small building in the rear of G. O. Keller's dyeing establishment on Park avenue, early last evening. Damage to the extent of $300 resulted while Proprietor Keller sustained severe burns about the head and arms.

The flames were barely gotten under control when the department was summoned to the Monarch Printing Company's place on North avenue where it was supposed another blaze was in progress as the building was filled with smoke. Chief Doane and his assistants found the trouble to be a large quantity of paper tightly packed in a stove which had the draught closed. Smoke had escaped and filled all parts of the building.

The Keller fire started about 6:30 shortly after the proprietor had hung some dresses about the small building, in order to dry them, and had closed the place for the night. He was at work in the yard when he heard a peculiar rumbling similar to that of hot water in a boiler, coming from the cleaning shop. He hastened to the door and, as he threw it open, a sheet of flame enveloped him. It was preceded by a loud report which attracted the attention of Patrolman Mattox at police headquarters who sent in an alarm from box No 13. On the arrival of the department the entire interior of the shop seemed to be in flames and one line of hose and the chemical was played upon them. They were extinguished in a short time as the gasolene fumes were the principal feeder.

When the summons came for the second alarm the men were all ready and could have checked any incipient blaze. Fortunately their services were not needed.

One hundred dollars of the Keller loss is placed on the building while the remainder is for destroyed goods on which there is no insurance. One of the dresses ruined belonged to Mrs. Ginna, of Watchung avenue, and was valued at $150.

Mr. Keller continued fighting the flames until all danger was passed and not until then did he consent to have his burns attended to. He was taken to Dr. Hedges who found his arms, head and shoulders in bad shape. The burns were properly dressed and it is thought he will recover quickly.

FUNERAL OF BERNETT COSGROVE.

Held From the Late Residence on East Second Street.

The funeral services of Bernett Cosgrove were held yesterday afternoon from the late residence on East Second street, where a large number of friends gathered to pay their last respects to one who held a warm place in their hearts. There was a very large number of beautiful floral tributes, including a wreath, a column on top of which was a dove, a pillow, a harp and a sheaf of wheat.

The services were conducted by Rev. T. Logan Murphy, formerly rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, and were according to the Episcopal church. This morning the remains were taken to Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, for interment.

MRS. ROGERS MET DEFEAT

BEATEN IN SECOND ROUND FOR METROPOLITAN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Met Her Match in Mrs. Manice—She Played Strong Golf, But Finally Lost.

It is regretted by her many friends that Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers was defeated yesterday by Mrs. Manice in the play for the Metropolitan championship on the Essex County Country Club course. It was predicted by some that she would beat Mrs. Manic and thus have an opportunity to play Miss Hecker today.

The match was, however, close. Mrs. Rogers got into several difficulties, but did good work on the twelfth and thirteenth holes, pulling down the lead of her rival to one hole and playing strong golf. Bogey scores of 5 and 2 respectively on the sixteenth and seventeenth holes won the match for Mrs. Manice.

In the round for the consolation cup Mrs. W. Fellows Morgan defeated Miss vanHerwerden 4 up and 3 to play. In the best ball foursome tournament which was won yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Edward Field Sanford and Miss Edith Goffe, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and Miss Ruth Underhill defeated Mrs. Clark and Miss Hester Kyle. The winning score was 90 against 104.

POPULAR YOUNG WOMAN DEAD

MISS FRANCES PHILLIPS PASSED AWAY LAST EVENING.

Had Been Ill for Some Time, But Physicians Had Hoped for Her Recovery.

In the death of Miss Frances Phillips, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Phillips, of Rockview terrace, which occurred late last evening, the grief-stricken family has the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. While Miss Phillips was very ill there was some hope that she might rally and baffle the disease. Her heart was steadily growing weaker, however, and this was very much against her.

Miss Phillips had been ill for a long time, commencing with pneumonia. Soon afterward a former trouble, rheumatism, developed and this spread over the entire body and finally affected the head. It was with this trouble and the heart affection that caused death. The attending physician felt hopeful almost to the end, but all the medical skill and medicine known to science failed to dispell the disease.

Miss Phillips was very popular in a large circle of friends both in the borough and this city. She was a member and attendant at the Church of the Holy Cross and frequently took an active part in the various events of interest in that parish. She was a familiar figure at the social affairs in the church as well as at the Park Golf Club, of which she was a member. She will be greatly missed by those who know her best and in the home her departure will be a sad and painful loss. She is survived by her parents and a sister, Miss Helen Phillips.

The funeral services will be held from the residence of her parents, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

ERUPTION IN BOROUGH.

Martone's Peanut Roaster Went Up in Flames.

There was an eruption of Mt. Peanut on Somerset street last evening. Nicholas Martone's roaster had all day been whistling louder than usual and emitting larger volumes of steam than is general, until at nightfall it uttered one deep mysterious groan, and immediately it was enveloped in a mass of livid flame. The building in the rear of Blimm's Hotel narrowly escaped a scorching, and Peter Blimm was kept busy for a few minutes piling buckets of water on the fire, which he finally succeeded in quenching.

Nominations for Unity.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., met last evening and finally adopted the new by-laws, after which there were nomination of officers. John M. Hetfield was nominated for chancellor commander, while George L. VanEmburgh was nominated for vice-chancellor. Amos Andrews was nominated for inner guard and Alfred Drew for master of work. These nominations were laid over for two weeks when the election will be held.

Miss Emma B. Scott and Walter Mundy, of Summit avenue, have just returned from Little Falls, N. J., where they attended the wedding of Miss Louise B. Quinby, a relative.

GLAD TO SEE HER HOME.

So the Friends of Miss Laura Hangliter Called Without Invitation.

In honor of her return after several months stay in Bethlehem, Pa., Miss Laura Hangliter, of West Third street, was given a surprise party by twelve friends, last evening. The affair was arranged by Miss Belle Slorah and Miss Mary Tripney. Ping-pong and other games, with musical features formed the divertisement for the young people. Refreshments were served before the enjoyment terminated.

MEN MADE CLEVER HOSTS

THEY GAVE AN ICE CREAM AND STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

Was Held at the Grace M. E. Church Last Evening—They Also Had a Good Entertainment.

Men of Grace M. E. church last evening added to their reputation as hospitable hosts and enlivening entertainers. The occasion was a strawberry and ice cream festival given by the male members of the congregation.

But it was not a stag party. In the audience women were present in abundance. Members of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra supplied music and an interesting programme of readings, vocal and instrumental selections was presented, as follows: Address of welcome, James Lunger; banjo duet, John Valiant, Jr., and Fred VanEps; reading, Dr. H. K. Carroll; solo, Homer Diefendorf, Newark; reading, Dr. H. K. Carroll; solo, H. Diefendorf. After the intellectual part of the programme had been completed a social hour was spent over the strawberries and ice cream.

The evening's entertainment was under the direction of C. W. Harden, general chairman, cake committee, John Valiant, chairman, Andrew Lutkins, J. E. Low, Ray Stevens, Andrew Vanderbeek; candy committee, E. E. Winkler, chairman, C. E. A. Heywood, Fred Todd, Geo. H. Fairchild, Chas. Amerman, John Shepard, Andrew Morse; lemonade committee, E. H. Vermeule, chairman, A. J. Winans, Isaac Rink, W. H. Lunger; fancy article committee, C. H. Greer, chairman, Dr. H. K. Carroll, W. J. Conroy, W. H. Combs, J. S. Lunger, E. P. Stevens, Thos. Rutledge, W. J. Titus, S. M. Titus, C. E. Gulick, A. W. Winkler, Jacob Voehl, Jacob Benner, Edward Sebring; ice cream and strawberry commitee, Andrew Valiant, chairman, J. W. A. Bauersachs, Walter Smalley, Chas. Force, Ralph Bullman, A. J. Giddis, W. H. Voehl, Edward Stein, Chas. Wakefield, Geo. C. Nelson, Chas. Villiers, Wm. Thorn; entertainment committee, Rev. E. L. Earp, chairman, Jno. Steiner, D. W. Winkler, C. W. Harden, Raymond Carroll; decorating committee, A. A. Nelson, chairman, Peter Dollinger, W. A. Kipsey, H. DeMott, R. T. Hoagland.

The last named committee did their work in an excellent manner. The church was effectively decorated with flags and bunting, waving palms, ferns and flowers. The festival will be continued this evening.

NOT COMING HERE.

W. J. Butterfield Has Changed His Mind Regarding Music Hall—Is Looking for Another Purchaser.

Walter J. Butterfield, the theatrical man, who had planned to make extensive alterations in Music Hall and open the same next fall, has changed his mind and now he does not want to come to Plainfield. He is now looking for some one to take the property off his hands and thus give him a chance to get the $1,000 he paid to William M. Stillman. It is said that Mr. Butterfield has made plans to go to Montreal and thinks Plainfield is too far away from his circuit.

If the work of improving the hall, according to the proposed plans, is started at once it could not be completed in time to open the hall September 1. It is said that three months would be required for the work.

Worthy of Consideration.

The suggestion made in the Y. M. C. A. advertisement in another column is a good one for the men of Plainfield to consider, as the warm weather is beginning to be felt. The summer privileges, as afforded in their $3 membership, is an exceptional offer.

To Pass on Report.

It is quite likely that the Common Council will hold a special meeting within a short time to pass on the report of Collector F. H. Smith regarding delinquents under the Martin Act.

NOVELTY SOCIAL WAS ONE HUGE SUCCESS

Given in Chapel of First Presbyterian Church by Women of That Church.

MANY NOVEL FEATURES.

STRANGE MEMBERS OF FINNY TRIBES WERE DRAGGED OUT OF FISH POND.

Pretty Booths Arranged About the Chapel, Where a Great Variety of Articles Were Sold—Those in Charge of the Departments.

A "novelty" social in the strictest sense of the word was the affair given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, last evening, under the auspices of the women members of the congregation. Unique and original features were everywhere to be seen and no matter which way the visitor turned something new and novel greeted his gaze.

Prettily decorated departments, tables and booths were tastefully arranged about the room and with their gaily dressed throng of patrons, the music and effective lights, the change was indeed a brilliant one. It was also as much a social and financial success as it was artistic, much to the delight of its promoters.

In the center of the chapel and perhaps the most prominent was the flower booth, filled with an abundance of bouquets and boutonnieres and protected by a pretty canopy of straw and fish net. Around it was a lemonade well erected on stones, built of rustic material and overhung by oak and magnolia leaves; a fishing pond—a source of much delight for old and young; an inviting cake table and a most striking Japanese department. The latter was a faithful reproduction of a room such as is seen in the land of tea and rice and it received a very liberal patronage. Oriental rugs were spread upon the floor, vari-colored lanterns were suspended from the ceiling, Japanese incense burned slowly and sent its peculiar odor in every nook and corner and the geisha girls attired in becoming kimonas sold baskets and candy.

Ice cream was served by waitresses and during the entire evening selections were rendered by M. A. Korff's orchestra. The fishing pond attracted nearly every visitor and some of the catches were most phenomenal. Rev. Charles E. Herring hauled in a modest mermaid while Freeman Shotwell captured a monstrous whale which evidently had decided resistance was of no avail and came up very easily. The fish for the pond were quite unique and were made by John Burroughs.

The various booths and departments were presided over as follows: Japanese, Miss Kartherine Glen, Miss Beatrice Miner and Miss Marion Engelhart; flower booth, Mrs. Curry, and the Misses Engelhart, Townley, Ganq and McClintock; cake tables, Miss Gertrude Hazeltine, Miss Mary Williams, Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross and Mrs. Edward Burroughs, lemonade well, Miss Bertha Hill; ice cream, Mrs. J. A. Haynes; candy committee, Mrs. L. A. Hummer, Mrs. Fred Bettman, Mrs. Howard Pope and Miss Jessie Pruden. The lemonade well was built by Mrs. William Dunn, Mrs. Harry Williams and the Misses Kate and Ella Lounsbury. The decorating was accomplished by a committee consisting of Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Howard Martin, Miss May VanFleet and Miss Bessie De Forest. The waitresses were the Misses Maud Hazeltine, Lillian Glen, Lizzie Bittenbender, Carrie Bullman, Julia Williams, Fannie Mills, Bertha Wilcox, Ada Dunham, Freda Gray and Mary A. Luckey.

Flag Day at Schools.

Tomorrow marks the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the adoption of the American flag, and plans have been made to appropriately observe the event in the various public schools.

Nominations at Benevolent.

At the regular meeting of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. to be held this evening, the nomination of officers will take place.

Elected Treasurer.

James Field, formerly of Plainfield, has been elected treasurer of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association.

—Neuman Brothers assert and guarantee that Rockdale print and creamery butter cannot be excelled for quality.

TO ASSURE CUSTOMERS.

Health Board Will Issue Cards to the Milkmen in Plainfield.

The Board of Health is preparing to issue cards to such milkmen in Plainfield as desire them. These cards will certify as to the quality of milk sold by the dealer and he can use it to prove that the milk he sells is all right, if the board attests to that fact. It is believed that a majority of the dealers will take the cards. On these cards will be stated the exact and correct analysis of the milk sold by each dealer.

AN APPEAL FOR FLAG DAY

AMERICAN FLAG ASSOCIATION ASKS A GENERAL OBSERVATION OF DAY.

Want a General and Enthusiastic Celebration—Ask Citizens to Make it Event of Note.

Tomorrow will be "Flag Day," and the American Flag Association, by an appeal sent throughout the country, is earnestly seeking to secure a far more general and enthusiastic celebration of the day than ahy yet witnessed.

The appeal says: "14th of June has come to be called 'Flag Day' by the patriotic citizens of the country, because, on that date in 1777, congress enacted: 'That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation.' With the admission of new states the number of stripes were increased, and then dawned upon our fathers the certain future expansion of our country, and the original thirteen stripes were unchangeably restored on April 4, 1818, when is was enacted by congress: 'That from and after the fourth day of July next, the flag of the United States be thirteen horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be twenty stars, white in a blue field, and that on the admission of a new state into the Union one star be added to the Union of the flag; and that such addition take effect on the fourth of July next succeeding such admission.' Since 1818 star after star has been added as state after state has been added to the Union, until we now number forty-five in all.

"The Civil War of 1861-5 gave new meaning to our flag. It had had reverence before for the sake of revolutionary memories. Since that struggle to perpetuate the Union as indissoluble, it has become the symbol of a mighty nation. Later yet, as a sequence to the Spanish-American war, waged for the sake of humanity and civilization and liberty, it has been carried to the uttermost parts of the earth, the herald of civilization, not that of the dark ages, nor of the times that tolerated cruelty and oppression. It carries the promise of the blessing of freedom wherever it has been thrown to the breeze. No American can fail of feeling pride and satisfaction, nor restrain the swelling of patriotism in the breast, when he contrasts the circumstances and the promises manifested to distant peoples in distant lands when ours and other flags have been displayed together.

"The day of our self-respect has come, and the people are looking to God in confidence for the blessing that He always bestows upon the hearts and lives of men who dare to defend the oppressed.

"The stars and stripes now possess new beauty for friendly eyes and new terror for the foes of liberty.

"We earnestly exhort our citizens to join in making the celebration of Flag Day this year, 1902, an event of note. Let us all see that the Stars and Stripes, with all they mean, shall on June 14, 1902, greet the rising and salute the setting sun; see that the flag flies from every church edifice, school and public building, and from every private dwelling, however humble, through the entire land."

Gold Ring From Klondyke.

Jerry Foss, of Park avenue, has received from a friend, now a miner near Dawson City, Alaska, a gold ring of most unique design. It was originally a nugget of no mean size which had been deftly carved in its rough state yet finished off in a most attractive manner. The work was done by the miner in his leisure moments at night. It is a valuable ornament and is prized highly by the owner.

Perseverance's Anniversary.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary this evening. The good and welfare committee has provided an excellent bill of entertainment for the members and their friends to commence at 9 o'clock. As four candidates are to receive the second degree, the regular business meeting will commence at 7:30.

ADMITTED FORGING HIS NAME

YOUNG WOMAN ARRESTED FOR SIGNING EMPLOYER'S NAME TO CHECK.

Worked for Clifford M. McGee—Druggist L. W. Randolph Cashed the Check for $18.

Florence Tuttle, a young woman who until last Saturday evening was a domestic in the family of Clifford M. McGee, of Willow avenue, was locked up at police headquarters, this morning, charged with forging the name of her employer to a check for $18. When first apprehended she stoutly denied her guilt but afterward broke down and confessed to Chief Kiely that she did it because she needed the money. She will be arraigned before Justice Nash this afternoon.

Mr. McGee asserted that she must have taken the check from his book but the girl declared she found it in a waste basket made out to Annie Ward, but unsigned. She added his name deftly enough to make it appear genuine to Druggist L. W. Randolph, who cashed it. After securing the money the girl registered under an assumed name at a borough hotel where she had since been living. She was inveigled to this side of the brook by Patrolman McCarthy on the pretext that a friend wanted to see her.

G. O. P. PRIMARIES MONDAY

TO ELECT DELEGATES TO THE CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

Meeting Places and Number of the Delegates in the Wards of the City.

The city Republican executive committee met last evening and made arrangements for the primaries to be held Monday evening in the various wards to elect delegates to the Congressional convention to be held at Belvidere Saturday, June 21.

The First ward primary will be held in the old office of the city clerk at 109 Park avenue and five delegates will be elected. The Second ward primary will be held at the Bryant School and six delegates will be chosen. The same number of delegates will be elected at the Third ward primary to be held in the Casino. The Fourth ward primary will be held in the basement at Reform Hall and eight delegates will be elected.

The primaries will be called at 8 o'clock and at that hour a business meeting will be held to make nominations. The polls will be open from 8 to 8:30 o'clock.

The committee on revision of rules reported progress and stated that at the next meeting the new rules will be ready for adoption. The rules of 1901 as they existed at the time of adoption will govern the committee until the new rules are passed upon.

MADE SUCCESSFUL ASCENT.

Prof. Kelley Made Trip in Balloon From Circus Grounds.

A crowd of several thousand persons saw Professor Kelley, of Lowery Brothers circus, make a successful balloon ascension previous to the performance last evening. He went up many hundreds of feet and landed within 100 yards of the starting place. It was one of the best ascents he ever made in his many years of experience as an aeronant. He will make another ascension this evening at 7:30.

The performance in the large tent, last evening, was witnessed by a crowd which tested the capacity of the canvass. All the acts were of a high order and as this is a one ring circus the spectators saw everything that was going on without getting cross-eyed. This afternoon's performance begins at 2:30.

Ready for Class Day.

The seniors of North Plainfield High School held a dress rehearsal of scenes from Sheridan's "School for Scandal," last evening. It will be part of a programme presented at the class day exercises this evening.

Two Trees Must Go.

Work was commenced yesterday laying a stone walk on Elmwood place on the Radford property. To complete the work it is necessary to cut down two large trees to allow room for the flagging.

Children's Day Exercises.

Children's Day exercises will be held tomorrow morning at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

—Andrew Roach has just finished laying 800 feet of flagging for M. P. Smith on Woodland and Watchung avenues.

SOCIETY TURNED OUT FOR GOLF CLUB TEA

Pleasant Afternoon With Golf and Social Features at Park Golf Clubhouse in Borough.

SOME PLAYED GOLF.

APPROACHING AND PUTTING CONTEST FURNISHED CONSIDERABLE INTEREST.

Was Won by Miss Elizabeth Stewart and Rev. J. O. McKelvey on Play-off of Tie—The Other Competitors—Those Who Received.

Under the brow of the mountain, several hundred society folk gathered yesterday afternoon for the informal tea of the ladies tournament committee of the Park Golf Club. Although it was a sweltering, humid day, the guests were delightfully entertained and spent a very pleasant afternoon.

The course was open to all for play but, on account of the extreme heat, there were comparatively few who took advantage of the invitation. The only competition was the approaching and putting contest which proved quite exciting. It was held on the ninth hole. Fourteen couples competed.

After each of the couples had made three approaches it was found that Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Miss Elizabeth Stewart and Rev. J. O. McKelvey had tied for first place, holing out their three approaches in a total of nine strokes each. In the play-off, Miss Stewart and Rev. Mr. McKelvey won. There were prizes for first and second places. The couples competing were Miss Daisy Elsberg and Allan B. Laing; Mrs. Eugene A. Moore and Irving Stewart; Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. French; Miss Sarah Schuyler and H. D. Hibbard; Miss Rushmore and W. de la R. Anderson; Miss May S. Shreve and Rev. C. L. Goodrich; Miss Mabel VanDeventer and William R. Faber; Miss Harriet Shreve and Charles B. Morse; Miss Jennings and Leslie Hallock; Miss Meade and Kerro Knox.

The social features of the affair proved even more successful than the golf. Tea was served in the cosy club house where Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. George T. Rogers and Mrs. B. J. Shreve presided. They were assisted in serving by the members of the ladies' tournament committee which is composed of Miss Mabel VanDeventer, Miss Laura Long, Miss Mary Wells, Miss Elsie Brokaw, Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Miss Elsie DeR. Suffren, Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Daisy Elsberg, Miss Harriet Shreve, Miss May S. Shreve, Miss Lydie Loizeaux, Miss Edna French, Miss Jennings and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich.

MT. OLIVE'S ENTERTAINMENT.

Given by Faithful Workers of That Church Last Night.

An interesting entertainment was given by the Faithful Workers under the direction of Harry Kingslow in the Mt. Olive Baptist church, last evening.

Recitations were delivered by Misses Hattie Thomas, Catherine Mitchell, Etta Kingslow, Henrietta Jones, Nannie Doyle, and Ernest Morris; solos were sung by Misses Viola Jones, Lander, and Alfred White; a duet by Misses Maud and Mattie Green; a trio by Nannie Scott, Sarah Jones, Etta Kingslow. Several selections were given by the Rockland orchestra and at the close a short address was delivered by Mrs. Jones, president.

Miss Burnett Married.

A wedding of interest to a number of Plainfield people took place Wednesday evening, when Miss Fanny Hull Burnett, of New York, was married to Wesley Middleton Skillman, of Washington, D. C., at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Thos. E. Warman, 159 West Seventy-eighth street, New York. Among the names of familiar guests were Dr. and Mrs. Eli Long and Percy Long.

Curfew at Cranford.

The curfew will soon ring at Cranford, where J. Hervey Doane, of this city, has just completed the setting of a Seth Thomas worldlock for the ringing of the fire bell. The bell will ring at 9 o'clock in the morning and 9 o'clock at night. Mr. Doane completed the arrangements of the clock yesterday and it will probably be set today.

Grand Master There.

Central Lodge, Ancient Order United Workmen, met last evening and received a visit from Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash.

TROLLEY UP IN WARREN

NEW COMPANY PREPARES TO WORK FROM THAT PART OF JERSEY.

Hay Syndicate, Rival of the Johnson Syndicate, is Said to be Back of the Movement.

Another phase in the trolley situation in this State has been introduced by the incorporation of the Easton and Washington Traction Company, which has just secured a charter from Secretary of State S. D. Dickinson.

The new company proposes to build an electric road from Washington to Phillipsburg and from Washington to Hackettstown. Another line is to run from Washington to Belvidere by way of Oxford, Buttzville and Bridgeville and from Washington to New Hampton, Junction, Glen Gardner, High Bridge and Clinton. Washington is to be the central point.

The system proposed will have a trackage of about forty-five miles, and will cost more than a million dollars to build and equip. The capital of the company is $100,000, which will be increased as fast as needed.

The Hay syndicate, rivals of the Johnson syndicate, are back of the movement, and several well-known business men of Easton, Phillipsburg and Washington are associated with them.

The Hay syndicate owns a road from Easton to Nazareth, in Northampton county, Pa., where it is a rival of the Johnson syndicate. Passengers are carried the ten miles between the two places for a nickel.

It is now said to be the ultimate intention of the Hay syndicate to carry the Hunterdon county lines southward toward Trenton, and they may eventually reach here. It is also possible that the Johnson syndicate will buy the roads when completed.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

NEW FEATURE.

Will be Added to Regular Appointments at Northfield This Season.

A new feature will be added this year to the regular appointments of a Northfield season. Beginning July 1 and extending throughout the entire month, will be a Summer School of Bible Study. Daily consecutive courses will be given by Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, Rev. W. W. White and Rev. John Kelman.

Beside the lectures there will be opportunity for careful preparation for those who wish to derive the most benefit from the studies.

Accommodations will be provided at lowest rates in the buildings of Northfield Seminary.

Other events of the Northfield season will be:

Student Conference—June 27 to July 6.

Camp Northfield—June 26 to September 1.

General Conference for Christian Workers—August 1 to 17.

Among the speakers will be: Rev. John Kelman, Edinburgh, Rev. C. W. Gordon ("Ralph Connor"), Robert E. Speer, John R. Mott, Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Rev. F. B. Meyer, Rev. G. Whitcomb Brougher, Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon, Rev. Dr. A. T. Pierson, Rev. Dr. Henry G. Weston, Henry Varley.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

MILFORD'S OLDEST CITIZEN

IS THE FATHER OF S. C. PECK, ONE OF PLAINFIELD'S OLDEST MERCHANTS.

Lives at Mulford, Conn., and is in the Best of Health—He is Ninety-Four Years Old.

The oldest man now living in Milford, Conn., according to the Milford Citizen, is Samuel C. Peck, father of S. C. Peck, Jr., Plainfield's well-known merchant.

This newspaper says:

"Mr. Peck is a most interesting old gentleman. He is in full possession of all his faculties, except that his hearing is a little impaired. Mr. Peck comes of a very old Milford family and, although he is now nearing the ninety-fourth anniversary of his birthday, he has a vivid recollection of many little incidents of his boyhood days when, in company with his grandfather, he used to play around the garden and in his grandfather's workshop.

"He has in his possession a very fine escretaire cabinet, made of dark cherry wood, which is in a perfect state of preservation. It is fitted with pigeon-holes, open and secret drawers, writing slope and all the conveniences pertinent to a modern writing desk. Mr. Peck takes much pride in this piece of furniture and values it very highly.

"'Well, sir, I was born in Milford on the twenty-second of June, 1808, so I will be ninety-four years old this month,' said Mr. Peck. 'I feel a little bit tired today because I went on the electric cars to New Haven yesterday, on business. I guess the house I was born in has been pulled down. My father was born in that house, too, and he died when he was eighty-five years old.'"

Mr. Peck's health is excellent. He never has to use spectacles and is able to get about without assistance. For eight years he has enjoyed smoking and to this day his pipe is one of his best friends. During his early life Mr. Peck was greatly interested in shipbuilding and watched the progress of this work with a keen interest.

THEATRICAL.

Another week of the season of summer vaudeville at Proctor's, Newark, begins with the usual Monday matinee June 16. The popular scale of Summer prices is proving a potent inducement for liberal patronage and the pretty theatre on Military Park is crowded to the limit of its capacity twice daily. Next week's bill will have J. K. Emmett, a worthy son of the late comedian whose fame extended into every household. Emmett will give a German monologue, in imitation of his father. Susanne Leonard, a sister of Lillian Russell, will make her vaudeville debut in a musical monologue, as an extra feature. There will be a full dozen more of clever specialists in the entertaining bill. The Fifth Avenue will have "The Nominee," a comedy in which Nat C. Goodwin won early stellar fame. Frederick Truesdell will lead the Proctor Stock Co. in its presentation. The Proctor Stock Company, headed by Adelaide Keim, will present "The Deacon's Daughter," a play which recalls pleasant memories of the late Annie Pixley, at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre. At the Twenty-third Street the usual excellent bill of continuous vaudeville will hold attention, twenty-five interesting acts being listed for appearance. The house is cooled by artificial means, iced water is passed around by uniformed attendants and large palm-leaf fans are supplied to all comers. All in all the Twenty-third Street is one of the coolest places in New York during these early summer afternoons and nights.

A HUGE SUCCESS.

Is the Reading's New Plan of Hourly Service.

The hourly trains between New York and Philadelphia via the New Jersey Central have not only proven a great success, but have met the demands of the traveling public in every instance. Hourly trains were indeed an up-to-date move, and when the schedule is fast, the stops few, and the time so convenient to remember, (a train every hour and on the hour) there is no wonder at the hit they made. The New Jersey Central is trap rock ballasted, the rails are new and heavy, the trains are the latest models, lighted by gas, the aisles carpeted, the attendants courteous, hard coal is used exclusively, hence no dust, cinders or smoke. Every Philadelphia train has a modern Pullman attached, and such conveniences serve to make the New Jersey Central the model railroad of the world. If you want time tables or other information, write to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York.

Rev. Mr. Cleaver to Preach.

During the absence of Rev. E. G. Read, of the Second Reformed church, of Somerville, on his vacation, it is reported that Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, will fill the pulpit.

MORGAN ON CANALS

Alabama Senator Speaks For Over Three Hours.

RECIPROCITY OPPONENTS CONFER.

Nineteen Republican Senators Will Oppose Administration Plan to Aid Cuba to the Last Ditch. Their Plan of Action.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—After considering the London dock charges bill for an hour and a half yesterday, without completing it, the senate resumed consideration of the isthmian canal question. Mr. Morgan (Ala.) occupied the floor for three hours and a half, discussing particularly the diplomatic phases of the question.

From this point he was diverted by an amendment introduced by Mr. Fairbanks (Ind.) providing for the issue of bonds for the construction of the canal. Mr. Morgan vigorously attacked the amendment, maintaining that the expense of the canal's construction should be paid from the treasury's current receipts.

Incidentally Mr. Morgan again opposed the Panama route and assailed the right of the new Panama company to dispose of the concessions it held from the old company.

The Republican senators who are friendly to beet sugar and who oppose the proposed legislation for a reduction of the tariff on Cuban products held a conference of almost two hours' duration and decided to continue their opposition to the reciprocity proposition. They will do this by announcing to the advocates of the tariff reduction that they will cast their votes for the reciprocity bill as it passed the house of representatives, including the Morris amendment for the abolition of the differential duty on refined sugar, and that they will resist all amendments that may be offered to it. They will propose two alternatives. One of these is to drop the subject and make no further attempt to secure reciprocity legislation. The other is to accept the rebate plan. The conference was held in Senator Elkins' committee room. A count of those present and those absent and known to be in sympathy with the movement led to the conclusion that there are at least nineteen Republican senators who can be depended on to stand together in any course agreed on.

The house adopted a special rule for the consideration of the irrigation bill which passed the senate some time ago and devoted the day to general debate of the measure. Today the bill will be read for amendment under the five minute rule. Messrs. Mondell (Wyo.), Tongue (Ore.), Tirrell (Mass.) and Shallenberger (Neb.) spoke yesterday in favor of the bill. Mr. Ray, chairman of the judiciary committee, made a long legal argument against it. Mr. Olmsted (Pa.) enlivened the proceedings with a humorous speech in reply to Mr. Cushman's recent attack on the committee on rules.

Not to Join Shipbuilding Trust.

CHESTER, Pa., June 13.—There is no truth in the report that the Delaware River Shipbuilding and Engine works, or Roach's shipyard as it is more generally known, is to be included in the new shipbuilding combination which, it is said, is being promoted by Lewis Nixon of Elizabeth, N. J. John Roach, president of the company, said that his people had not been approached in the matter and were not considering it.

The Reichsrath In Disorder.

VIENNA, June 13.—There was a scene of wild disorder in the reichsrath yesterday during the debate on the Danube navigation agreement. Herr Schoenerer, a leader of the Pan-German party, and Dr. Wolff, another leader of the same party, exchanged insults and finally boxed each other's ears. It was necessary for friends of the rival leaders to drag them apart, amid cheers and jeers from the galleries.

Fatal Railway Collision.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 13.—A fatal collision occurred on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad yesterday afternoon between Hooker and Summit, two small stations about twelve miles from this city. Three men were killed outright and about fifteen others more or less seriously injured. Possibly two or three of the wounded will die from the effects of their injuries.

Big Elephant Killed.

TOURS, France, June 13.—A crowd of about 3,000 persons witnessed the execution at midnight in the City park of the largest of Barnum & Bailey's performing elephants, which suddenly went mad, broke its chains and tried to kill its keeper while on the way to the railroad station and had to be killed. Two hundred men tugged at the rope which strangled the elephant.

Two Burned to Death.

ROANOKE, Va., June 13.—As the result of an explosion of a can of kerosene oil which was being used to start a fire in a kitchen stove Mrs. Emma Sinclair, aged fifty, and her daughter, Jessie Sinclair, aged sixteen, were burned so badly that they died several hours later. The mother attempted to smother the flames which had enveloped her daughter.

Fatal River Collision.

BATH, Me., June 13.—The collision of a Kennebec river ferryboat with a rowboat in which were seven persons cost three lives. The drowned were Mrs. Wilbur Howe, Ula, aged three, her daughter, and Eva Morris, aged twelve. All belonged in Woolwich.

Weather Probabilities.

Partly cloudy, with occasional showers; fresh winds, mostly east.

HOW TO LIMIT SPEED.

All through the State are to be heard complaints of the reckless driving of automobiles. Plainfield has had an ordinance regulating their speed for over a year and various other municipal bodies have followed that example. Arrests have been made and the chaffeurs fined. Despite all these attempts to regulate the speed of these horseless vehicles, it really looks as if the only effective way to stop these wild rides will be to regulate their manufacture.

There is no rational use, except for racing purposes on a track, of a machine that will run faster than twenty miles an hour. When these gasolene machines are built so that they cannot be run any faster than that speed, the question of regulating that whirlwind traffic will be far nearer a solution. Just so long as these machines are made capable of moving at a faster speed, the owners are going to see that the limit is reached. Therefore, reduce the limit and the speed is bound to be reduced.

It may seem a trifle impractical to talk of forbidding the manufacture of automobiles going at a faster rate than twenty miles an hour. Something, however, must be done or else this will soon be a race of cripples and disabled people. An agreement reached by all the manufacturers would answer the purpose well and would mean no loss to those who are constructing these machines.

While there are hundreds of owners of automobiles in New Jersey who possess common sense and utilize it in the direction of their machines, there are a few who insist upon getting the full capacity of the vehicle. Therefore, the innocent will have to suffer with the guilty and something must be done to prevent people riding in miniature railroad trains on the public highways.

Surely this question of the establishment of a Greater Plainfield is a debatable one. Each side has its arguments and it is clearly within the bounds of reason to debate the question without indulging in personalities. It is greatly to be regretted that the "antis" would not do their share in arranging a debate.

The two local golf clubs are proving very important factors in the local social life. While society is never supposed to be active during the summer months, yet the Plainfield clubs are constantly arranging delightful affairs that prove doubly attractive at the warm term of the year.

While the campaign against mosquitoes has started there is plenty of opportunity for improvement. While Plainfield sees but little of the "State bird," the shores of the Newark and Hackensack meadows have the real thing.

Borough's Share of McKinley Fund.

Senator Charles A. Reed has forwarded to Governor Murphy $100 and has received the latter's receipt therefor for the McKinley Memorial association. This was North Plainfield's share toward the general fund and the citizens have been quite prompt in responding.

Has Served His Country.

Charles Bogert, of this city, who has been in active service in the Philippines for the past three years, has been transferred to Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. He will be discharged tomorrow and expects to return at once to Plainfield.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

James Mullen, of Raritan, has been visiting Plainfield friends for a short time.

Miss Carrie Drake, of Plainfield, has been visiting friends at Somerville.

Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, of East Front street, has gone to Elberon for the summer.

George Voehl, Jr., of West Front street, who has been seriously ill, is no better.

Senator Welch, of German Valley, is spending a few days in Plainfield on business.

Miss Jennie Thorn, of Somerset street, has returned from a visit with Newark friends.

Miss Onderdonk, of Philadelphia, is visiting her friends, the Misses Marsh, of Madison avenue.

Gilbert Murray, of West Fourth street, will leave Monday for Barnegat on a two weeks' fishing trip.

Lawyer Francis J. Blatz is planning to go with the Elks on their trip to Salt Lake City, and from there to California.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Coriell, formerly of Plainfield but now of New York, have returned after a short visit in this city.

Mrs. Lowerre and Mrs. Hance, of Grandview avenue, have returned home after a pleasant visit with Mrs. John Annin, of Brooklyn.

Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard, of West Fifth street, left yesterday for near Buffalo, N. Y., where they will spend several weeks with the latter's parents.

George Meyer, of South Second street, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, having recovered from a second amputation of part of his right foot.

Harvey G. Wentrick, a former well known resident of this city, but now assistant manager of the Liondale Dye Works at Dover, is spending a few days with friends in town.

PENNYPACKER'S VIEWS.

Republican Candidate Will Talk for The North American.

Judge Pennypacker, the Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, is known to be a conservative and reticent man. Of unusual interest, therefore, is the announcement that the Sunday North American will print next Sunday a long interview with him on topics of the present time.

While every subject discussed by the man who has been named for the highest office in the State is sure to attract the attention of the general public, probably what he says about newspapers will be read with greater interest than anything else. It is evident that Judge Pennypacker is no admirer of the Philadelphia press.

Curiously enough, Judge Pennypacker is a defender of the Schuylkill river as a source of water supply. All of our readers have heard it condemned, and not a few have probably sampled it in Philadelphia, and have opinions of their own. But Judge Pennypacker thinks it is a much maligned stream.

A full-page picture of the Republican candidate and his wife, both sketched from life, will give additional interest to the feature. No less attractive is an account of the Pennypacker home life on the old Colonial estate in Schwenksville.

Plainfielders in Tornado.

The fierce tornado, which swept across Illinois, Wednesday, played havoc in a small town where three former well known Plainfielders reside. They are Henry and Frazee Connett and Silas Linbarger, who are engaged in various lines of trade in a little town called San Jose. So far as can be learned none of them were in any way injured.

Old Fireman Returns.

Joe Winkler, a resident of North Plainfield, and a former member of Warren Engine Company, is visiting the borough after an absence of almost twenty years. Many of the older members will remember the day that the engine and fire house was heavily draped on account of Joe's absence from a fire.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The commencement exercises of the borough schools were held last evening in the Presbyterian church. An elaborate programme was presented which consisted of songs by the school chorus, reading of the essays, musical selections by the orchestra and addresses by Rev. L. E. Livermore and Rev. Herman Vanderwart. The graduates were as follows: The Misses Sarah C. Tilton, Gertrude Badum, Edna Baldwin and Eleanor Dodwell, William H. Kenedy, Francis G. Ginder and William W. Giddes. A reception was tendered the graduates after the exercises at the home of W. J. Hamilton, president of the board.

The Silver Leaves went down in their first defeat of the season yesterday before a aggregation captained by George Apgar. Apgar's team outplayed their opponents from the start and had no trouble in piling up runs.

The new cement stoop and walk which is being laid in front of St. John's church is rapidly nearing completion.

A number of young people from the borough attended the Lowery Bros.' show in Plainfield last night.

Miss Lizzie Herlich has returned home after spending a few days with relatives in New York.

Mrs. Nathan Hill is lying critically ill with pneumonia at her home in West Dunellen.

Mrs. John Moynihan, of North avenue, spent yesterday visiting relatives in Plainfield.

The pupils of Miss Emma Nelson will give a musical at her home Tuesday.

Work on the new factory at West Dunellen is proceeding rapidly.

Fred Touzeau has accepted a position in the Potter Press Works.

Joseph C. Apgar's residence is receiving a coat of paint.

G. Archibald Brakeley spent yesterday in New York.

NEW MARKET.

The commencement exercises of the public school will be held Wednesday. A reception will be tendered the graduates on the following night.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stout have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward druing the past week.

The local aggregation of baseball players will go up against a team from New Brunswick on Saturday.

Richard Boice, of Newark, spent Sunday with Mr. Snowdan.

Bass fishing will soon commence.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Johnston, of the baseball club, is to be congratulated upon being able to secure Brogan, of the Carterets, to cover third bag. This gives the local club an infield that will be a terror to batters. With Brogan on third, Crusrus at shortstop, Baldwin at second and Hand at first but few balls will escape to the outfield. Brogan makes his appearance with the team in the Garwood game on the local diamond tomorrow afternoon; game called at 3:30.

The members of the baseball team, assisted by the friends of the team, will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival in Excelsior Hall Tuesday evening of next week. Besides cream and berries the committee is arranging for a short musical programme. The success of the affair is already assured as all are interested in supporting a ball team that is a credit on the diamond to the town.

Scotch Plains is in the midst of the festival season. A week ago six strawberry and ice cream fesvitals were being planned to take place during the next ten days, but as this was overdoing the matter, the women of the Baptist church and the members of Fanwood Council, R. A., have concluded to postpone their festivals until later in the season.

The strawberry and ice cream festival given by the women of the Methodist church, last night, in Excelsior Hall was a success both socially and financially. The hall was well filled with the members and their friends and the women will be enabled to turn a neat little sum into the church treasury.

Prayer meeting will be held at both Methodist and Baptist churches to night at 8 o'clock; subject at Baptist meeting, "Money in the Fishers' Mouths."

Miss May Shott and Miss Mary Westcott, who have been at Peddie Institute, Hightstown, are home for the summer vacation.

John Patterson, a former old resident of the village but now of Morris Plains, has been visiting relatives in town for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Corey, of Park avenue, entertained the teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school at their home last night.

The Guild of All Saints' church will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival in the borough fire house Saturday night.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met and transacted routine business last night.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, was the guest of friends in town last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

George Arrowsmith, Jr., is suffering with a badly cut finger. The accident happened while he was running a planer in the Pond Tool Works.

The drilling near the pumping station has been resumed after a short cessation of work.

Mrs. Hattie Pullen, of Newark, spent yesterday with her sister, Mrs. Peter Johnson.

Miss Nellie Manning is on a short stay at Bound Brook.

All Sorts of Attractions.

Don't forget the lawn fete of the Park Avenue Baptist church, tomorrow afternoon. With autos to ride in, ping-pong to play and refreshments in abundance, the affair promises to be a most enjoyable one. If the day proves stormy the fete will be held in the church.

Wedding at Brunswick.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Florence May Morrison, of New Brunswick, and George W. VanVechten, of that place, to take place Wednesday evening, June 25. Miss Morrison is a sister of William Morrison, of the borough.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For bunions or enlarged joints VanArsdale has a shoe that will g'ye you ease, and at the same time fit your foot.

Like smoke? Call around at Dobbins' on North avenue and get a "nickel yarn."

R. B. VanArsdale, of Central avenue, is a practical and experienced tile setter. Consult him before having mantels or tiled bathroom floors put in.

George Kirch, the Liberty street grocer, carries a large assortment of fancy groceries. Everything required in the culinary department may be found at Kireh's.

Don't be continually asking your neighbor the time of day. Step in to L. Moraller & Sons, on Park avenue, have a look at his watches and you'll not be happy till you own one.

Suits for week-days, suits for Sundays, suits for business, suits for pleasure—all are displayed at Harry Werner's. Prices are made to suit, too, as a query at the store will confirm.

The proprietors of the Paris Cloak and Fur store on West Front street are prepared to furnish seasonable goods at reasonable prices. A full and complete line of shirt waists, skirts, etc., is now being shown.

Fowler's specialties during the hot weather — delicious soda water, all flavors and refreshing ice cream. In the candy and confectionery line—well, drop in yourself and see the most complete line in the city.

Whether you want a hat for the mountain or seashore or whether you want one for a wedding or a social function of any kind there is no better place to make your selection than at Bonn's on West Front street.

Porch rockers and lawn settees are indispensible during the hot months. Powlison & Jones have them in a dozen styles and prices. They have just received a nice lot of parlor rockers suitable for wedding presents.

There is no better time of the year to have your house painted and papered than now, and there is no better place to go to have it done than at the New York Painting and Decorating Company store in Park avenue. Best quality of goods at lowest prices.

BOGUS TICKETS.

Put Into Circulation for Borough High School Class Night.

A number of bogus tickets have been printed for the class day exercises to be held in North Plainfield High School this evening. The ticket are an exact counterfeit, typographically, of the genuine paste board; the quality of paper is the same, but the color is slightly different. The genuine ticket is of a cream tint while the fake article is white. It appears that a large number of the counterfeits have been placed in circulation.

The suspicion of the committee in charge of the programme this evening were aroused when they heard that some enterprising individual were offering to give six white tickets for one of the cream colored species. Investigation revealed the fact that the market was gutted with admission cards of a bogus variety. The committee is at a loss to account for the circumstance.

TROOPS CALLED OUT

Pawtucket, R. I., Terrorized by Riotous Strikers.

BOY FATALLY SHOT AND MANY INJURED

Adjutant General Reads Riot Act and Governor Issues a Special Proclamation—Martial Law Not Yet Proclaimed.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., June 13.—For the first time in the history of the city bayonets in the hands of soldiers ordered out by the governor of the state to suppress riotous disturbances glistened in the streets of Pawtucket yesterday.

The astonishing increase in the number of lawless acts directed against the United Traction company, whose union men have been on strike since June 2, and the inability of the limited police force and deputy sheriffs to suppress rioting induced Governor Kimball to call out the militia.

Numerous scenes of disorder occurred during the day, and more than a score of persons were injured, one fatally.

No cars were operated last night. While the militia is policing the city, Pawtucket is not under martial law. Mayor Fitzgerald, who has been away on his wedding trip, returned last night and is using his influence with the populace to maintain order.

In the presence of about 1,000 persons and the militia Adjutant General Sackett read the riot act. The governor also issued a proclamation enjoining the citizens to preserve order and prevent further bloodshed.

Following a night of wild rioting unprecedented in this state, in which a score of deputy sheriffs who were trying to keep peace in the street railway strike were knocked out by stones and brickbats, cars derailed and partly wrecked, pistols used and life imperiled, Governor Kimball directed Adjutant General Sackett to issue orders calling out two troops of cavalry and six companies of infantry. Emergency calls were sent out, and early yesterday the troops began to assemble at their armories, where they were placed under heavy marching orders and ball cartridges were issued.

Before the troops could be moved the early cars began to run to Pawtucket, and as they reached the scene of the previous night's disturbance they were received by a yelling mob which greeted them with a fusillade of stones and bricks. Obstacles of every kind were placed on the tracks, bonfires were started, and when the cars were held up by these and the deputies alighted to clear the track a furious assault began. Women in the cars were pelted with eggs and stones. Whoever got off the cars was held up and threatened with bodily harm.

At 9 o'clock, when a car had been attacked, the deputy sheriffs began to fire into the mob. Nobody was hit, and this served to encourage the crowd, which rushed for the car. To save the lives of the deputies the motorman signaled the car to proceed at full speed. A few minutes later the troops reached Pawtucket and reported at the state armory, from which detachments were sent out to various points where trouble had materialized.

About 12:50 o'clock rioting began again on East avenue, the mob firing on a street car. The deputies returned the fire, and three persons in the crowd were shot, one of them, Venner Peterson, fourteen years old, being hurt seriously.

MINE BOSS ATTACKED.

Angry Striking Miners Open Fire From Ambush.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 13.—Duryea, a mining settlement in the mountains about twelve miles from here, which has been the scene of several less serious disturbances since the coal strike began, broke out yesterday in a violent demonstration. Men, women and boys carrying torches started out at 1:30 o'clock to bring out the last of the men now at work in nearby collieries. The affair culminated in an attack on Thomas J. Thomas, superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Coal company's William A. colliery. Many shots were fired, and a boy, John Hepburn, was hit in the leg.

Superintendent Thomas was caught and was pummeled and bruised, but finally escaped to the colliery without dangerous injury. Later he ran a locomotive out of the colliery, and on it he came to Wilkesbarre.

Many men who were working met with rough treatment.

For the last four days crowds have been gathering each morning and evening on a hill which overlooks the colliery and throwing stones at the men at work within the inclosure. The day and night superintendents do not live in the colliery, as do many of the other employees, and they are taken to and from the place on a locomotive.
